I suffer from extreme anxiety and have been using medicinal cannabis for 4 years and it's the only medication that has truly worked for myself after trying multiple ' pharmaceutical'

Anti-anxiety medications that made me feel terrible and didn't work. I also suffer greatly from the anxiety I get around driving the next day after consuming my prescribed medication that I could possibly lose my license for something I'm legally allowed to consume. It needs to change where patients of medical cannabis are allowed to drive the next day anxiety free. I have a stable career, a mortgage, a family and I need to support these things. We are falling behind here in Australia with the cannabis movement look at the rest of the countries that have legalised it and the industry's they are creating around it. Jobs, tax revenue imagine what the government could put the tax towards! Please the people of Australia need this change desperately!
