To the Honourable Members of the Parliament of NSW, may I highly ask you to never redefine marriage.

I am in my 60s, single but I still would love to see happily married couple (man and woman) to increase in number in NSW. I know there are some problems in some of those marriages, but redefining marriage is never going to solve the issue. Why? People indulged in same-sex relationship has half the life span of those in the opposite sex relationship. If same sex couple will to raise kids, those kids will grow up confused or follow the example from those around them. Let us all be one in protecting and preserving our country. Let us all aim to raise strong, healthy kids who are the future of our land.
