I as a Genealogist and a person who believes in Burial I firmly believe the proposal is toxic and that once a person chooses to be buried their remains are sacred and should be left alone in the burial site. New South Wales has a lot of land as far as I am concerned so open up new areas for burials. I was born in 1946 hence not long on this earth-my greatest fear is for any government to change the rules as far as burials are in cemeteries like the Federal Government did with our Superannuation-made it retrospective and we all have suffered Finally leave the cemeteries alone please Not happy if the government gets their way again to change
