Marriage is between a man and a woman -- namely husband and wife. For hundreds and thousands of years, marriage has been an important social institution for the community and the society as a whole. A family with man as the father and wife as the mother has been proved to be a solid rock for the sound development and well-being of children. Why change it? In recently years there have been heaps and heaps of evidence showing that children bringing up in a normal father and mother family has huge advantage, whereas same-sex marriages create problems of various kind. Why turn a blind eye to these findings? Say no to any changes in the existing definition of marriage.
