The traffic on Victoria Road hasn't eased at all. Quite often it does is banked back as far as the Gladesville Bridge on the incoming side of the road and trying to exit the Balmain Peninsular can take up to four changes of lights. Also the fact that the government refuses to filter the exhaust stacks is criminal. Don't they realise there is going to be an enormous drain on the health system in years to come with residents developing all types of cancers and lung diseases from the toxic fallout. Maybe they just don't care as they don't live in the shadows of these lethal monstrosities.
