I absolutely object to the proposal to build the waste incinerator in Western Sydney. I find it absolutely ridiculous that all the people who will benefit financially from this facility don't have to live within 800 meters of this place. These people wouldn't build it next to their family, so why is it okay for it to be built next to mine? It cannot be more clear that our community doesn't want this, so why won't the Government just put an end to this proposal once and for all? It cannot be more clear we don't want this, but remember we can always make it just as clear that we don't want our current representatives at the next election should they fail to represent our community.
