Please use some sense when considering this change - it is quite obviously far too broad and without sufficient definition and limitations.

If you honestly think that the police enforcing it will do so then you have never been on the other side of that equation.

And the penalty is that an ordinary citizen has their whole life ruined because they can never financially recover from fighting this in court - where costs are never, ever awarded to the victims and even in the very very few occasions that they are - it never fully compensated them or replaces their mental health and well being, loss of jobs, loss of income, loss of marriages and families.

We need you to be the face of common sense here and defeat these changes or at the very least have them sent off for adjustment and proper definition.
