INTRODUCTION

This paper provides an analysis of the results of the 2015 New South Wales election. It provides summaries of the elections for both chambers, analysis of Legislative Assembly results both before and after the distribution of preferences, as well as a summary of the Legislative Council election.

2013 Redistribution

The 2015 election was contested on new electoral boundaries released in 2013. In preparing this publication, the results of the 2011 election have been adjusted to match the new boundaries. All swings and changes in vote shares shown in this publication are calculated compared to adjusted results. A summary of the redistribution changes can be found in this publication on page 58. More detail on the redistribution can be found in "2013 New South Wales Redistribution: Analysis of Final Electoral Boundaries", NSW Parliamentary Research Service Background Paper No. 3/2013.

See the notes on changing seat on page 5 where some of the complications concerning the redistribution and by-elections are explained.

Format for Legislative Assembly Results

For each Legislative Assembly electorate, full details of primary and two-candidate preferred votes and percentages are provided. The format and calculations used in the electorate results are as follows.

First Count: The votes shown for each candidate are the total primary votes received. Percentage votes are calculated as a percentage of the formal vote for each electorate. Change in vote share is calculated by subtracting the percentage vote received by a party at the previous election (adjusted for the redistribution) from the percentage received at the current election. Where the parties contesting the district differ from the previous election, 'ghost' candidates (indicated by "...") have been included representing candidates not contesting the current election. All primary swings add to zero, subject to rounding errors.

Final Count: Represents the two-candidate preferred count after the distribution of preferences in an electorate. All votes that did not indicate a preference between the two final candidates are included in the total of votes shown as 'Exhausted'. Two-candidate preferred percentages are calculated by dividing the two-candidate preferred vote for each candidate by the total of votes remaining in the count, that is the formal vote minus the exhausted vote. Two-candidate preferred swings are shown compared to the final two candidates from the previous election, adjusted for the redistribution. Where the party composition of the final two candidates differs from the previous election (e.g. Port Macquarie), ghost candidates appear and more than two swing figures are shown.

Two-Party Preferred: Represents a separate distribution of preferences conducted in the 16 districts that did not finish as a two-party contest between candidates of the Labor Party and the Liberal-National Party Coalition.

Two-Candidate versus Two-Party Preferred results

Two-candidate Preferred Count: To win an electorate, a candidate must receive more than 50% of the vote remaining after the distribution of preferences. The distribution is performed by successively excluding candidates with the lowest primary vote and distributing each candidate's ballot papers according to the next preferences for a candidates remaining in the count. At the end of the count, the vote for the two final candidates is referred to as the 'two-candidate preferred vote'.

Two-Party Preferred Count: Most Australian elections finish as a contest between candidates representing the Labor Party and the Liberal-National Party Coalition. The final distribution of preferences between Labor and Coalition candidates is referred to as the 'two-party preferred count'.

At the 2015 election, there were 77 electorates where the final contest was a two-party preferred count between Labor and Coalition candidates and 16 that finished with other combinations of candidates. There were six Liberal-Green contests (Davidson, Manly, North Shore, Pittwater, Vaucluse, Willoughby), three Labor-Green contests (Balmain, Newtown, Summer Hill), two National-Green contests (Ballina, Lismore), two National-Independent contests (Murray, Tamworth), two Labor-Independent contests (Lake Macquarie, Wollongong) and one Liberal-Independent contest (Sydney).

Australian Labor Party and Country Labor

Of Labor's candidates, 26 appeared on the ballot paper as Country Labor, up from five in 2011. Country Labor candidates are indicated by the party code CLR. While separate totals for Labor and Country Labor are shown in the state totals, the two parties have been treated as the same party for the rest of the publication.

By-elections.

Seven by-elections were conducted between 2011 and 2015. Four electorates changed party status, the National Party gaining Northern Tablelands following the resignation of Independent Richard Torbay, and Labor gaining Miranda, Charlestown and Newcastle from the Liberal Party. The results of by-elections can be found on page 42.

All calculations of swing in this publication compare 2015 results to adjusted figures for the 2011 election and ignore by-election results. Footnotes have been used to draw attention to the electorates where by-elections took place.

Unregistered parties

Tables in this publication include reference to several parties contesting the 2015 election without being officially registered with the NSW Electoral Commission. These parties are Australia First, Communist League, Country Party, Liberal Democratic Party, Future Party, Socialist Equality Party and the Strata Party. All appeared on the ballot paper as either Independents or with no party affiliation.

Disclaimer

All results are based on details made available by the NSW State Electoral Office. However, responsibility for all calculations, errors and omissions is taken by the author. Note that due to rounding errors, some tables do not add to exactly 100%.

Acknowledgements

I would like to express my thanks to the staff of the NSW Electoral Commission for their assistance in providing election results in electronic format and for other assistance concerning preference counts and Legislative Council results.

STATISTICAL HIGHLIGHTS

- A total of 540 candidates contested the 93 Legislative Assembly districts, up from 498 candidates in 2011, but down from 661 candidates in 2003 and the record 732 candidates in 1999. The most significant change in nominations at the 2015 election was the 93 candidates nominated for the new No Land Tax Party, while the number of Independents declined from 91 to 46.
- Five parties or groups contested every electorate representing the Liberal/National Coalition, Labor/Country Labor, the Greens, Christian Democrats and No Land Tax. Of the 93 districts, 46 had five candidates, one from each party/group, there were 25 electorate with six candidates, 16 with seven and six electorates with eight candidates.
- A record 394 candidates contested the Legislative Council, up from 311 in 2011 and surpassing the previous record of 333 candidates in 2007. There were 25 columns on the ballot paper, the largest number since the current electoral system was first used in 2003. Three groups nominated with fewer than the 15 candidates required for access to a group voting square 'above the line' on the ballot paper. Despite the increase in candidates, the ballot paper was smaller than the 1999 'tablecloth' ballot paper with 264 candidates and 81 columns.
- The Coalition vote in the Assembly fell to 45.6%, down 5.5 percentage points on 2011. It was the seventh highest Coalition first preference vote at 22 elections since the formation of the NSW Liberal Party, bettered only in 1950, 1956, 1965, 1976, 1988 and 2011. The 54 seats won by the Coalition has only been bettered proportionally by the 69 seats won at the 2011 election. The Coalition won 59 seats at the 1988 election in a larger 109 seat Assembly. It was only the fifth time in 22 elections the Coalition had won more than 50 seats, the others being 1968 (53), 1973 (52), 1988 (59) and 2011 (69).
- The Labor Party polled 34.1%, up 8.5 percentage points from 25.6% in 2011, but still the party's second lowest first preference vote since 1907. While the 34 Assembly seats won was an increase on 20 seats in 2011, it was still the second lowest number of Labor MPs elected since Labor's three defeats under Jack Lang in the 1930s. The Labor vote of 31.1% in the Legislative Council was the second lowest Labor vote since the introduction of popular election in 1978.
- The Green vote in the Assembly was unchanged at 10.3%, but its less even geographic spread saw the number Green seats won increase from one to three. In the Legislative Council the Green vote share declined from 11.1% to 9.9% and the party won two seats compared to three in 2011.
- No Land Tax contested all 93 Assembly districts, but only reached the 4% required for deposit return and public funding in three electorates, Auburn (4.2%), Fairfield (7.1%) and Wollongong (4.4%). No Land Tax drew the top ballot position in those seats and clearly benefited from the 'donkey vote'.
- After the distribution of preferences, the state-wide two-party preferred percentages were Coalition 54.3%, Labor 45.7%, a swing to Labor of 9.9 percentage points since the landslide 2011 election result.
- A uniform swing of 9.9% would have delivered 20 seats to Labor but only 16 fell. Three of the government's most marginal seats were retained with small swings to the government, East Hills (0.2% margin), Monaro (2.0%) and Oatley (3.8%). The Liberal Party retained three other seats under 9%, Coogee (8.3%), Kiama (8.6%) and Seven Hills (8.8%). The three seats beyond the uniform swing that fell to Labor were north of Sydney, The Entrance (11.8%), Gosford (11.9%) and Port Stephens (14.8%). Labor won six of the seven electorates where Liberal candidates stood aside over the ICAC donation inquiries, with only Terrigal (23.6%) retained by the Liberal Party.
- Well away from the uniform swing, the Greens gained Ballina (24.6%) and came close to winning Lismore (24.3%), while Northern Tablelands was retained by the National Party after its 2013 by-election victory.

- The two-party preferred swing was 7.9% in greater Sydney, 13.6% in the Hunter/Illawarra and 12.5% in Regional/Rural areas. The swing against the Coalition government was greatest on the Central Coast (13.1%) in the Hunter Valley (17.1%) where the ICAC donation inquiries were most important, and on the North Coast (19.0%) where the Greens polled well campaigning strongly on coal seam gas issues. Overall eight seats swung to the Coalition and 85 to Labor. (See regional vote summaries, page 38 and 2-party preferred summaries page 31.)
- The Labor Party won no seats classified as Country, it won 24 seats in greater Sydney and another 10 seats in the Hunter and Illawarra. The Liberal Party won a majority of the seats in greater Sydney, 30 of the 57 seats.
- Sixty-five members of the Legislative Assembly were re-elected at the 2015 election, 32 Liberal, 15 Labor, 15 National, one Green and two Independents. Nineteen members did not contest the 2015 election (eight Labor, eight Liberal and three National), one National member contested the Legislative Council unsuccessfully, while seven Liberals and one ex-Liberal were defeated.
- There were 28 new members elected, 19 Labor, five Liberal, two National and two Greens. Two members transferred from the Legislative Council, Luke Foley (Labor) and Melinda Pavey (National), while two members returned after defeat in 2011, Jodi McKay (Strathfield) and David Harris (Wyang).
- Fifty eight electorates were decided on first preferences, 30 being won by the Liberal Party, 17 by the Labor Party and 11 by the National Party.
- Thirty five electorates were decided after the distribution of preferences and four seats saw the candidate leading on first preferences defeated. Exhausted preferences resulted in 20 seats being won by a candidate without a majority of the formal vote. Labor won 17 seats on preferences, including 10 minority winners, with Labor winning Gosford, Strathfield and The Entrance from second place. These were Labor's first wins from second place since 1995. The Liberal Party won seven seats on preferences (three minority winners), the National Party six (three minority winners) and the Greens three (all minority winners) with Ballina being won from second place. Both Independents were elected on preferences, with Sydney being won on a minority of the formal vote.
- Compared to the 2007 Legislative Council, the Legislative Council election saw the Labor Party lose two seats, the Liberal Party gain one and the Animal Justice Party win its first seat.
- 98.31% of all Legislative Council ballot papers were counted as 'above the line' votes, with only 1.69% 'below the line'. Only 15.34% of formal ballot papers used the 'above the line' preference option introduced at the 2003 election. (See Legislative Council summary page 44.)
- As in 2003 and 2007, more than 80% of ballot papers exhausted their preferences during the distribution of Legislative Council preferences. This rate fell to only 59.6% on the exclusion of the final Green candidate, and preferences on this exclusion resulted in the Animal Justice Party passing No Land Tax to win the final seat. Seventeen vacancies were filled on the initial counts with full quotas, the final four vacancies filled by candidates with less than a quota of votes.
- The Animal Justice Party polled 1.78% (0.29 quotas) and reached 2.12% (0.47 quotas) after preferences. This was the lowest vote for a successful candidate since the current electoral system was introduced in 2003. It was lower than the 2.05% for the elected Shooters Party in 2003, equal to the unsuccessful Australian Democrats in 2007 (1.78%) and lower than for Pauline Hanson's unsuccessful contests in 2003 (1.92%) and 2011 (2.41%).
- With 54 seats, the Coalition would have to lose eight seats on a uniform swing of 6.6% to lose majority government. Four of those seats would be National Party seats. Assuming Greens and Independents retain their seats, Labor would need 13 seats on a uniform swing of 8.7% for majority government, though minority government could be formed on a smaller swing.

Note: The change of seats column above is calculated compared to the actual seats won by each party at the 2011 election. If the notional seat holdings following the redistribution were used, the change column would be Liberal (-16), Labor (+16), Greens (+1) and Independents (-1), as shown in the seat change listing below. See page 58 for details of the redistribution. '#' indicates unregistered parties.

Green gains from National (1) Ballina

National gain from Independent (1) Northern Tablelands (by-election)

Notes: Northern Tablelands was won by the National Party at a 2013 by-election and retained at the 2015 election. The Labor Party gained Charlestown and Newcastle at by-elections in 2014 and retained both seats at the 2015 election. Labor gained Miranda at a 2013 by-election, but it is not shown as changing party because victorious candidate Barry Collier retired at the 2015 election and the seat was recovered by the Liberal Party.

All 93 electorates are listed in order of descending Labor or Coalition 2-party preferred margin. Independent and Green held seats are shown bottom right with their 2-candidate preferred margins, but also in bold according to 2-party preferred margins. Alternate 2-candidate preferred margins and opposing party in Coalition and Labor-held seats are shown in brackets. Underlining indicates electorates changing party status at the 2011 election.

Note

Electorates have been classified by party and margin based on the 2011 election adjusted for the 2013 redistribution. All swings calculated based on adjusted 2011 results. All swings are two-party preferred swings, including in Green and Independent held seats.

Three seats affected by by-elections have been categorised differently. Northern Tablelands has been classed as a very safe National seat, Charlestown as very safe Labor and Newcastle as safe Labor. While the classification of these seats has been altered, the swing is still based on comparing the 2015 2-party preferred result with the redistribution adjusted value for 2011.

Electorates with margins under 6% are classed as Marginal, from 6% to 12% as Safe, while electorates with margins above 12% are classified as Very Safe.

REGIONAL SUMMARIES

The following tables summarise the election result for different regions of the state. All electorates have been classified into three broad regions, Sydney Metropolitan, Hunter/Illawarra and Country. The electorates in each region are shown below, with electorates divided into sub-regions.

The party that won each electorate at the 2015 election is shown in brackets. Seats that changed party status at the election are underlined. See notes on page 5 concerning the classification of changing seats.

Counts 2-18 distributed the preferences of the leading candidates on the Liberal/National Coalition, Labor and Green tickets, electing nine Coalition, six Labor and two Green MLCs. Four vacancies remained to be filled, the count continuing by the successive exclusion of the lowest polling candidates in the count and the distribution of each candidate's preferences.

By the end of Count 374 only 21 candidates remained in the count, one from each group on the ballot paper with a group ticket vote. These candidates were the 10th Coalition candidate, 7th Labor candidate, 3rd Green candidate and the lead candidate for the other 18 groups. The total votes for each remaining candidate at the end of Count 374 includes the above the line ballot papers for each group.

In the table on the previous page, the column headed 'Change to Count 374' shows the change in vote tally for the remaining candidate in each group compared to the initial tally of first preference votes for each group, taking account of the quotas set aside for elected candidates. This column represents the leakage of below the line votes from the total first preference votes for each group.

The table lists parties in descending order of votes at the end of Count 374. The table shows the total of votes for each candidate as well as the fraction of a quota those votes represent.

Counts 374 to 390 excluded 16 candidates beginning with Andrew Thaler in Group P and finishing with the tenth Coalition candidate Hollie Hughes. The total flow of preferences distributed in these counts is shown in the column headed 'Counts 374-390'. A total of 360,738 ballot papers were distributed during these counts. 83.43% of these ballot papers exhausted their preferences before reaching one of the final five candidates remaining in the count at Count 390

Of the ballot papers distributed between Counts 374 and 390, 5.84% flowed to the final Labor candidate Courtney Houssos, 4.06% to Mark Pearson of Animal Justice while only 1.96% flowed to Peter Jones of the No Land Tax Party. The count was completed with the formal exclusion of Peter Jones of the No Land Tax Party. His preferences were not distributed and the final four candidates representing Labor, the Shooters and Fishers, Christian Democrats and Animal Justice Party were declared elected with less than a quota of votes.

In the race for the final seat, Peter Jones of No Land Tax led Mark Pearson of the Animal Justice Party until the end of Count 388. At that point Jones led Pearson by 2,004 votes, 86,093 to 84,089.

Count 389 excluded the remaining Green candidate Justin Field. 40.4% of Field's votes had preferences for candidates remaining in the count, the strongest flow of preferences seen at an exclusion since the Legislative Council's electoral system was first used at the 2003 election.

Of Field's 48,815 votes on exclusion, 29,072 (59.6%) exhausted, 10,415 (21.3%) flowed to Labor, 5,631 (11.5%) to Animal Justice, 1,410 (2.9%) to the Coalition, 806 (1.7%) to the Christian Democrats, 744 (1.5%) to No Land Tax and 737 (1.5%) to the Shooters and Fishers.

This preference flow put Pearson ahead of Jones by 2,883 votes, 89,720 to 86,837. The exclusion of the final Liberal/National candidate saw an exhaustion rate of 86.1% while Pearson gained a further 1,700 vote to 1,406 to Jones.

Count 390 saw five candidates remaining with four vacancies to be filled. Pearson led Jones by 3,177 votes. Jones was excluded as the lowest polling candidate and the four remaining candidates declared elected.

The Animal Justice Party polled 1.78% (0.29 quotas) and reached 2.12% (0.47 quotas) after preferences. This was the lowest vote for a successful candidate since the current electoral system was introduced in 2003. It was lower than the 2.05% for the elected Shooters Party in 2003, equal to the unsuccessful Australian Democrats in 2007 (1.78%) and lower than for Pauline Hanson's unsuccessful contests in 2003 (1.92%) and 2011 (2.41%).

New and Departing Members

In total 65 members of the Legislative Assembly were re-elected at the 2015 election, 32 Liberal, 15 Labor, 15 National, one Green and two Independents. Nineteen members did not contest the 2015 election (eight Labor, eight Liberal and three National), one National member contested the Legislative Council, while seven Liberals and one ex-Liberal were defeated.

There were 28 new members, 19 Labor, five Liberal, two National and two Greens. This includes Luke Foley (Labor) and Melinda Pavey (National) who made the transition from the Legislative Council.

Two former Labor members defeated in 2011 returned to the Assembly at the 2015 election. Former Newcastle member Jodi McKay won Strathfield, while David Harris recovered his former seat of Wyong.

Footnotes

Bold indicates seats that changed party status at the 2011 election. Note that Miranda reverted to being a Liberal seat after being won by Labor at a 2013 by-election. Macquarie Fields had become a notional Liberal seat in the redistribution but was recovered by the Labor Party at the 2015 election.

There were seven by-election held during the life of the 2011-15 Parliament, four resulting in a change in party status.

Two continuing Labor members resigned from the Legislative Council to contest the Legislative Assembly at the 2015 election. Penny Sharpe was defeated contesting the lower house seat of Newtown and was subsequently re-appointed to her Council seat. Steve Whan was defeated contesting the lower house seat of Monaro and replaced in the Council after the election by Daniel Mookhey, who had been the eighth candidate on Labor's 2015 Labor Legislative Council ticket.

John Williams, the National MP for the abolished Legislative Assembly seat of Murray-Darling, failed to win election from 11th position on the Liberal/National Legislative Council ticket.

Note: The table summarises changes brought about by the redistribution and through by-elections. It does not take account of MPs who withdrew from the Liberal party room following the ICAC donation inquiries.

The above table reflects the following changes –

- The National held seats of Burrinjuck, Murrumbidgee and Murray-Darling were abolished and replaced by the new National seats of Cootamundra and Murray.
- The Labor seat of Marrickville was abolished and replaced by two new seats in notionally Labor-held Summer Hill and the notionally Green-held seat of Newtown.
- The Labor held seat of Toongabbie was abolished and replaced by the notionally Liberal seat of Seven Hills.
- The Labor seat of Macquarie Fields became notionally Liberal held on its new boundaries.
- The Liberal seat of Smithfield was replaced by Prospect.
- The Liberal seat of Menai was replaced by Holsworthy.
- The Independent held seat of Northern Tablelands was won by the National Party at a May 2013 by-election.
- The Liberal held seat of Miranda was won by the Labor Party at an October 2013 by-election.
- The Liberal held seats Charlestown and Newcastle were gained by the Labor Party at by-elections in October 2014.

The most politically significant changes in margins for electorates were as follows –

- Campbelltown moved south, its Liberal margin doubling from 3.4% to 6.8%
- Heathcote lost parts of the Illawarra and moved west of the Woronora River, its Liberal margin increasing from 12.9% to 19.0%.
- The abolished seat of Menai had a Liberal margin of 24.4%, but its replacement in the new seat of Holsworthy had an estimated Liberal margin of 10.7%.
- The Labor margin in Kogarah increased from 1.9% to an estimated 5.4%.
- Major boundary changes to Londonderry saw the Liberal margin decline from 12.3% to an estimated 5.3%.
- The Labor margin of 1.5% in Macquarie Fields became a notional Liberal margin of 1.8% on the new boundaries.
- The Liberal margin in Oatley increased from 0.5% to an estimated 3.8%.
- Toongabbie was held by Labor with a margin of 0.3%, but the new seat of Seven Hills had a notional Liberal margin of 8.8%.
- Wollondilly moved south out of Campbelltown, its Liberal margin increasing from 14.7% to an estimated 21.6%.

Old and new margins for all seats, plus notes on retiring members and other issues affecting each electorate are set out on the following pages.
