Wish to address the changes to the Duty of Care towards Australian Deceased and the heritage of Australian Ancestors buried in cementries across Australia. In 2017 a bill was passed to eradicate the deceased, and force families to pay, to not have their loved ones exhumed and plots given to complete strangers. The very idea that Australian Ancestors and family deceased, will be downgraded to the point of eviction of the deceased after they've passed on, is outrages. The very essence of family history is based on heritage and the knowing that our loved one's remain cared for even after they're gone. It is the Duty Of Care of this country to protect it's heritage and the people, both living and deceased. This bill was snuck through without the vote from the people and it is outrageous and should be removed. The bill was not brought to the publics attention clearly enough for anyone to truly acknowledge the dept of such a bill. I request that the bill be reconsidered, and our Ancestors heritage and family deceased be protected under the Australian Constitution. Thank you.
