There must be an inquiry and processes put in place to ensure that unnecessary slaughter and cruelty are stamped out. I don't understand that we can live in a beautiful and free country with some of the most unique animals on the planet yet have our government turn a blind eye to such inhuman and cruel practices. I live in the country on the edge of a National park which suffered horrendously during the black summer bushfires. I can tell you first hand that the kangaroo and wallaby population has been decimated in this area.... yet people are still shooting. It must be properly regulated ( or better yet, stopped completely) And absolutely done with compassion and thought to the suffering of the animal.
