Comments and Feedback

This publication has been prepared with reference to the index maps made available by the Electoral Districts Commission. At times, the scale of these maps makes it difficult to be sure where the boundaries lie. I would be pleased to receive any comments from members who feel I have made a mistake in transferring polling places. Messages can be e-mailed to me direct through agreen@magna.com.au, or I can be contacted via David Clune in the Parliamentary Library.

INTRODUCTION

This booklet contains estimates of the political impact of the draft New South Wales electoral boundaries, released on 27 March 1998. They are based on re-assigning the polling place level results of the 1995 election to the new electorates. The following notes provide detail of how this allocation process has taken place, and also how to read the tables provided.

Calculating the Redistribution

Following the 1995 election, a database was prepared of the election results in each polling place. This database included both the primary and two-candidate results. Two candidate preferred results were estimated based on the published flows of preferences for each electorate.

These estimates can be found in my publication "1995 NSW Legislative Assembly Election: Estimated Two-Candidate Preferred Results by Polling Place", NSW Parliamentary Library Research Service, Background Paper 1995/5.

Decisions on transferring booths to new electorates were made by examining the index maps provided by the Electoral Districts Commission. Where a polling place was close to a new boundary, consideration was given to splitting the booth between electorates. A check was made to ensure that the number of votes transferred correlated with the number of electors transferred, as published in the Commissioners' Proposals.

Declaration votes were distributed to new electorates in proportion to the number of electors transferred. For instance, 15.5% of Ermington voters were transferred to Baulkham Hills, 4.8% to Epping, 54.9% to Parramatta and 24.9% to Ryde. Declaration votes have been distributed to the new electorates in the same proportion.

However, of the votes transferred, the relative proportion of votes for each party have been weighted according to the vote in the booths transferred as follows. As a first step, the ratio of declaration votes to booth votes was calculated, as in the following example.

Ermington

	Booth Results	Declaration Votes	Ratio
Labor	36.49%	33.52%	0.9186
Liberal	50.91%	51.18%	1.0053
Democrat	5.96%	7.80%	1.3087
Other	6.95%	7.49%	1.0777

These ratios were then applied to the votes transferred to new electorates. For instance several booths were transferred from Ermington to Baulkham Hills. The number of voters transferred was 15.5% of the enrolment of Ermington, and so 15.5% of the Declaration votes have been transferred. The above ratios have been applied to the percentage party votes for the booths transferred, as shown below.

Ermington Transfers to Baulkham Hills

	Booth % Vote	Declaration %	Adjusted %
Labor	26.15%	24.02%	23.95%
Liberal	61.92%	62.25%	62.08%
Democrat	4.98%	6.52%	6.50%
Other	6.95%	7.49%	7.47%

In this case, the Labor vote in booths transferred to Baulkham Hills was 26.15%. Applying the ratio of 0.9186, the Labor percentage of Declaration votes to be transferred is 24.02%. After rounding so the percentages add to 100%, this becomes 23.95% of formal declaration votes. So of the 15.5% of declaration votes transferred to Baulkham Hills, 23.95% will be Labor Party votes, as compared to the 33.52% Labor vote in the overall Declaration vote for Ermington.

This process may seem unduly complex, but it ensures that the declaration votes transferred reflects the political complexion of the areas involved. In the case of Ermington, the Declaration votes transferred to Epping and Baulkham Hills will have a higher proportion of Liberal votes than those transferred to Parramatta or Ryde. Overall, the sum of the declaration votes transferred to the four electorates will still add to the total declaration vote recorded for Ermington.

Reading the Tables

Detailed results are provided in several formats. The tables on pages 9-26 provide a summary for all new electorates in the following format.

CHARLESTOWN (43747)
2-PARTY VOTE			PRIMARY VOTE			OLD ELECTORATES
ALP	22739	64.0%	ALP	21549	56.8%	Charlestown	32770	93.5%
LIB	12765	36.0%	LIB	10242	27.0%	Wallsend	5348	83.0%
			GRN	238	0.6%	Newcastle	1974	88.0%
			OTH	5924	15.6%		-----
							40092	91.6%
						Informal	2139	5.3%
						Formal	37953

The first line contains the name of the electorate, and the enrolment at December 1997. The first two columns contain total two-party preferred and primary votes and percentage, calculated by adding up the transferred booth and declaration votes.

The third column provides information on the votes transferred from the old electorates. In the case of Charlestown, it lists the number of votes transferred from Charlestown, Wallsend and Newcastle. This is the total of the booth and declaration votes transferred, and includes both formal and informal votes. It is NOT the number of electors transferred.

The percentage figure on the right is the number of votes transferred expressed as a percentage of the number of electors transferred. In general, I have aimed to keep this percentage figure around the same percentage as the relevant figure for each old electorate as a whole. (A table comparing 1995 votes with December 1997 enrolments can be found on pages 68-71.) In general this percentage is kept in the range 85-95%. Where the value is outside of this range, "*" appears on the listing.

A total of all votes transferred to the new Charlestown is provided, along with total informal and formal votes and relevant percentages.

The tables on pages 26-67 provide further details on each new electorate. It includes a full listing of booths and declaration votes transferred to new electorate. Separate sub-totals are provided for each old electorate.

Consider the following example from the listing for Charlestown

CHARLESTOWN	VOTES	2-CANDIDATE		PRIMARY VOTES
		ALP	LIB	ALP	LIB	GRN	OTH
Transfers from : Charlestown (35065 Voters)
Bel Air, Charlestown, Charlestown East, Charlestown South, Charlestown West, Dudley, Garden Grove, Gateshead, Gateshead West, Kahibah, Kotara, Kotara Heights, Kotara South, Medcalf Street, Mount Hutton (75%), Redhead, Warners Bay, Warners Bay East (75%), Whitebridge, Windale, Declaration votes (95%)
Votes	32770	18444	10345	17410	7890	0	5880
%		64.1	35.9	55.8	25.3	0.0	18.9

The line beginning "Transfers ..." indicates from which electorate votes have been transferred. The figure in brackets (35065) is the number of electors transferred, as provided by the Electoral Districts Commission.

In this example, the next four lines list the names of the polling places that have been transferred from the old electorate of Charlestown to the new. In the case of the Mount Hutton booth, only 75% has been transferred. The percentage of Declaration votes transferred is indicated in the same way.

The column headed VOTES is the total votes transferred, and includes informal votes. It is NOT the sum of the formal votes on the line. Note that because of optional preferential voting, the total of the two-party preferred votes may not equal the total of the primary votes. A total of votes and percentage votes for each party is provided, representing the sum of the booth and declaration votes transferred. A total is provided for each old electorate from which electors have been transferred, as well as a total vote for the new electorate.

Two-Candidate Preferred Versus Two-Party Preferred

In most electorates, after the distribution of preferences, the final two candidate normally represent the Labor Party, and one of the Liberal and National Parties. In these contests, it is normal to talk of a 'two-party preferred vote', representing the final split between Labor and Non-Labor parties.

However, at the 1995 election, six electorates (Bligh, Manly, Marrickville, Port Jackson and Tamworth) did not finish as a two-party contest. Instead, an independent or minor party contestant finished first or second. This makes it very difficult to make an estimate of the result for the new boundaries.

No attempt has been made to work out a two-party preferred vote for either Bligh or Manly. Nor has it been possible to work out the two-candidate preferred position for the sitting Independent members, as they did not contest neighbouring areas now transferred into their electorates.

In Tamworth, no National Party candidate contested the seat in 1995, and in calculating electorates containing portions of Tamworth, a simple equation has been made between the Independent vote and National Party vote in neighbouring electorates.

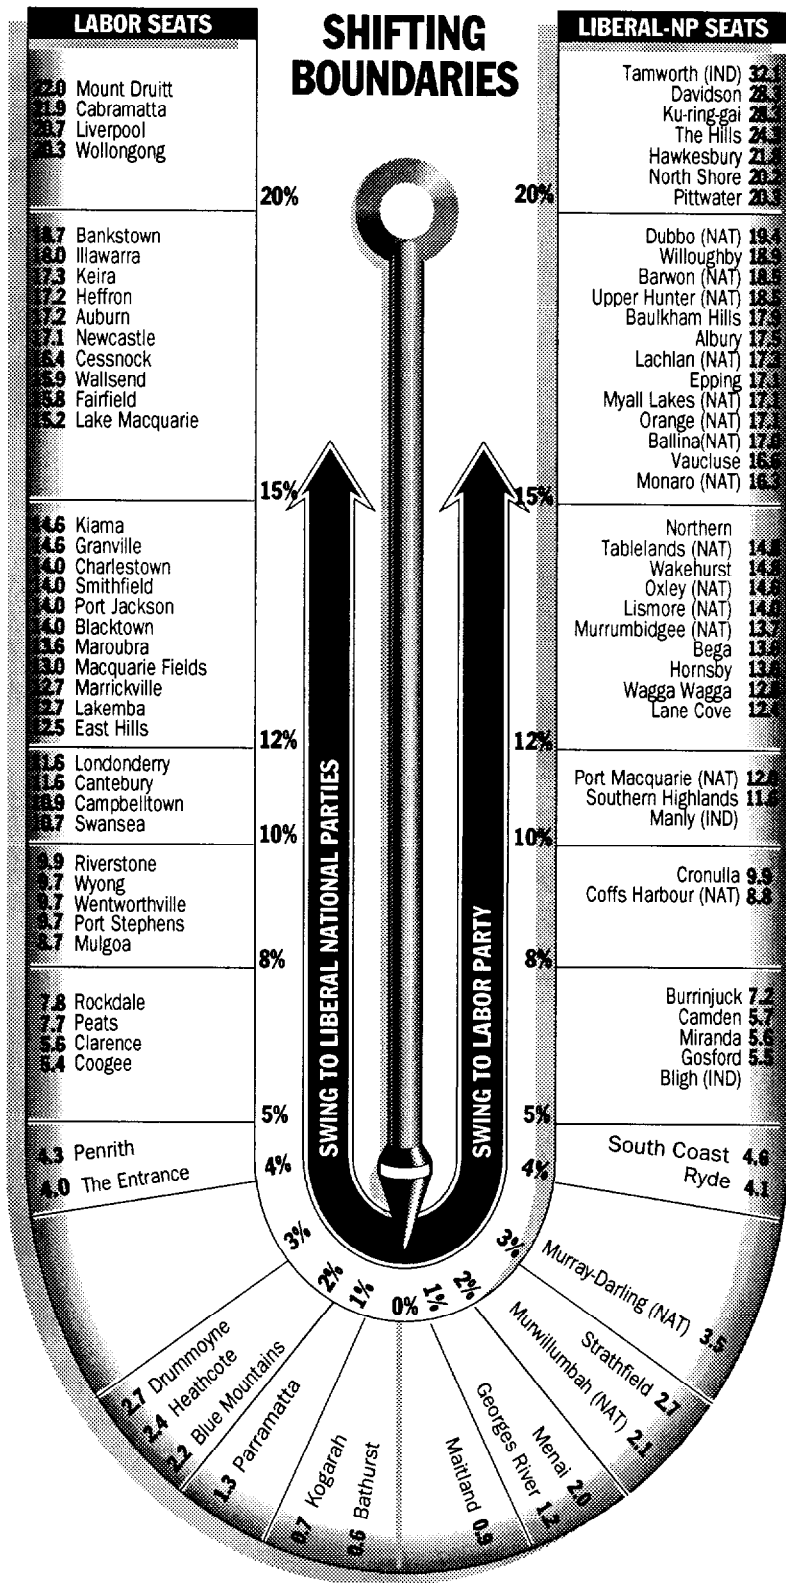

Other new electorates where it has not been possible to calculate a two-party preferred vote include Heffron, Marrickville, Port Jackson and Vacluse.

By-Elections

All calculations are based on 1995 election results. By-elections have been ignored. However, given the change in party status produced by the Clarence by-election, an attempt has been made to produce a margin based on the by-election.

The method adopted has been to simply alter the Clarence by-election result by the same percentage change to Clarence on the new boundaries compared to the 1995 result. As a result, Clarence is shown on the electoral pendulum as being a Labor seat with a margin of 5.6%.

The following table summarises the changes in margins for all electorates. Where a substantial proportion of an abolished electorate has been transferred to a new electorate, that electorate is indicated in the second column.

For comparison purposes, the margin in the abolished electorate of Gordon has been compared with the new Ku-ring-gai, while the old Ku-ring-gai is compared to the new electorate of Hornsby. Similarly, Ermington has been compared with the new electorate of Parramatta, while the old Parramatta is compared with the new electorate of Wentworthville.

In the change column, figures shown with a '+' indicates electorates where the Labor Party two-party preferred vote has risen. Figures shown with a '-' are electorates where the Labor two-party preferred vote has fallen.
