INQUIRY INTO SAME SEX MARRIAGE LAW IN NSW

Name: Mrs Francoise Bale

Date received: 16/02/2013

I am concerned for the future of my child and the future generations when I hear about the move to attempt to change 'marriage' as we know it.

I do not understand why a minority group's want is allowed to disrupt and confuse people about marriage.

The Homosexual community are imposing their beliefs on society because they want what marriage, the union between a man and a woman (not a man and a man where sexual activity is done in the anus and is destructive to the body because sexual activity was designed to be done with a penis and placed in a vagina. Woman to woman sexual activity tries to imitate intercourse with a fake penis.) will give them. On a physical level that is not possible as the body was designed for sexual intercourse between a man and a woman. In a time where everything is trying to become more organic, the most natural and organic of unions, marriage, is being questioned and an attempt to supplant it, for a handful of people.

If the marriage community totally disallowed homosexual activity and relationship, I would understand. But they are not.

If two people of the same sex want to be in a relationship, they can. No one is stopping them. That is their right, if that's what they want to do. What adults do in the privacy of their bedroom is up to them.

Marriage, the union between a man and a woman, was designed to help develop a strong bond between the couple, to remain faithful to each other and to establish an environment where children can be raised in love and security, discovering how to behave as a male/female, how to interact with the different gender and accepting the differences even though those differences may not be understood.

If Homosexual partners are allowed to raise children, how does the child learn about the 'other' gender? What if the child is the 'other' gender? How does that child learn its gender's behaviour without a real example? How will this affect the child's self image? What if the child is a healthy heterosexual but has only witnessed homosexual interaction? How will this affect the child's future physical, emotional and mental aspects of their relationships?

This is not a perfect world. Each of us make mistakes. Marriage can be difficult and trying at times, as many homosexual people will point out. And, I'm sure some homosexuals can have harmonious relationships as they don't have to work out how to navigate the difference in the thinking of the opposite gender.

But Marriage is the natural order of things. It's the differences that make us stronger as each gender learns to interact with one another. It encourages acceptance. How is this possible in a homosexual partnership when one gender is totally excluded on the most intimate level?

Marriage is the Union that was in place for the continuance of our species from the beginning of time. Homosexuality can only procreate by interacting with the opposite gender. That of itself is flawed. How do you explain that contradiction to a child?

Please stop and consider the future of our world as you weigh the world in the light of Marriage, Family as it has been since the beginning of time, versus Homosexual union which is designed for a few who want their needs met but have not thought out the consequences to our children, to our society, to our future. Please.

Thank you.
