Take away the lockout laws... Look at how Melbourne is achieving and vibrant night live with all types of music and having late night events safely. Relaxing the noise restrictions to those who chose to buy a apartment next to the Opera House or in the CBD. You want Sydney to thrive like it did in 1990's to 2000's bring back the night life. Teach the children of today that getting blind drunk isn't fun, and doing violent acts while intoxicated will be punished. Not a slap on the wrists. How much tourism have we lost due to these laws? Or how much money have you lost due to this decline in tourism, due to these lockout laws that prevent music artists to perform in NSW? Maybe it's time for a different technique!!
