Hi Mark,

Thanks for your unfailing support for workers sacked with the mandates. You are one of the few good men !

I was treated unlawfully by the education dept because I wasn't vaccinated. They would not give any answers to the half dozen letters I wrote to all levels, including the minister. They just replied with the same narrative & would not answer any of the questions I asked re the lawfulness of forced vaccinations. They even refused to let me work at school in the last month of work because I could not wear a mask. They did not follow the rules of the mandates themselves by not accepting exemptions.

I recently contacted one of my local high schools for casual work after the govt announced mandates would drop. The govt has given the choice about continuing mandates over to employers.

The admin person who hired casuals at the school I contacted said they needed casuals desperately & he wished he could hire me, but the principal told him that teachers still need to be double vaxxed to work.

Craig Peterson of Bathurst region, of the NSW Secondary Principals Council has said recently that it sets a dangerous precedent letting unvaxxed teachers back at school. This is a discriminatory statement against us when there is no scientific evidence or any medical study that shows that unvaccinated people spread disease.

On the contrary the people being infected & transmitting disease are the vaccinated via shedding. (Medical fact that whatever germ is injected into the body is rejected by the body, & is shed out via sweating, coughing, aerosol breaths etc). Maybe he would be a good bloke to call in regard to his justifications for his statements.

Cheers
