Let's just take a moment to understand the very basics of the dairy industry. Cows are forcefully impregnated, and once their calf is born if it's a boy it is taken away within days often 24hrs and most likely killed or sent to a veal crate. How can any human being think this is ok! We do NOT need to consume the milk of another animal. The amount of food that is grown to feed animals in agriculture while we have millions of people starving is beyond comprehension.

With the backdrop of Covid 19 let's not forget leprosy, plague, tuberculosis, typhus, diphtheria, measles and influenzas all vaulted from cows and other animals in agriculture to humans. Not just from bat soup in China but history seems to have forgotten these facts.

So ask yourselves. In this day and age, with all the knowledge we now have. Does the dairy industry have a future. I cannot possibly see how it could.
