Dear Sir,

It has been brought to my attention that the NSW Government is proposing to discuss the issues of same sex marriage.

This matter had been dealt with at a Federal level last year and rejected by majority vote. The Federal Government do not believe this would be beneficial to our society, and neither do I.

The ideal environment for the raising of children is a stable relationship with a mother and father. I believe this is fairly evident in our society when closely observed.

Marriage means a uniting of a man and a woman and it has always meant this, nothing else. It provides the backbone of society.

Thank you,

Larraine Nicholson,
