Hi Paul

Re abc radio conversation

I manage a farm where the only good all weather access is thru crown land. The owners of this farm have spent a large amount of money over many years forming and keeping this road in good order. The people that own the land the crown road runs through have applied to close this road. We have not had any arguments with them, we get on well. However if this road is closed i would not have been able to get to this property in a vehicle since early May, is their a way to convert this road to permanent access, where this is not hanging over the owners heads.

This would be a common issue in rural NSW

Regards
