The addition of the term Pre-Cursor will have a negative affect on licensed owners. The fact that it is described as ANY object, device, substance, material or document means there are no limitations to the interpretations. Will a plumber be detained for having a Galvanised pipe in his work shop? Will a collector of blueprints have his computer confiscated for having a historical schematic diagram of an Owen gun? Will an amateur competitor be detained for having equipment to make ammunition? Will an owner of a 3D printer lose his license for making plastic magazine base plates? Will the owners of tools such as a lathe be detained for having the tools to manufacture a fire arm? This legislation has far too many variables that put pressure on Licensed owners, without offering any deterrents to the real criminals, as criminals will not follow these laws anyway.
