The Right To Farm is a submission from myself on a personal basis as

I have over the last 42 or more years been involved with many valuations of farms or what may be called grazing farms and down as small as hobby farms being the 2.2ha (5 acre) size. I agree that there has been too much destruction of the land and not enough understanding BUT OUR REAL FARMERS are not to blame. The real farmers with grazing fields understand the land and the conditions and shouldn't be held back carrying out their right to farm their own properties that have possibly been held in the 'Family' for many many years (sometimes over a 100 years). They are the real Farmers and shouldn't be dictacted to by 'Greenies' or bureaucrats sitting in a office that may have studied agriculture but never got dirt under their finger-nails!!! "The Right To Farm" in Australia is hard enough as we've seen over the last few years again and our true Auusie farmer shouldn't be restricted. They know the land, they understand the land, they really don't want a fortune from the land but rather just want to be proud Aussie Farmers that can produce crops and cattle etc.
Don't hold our Farmers back by restrictions.
