We are supposedly living in the lucky country....how lucky would home owners be if this goes ahead? I'm beginning to wonder what the advantages are of owning my own home. I am not a rich landowner, just an ordinary Australian who worked hard to buy a home and now wants to live a quiet life, without having to worry about paying an unfair tax in the future. This is my family home and has been since 1964. I should not be slugged with such an unfair tax due to circumstances totally imposed on me and beyond my control. It's just a grab for money and won't win you any votes at the next election.
