I vehemently oppose the raising of the Warragamba Dam wall. This proposal is preposterous. The flooding of creeks and rivers upstream will be to the detriment of hundreds of ecosystems, flora fauna and habitat. Many species will be left critically endangered if not extinct. It will flood Aboriginal rock art and sacred spaces. This raising will not guarantee flood free zones. In fact, once more housing is put in place (and we realise this is the true purpose) thousands of human lives will be put at risk. And what a catastrophe will occur if the new or old wall beneath it fails. Sydney requires far more green space not more housing. Please reconsider this bogus idea.
