NEW SOUTH WALES

On behalf of punters and artists that have suffered due the unjust laws created by politicians who will never feel the wrath of their implications.

The laws that have been created has turned Sydney into a retirement home. Forcing illegal parties and festivals to go under the radar instead of circulating within the economy. The once 'Red light district' of Sydney, Kings cross, is a laughing stock to those who have travelled here from across the world.

Once again, the laws have not addressed the problem with violence and have rather moved it to Newtown. A place that was once full of misfits is now completely gentrified by those who cause the violence and therefore ruining the grungy area because.

Sydney is loosing its art's and culture quickly, That is why we need to reevaluate the laws.
Thank you
