

INQUIRY INTO FLOODPLAIN HARVESTING

Name: Mr David Infante Sousa

Date Received: 12 July 2021

The fact that the government has acknowledged the legality of floodplain harvesting, whilst simultaneously doing nothing about it, is extremely indicative of the leadership in this country. It goes beyond sad when coupled with the deaths that can be directly attributed to this illegal activity.

Should the rich and powerful (those in charge) do nothing about it, I can guarantee that nothing will happen the day after. What I cannot guarantee is that in the near future, younger Australians/those with a conscience will not see the deliberate mismanagement of water as a direct attack on the Australian citizenry. I urgently suggest the Liberal Party of Australia and by extension, the 'Nats' see to it that Australians aren't dying due to their water corruption sooner rather than later, lest civil conflict breaks out. A group of people without leadership is perhaps the most savage state of humanity.

I feel it important to stress that I am not threatening anyone with acts of violence. Simply put, people will only take being treated like dirt.... this is wrong, dirt has water retention qualities. Being treated as sub-human garbage not worth acknowledging or even having water sent to (via the government) for so long. Although I personally am not a wartime expert/veteran in any capacity, I am quite certain that war, without dressing it up, is bad and should be avoided.

Can you please do your job before drastic measures start being taken by those with significantly reduced long-term planning abilities? Resorting to acts of violence is the last thing anyone wants. We must however remember one thing.... at least in some capacity, it works. We should, as civilised people, use the full force of the law to rectify this issue. Please do not avoid this issue, as it goes beyond government officials stealing money from the public (which also should be dealt with). Australians are dying as a direct result of the government's mismanagement of water, which as a member of a so-called 'civilised society' is unacceptable.
