To whom it may concern

Dear Sir, Madam,

It is with great dismay and deep passion I write this letter.

The village of Windsor and the heritage artefacts surrounding surrounding this area are something I and thousands of others are very protective of. Australian heritage should not be destroyed. Numerous other countries such as England, Chechnya, Italy etc have the sense to realise this. While our politicians of both parties have thrust Australia into the difficult theme of multiculturalism, one of the benefits of having people of other races is that the host country can become aware of the situations faced by peoples from all over the world and learn from others mistakes.

In NSW we have Gladys Berejiklian of Armenian extraction. She of all people should be aware of the danger of small groups in government lording their will over large sections of the community. It is my opinion that Gladys is more representative of the young Turk whom here people loathed so much. She obviously has nothing of her peoples history to educate young Australians with. I think most of her own descendants would disagree with her outlook and attitude.

Alongside her we have Dominic Perrotte to my knowledge descended from Swiss French. The French have for a long time been known as arrogant and dismissive, ask any Vietnamese. Evidently a generation or two of Swiss blood has done nothing to alleviate Dom's arrogance and lack of concern. I wonder how he would react if the French equivalent of the RMS decided to put an ill-conceived and badly executed road through the Eiffel Tower or the Louvre.

I write this letter in the hope that people in this country can learn from the mistakes of others from our own and other nations. Learning from others mistakes is always cheaper and better than making your own.

Yours Faithfully and Respectfully

Kim Woollard
