I have followed the stories of 'unique situations' or 'rogue operators' and all the footage comes to light because of the actions of these whistleblowers. Whether this be in the horrific live export trade or in If there were no animal right's activists, there would be no footage and these perpetrators wouldn't be found out.

Until we have mandatory CcTV in all slaughterhouses, these activists are being target as not the ones inflicting the horrific treatment.

An inquiry should be in to this sector, and especially what seems to be 'standard practice' in Australia.

When these whistleblowers can receive harsher penalties that paedophiles, there is clearly something wrong.

I strongly oppose these laws.
