This is the first submission I have ever made and I am doing so because I believe that no body has the right to illegally enter someone's property! Especially when there intentions aren't friendly! I just think There should be consistencies across the law and legislation! It is illegal to trespass on private property/break in to someone's house etc I also believe that the owner of the property should have full legal protection in the case of a unwanted intruder they should be able to physically protect themselves and family/friends and to remove the unwanted intruder from the premises and or detain them until police arrive! Society has become so "politically correct" that it's sometimes incorrect and has alot of inconsistencies! Simply if you do the crime you should do the 'Time! (Speaking from experience! I've made mistakes and I've been sentenced to a custodial sentence and 100% people need to suffer the consiquences of their actions! Weather IT be a peaceful protests or someone strapped/chained to a tree or piece of machinery the bottom line is how much money is IT costing tax payers for the emergency services that are called and dispatched to defuse some situations or 'The people that are inconvenienced because someone doesn't like something Or for whatever reason I think the person/person responsible and active participants should be charged, convicted and sentenced according to the scale of inconvenience and waste of time and money Of those affected! Realistically if the people involved get away with it what kind of message are we sending to the next generation! It's time people take responsibility for 'There decisions and accountable for their actions!
