ANNUAL REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR OF CHURCH OF ENGLAND SCHOOLS, SYDNEY DIOCESE.

Sydney, 1st February, 1865.

Sir,

I have the honor to submit, for the information and approval of the Board, my general Report on the Church of England Schools in the Diocese of Sydney, visited and inspected during the past year.

I am glad to be able, in presenting this (my third) Annual Statement, to state that, upon the whole, the schools are making fair progress.

The number of schools on the list of the Board, on 31st December, 1864, was one hundred and eleven (111), against one hundred and thirteen (113) of the previous year.

Of these 111 schools, ninety-six were primary schools for mixed sexes, two were boys' schools, one was a girls' school, and twelve were infant schools.

During the year, three primary schools have been established, viz., St. Mark's (near Sydney), Gunning, and Canberra (re-admitted); and five primary schools have been given up, viz., Foster's Valley, Mitchell's Creek, East Bargo, Ashfield, and Upper Mittagong.

Of the 111 schools on the list at the end of the year, ninety-nine had been visited and inspected by me; twelve were not visited, including five which were vacant.

On account of the floods which prevailed for several months of the year, I was not able to visit the schools in the Western District, with the exception of Hartley; and I was also prevented by press of work from paying my annual visit to Moruya.

The very wet season of the past year has been very unfavourable to the attendance in our schools, and consequently has proved detrimental to progress in studies.

I am sorry to have again to express my regret that no scheme of general examination and classification of our teachers has been proposed; and also that a code of regulations for the better management of these schools has not been issued.

The issuing of the "Programmes of Study" has not been without good effect; but much more good would have resulted, if steps had been taken to forward copies of my Reports to the different schools immediately after inspection. It would then have been seen wherein the standard laid down in these "Tables of Attainments" had been attained or come short of.

Until some means shall be adopted by which the Local and Central Boards, or Heads of Denominations, shall be placed in communication on the subject of inspection, all the benefit of my visits must be of an accidental or incidental character.

The want of a Time Table based upon the "Programme" has been much felt. Such a guide would give a greater chance to the majority of our teachers of working up to the proposed standard than they now possess.

While, however, I regret what has not been done, I must in justice notice the steps which have been taken to improve the discipline and teaching in our schools.

It is with great pleasure that I am enabled to report that a general effort has been made to furnish the schools with suitable desks, forms, cupboards, &c.; and further, that the staff of assistant and pupil teachers has been increased. Nor must I omit to record the advantages we continue to receive from the Training Department, in the shape of qualified teachers placed in charge of schools.

Of the other matters of detail in which changes have been made during the year, I now proceed to give some information.

THE PREMISES.

New and commodious buildings, to be used as school-rooms, have been erected during the year at Castle Hill; Pyrmont (Sydney); Surry Hills (Sydney), for infants; and at Seven Hills. The first of those is built of wood, the second of stone, and the others of brick, and all have wooden floors, are well lighted and ventilated, and furnished with playgrounds and proper out-offices. At Appin two good cottages have been hired, in lieu of the former schoolroom; one to be used as a dwelling-house, and the other as a school. The room at Canberra is being rebuilt after the late fire; and a legal conveyance of the building has been made for a term of years to the Lord Bishop of the Diocese.

The Model Schools have been put into thorough repair at a cost of £1,000—contributed in equal parts by the Parish (St. James') and the Central Board. The premises at Camden (infant), Emu Plains, Hunter's Hill, Pennant Hills, Redfern (primary), and Waterloo Estate (primary), have been enlarged; and a large wooden shed has been built at St. Philip's (infant), Sydney.

General repairs have also been executed at the following schools:—Lord's Forest, Paddington, South Creek, Holsworthy, and Woonona.

The accommodation at the following places is much too limited:—St. Andrew's (2), Sydney; St. Barnabas' (infant), Sydney; Newtown (infant); St. Philip's (infant), Sydney; Redfern (infant); Holy Trinity (2), Sydney; Waterloo Estate (infant); Ryde, and Woonona.

The building at Kiama has been abandoned and sold; that at Theresa Park is in a very unsafe and dilapidated condition.

The

The number of wooden floors is increased by the laying down of one at Denham Court; the cement floor at Randwick has not been removed, nor have the floors at Mulgoa or Windsor been altered. At Mudgee a "brick" floor has taken the place of the "earthen."

As regards ventilation, I have only to report of one school in which the windows are unglazed (Tarago); and of one (North Goulburn) where the windows do not properly open. Of the cleanliness of the rooms, I can report very favourably, on the whole; but the windows are more often than other parts of the building the subjects of blame—they are occasionally broken and dirty.

During the year several privies have been built or repaired; but I regret to state that no proper out-offices are provided at the following schools:—Bolong, Collector, Fairy Meadow, Kippelaw, Tarago, Theresa Park, Waterloo Estate (Infant), and at Wingecarribbee.

As regards residences for teachers, I am unable to report any great alteration or improvement. At Emu Plains a residence has been built; at a few other places repairs of a minor kind have been done; but no general steps have been taken to provide dwelling-houses for those forty-four teachers at present without them, and for whom no regular allowance is given as a compensation.

FURNITURE AND APPARATUS.

Furniture has during the year been granted to fifty-seven schools, viz.:—To thirty-five schools—desks, forms, and cupboards; and to twenty-two schools, book-cupboards only. The desks are of uniform patterns for primary and infant schools; the writing-boards or tops being of cedar, two inches in thickness (with ink well holes, and pencil grooves, cut in); and they are supported on light but strong iron standards. The forms are made of the same materials. The cupboards are made of cedar, with moveable shelves, and large enough to hold the ordinary stock of books, slates, &c. of the school. The major part of these (fifty-seven) schools have been supplied with these articles; and the contractor is rapidly making the remainder. The expense of furnishing these articles has, in a few instances, been shared between the Central and local Boards; but in the majority, the surplus of the "book-fund" has been thus expended. Of the 111 schools before enumerated, seventy-five are now well furnished.

It will be seen, on referring to the short notices of the schools appended to this Report, that in a few schools the teacher is unprovided with a desk, table, or chair, for his or her use. Such disgraceful neglect should not be permitted; but until it is understood that certain conditions must be met before any grant from the public funds can be made, the local boards will, I fear, give no thought to these subjects.

Of apparatus, there is a good supply provided annually, as will be seen by a glance at the "Book List" (Appendix A). The black-board and easel are in general use; but a skilful teacher finds more frequent use for these than to hang maps on, and set copies and sums. Hat pegs are very generally required; and the clocks provided by the Board are in a few schools found to be out of repair.

BOOKS, MAPS, ETC.

These essentials of a school are generally found to be provided in sufficient abundance. The annual grant to each school is sufficiently liberal; it is calculated at 2s. 6d. per head for the average annual attendance. In my review of each school, it will be seen that occasionally there is an "insufficient" stock on hand. The causes of this are:—a. Neglect of the teacher's part to claim the annual grant; b. Mis-direction of the book parcel (as I found at Tarago); or c. The want of religious books to make up the school parcel (as I found at Bungendore). I had to report last year that the supply of the religious books was neither abundant nor regular; and that the Sydney bookseller (Mr. J. J. Moore) had often to keep back the parcel on this account. This state of things ought not to be continued, as it affects the most important element of our teaching.

Book cupboards now being pretty generally furnished, greater neatness in the bestowal of the stocks will be looked for. There is too often a very moderate stock of pens, pen-holders, slates, and pencils, on hand; and this when there is an abundance of maps and diagrams on the walls—so that one is inclined to the belief that utility is sacrificed for the sake of show.

The "home-lesson" books, or those purchased by the scholars, should not be used in the daily work, if it can be avoided. The books should always have the name of the school written or stamped on the title page.

I am sorry to have to add that several teachers have again complained of the destruction done to school property by the scholars of the Sunday School.

The maps, diagrams, pictures, &c., with the "programme," "time table," and "rules" (if any), should be hung, open, upon the walls, during school hours at least.

OFFICIAL DOCUMENTS.

No change having been made in the form of the Roll Book, I must repeat that the substitution of two books for this one is very necessary. I have found the left hand page more regularly filled up this year; and an improvement is generally manifested in the keeping of the Roll. In only one instance, did I find occasion to report on the manner in which the names were entered, and in two others for the use of pencil marks in entering the daily attendance. The Roll is generally called twice a day, sometimes marked by the teacher; and in large and in infant schools very frequently posted by the senior assistant, from the class lists of the pupil teachers. A few teachers kept private statistical records; and in a few schools there are registers for needlework done. In the "visitors" column, I occasionally meet with notices of local examinations, awards of prizes &c., but not so often as I could wish.

At nineteen schools the Roll Books are very neatly kept.

ORGANIZATION, DISCIPLINE, AND INSTRUCTION.

Organization.—Most of the schools are now well organized—generally on the "tripartite" plan, in parallel desks opposite the teacher's seat. The classes at Seven Hills School are named after the reading books (as in schools under the "National Board"); at Queanbeyan there are separate classes for the various subjects—a plan that creates great confusion; but in general, the classification is fashioned upon that of the Model School, and based on the "programme". I should be glad to see more collective teaching in groups and on galleries.

Discipline.—In most of the large and in many of the country schools, the children are assembled outside the school-room, drilled, and their hands, faces, and dress, inspected once or twice a day; and are also dismissed in an orderly manner. I cannot report that the cane has ceased to be an "institution" in several schools; but this number is becoming less, as trained teachers are employed. Although I am not prepared to entirely abolish flogging, I do not esteem that teacher a good disciplinarian who cannot keep his school in order, without daily using the rod.

Discipline. I often observe, does not sufficiently enter into matters called trivial by some—e. g. sitting and standing upright, holding up the head and looking in one's face when answering, and learning to say "yes" and "no", and not to nod and shake the head, &c., &c. My examinations are too often lengthened by my having constantly to tell the pupils of these things. It will be seen that in several schools, where the general order is "very fair", and even "very good" at times (such as at dismissal &c.), there is a good deal of chattering and buzzing at class-work—this very far from being.

As regards punctuality and regularity of attendance—these points are as yet very far from being even fairly attained. Of course the weather, the farm-work, and a thousand other impediments, present themselves; but making all due allowance for these, there is yet plenty of room for improvement in these matters. At one or two schools, the giving tickets for punctuality, and prizes for regularity, obtains, and with marked success. During the past year, owing principally to the extremely wet seasons, the attendance attendance (as before mentioned) has been very irregular. I would suggest that some means of recording the attendance before and after opening prayers, be adopted by the teachers of our schools. In only one school (Darlinghurst, Sydney), did I see an "attendance board" hung up, showing at a glance the two items mentioned in the last sentence.

Instruction.—The "programme" has not been received by all the teachers; and where it has, it has not always been followed. I much regret that no opportunity for coming into training, even for a few weeks, has been afforded those teachers who have never been trained, except in two instances where the teachers came at their own request and at some sacrifice. Our schools have made a step in advance in one item of instruction, viz. object lessons. I find out of 70 schools from which this item of returns has been received (including all the infant schools), that in 13, these lessons are given at regular intervals; and in 15, at irregular ones. The general subjects on which these lessons are given are "Common Things", "Natural History of Animals", "Metals", "Minerals", and "Manufactures", and in infant schools only, on "Form". Text-books on some of these subjects are provided for the teacher. I would suggest that the elder pupils in primary schools should be required to write reproductions of these lessons, and if possible, on paper. A lesson can never be said to be given until it is received into the children's mind—and the best proof of its reception is to be found in its reproduction. This might be made a very useful home lesson. In 40 of the 70 schools—excluding infants—mentioned above, these home lessons are learned. In the majority, these lessons comprise the general school lessons—e. g. Grammar, Geography, Arithmetical Tables &c., &c.; in the rest, the Collect is learned for Sunday. I fear that, in learning these home exercises, somewhat lax regulations prevail; if well done, they must prove an immense gain to the scholar.

There is another defect in teaching which is but too common—I mean, the neglect of referring to, and teaching matters of every-day life. I would instance a school, in the county of Cumberland, where out of 30 children, not one knew the Governor's name, nor had the least idea of the duties devolving upon His Excellency. Of course, in such a case, the parallel instance of the Government of the Holy Land in the time of Our Lord, has never been referred to. At another school, the scholars were aware of the existence of Canterbury in England, but unaware of its two namesakes at the antipodes, although a village of that ilk was within a few miles of their doors.

TEACHERS AND LOCAL BOARDS.

Teachers.—The staff of head teachers has been increased from the training school this year, by the addition of 17 in the places vacated by retirement or by death, and by appointments to new schools. I believe that, taken as a whole, the teachers of our schools are anxious to do their work faithfully; and they are persons of respectability and intelligence. I have, in almost every instance, found them willing to listen to advice upon professional matters.

The great majority of the pupil teachers are females, the support offered in shape of stipend being too small to attract many of the opposite sex, at least at present. At Christmas, the first General Examination of these pupil teachers was held at the Model School; and their skill in teaching and power to command, were tested by the Training and Organizing Master, in their respective schools. Though bound by no legal tie, the teachers are required to give instruction to these pupil-teachers for one hour each day, but without extra payment being given them. Increased stipends reward the successful pupil teachers. On the whole, these assistants afford valuable help in teaching, and in a few instances, display a good deal of tact and skill. Only one instance has, I believe, occurred of any disagreement between the head teachers and assistants, and in that case, the pupil teacher left the school. I trust some means of getting more males will be adopted, that we may look forward to a future supply of well-trained masters.

Local Boards.—At seventeen places, there were no members of the local boards present; but in several of these cases the examinations had been postponed on account of bad weather. In ten instances, all the members of the local board were present; in sixteen, the Reverend chairman was the only representative; and at two places, the names of the members were not known to the teachers. I found on inquiry, that at five schools the Reverend chairmen have never shown themselves during the year; and at fifteen places, the lay members of the local boards never visit the schools; while at twelve schools, the pupils are regularly visited and catechized by the Reverend chairman of their respective local boards.

It is much to be regretted, that the mode of nomination and appointment of these boards is not altered; at two or three places the local boards refused to attend in consequence of having had no official notice of their appointment given them; and in some other instances, the persons attending were not certain whether they attended officially or as visitors. At two places, I found the local board had been so diminished by removal, that a quorum could not be got together. The local boards have in several instances, complained that no report of my inspection has been sent them. The members of these boards do not always enter their names in the roll book when they visit; but at two schools, I found the Reverend chairman's name repeated daily for some weeks.

In a few cases, where the Teachers have complained of the unwarranted interference of parents, or of the difficulty of getting in school fees, the influence of the local board, or at least of the Revd. chairmen, might be beneficially exerted. I would refer to my remarks in the 1863 Report, for further suggestions.

AGES OF THE SCHOLARS.

Out of 85 primary schools from which returns have been received, I find that in Three, the average age of the pupils on the Roll at Inspection is under .. .. 8 years.
 Seven, " " " " is .. .. 8 " "
 Forty, " " " " is between .. .. 8 & 9 " "
 Seven, " " " " is .. .. 9 " "
 Twenty-three, " " " " is between .. .. 9 & 10 " "
 Five, " " " " is between .. .. 10 & 11 " "

In the infant schools, there are a good many scholars above the age of seven years. These should be sent into the primary schools as soon as possible. For the "babies," whose ages range from 18 months to 3 years, in two infant schools sleeping berths are provided.

STAY AT SCHOOL.

Out of 83 primary schools, I find by statistical returns, that in six schools the average time the scholars on the Roll at Inspection had been at school, was .. .. 2 years and upwards
 In twenty-three schools, the average was between .. .. 1½ and 2 years
 " thirty-four " " " " .. .. 1 and 1½ years
 " seventeen, " " " " .. .. ½ and 1 year
 " three " " " " .. .. 6 months and under.

I now proceed to notice, in a brief manner, the various subjects taught in our schools.

RELIGIOUS.

The Holy Scriptures.—In the primary schools, at Ryde, Camden, North Kurrajong, Balmain, Yass, and in the junior division of the Model School, as well as in the Model Infant School, and in St. Philip's (Infant) Sydney, great pains had evidently been bestowed upon this branch of study, and a "good" standard had been attained. At forty other places, the report of examination was "very fair," while in the rest of the schools (including about a dozen new schools, and those which had been closed closed for some time), a fair or moderate standard had only been reached. One common fault in teaching Bible history, is the want of more collective oral lessons, especially amongst the younger scholars. Two other defects may be added as general characteristics, viz. :—The neglect of the chronology of the Bible, and an ignorance of the words of the sacred narrative. To correct the former fault, the dates of the historical land marks (such as the creation of man, the deluge, &c., &c.), should be thoroughly learned by heart; and to remedy the latter, the plan proposed in the "programme" should be followed. In a few schools the "Faith and Duty of a Christian" is found in the hands of the children; but I cannot report that the texts are learned as they should be.

I was pained to find in one or two of our large primary schools a disposition to underrate the "religious" part of school work (for the sake of pleasing the parents), by giving greater attention to secular instruction. On the whole, I believe that this part of teaching is receiving that attention which in Denominational Schools is understood should be given to it.

The Church Catechism.—The infant schools at St. James', Sydney, and at Newtown; and the primary schools at Yass, Balmain, Fox Ground, and the junior divisions of the model schools, have been well reported of in this branch. At forty-three schools, "a very fair" knowledge of the subject has been attained; for the others, the Report shows that very much more attention should be given to it.

The meanings of the words are not by any means so well known, as the words themselves, although in many instances care is taken to explain what is learned.

The Liturgy.—It was proposed in the "programme" to give the children whose parents belong to the Church of England, extra lessons on this subject. This has been objected to by one Reverend chairman of local board, but on what grounds I was not informed. Very little instruction appears to have been given on this topic, for in only eleven schools has a "fair" standard been reached; at thirty-six places a "moderate" and "very moderate" knowledge has been acquired; and in the remaining schools no attempt had been made to teach the subject. I should add that in several schools there are many children whose parents do not belong to our denomination.

SECULAR.

Reading.—At fifteen schools, the reading was well done in all the divisions; in fifty a "very fair" standard had been reached; in thirty the reading was about equally divided between "fair" and "moderate" standards. A common fault is rapidity of utterance, and this is found also to spoil the effect of the general and individual answering. The same general faults which I named in my last General Report, may be said to prevail, although not to their former extent. In one (primary) school only did I hear recitations from the poets and dramatists attempted. I believe a moderate use of this branch of learning would, if well attended to, improve the reading lessons, in addition to cultivating the memory and literary taste.

Writing.—The writing on slates is decidedly better than in previous years. Generally lines had been ruled as recommended, and a good bold hand had thus been frequently acquired. In sixteen schools no lines for the second and third divisions had been cut in the slates. The writing on slates was "good" in style in fourteen schools; in forty-nine it was "very fairly" done, and "fairly" in twenty-two. The slate writing of the infant schools is very well done—better than in the lower classes of the primary, as a rule. The penmanship in thirty schools is very well done; in forty-five very fairly, but in the rest very moderately. The eldest scholars in the infant schools where desks are furnished also write in copy-books. I should be glad to see Darnell's Series of copy books in general use. They have been introduced into about twenty schools, and their price has been now so reduced that children may be able to buy them at a reasonable rate.

Dictation.—This is done generally on slates, and occasionally on paper. In fourteen schools the exercise was well done; in forty-two it was very fairly; in thirty-one fairly done, and in the remainder of the primary and in the minority of the infant schools, only moderately. With dictation on paper I have included the practice of book-keeping, making out of tradesmen's bills, the writing of letters, and what is occasionally practiced, plain and ornamental printing, all of which are more or less done in some of the schools. The practice of literary composition does not obtain to any great extent among us, but it is very desirable to introduce it on practical grounds. Letter writing should be more generally taught. In looking over the exercise books, I have been often struck with the want of proper correction and revision; on the part of the teacher of the several exercises. Glaring blunders and mistakes are too often untouched, and the whole, or nearly the whole, benefit of the exercise is thus lost. A short exercise thoroughly revised, is much better than a long one scarcely looked at.

Arithmetic.—This subject is well taught at ten schools; very fairly at fifty; fairly at twenty-eight; and moderately at the rest of the schools. "Notation" is reported as "good" at eleven places as being "very fair"; at thirty-one as "fair"; and "moderate" at the remainder. "Mental Arithmetic" has been well attended to at eight schools only; at twenty-eight others the pupils have a tolerable skill in calculating; but in all the rest this subject—so valuable as an auxiliary—has been very much neglected; indeed can hardly be said to have been taught. "Arithmetical Tables," at sixteen schools are well learned; at forty, very fairly known; but only imperfectly understood or learned beyond these schools. At the primary school at Camden, I found the pupils had been taught to combine the multiplication with the money tables—thus  $6 \times 7 = 42$ ;  $42 \text{ farthings} = 10\frac{1}{2} \text{d.}$ ;  $42 \text{ pence} = 3\text{s. } 6\text{d.}$ ; and so on. The arithmetical exercise cards, so much used in the British elementary schools, might with great advantage be put in the hands of the scholars of our schools. In one or two schools, the simple and compound rules are taught together; but generally this is not the case. There is one point in which some improvement is visible, that of making good figures, and setting down the sums neatly; but here also there is much room for greater care. The remarks I made in my last general report, on the method in which arithmetic is taught and practiced, still apply in many instances.

Grammar.—This subject is taught in the primary schools only. It is one of the least satisfactory branches of learning in our schools, being reported on as "good" in six schools only; as "very fair" in seventeen; as "fair" in twenty-seven; and "moderate" in the rest. The number of children returned as "learning" this branch is too few—less than those learning geography. I do not find that the subject of the derivation of words has that attention given to it that it should have had. In one school, however, I found that the fourth reading book had been used to teach the "pre-" and "affixes" and the "roots" of words occurring in their reading lesson. There is a very general want of accurate and ready knowledge of the meanings of the technical terms developed in the course of a parsing lesson; and consequently a great deal of guessing goes on. I hope to find more attention paid to this important study.

Geography.—This subject is taught both in primary and in infant schools. It is more generally taught, and is better known than grammar. The geography of Australia is now expected to be more thoroughly known throughout our schools, since the introduction of the excellent maps of Professor Hughes into our schools. In nine schools, the examination in this subject is reported "good"; in twenty-six as "very fair"; in thirty as "fair"; and "moderate" in the rest. The geography of the Bible is not so well got up as should be the case; and this arises in a great measure from neglect of using the map at the daily Scripture lesson.

History (English).—This subject has not yet been introduced into twenty-five primary schools. It is very seldom made the subject of oral collective lessons; but is generally got up by reading in class. In no school is it well taught; only very fairly in seven; fairly in nineteen; and but little known in the others that attempt it. If a course of lessons on Australian history were given, much benefit would accrue; for at present, when the children are asked for the "story" of the land they live in, they have "none to tell."

Vocal Music.—This branch of instruction is taught by notes, in nineteen primary schools, with "fair" success as regards the theory. The practice of singing is not attempted in thirteen schools (primary); in eight the singing is "good"; "very fair" in twenty-four; "fair" in twenty-one, and "moderate" elsewhere. In the foremost schools, part singing and chanting are generally heard; but I cannot say the same of marching songs, as often as I could wish. At Liverpool, Jamberoo and Macquarie River, Canterbury, and at St. Leonard's (girls), the clergymen kindly instruct the children in singing from notes; and at four other schools the daughters of the clergy or other ladies teach the children hymns and songs. At two schools, the accompaniment on the harmonium was played by scholars, and in four other instances by the teacher or pupil teacher.

Mapping.—This excellent adjunct of the lessons in geography is not attempted in twenty-nine primary schools. The maps of Australia and Palestine are very airy drawn on the slates of the senior scholars in thirty-three schools; and in about a dozen are also drawn or painted on paper. In twenty other schools they are fairly outlined; but the map of Europe is seldom attempted in any. The object proposed as the leading idea in teaching this subject—namely, the "power of inserting from memory, places in correct positions," is seldom attained so fully as could be wished.

Drawing.—Here also the main idea to be kept in view is more frequently lost sight of—the education of the eye. In both primary and infant schools the power to handle the slate pencil is supposed to extend beyond mere writing. At thirty-four schools no effort has been made to teach this subject, even in an elementary form; at twenty, the results of teaching may be said to be fair, and very fair in thirty-two schools, where both slates and paper are used. I would commend to the notice of the teachers, the excellent little manuals of drawing by Mr. Fowles, of Sydney, as being the best of the kind for elementary schools. Three numbers have been published, at a cheap rate, and in a portable form; and the issue of the series is going on.

Needlework.—This branch of school work is not yet introduced into eleven primary (mixed) schools; but is taught to the eldest girls in some infant schools. In the majority of the schools where it is not taught, the teachers are not married. In some half dozen schools, registers of work done are kept, with a view to prizes being given at the end of the year; and where this is the case the sewing is very well attended to. There is yet a great want of uniformity, as regards the time given to needlework; and there are several schools where the parents are with difficulty persuaded to provide the necessaries for sewing. In two instances at least no materials are sent from home, and the teaching was objected to. In such cases, I think the local board might do something to bring about a better state of matters. The needlework is generally taught by the wife or sister of the teacher, who is expected to have this done without extra payment. In one or two schools the local board pay the sewing mistress; in others, the pupil teachers, or ladies of the parish, give their assistance. I am glad to say that plain needlework obtains more favour than formerly among both teachers and scholars.

The devotional exercises of too many schools are not gone through in a proper spirit. A card of prayers and grace at meals has been issued some months; but in some schools I found it had not been used, and in one its use was not permitted.

I append a short account of the schools in the diocese, in the form of a summary of my reports as furnished to the Board; and also add the book list issued annually from the Church of England Schools' Office.

I have, &c.,

ISAAC COBURN.

1. The walls and windows require attention; and the hat pegs should be removed to a better place. More room is much needed; a class has to be taught in the (temporary) verandah. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient and fairly kept. 4. fair. 5. Moderate. 6. Given with fair skill by a mistress, one pupil teacher, and a (paid) monitor. 7. Fair only. 8. The situation of these schools is not good; and it prevents any permanent enlargement of the buildings.

I visited this school when it was held in the room which has since been given up, and when it was in charge of the mistress who has now left. For the past three months, the children have been under the tuition of a trained and married teacher. Two very fair cottages have been rented by the local board, one for a school-room, the other for a residence. Although threatened with an opposition public school, it is to be hoped that this one may become and continue to be a credit to the denomination.

1. Good. 2. Good and sufficient. 3. A good supply and neatly kept. 4. Four classes, in parallel desks. 5. Very fair order; children and the room neat and clean. 6. There is a master who is assisted by two female pupil teachers and occasionally by a monitor. 7. Good; especially in their knowledge of the Holy Scriptures and church catechism. 8. The pupil teachers appear to enter heartily into their work; and they have a very fair idea of method. The school, as a whole, is in a very creditable condition.

1. Fencing in should at once be done, and the building painted. 2. Moderate. 3. Very fair stock. 4. Owing to want of suitable desks, &c., only fair. 5. Very fair. 6. Conducted by a master, his wife, and daughter. 7. Moderate. 8. The present teacher has been only six months in charge, and during most of this time the weather has been very unfavourable. The school has suffered from repeated changes of teachers; the present however is very anxious for the progress of the school.

1. Very good. 2. Very good. 3. Sufficient; and neatly kept. 4. "Tripartite"; on graduated platform, in parallel desks. 5. Much improved—very fair. 6. A master and two pupil teachers are paid by the central Board. 7. Very fair. 8. The present teacher has only been in charge about six weeks, during which time he has got the school into good working order. The school is now in a fair way to earn a good name for itself.

1. A school-church, built of stone; 25 X 15 X 9 feet internally, having the roof open, and being properly ventilated. There is a residence attached, but no out-offices are provided, and the ground is not fenced in. 2. Moderate. 3. Very fairly supplied. 4. Fair. 5. Good. 6. The master is assisted by his wife; at present the teaching is solely individual in method. 7. Only four of those present had been under instruction before, and of this number three were children of the teacher. 8. The situation is extremely isolated, and the prospect of success at present very small, owing mainly to the indifference of the parents. The school opened 1st October.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 25, girls 31; total, 56.

1. The new school has been finished and occupied since my visit.
2. Good.
3. Sufficient.
4. Good.
5. Very fair.
6. Conducted by a master and monitors.
7. Very fair.
8. There has been a change of teachers since the inspection, as well as of schoolroom.

CASTLEREAGH :—Visited, 10th May, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 7, girls 9; total, 16.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 9, girls 16; total, 25.

1. Extensive repairs are necessary, both to the school-church and to the residence.
2. Moderate.
3. Sufficient.
4. Moderate.
5. The scholars are orderly, neat, and clean.
6. The mistress is enabled to dispense with her sister's services, owing to the small numbers.
7. Very fair, with the exception of grammar.
8. The isolated position of the building (combined with the wet weather) has been the cause of a falling off in the attendance for some time past. The scholars ought not to use their table-books at arithmetic, as is the case occasionally now among the elder children.

CHRIST CHURCH (Primary), SYDNEY :—Visited, 14th March, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 164, girls 66; total, 230.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 211, girls 95; total, 306.

1. Good.
2. Good.
3. Sufficient, and neatly kept.
4. Four divisions, in parallel desks, on a graduated platform.
5. Good.
6. A master and four assistants, three of whom are paid (in part) by the Central Board.
7. Good.
8. The school continues to hold its former high position. All the teachers appear to work harmoniously and zealously.

CHRIST CHURCH (Infant) SYDNEY :—Visited, 9th March, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 86, girls 66; total, 152.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 104, girls 80; total, 184.

1. Good, but the walls should be whitewashed.
2. Sufficient.
3. There is too much old stock in use.
4. Very fair.
5. Very fair.
6. A mistress, assisted by two pupil teachers, and one (paid) monitor.
7. Very fair, with the exception of the arithmetic.
8. Some better arrangement for hanging up caps and bonnets might be made. The general appearance of the scholars was not quite so pleasing, and the management hardly so satisfactory as formerly.

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1864.

COBBITTY :—Visited, 27th July, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 20, girls 16; total, 36.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 22, girls 19; total 41.

1. Good. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Very fair; the gallery has been removed into the class-room. 5. Good order, and a general tone of neatness. 6. A master, his wife, and sister conduct the teaching. 7. Very fair. 8. The master has bestowed great pains on the scholars. The irregular attendance has hindered further advancement in learning.

COLLECTOR :—Visited, 23rd September, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 15, girls 17; total, 32.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 16, girls 17; total, 33.

1. The walls and windows have not been attended to; no privy is built; and the ground is not fenced in. 2. Very fair. 3. Very fair supply; but without any place in which it may be kept. 4. Fair. 5. Very fair order; but the scholars rough in manners, and generally untidy. 6. The mistress is assisted in arithmetic and penmanship by her husband, who is not paid by the Central Board. 7. Very fair, with the exception of grammar. 8. Penmanship is creditably done. The maps should be hung (open) on the walls during the day. Owing to the nature of the ground of the village it is hardly possible to ensure attendance in wet weather; but a better approach to the door might be made.

COOK'S RIVER :—Visited, 17th November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 84, girls 61; total, 145.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 97, girls 69; total, 166.

1. Good; a bell has been hung up. 2. Barely sufficient for the present number. 3. A good supply, and fairly kept. 4. The juniors should be classed as an infant school. 5. Improved order, but not yet perfect. 6. The teachers—viz., a master, his wife (for sewing only), and two pupil teachers—are not sufficient for the numbers. 7. Good. 8. It would be for the welfare of the school, were the seventy-nine who are "7 years and under," drafted into the old schoolroom and taught separately.

CORNWALLIS.

Vacant.

Since the floods in the Hawkesbury District (when this schoolroom was partially under water, and the teacher's family were in jeopardy of life), it has been deemed better to close the school.

DAPTO WEST :—Visited, 28th October, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 18, girls 18; total, 36.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 21, girls 21; total, 42.

1. Very fair; but the slabs want to be painted. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient and neatly kept. 4. Fair. 5. Very fair order; cleanliness is worthy of high praise. 6. A master, his wife, and occasionally monitors, carry on the teaching, which is too much confined to the upper class. 7. With the exception of Scripture history, good. 8. The school is very much neglected by the local board; it has no regular clerical supervision.

DARLINGHURST, SYDNEY :—Visited, 6th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 56, girls 42; total, 98.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 59, girls 45; total, 104.

1. Good; the fences and windows have been repaired. 2. Good. 3. There is a very fair supply. 4. Good; new desks have just been provided. 5. Very fair; children are reported to be very regular in attendance. 6. A sewing mistress, a pupil teacher, and monitors assist the master. 7. With the exception of grammar, good. 8. More oral instruction suited to an infant school, should be given to the juniors, of whom sixty-four are "7 years of age and under." There is a black-board hung up, on which the numbers in attendance are chalked twice every day.

DENHAM COURT :—Visited, 21st June, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 11, girls 7; total, 18.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 17, girls 17; total, 34.

1. The local board are in expectation of being able soon to put down a wood floor, and otherwise repair the building. 2. Moderate. 3. A good supply; fairly kept. 4. Moderate. 5. Very fair; improved in order; but unpunctual and irregular in attendance. 6. A mistress, and occasionally monitors. 7. Very fair. 8. The teacher has endeavoured to do her best, but the weather has been much against regular attendance. Nothing but the repairs referred to is now wanting to make the situation a comfortable one for the teacher.

DOOBAL :—Visited, 26th January, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 17, girls 10; total, 27.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 21, girls 13; total, 34.

1. Fair. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient. 4. As good as the form of the room will admit. 5. Good. 6. Very fairly given by a master, assisted by his wife, who teaches the youngest children in a separate room. 7. Very fair. 8. The teacher who had charge last year has left. It is a pity a better room is not provided.

EMU PLAINS :—Visited, 11th May, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—boys 42, girls 32; total, 74.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 52, girls 39; total, 91.

1. The room is being lengthened 15 feet; a residence has been put up. 2. Fair. 3. A very fair supply, and neatly kept. 4. Very fair. 5. Very fair. 6. A master, his wife, and monitors. 7. Very fair. 8. At present, owing to the extension of the Great Western Railway, the numbers are in excess of the accommodation. The present teacher has worked hard, and considering all things, with great success. The religious knowledge and penmanship of the upper classes is above the average. More room, and better fittings will be soon provided.

ENFIELD :—

ENFIELD:—Visited, 20th April, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 22, girls 7; total, 29.
 Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 36, girls 19; total, 55.

1. Good, but the floor and windows require attention. 2. Very fair. 3. Not sufficient, nor is the stock neatly kept. 4. Improved; very fair. 5. Fair; the pupils are untidy. 6. The master and his wife conduct this between them. 7. Fair. 8. The majority (viz. thirty-three) of the scholars are very young (seven years old and under); and the methods of managing and teaching are unsuited to their capacity. The mode of answering is too noisy.

FAIRY MEADOW:—Visited, 26th October, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 10, girls 16; total, 26.
 Number on roll at inspection:—Boys 13, girls 17; total, 30.

1. The building should be painted, and a privy put up; there is no room for a play ground. 2. Fair. 3. Fair supply only. 4. Moderate. 5. Improved; very fair. 6. The teacher has not been trained. 7. Fair. 8. The attendance is lower than last year's; much sickness has prevailed for some months. There is a great want of thought exhibited in the answering, throughout the classes.

FOX GROUND:—Visited, 3rd November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 14, girls 16; total, 30.
 Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 19, girls 18; total, 37.

1. The room is too small and close; it would be a great gain, if the local board should be able to carry out the proposed plan of throwing the residence and schoolroom into one, and building a cottage for the teacher. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Good. 5. Good; the children are very neat and clean. 6. Conducted by a teacher and his wife. 7. Good. 8. The timidity and shyness formerly noticed has not yet disappeared, although the teacher is not rough or harsh in his government.

FREDERICK'S VALLEY.

Not inspected this year.

GERRINGONG:—Visited, 2nd November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 19, girls 20; total, 39.
 Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 19, girls 21; total, 40.

1. Good; a privy has been put up. 2. Moderate. 3. Sufficient. 4. Good. 5. Very fair; the scholars are said to be very punctual. 6. The master reports that the services of his wife for teaching needlework are not required, the parents not being willing to send materials. 7. Fair. 8. There are a good many young scholars, for whose benefit more oral teaching should be given. Although the majority of the parents attend some place of worship, the teacher reports they do not wish to have their children taught anything but reading, writing, and arithmetic.

GLEBE TEE:—Visited, 25th November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 77, girls 43; total, 120.
 Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 100, girls 60; total 160.

1. Good; but a class room is much needed for the juniors. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Good. 5. Fair. 6. A master, who is assisted by a pupil teacher, and two (paid) assistants. 7. Good in general, but the religious knowledge is yet below the proper standard. 8. The roll book is not neatly kept; the numbers have much increased; "object" lessons are regularly given; more teaching power is required for the juniors.

GOULBURN:—Visited, 19th September, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 43, girls 28; total, 71.
 Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 43, girls 40; total 83.

1. A new primary school is much needed—the present building could be turned into a residence and an infant school. 2. Fair. 3. The home-lesson books should not be used in school. 4. Fair. 5. Very fair order; the attendance is unpunctual, and only moderately regular. 6. The master's wife had just resigned, owing to ill health; and as the female assistant engaged in her stead had not arrived, there was some confusion in consequence in the working of the school. 7. Very fair. 8. The religious knowledge is improved, but the teaching in secular branches is not even enough throughout the classes. The juniors had been well attended to; the manners of the seniors are too giddy and un-scholar-like in many instances.

GOULBURN NORTH:—Visited, 20th September, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 38, girls 24; total, 62.
 Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 41, girls 28; total, 69.

1. Good, though small; church fittings occupy a good deal of space. 2. As the desks belong to the teacher, and he is going to leave, some furniture will have to be provided. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Fair. 5. Good; the children are very neat, and well behaved. 6. A trained and married teacher had taken charge before I left this district, the ex-master having accepted the Tirranna school. 7. In reading, writing, and arithmetic, great progress had been made. 8. There are a good many young children on the roll; a gallery has been built; it will be a great advantage when the parishioners shall have built a church in the old township.

GUNDAROO :—Visited, 3rd October, 1864.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 17, girls 18; total, 35.

1. A school-church, 23 X 14 X 8½ feet, with an open roof; walls plastered; ground (one acre) enclosed; residence of three rooms provided; a few repairs and better ventilation would complete the premises and offices. 2. Fair only. 3. Sufficient, and very neatly kept, although there is no cupboard. 4. Very fair. 5. Very good; the scholars, and all the school appointments, are very neat and clean. 6. The master is assisted all the day by his sister. 7. Good. 8. More reading of the Bible would give greater certainty in answering questions in Scripture. The scholars have made very great progress under the present teacher.

GUNNING.

The teacher had not arrived when I visited this place. There is a brick building, without a residence. It is used for Divine Service, but is not yet fitted as a school-room. The master has been appointed one month only, and there were eleven children at Christmas.

HARTLEY.

The school was closed when I visited the place in May. A master was appointed in July; but he does not appear to have possessed the confidence of the people, as he had never had more than twenty in attendance during his term of office.

HOLSWORTHY :—Visited, 27th May, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 3, girls 8; total, 11.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 10, girls 16; total, 26.

1. The walls and floor require attention. 2. Fair. 3. Insufficient. 4. Moderate. 5. Fair; the attendance is very irregular. 6. Conducted on the individual system by a mistress. 7. Moderate. 8. The amount received as school fees from the parents is very small. The attendance was limited at this examination, owing to the "corn-planting" season.

HUNTER'S HILL :—Visited, 17th August, 1864.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 15, girls 18; total, 33.

1. The school-church has been enlarged by the addition of a transept, leaving the aisle to be used as a school. 2. Good. 3. Very fair. 4. Very fair. 5. Very fair. 6. A trained teacher, assisted by his wife. 7. Fair, most of the children are very young. 8. It is expected that the advent of the new teacher will open the way to a large increase in the daily attendance, and meet the educational wants of the locality.

JAMBEROO :—Visited, 1st November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 27, girls 26; total, 53.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 37, girls 30; total, 67.

1. Some fencing and other repairs have lately been done. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient. 4. As good as circumstances will admit. 5. Good. 6. A master, assisted by his wife, and by monitors. 7. Good, with the exception of English history. 8. The religious instruction is carefully looked after by the Revd. chairman of the local board; the parishioners are about to build a church, which will be a gain to the school, as regards organization, &c. The children though punctual, are very irregular in attendance; and the girls are reserved in manner.

JAMES', St. (Primary and Model), SYDNEY :—Visited, 15th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 84, girls 67; total, 151.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 98, girls 88; total, 186.

1. Have been thoroughly repaired at a cost of £1,000. 2. Very good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Very good—graduated platforms on which the parallel desks are fixed, have been introduced into all the rooms. 5. Good—but in the senior classes the order is not thorough, and the pupils are very unpunctual. 6. Conducted by a head master (who is also training master), a master (not the same person as at last Report), an assistant master, and three pupil teachers. The junior department, which is used as a Practising School for candidates in training, is under the entire control of the Head Master. 7. Good on the whole; but the first division is not up to the last year's standard, and is relatively below the others. The juniors are very well taught indeed.

JAMES', St. (Infant and Model), SYDNEY :—Visited, 14th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 95, girls 80; total, 175.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 104, girls 86; total, 190.

1. Good. 2. Good; excepting the gallery, which is too steep. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Very good. 5. Desks have been provided. 6. A Head Mistress (who also acts as a Training Mistress when required), assisted by three pupil teachers, and a (paid) monitor. 7. Very good in general. 8. The attendance has increased this year, and the school maintains its proper position as a Model School. It is a great pity the large pillars were not removed when the room was repaired.

KELSO.

This school was not inspected during the year 1864.

KIAMA.

1. Good ; but not provided with proper out-offices. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept, 4. Very fair. 5. Good order ; the children are very clean, but their attendance is irregular. 6. Conducted by a man and his wife. 7. Very fair, excepting Holy Scriptures and English grammar ; the writing is well done throughout. 8. The master has worked hard since the school was opened ; his wife also renders valuable help.

1. Good, with the exception of the residence and out-offices. 2. Good. 3. Very fair stock. 4. Good. 5. Very good. 6. A master, assisted by his wife, and occasionally by monitors. 7. Good ; the knowledge of the Bible history of the first division is very creditable. 8. I believe the local board are trying to raise funds for repairs. The "manner" of the master does not savour of so much harshness as formerly was the case.

1. The chimney has not been altered ; fencing has now been completed. 2. Very fair. 3. Very fair supply. 4. The best that can be obtained under the circumstances. 5. Very fair ; the children appear to want more suavity of disposition in general. 6. A master, his wife and monitors are employed for this. 7. Very fair, except in Scripture history and grammar. 8. Mapping should be taught to the first class. The voice is jerked up in answering, at the end of each sentence. It is a great pity the shape of the interior of the room is not altered.

LEONARD'S, ST. (Boys') :—Visited, 16th August, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection—11.
Numbers on roll at inspection—14.

1. A new fence has been put up ; the residence needs to be repaired, and a new privy built. 2. Good. 3. Good supply. 4. Good. 5. Very fair. 6. A master, who holds a certificate of merit from the Privy Council on Education. 7. Moderate. 8. There has been a constant change of teachers since my last report. The master preceding this one, did all he could to break up the school. It is now doubtful how far it will recover its former good name.

LEONARD'S, ST. (Girls') :—Visited, 26th May, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection—30.
Numbers on roll at inspection—46.

1. Good. 2. Very fair ; more desks wanted. 3. Insufficient stock, but very neatly kept. 4. Very fair. 5. Good order ; the pupils are very neat, but not punctual in coming to school. 6. A mistress, and monitors. 7. Very fair ; with the exception of Bible history and English grammar. 8. The girls have been instructed in part singing by the Rev. W. F. Greeny, of St. Leonard's ; they sang with great taste. The attendance has fallen off since last report ; it is a great pity there is not a good primary school for the children of this parish. If one were built near this, an infants' school could be formed in this room—the boys' school is now badly situated.

LIVERPOOL :—Visited, 24th September, 1864.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 55, girls 34 ; total, 89.

1. The inside should be painted. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient ; and fairly kept. 4. The parallel desks should be removed to the other side of the room. 5. Improved, but only fair as regards order when at work. 6. A master (a pupil teacher was employed for some time here, but had left a few weeks since), and monitors. 7. Good ; with the exception of Holy Scriptures and grammar. 8. Drawing should be included in the studies, and English history should have more attention bestowed on it. The exercise-books show that the sums, letters, &c., are very neatly written.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 16, girls 17 ; total, 33.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 21, girls 24 ; total, 45.

1. The building has been thoroughly repaired and painted. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Good. 5. Good ; the attendance is now, but has not been, very regular. 6. The former teacher resigned, and a trained and married master has been appointed. 7. Very fair. 8. A more distinct tone of speaking should be cultivated. In arithmetic and geography the children have done well ; their knowledge of grammar is only moderate.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 22, girls 16 ; total, 38.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 27, girls 28 ; total, 55.

1. Funds have been raised in the locality for repairing and painting the building. 2. Fair. 3. Very fair supply, and neatly kept. 4. Good. 5. Good ; the drill is gone through with considerable precision. 6. A master, assisted by monitors ; the "method" is somewhat improved. 7. Very fair ; the "writing" is good. 8. The range of the Scripture lessons is too limited ; the clergyman catechises regularly, and there is less dependence on mere memory than formerly. The master takes great pains with his charge, and seems to have created a good name for himself.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 74, girls 47 ; total, 121.

1. Good stone building, two storied, ground floor being used for the junior, first floor for senior school ; and a residence. The upper room, 40 x 22 x 12½ ft., with a fine open roof ; the lower room, 30 x 22 x 12½ ft., with entrances from playground and first floor. Suitable out-offices, and a playground are provided. 2. Good ; comprising two small galleries in the upper, and one large in the lower room.

3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Good; in parallel desks, tripartite fashion, in the upper room. 5. Very fair; the children are clean, and respectable in appearance, but irregular and unpunctual in attendance. 6. A (trained) master, assisted by monitors and his sister (for sewing), take the pupils in the upper room; those below are under the care of a mistress, paid by the local board. 7. Good in general. 8. The present teacher has only been in charge since the school has been on the Central Board's list, and he has had to reform the school by introduction of good discipline. It bids fair to become a good school.

1. Good. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient. 4. Moderate; the boys and girls are taught at opposite ends of the room. 5. Moderate. 6. The master is assisted by his son, and a female assistant. 7. Fair, rising to very fair, in the reading of two divisions, and in the arithmetic of first class. 8. There is little or no general improvement in this school. It is not visited by the local board.

NEWTOWN (Infants):—Visited, 22nd November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—boys 17, girls 28; total, 45.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—boys 24, girls 40; total, 64.

1. The walls are in a dirty state; and the out-offices are unsuitable. 2. Fair. 3. Sufficient and neatly kept. 4. As good as the room will permit. 5. Good order; the scholars are neat, and attend regularly. 6. The former teacher is now in charge of another infant-school; the mistress pays an assistant or two. 7. Good. 8. The local board should see that the school gets clean rooms, &c. in return for the rental. There would be many more scholars if a proper room were provided.

O'CONNELL PLAINS.

This school was not visited during the year.

PADDINGTON:—Visited, 3rd May, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—boys 29, girls 30; total, 59.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—boys 34, girls 40; total, 74.

1. The room has been cleaned and painted, and a new fence put up all round the premises. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient and neatly kept. 4. Good. 5. Very fair order; the children are neat and generally regular in attendance. 6. A change of teachers has taken place; the present teacher has the assistance of his wife, and of a monitor all day long—his wife being paid as an assistant. 7. Very fair. 8. The teacher has had charge about six months; all having been admitted within that time; one-half are "7 years of age and under." The scholars have made great progress since they came; the range of study should now be extended.

Numbers present at inspection :—boys 30, girls 18; total, 48.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 40, girls 18; total 64.

1. Good. 2. Fair. 3. Sufficient; the old and new stocks are too much mixed up. 4. Moderate. 5. Moderate; the children are unpunctual and irregular. 6. Conducted by the teacher and his wife, who takes the lower classes all the day. 7. Fair; the religious knowledge of the senior classes is greater than before. 8. The attendance has fallen off; there is no general improvement in the school.

PENNANT HILLS :—Visited, 27th January, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—boys 52, girls 35; total, 87.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 63, girls 43; total, 106.

1. The school-church has been lengthened 20 feet. 2. Good desks, forms to match are wanted to replace the church-benches in use. 3. Sufficient and neatly kept. 4. Fair; will be changed when the alterations are done. 5. Good; the children are very neat, but do not attend very regularly. 6. A master, his wife (who is paid as an assistant) and monitors conduct this. 7. Good in general; the English History being the exception. 8. The general management reflects very great credit on the teachers.

PENRITH :—Visited, 9th May, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—boys 32, girls 12; total, 44.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 45, girls 17; total, 62.

1. Repairs wanted. 2. Very fair. 3. Insufficient. 4. Very fair. 5. Moderate; the attendance is unpunctual and irregular. 6. A master, his wife, and monitors conduct this. 7. With the exception of the 1st class, only a moderate standard is reached. 8. The church catechism has not been properly taught, and instruction is been given in needlework at present.

PETERSHAM :—Visited, 21st April, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—boys 14, girls 7; total, 21.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 20, girls 9; total, 29.

1. Repairs and fencing wanted. 2. Very fair supply; there is no place in which to keep the stock. 4. Fair; the church furniture is in the way. 5. Fair; the attendance is very fluctuating. 6. A master and his wife divide the teaching between them. 7. Fair. 8. The attendance is falling off; the teacher's health is very poor, and at times does not suffer him to attend to his duties. A younger, and trained man is wanted.

PHILIP'S, ST. (Primary) SYDNEY :—Visited, 13th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—boys 74, girls 56; total, 130.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 91, girls 65; total, 156.

1. Good. 2. Very good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Very good; parallel desks on a graduated platform. 5. Fair; the attendance is much more punctual than formerly. 6. Conducted by a master, one assistant teacher, two pupil teachers, and a sewing mistress. 7. Very fair considering the teaching power. 8. The religious knowledge is below the proper standard; the writing on slates is not good; the clergy of the parish catechize regularly; the lowest class comprises many who have only just entered.

PHILIP'S, ST. (Infants) SYDNEY :—Visited, 12th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—boys 104, girls 132; total, 236.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 109, girls 135; total, 244.

1. Good; but much too small. A large shed has been built during the year. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient and neatly kept. 4. Good; the scholars are taught in four rooms. 5. Good; the appearance of the rooms is neat and pleasing to the eye. 6. A mistress and four pupil teachers divide the work. 7. Good. 8. In the lower classes more care should be taken with the pronunciation of words. A new and much larger room is urgently required to meet the daily increasing numbers, and to admit of better classification.

PICTON.

Numbers on roll at inspection :—boys 32, girls 34; total, 66.

1. The local board promises to renovate the inside of the room and dwelling house. There is a neat garden cultivated by the the teacher. 2. Fair. 3. A very fair stock, and neatly kept. 4. Very fair; better desks are wanted. 5. Very fair; the children are very irregular attendants. 6. A change of teachers has been made since my last visit. The master is assisted by his wife and daughter. 7. Very fair rising to "good" in bible history in first and second divisions, and falling to "moderate" in writing among the juniors. 8. Notation is very carefully taught; mapping should be taught to first class, and grammar receive more attention.

PYRMONT (Boys) SYDNEY :—Visited, 6th March, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—49.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—74.

1. The new building in which the school is held, is well built of stone; is 47 x 22 x 13 feet, with an open roof, well ventilated, has very good out-offices, but is unenclosed and without a residence. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient. 4. Good. 5. Fair order; attendance not punctual. 6. The "method" adopted by the master and his monitors is faulty. 7. Fair only. 8. The religious knowledge is very much below the standard; the "programme" does not seem to have been followed. Some of the senior boys can recite from memory, both prose and verse, very fairly.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 20, girls 23; total, 43.

1. The walls have been colored. 2. Fair. 3. Insufficient stock; and kept in different parts of the room. 4. Fair. 5. Very fair order; the children and room are not neat and tidy; and the attendance is very unpunctual and irregular. 6. A master, his wife, and monitors; the "method" is faulty. 7. Fair. 8. One-half the children were admitted within the last half-year; and they generally are very young. There is a great want of system in the management and teaching of this school.

RANDWICK:—Visited, 8th June, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 13, girls 17; total, 30.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 15, girls 18; total, 33.

1. The space allotted for teaching has been increased; otherwise nothing has been done, with a view to make it a comfortable place in which to keep school. 2. Moderate. 3. Very fair stock. 4. Moderate. 5. Fair; the appearance of the scholars is favourable, but their attendance is not so regular as one could wish. 6. The new mistress has been in charge only three months. 7. Fair. 8. The method of teaching is too individual in character; the children are not taught to think. The parishoners are building a church; when it is finished, I hope something will be done to fit up this room as a school.

REDFERN (Primary):—Visited, 24th February, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 84, girls 56; total, 140.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 110, girls 70; total, 180.

1. A class-room has been built, and better out-offices put up. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Now on the "tripartite" plan, with parallel desks. 5. Very fair; the children are in general clean, and fairly regular in their attendance. 6. A master, an assistant teacher, a pupil teacher, and monitors (occasionally). 7. Very fair. 8. Now the room is larger, and the organization improved, more progress should be made.

REDFERN (Infants):—Visited, 23rd February, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—136.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—155.

1. The schoolroom has not been enlarged. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient. 4. As good as can be obtained in this room. 5. Fair; and considering how they are crowded, the appearance of the school is favourable. 6. The teacher's daughter takes almost the sole charge; there are two pupil teachers besides. 7. Fair. 8. It is to be regretted that the room is so small, and the teacher so inexperienced.

RICHMOND:—Visited, 23rd August, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 30, girls 26; total, 56.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 38, girls 32; total, 70.

1. The schoolroom and dwelling-house have been lately whitewashed. 2. Very fair; but new desks would be of great advantage. 3. Insufficient. 4. Fair; the room is very narrow. 5. Good order; the children are neat and clean, and fairly punctual and regular. 6. Divided between a master, his wife, and monitors. 7. Very fair; but in Scripture history a more extended course should be followed. 8. The Reverend chairman of the local board assisted in the examination in religious knowledge, both here and at North Richmond. The floods for some months prevented the attendance; many of the pupils being very young.

NORTH RICHMOND:—Visited, 24th August, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 17, girls 27; total, 44.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 20, girls 27; total, 47.

1. The south wall should be plastered outside to keep out the damp. 2. Fair. 3. Insufficient. 4. Fair; there is a want of better furniture. 5. Fair; the children are fairly clean, but do not attend very regularly. 6. Given by a master, with the assistance of his wife and daughter. 7. Very fair, excepting grammar and geography. 8. A better class of slates and copy-books is wanted. The scholars can repeat texts of Holy Scripture from memory fairly.

ROUSE HILL:—Visited, 29th January, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 34, girls 41; total, 75.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 39, girls 44; total, 83.

1. Good. 2. Good and sufficient. 3. Very fair; and neatly kept. 4. Good; in parallel desks on "tripartite" plan. 5. Good; the scholars attend regularly. 6. A change of teachers has taken place since my visit, the present master has the assistance of his wife and of monitors. 7. Fair. 8. More assistance in teaching seems to be required; the religious knowledge is not up to the standard; and needlework should before this have received attention—it is now taught.

RYDE:—Visited, 6th May, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 52, girls 29; total, 81.

Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 62, girls 29; total, 100.

1. The room is much too small for the numbers; and the residence for the teacher. 2. Fair; wants to be refurnished. 3. Insufficient. 4. Very fair; as good as can be got. 5. Good; the children's appearance and attendance are satisfactory. 6. The master who was in charge, has been promoted; he took the pupil teacher with him. 7. Good; especially in Bible history and grammar. 8. More slates and pencils should have been applied for; mapping ought to be introduced. The new master was formerly at Lower Mittagong school.

SACKVILLE

SACKVILLE REACH :—Visited, 1st September, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 13, girls 3; total 16.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 16, girls 4; total 20.

1. A wooden building, used for divine service, 33 x 16 x 9 feet, with roof open; lined inside, and painted; has no out-offices, and is not furnished with a residence. 2. Well supplied as a church, but without desks. 3. Sufficient, but without any place in which to keep the stock. 4. Moderate. 5. Very fair. 6. A master who appears to want energy. 7. Moderate. 8. Seven of the scholars had not previously been at school; the school had been opened only one month; it stands on the banks of the Hawkesbury, and has to compete with a private school on the opposite shore.

SEVEN HILLS :—Visited, 9th June, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 21, girls 16; total 37.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 30, girls 25; total 55.

1. New schoolroom, of brick, 40 x 20 x 12 feet, with open roof; well lighted and ventilated; a new residence, and fresh out-offices, would complete the establishment. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Good, in parallel desks, on tripartite plan. 5. Good; the children are neat, and punctual in coming. 6. A master, assisted by his wife, and by monitors. 7. Very fair, but hardly up to the former standard. 8. The inclemency of the weather has been a great drawback to attendance. I believe the local board are about to build a dwelling.

SHOALHAVEN :—Visited, 4th November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 26, girls 18; total 44.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 32, girls 24; total 56.

1. The room has been painted and repaired. 2. There is a good stock of furniture, though it is not of the best kind. 3. A very fair supply. 4. Good. 5. Very fair, but the majority of the scholars are untidy. 6. The present master has been here about ten months; he is assisted in his work by his wife and monitors. 7. Fair; the first class, in Scripture history, church catechism, and in reading, acquitted themselves very fairly. The writing is not good, neither on paper nor slates. The winter floods nearly ruined the school.

SOFALA.

This school was not inspected during the year.

SOUTH COLAH :—Visited, 28th January, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 21, girls 10; total 31.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 21, girls 11; total 32.

1. The contractor had not fastened down the floor as it should be. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient. 4. Very fair. 5. Very fair: the children are clean and neat, and are regular in attendance. 6. The master is assisted by his wife. 7. Fair. 8. There seems to be a feeling of hostility on the part of many of the parents towards the teacher, who appears to want tact in dealing with them.

SOUTH CREEK :—Visited, 28th April, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 30, girls 23; total 53.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 36, girls 29; total 65.

1. The walls have been coloured, the roof made sound, the bell hung up, and hat pegs made; the windows do not open and shut properly. 2. Very fair; some more desks are wanted. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Good. 5. Good. 6. The present master has been in charge six (6) months only; he is assisted by his wife and by monitors. 7. Very fair, excepting in religious knowledge. 8. The school had been shut up some time after the death of the former teacher. The present master has received a cordial welcome from the people, who are, however, about to witness his departure to his former school district. He will be followed, however, by a competent and earnest master.

SURREY HILLS (Primary), SYDNEY :—Visited, 27th April, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 47, girls 20; total 67.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 60, girls 23; total 83.

1. New out-offices have been built in a better position. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient; neatly kept. 4. Good; in parallel desks on a graduated platform. 5. Very fair; the personal appearance of the scholars is creditable; they are mustered and inspected twice a day in the play-ground. 6. There has been a change of teachers here; the present master has had charge five months; there is a pupil teacher, and a (paid) monitor. 7. Very fair; rising to good in the grammar of 1st class. 8. In answering and correcting each other's mistakes in reading, there is too much noise and confusion. The singing is very well done.

SURREY HILLS (Infants), SYDNEY :—Visited, 21st July, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection :—Boys 31, girls 31; total 62.
Numbers on roll at inspection :—Boys 37, girls 33; total 70.

1. The new school-room is built of brick, 30 x 20 x 12 feet, with an open roof, placed at right angles to the Primary School, with which it communicates; the windows do not open properly, and hat-pegs are required. 2. Fair; a gallery and three desks are wanted. 3. Sufficient. 4. In square classes. 5. Good order; the pupils are clean, and attend punctually, tickets for these matters being issued daily. 6. A mistress, assisted by one pupil teacher, and a (paid) monitor. 7. Very fair. 8. A good many of the scholars are very young, and have been only a short time at school. The old school-room is used as a class-room.

SUTTON FOREST:—Visited, 15th September, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 18, girls 20; total 38.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 37, girls 23; total 60.

1. A stove has been placed in the room. 2. More required, chiefly forms. 3. Sufficient. 4. Very fair. 5. Good; the children are very clean; the attendance of the boys is very irregular. 6. A master, his wife, and monitors. 7. Good; excepting in the reading of 1st and 2nd classes. 8. Dictation is done on paper pretty frequently; the notation of numbers is well done. The discipline is carried on without fuss.

TARAGO:—Visited, 26th September, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 11, girls 10; total 21.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 12, girls 11; total 23.

1. The windows are not yet glazed, and there is no privy built. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Very fair; in parallel desks. 5. Fair; the attendance is not very regular. 6. The school was closed for some time; the present master has only been in charge six weeks; his wife assists him. 7. Moderate. 8. The ex-master neglected the school very much before he left. More energy is required before the school can be brought into perfect discipline.

THERESA PARK:—Visited, 22nd December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—9 boys, 2 girls; total, 11.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—16 boys, 7 girls; total, 23.

1. Out of repair, and without out-offices. 2. Moderate. 3. Very fair stock. 4. Moderate. 5. Very fair order; the attendance is irregular. 6. The master teaches on the individual system. 7. Fair, except in arithmetic, where it is moderate. 8. This school receives a Government stipend from the Supplemental List.

TIRRANNA:—Visited, 13th October, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—5 boys, 6 girls; total, 11.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—8 boys, 6 girls; total, 14.

1. Good, but the out-offices are very moderate. 2. The master owns the desks, and there are not enough forms. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Very fair. 5. Very fair. 6. The master has had charge only a few days. 7. Moderate, excepting the writing, which is nicely done. 8. The school was shut up for ten months; twenty were present on the 31st October.

HOLY TRINITY, SYDNEY (Primary):—Visited, 8th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—50 boys, 48 girls; total 98.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—66 boys, 62 girls; total, 128.

1. The room is too small to admit of the school being worked properly. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Good; in parallel desks. 5. Good in general, would be better if there were more room; the room and children are neat and clean. 6. There has twice been a change in the mastership since last inspection; the master who was then in charge has returned, after six months' absence. There are two pupil-teachers. 7. Good. 8. The needlework deserves "honorable mention." The local board have no more land on which to build, without spoiling the shape of the room.

TRINITY HOLY, SYDNEY (Infants):—Visited, 9th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—84 boys, 77 girls; total, 161.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—96 boys, 82 girls; total, 178.

1. Good, but too small. 2. Very fair; a new gallery would be a great gain; the old one might be modified in shape, and put in the babies' room. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. As good as possible, under the circumstances. 5. Good; the room and children are very neat and clean. 6. A mistress, and two pupil-teachers, and a (paid) monitor. 7. Good. 8. Having no desks, penmanship is not taught; the writing on slates is good. The local board take great interest in these schools.

ULLADULLA:—Visited, 7th November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—21 boys, 19 girls; total, 40.
Numbers on the roll at inspection:—24 boys, 20 girls; total, 44.

1. A porch and a chimney have been put up; the ventilation is defective. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient; they should be kept in a cupboard or on shelves, and not in the desk-lockers. 4. Good, in parallel desks, in three divisions. 5. Very fair order; the children are clean and fairly punctual, but have during the greater part of the year been very irregular in attendance, owing chiefly to the wet weather. 6. The master is assisted by his daughter. 7. Very fair; "good" in grammar, arithmetic, and penmanship, in the first division. 8. The reading generally tends towards an indistinctness of tone. The scattered nature of the population has made it difficult to secure good attendance.

WATERLOO ESTATE (Primary):—Visited, 1st December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—48 boys, 34 girls; total, 82
Numbers on roll at inspection:—51 boys, 36 girls; total, 87.

1. Fifteen feet have been added to the length; the new part however, to be used on Sunday only. The whole building requires to be painted. 2. Good; new desks and forms have just been provided. 3. Sufficient. 4. Good; "tripartite," in parallel rows down the length of the room. 5. Very fair. 6. The present master has been only three months in charge; he is assisted by two pupil-teachers. 7. Very fair. 8. A great many of the scholars have only lately returned to the school. The female pupil-teacher divides her time between the primary and the infant schools.

WATERLOO ESTATE (Infants):—Visited, 2nd December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—28 boys, 27 girls; total, 55.
Numbers on the roll at inspection:—33 boys, 31 girls; total, 64.

1. The partition has been removed, but there is yet too little room; the building has been painted, but is without out-offices, and indeed is quite unsuited to its present purpose. 2. No desk, table, or chair, and no gallery. 3. Sufficient, and neatly kept. 4. Very fair. 5. Good; the majority do not attend punctually. 6. The present mistress was appointed at the beginning of the year. 7. Very fair. 8. The attendance has much increased since the beginning of the year. The rent of the building is paid by a member of the local board. A proper school-room is much needed.

WAVERLEY:—Visited, 20th December, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—30 boys, 26 girls; total, 56.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—32 boys, 29 girls; total 61.

1. The ground has been fenced in, but sundry repairs are required. 2. New desks and forms have just been provided. 3. Sufficient. 4. The remaining church fittings, not being wanted, should be put away, so as to admit of a proper arrangement of the desks. 5. Very fair. 6. The mistress is assisted by monitors. 7. Very fair. 8. More attention to Scripture history is wanted in the lower classes. The attendance has suffered from the prevalence of much sickness, and has also fallen below the last year's numbers.

WILBERFORCE:—Visited, 31st August, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—29 boys, 23 girls; total, 52.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—42 boys, 25 girls; total, 67.

1. Nothing has yet been done towards repairing the school. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Good; in parallel desks and forms. 5. Good; the pupils are tidy and clean and attend very punctually, though not regularly. 6. The master is assisted by his wife, and by monitors. 7. Very fair, but not up to last year's standard on the whole. 8. Penmanship, geography, and notation are very well taught; the reading of the 1st and 2nd divisions requires more attention. It is only fair to add, that the floods have prevented the regular attendance.

WINDSOR:—Visited, 29th August, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 13, girls 16; total, 29.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 22, girls 21; total, 43.

1. The brick floor remains; the wall should be whitewashed. 2. Very fair—three desks having been furnished. 3. Sufficient. 4. Moderate; no proper classification. 5. fair; the punctuality and regularity are at a low ebb. 6. The master is assisted by his sister-in-law, and by monitors occasionally. 7. Fair; excepting grammar and geography, which are little more than mere names. 8. The Religious Primer should not be used to teach reading, while the Second Book is in stock. The religious knowledge is very limited in extent.

WINGECARRIBEE:—Visited, 14th September, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 31, girls 16; total, 47.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 37, girls 24; total, 61.

1. A table or desk for the master, and some hat-pegs inside; and out-offices would complete the building. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Good; in parallel desks. 5. Very fair order, the children are not in general too clean and neat; but are regular and punctual in attendance. 6. The master is assisted by monitors. 7. Very fair. 8. Needlework is not taught; one-half the children are "7 years of age and under"; and a good many are the children of workmen on the G. S. Railway Line.

WOLLONGONG:—Visited, 27th October, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 27, girls 8; total 35.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 33, girls 11; total 49.

1. The teacher reports he cannot occupy the dwelling-house, on account of the damp. The local board are trying to drain it, and to make it habitable. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient; and neatly kept. 4. Good, in parallel desks. 5. Very good order; the attendance is very irregular, and has suffered by the bad weather of late. 6. The master is assisted by his wife, and by monitors. 7. Very fair. 8. The religious knowledge is below the standard of the programme.

WOONONA:—Visited, 10th November, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 21, girls 21; total, 42.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 33, girls 45; total, 83.

1. The room is much too small; it has been painted and repaired since my last report. 2. Good. 3. Sufficient. 4. Very fair in parallel desks, and a square class. 5. Very fair. 6. The master is ably assisted by his wife and daughter. 7. Very fair; in writing good; in religious knowledge, moderate. 8. The attendance would have been larger, if the inspection had not been postponed, on account of the wet.

YASS:—Visited, 5th October, 1864.

Numbers present at inspection:—Boys 57, girls 33; total, 90.
Numbers on roll at inspection:—Boys 61, girls 34; total, 95.

1. The plans for the new schoolhouse are now before the local board for adoption; the new room is urgently required. 2. Very fair. 3. Sufficient; and neatly kept. 4. As good as circumstances permit. 5. Good; the room and children are very neat; and the latter regular, though not very punctual in their attendance. 6. The master is assisted by his wife and by monitors. 7. Good; especially in religious knowledge. 8. The girls are on the whole more backward than the boys in their attainments.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR OF ROMAN CATHOLIC SCHOOLS. 1864
DETAILED STATEMENT OF THE CATHOLIC SCHOOLS INSPECTED DURING THE YEAR 1864.

ALBURY:—Not visited.

APPIN:—Visited, 2nd August, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—23 boys, 21 girls; total, 44.

Numbers at the examination:—12 boys, 11 girls; total, 23.

A weatherboard building, in good repair, to which are attached two separate out-offices, and a very good playground; there is not a residence for the teacher. The school possesses four good desks, a black-board and easel, teacher's desk, clock, and three maps, viz.:—World, Australia, and British Isles. The supply of books and slates is not sufficient. The pupils are very often kept at home for weeks and months months at a time, and when they do come they are not punctual to time. The order and cleanliness are fair. There is not any visible improvement observable in the pupils' attainments; they are still low. Only two succeeded in doing a sum in short division, and none could make up the amount of thirty-five pounds of sugar at seven and a half pence the pound. The writing is bad. The methods of instruction are not productive of any good results. The teacher has not been trained. The black-board is not much used.

ARMIDALE (M.) :—Visited, 4th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—40 boys.

Numbers at the examination :—31 boys.

This schoolhouse belongs to the teacher; it is a very good brick building, in excellent repair, and to it are attached the necessary out-buildings and a playground, all in keeping with the schoolhouse. In the school are two double desks (which are not very suitable), a black-board and an easel, and ten maps, viz.—Australia, Australasia, Europe, Asia, America, British Isles, and four of the World. There is a good supply of books for school use. Slates have not been supplied. The pupils are, with few exceptions, punctual and regular in their attendance; they are well dressed and tolerably clean. The discipline is satisfactory. The pupils have a good knowledge of the Christian Doctrine, and in reading they evinced a fair knowledge of the subject matter of the lessons read, as well as of the meaning of the difficult words in the same; their knowledge of geography, grammar, and arithmetic is fair; writing good, and dictation tolerable.

ARMIDALE (F.) :—Visited, 3rd November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—38 girls.

Numbers at the examination :—26 girls.

This school is held under the same roof as the boys. The water-closet and playground are similar to those for the boys. There is one double desk in the school; it is not a suitable one; one black-board and one clock for both schools. The maps are also used in the same way. There is a good supply of books, in good condition. Slates have not been sent. The children are tolerably punctual and regular in their attendance, and clean in person and dress. The discipline is pleasing. A proper place for the safe keeping of caps and other head dresses is needed. The attainments of the pupils are, on the whole, fair. The roll is tolerably kept.

ARALUEN :—Visited, 16th December, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—50 boys, 50 girls; total, 100.

Numbers at the examination :—22 boys, 30 girls; total, 52.

A strong slab building, in good repair, and affording good accommodation. There is plenty of good playground not enclosed; the water-closet is a bad one, and is common to the public. The teacher has a residence consisting of two rooms attached to the schoolroom.

In the school, one single desk, a black-board, and an easel, a clock, two maps of the World, one of Europe and Australia, and a fair supply of books and slates, in good condition. The children are not punctual or regular in their attendance; they are clean in person and dress. The order is moderate. The attainments of the children are, on the whole, fair. The teacher wants more system in imparting instruction. The schoolhouse is not central.

BALMAIN :—Visited, 15th April, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—26 boys, 25 girls; total, 51.

Numbers at the examination :—12 boys, 10 girls; total, 22.

This school is held in the church, underneath the gallery, which is not at all a suitable place. There are proper out-offices, and a playground. No residence for the teacher. There are three desks, two black-boards, and an easel, a clock, and a press for books, of which there is a good supply; maps—World, Europe, and Australia, large, and a small map of Ireland. The children are not at all regular; they are also very unpunctual as to time; they are clean in person and dress. The discipline is very moderate. The children are very timid before strangers, and speak in an under tone, which is much against them; their attainments are very meagre. Proficiency is only observable in the writing. The roll is, on the whole, well kept.

N.E.—A good wooden building has since been erected, and is used only for school purposes. The attendance has of late very much increased.

BAULKHAM HILLS :—Visited, 17th May, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—19 boys, 14 girls; total, 33.

Numbers at the examination :—12 boys, 10 girls; total, 22.

This school is held in a good stone building; it is used about once a month as a church. The floor is flagged, which is not the most appropriate. There are out-offices, a teacher's residence, and a very good enclosed playground. There are three old desks, in bad repair, in the school, a new map of the World and one of Europe, and a black-board, and an easel. Books and slates are needed, and a press to keep them. A time-table and a clock are required for this school. The children are not as punctual and regular in their attendance as they ought to be; they are tolerably clean in person and dress. The discipline is fair. The attainments of the children, considering the short time many of them have been at school, are fair in arithmetic and reading, and very poor in all the others; the writing is very moderate. The children, not having been long accustomed to school, are timid before strangers, and are very bashful in every respect.

BATHURST (M.) :—Visited, 18th August, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—90 boys.

Numbers at the examination :—77 boys.

This school is held in the old Catholic Church—a brick building, in very bad repair. It has since been taken down, and new buildings and a teacher's residence are in course of erection on its site. The school is well supplied with all the necessary furniture and apparatus, a full set of maps, a pair of globes, two black-boards and easels, and a good supply of books and slates. The pupils are punctual and regular in their attendance. The order, cleanliness, and demeanour of the pupils are very satisfactory. The moral tone is good. The subjects are appropriate, and the system of teaching is calculated to thoroughly educate the children. Satisfactory progress has been made since last inspection. A pupil teacher is, and has been for a long time, much required in this school. The pupils are drilled every day in the public square. There are water-closets and a small playground attached to the school.

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1864.

BATHURST (F.) :—Visited, 19th August, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—42 girls.
Numbers at the examination :—29 girls.

Pending the erection of the new schoolhouse, this school is temporarily held in a rented building. The rooms are inconveniently small. The school possesses the necessary out-buildings and a tolerable playground, six desks, a black-board, and an easel, a clock, a map of the World, Ireland, Scotland, Europe, and Australia. The pupils are not punctual in their attendance; they are tolerably regular; they are neat and clean in person and dress. The discipline is good. The proficiency is good in arithmetic and reading, and very moderate in geography, grammar, and dictation. The writing is fair, and the roll-book well kept. The school has been of late in a state of transition; it is at present conducted by the Sisters of Mercy.

BATHURST (I.) :—Visited, 17th August, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—53 girls.
Numbers at the examination :—32 girls.

This school is held in a portion of the same building in which the boys' is held; and as to material state, out-offices and playground, is similarly situated. There are two desks, a black-board, and an easel; and a fair supply of books, slates, tablet lessons, and a map of the World in the school. The punctuality and regularity are generally speaking fair; excepting at this season of the year, when neither could be expected to be so, in consequence of the badness of the roads and the unsettled state of the weather. The order is fair; and the cleanliness of the children, as well as of the schoolroom, satisfactory. The attainments are fair.

BERRIMA :—Visited, 18th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—17 boys, 21 girls; total, 38.
Numbers at the examination :—14 boys, 19 girls; total, 33.

The schoolhouse, which is rented at the rate of £6 a year, is built partly of brick and weather-board; it is in good repair, and has good accommodation. There is not a residence for the teacher; but there are two water-closets, and a good inclosed playground for the use of the children. The school possesses seven desks, a clock, a black-board, a map of the World, Europe, and Australia; and a good supply of tablets and object lessons, and an abacus. The supply of books and slates is fair; their condition is good. The children are punctual and regular in their attendance. The cleanliness, order, and conduct of the pupils, may be regarded as fair. The proficiency of the pupils in the various branches taught in the school is satisfactory, excepting in writing. The roll is tolerably kept.

BEGA :—Not visited.

BRAIDWOOD :—Visited, 14th December, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—72 boys, 66 girls; total, 138.
Numbers at the examination :—43 boys, 45 girls; total, 88.

The schoolroom is a wooden one, lined with calico, and in fair preservation; it is not sufficiently large for present requirements; it is well kept. The teacher's residence is too small—an addition to it is much required. The school has four desks, a fair set of maps, a clock, black-board, a rostrum, a good supply of tablets, books, and slates, in good condition. An easel is required. The pupils attend school very well; they are clean in person, and decently attired. The discipline is good. Nothing can be said regarding the proficiency of the pupils; they speak in an under tone, and make very little effort to answer the most simple questions—they answer only to repeated ones, and then very reluctantly, and often not all. The writing is very moderate, and the ciphering books are very dirty and badly done. The pupils have no confidence in themselves to do anything. The methods of instruction are not good.

BULLI :—Visited, 29th July, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—15 boys, 15 girls; total, 30.
Numbers at the examination :—10 boys, 9 girls; total, 19.

A small house, built of slabs and covered with bark. The accommodation is not sufficient. The teacher has a room attached; a small kitchen has lately been erected. There is plenty of playground, but there is not a water-closet. A new schoolhouse is much needed. There are three small desks, a black-board, and an easel, a clock, time-table, a map of the World, Africa, and Australia, in the school, and a good supply of books in good condition. Slates have not been supplied. The children are not regular in their attendance, neither are they as punctual as could be wished. In consequence of the failure of some coal mines in the neighbourhood, the people have in many instances migrated, and therefore the attendance is not large. The children are clean in person and dress. The discipline is fair. The attainments of the children are still meagre; there is no visible improvement in them. The writing is very moderate, and the roll-book is not well kept.

BUNGENDOBE :—Visited, 12th December, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—13 boys, 18 girls; total, 31.
Numbers at the examination :—7 boys, 12 girls; total, 19.

This school is temporarily held in the church. The people have in contemplation the erection of a schoolhouse. A good brick cottage has just been completed, and two out-offices; there is plenty of playground not enclosed. The school possesses two small desks, a black-board and an easel; maps—World, Europe, Australia, and Ireland; and a good supply of books and slates, the latter two badly kept. A press and clock are required. There is not a time-table in the school. Great irregularity prevails in the children's attendance, neither are they punctual. They are clean in person and dress. The attainments of the pupils are very indifferent; they answer reluctantly, lack animation, and, on the whole, do not exhibit much intelligence. A clock is required. The roll is very badly kept, and the writing in the copy-books is very moderate.

BURROWA :—

BURROWA :—Visited, 5th December, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—22 boys, 20 girls; total, 42.
Numbers at the examination :—17 boys, 18 girls; total, 35.

A good stone building, in good repair, and is used as a church; there is very good accommodation. There are out-offices, a good enclosed playground, and a teacher's residence attached. The school possesses four desks, only two forms, an abacus, a black-board and an easel, a clock, rostrum, maps—two of the World, one of Europe and Australia. The supply of books and slates is fair; the books are badly kept. The children are punctual and regular in their attendance; they are clean in person and dress. The discipline is not satisfactory: The attainments of the pupils are fair in reading, writing, and arithmetic, and very moderate in the other subjects. The roll is badly kept.

BURRAGORANG :—Visited, 17th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—20 boys, 27 girls; total, 47.
Numbers at the examination :—7 boys, 5 girls; total, 12.

There is not a fixed schoolhouse, in consequence of the peculiar features of the district, which is more than thirty miles long, and in average breadth about a mile, with a river flowing through its centre. It would be morally impossible to collect the required number of children in any one part of the valley, to entitle the school to a salary; hence from the isolated state of the inhabitants the teacher is an itinerant, remaining a week in each locality, making his tour through the valley in five or six weeks. There is a fair supply of books, a portion of which is left at each house. Maps—World, Europe, and Australia, which are distributed in the same way. Slates have not been supplied. In consequence of the severity of the weather and the flooded state of the river, the attendance during the last year has not been even fair; and the grown pupils who were in the habit of attending in former years, could not, even when the weather would permit, attend but very seldom this year, being required at home on the farms. The proficiency is, therefore, under all these disadvantages, necessarily very moderate.

CABRAMATTA :—Not visited.

CAMDEN :—Visited, 29th September, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—17 boys, 20 girls; total, 37.
Numbers at the examination :—11 boys, 14 girls; total, 25.

A brick building, in good repair, and affords very fair accommodation. It has a teacher's residence, two separate out-offices, and playgrounds for the children. The schoolroom is not well kept; some of the windows are broken. There are in the school three large and one small desk, a black board, and an easel, not much used, a clock, maps—two of the World and one of Europe and Australia, a good supply of books, in fair condition, and a time table. Slates have not been supplied to this school. There is a good supply of tablet lessons, not mounted, and therefore not of much use. The punctuality and regularity are as fair as can be expected. The children are tolerably clean in person and dress. The discipline is not satisfactory. The individual method of teaching is most used. There is no visible improvement in the attainments of the pupils. The writing of two is fair. The children at present in this school are of a tender age. The roll is badly kept.

CAMPBELLTOWN :—Visited, 18th May, 1864.

Numbers at the examination :—42 boys, 26 girls; total, 68.
Numbers on the roll :—48 boys, 37 girls; total, 85.

This school is held in a nice brick building, in good repair, but not sufficiently large for the present attendance. To the school are attached two separate water-closets, a teacher's residence, and a good enclosed playground; and in the school are six desks, two black-boards, two rostrums, a clock, a time table, a full set of maps, and a good supply of books and slates in good preservation. The children are punctual and regular in their attendance; they are, with few exceptions, clean in person and tidy in dress. The order and demeanour of the pupils are satisfactory. The attainments of the pupils are also satisfactory, and the writing is, on the whole, very fair. The tone of the school has improved. The teacher is most attentive to his duties.

CAMPERDOWN (M.) :—Visited, 10th May, 1864.

Numbers on the rolls :—61 boys.
Numbers at the examination :—52 boys.

The building is of brick, and in very fair repair; it stands nearly in the centre of a very fine piece of ground, which is tolerably well enclosed, adjoining St. John's College; it is used only for the boys at present. There is a good out-office. There is not a residence for the teacher. The school possesses eight desks, a black-board, and an easel, a clock, a book press, an abacus, and a good set of maps. The supply of books and slates is good, except for the junior classes. The punctuality and regularity of the pupils are tolerable; they are clean in person and dress. The discipline is fair. The proficiency is fair in reading, writing, and arithmetic; and moderate in geography and grammar. The roll is well kept.

CAMPERDOWN (F.) :—Visited, 11th May, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—51 girls.
Numbers at the examination :—40 girls.

This school is held in two rooms formerly used as a residence by the teacher; they are not sufficiently large. There is a water-closet attached to the school; the playground is a very good one. The school possesses three desks, maps—World and Africa, and a moderate supply of books and slates. The pupils are tolerably regular and punctual to time in their attendance; they are clean in person and dress. The discipline is fair. The girls acquitted themselves, on the whole, fairly in their answering. The writing is moderate. The roll is fairly kept.

CASTLEREAGH-

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1864.

CASTLEREAGH-STREET :—Visited, 4th May, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—31 boys, 41 girls ; total, 72.
Numbers at the examination :—13 boys, 19 girls ; total, 32.

This school is held in a back room of a rented house in Castlereagh-street, near Liverpool-street, which is badly ventilated, and has not sufficient light admitted into it. There are water-closets attached, but only a small yard as a playground. In the school are five desks, a black-board, a clock, maps—two of the World and two of Australia, one of Europe, Asia, Africa, and England, an abacus, and a good supply of books. The slates are not sufficient. The pupils are tolerably punctual to time, but very irregular in their attendance. The cleanliness is satisfactory. The discipline is very moderate. The children's attainments are meagre in each subject of instruction in the school. The copies are cleanly, but very moderately written. The children attending this school at present are infants.

N.B.—This school has since been closed, and the salary transferred to the new school in the Haymarket.

CATTAI CREEK :—Visited, 27th September, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—20 boys, 15 girls ; total, 35.
Numbers at the examination :—14 boys, 9 girls ; total, 23.

The house is a rough slab building covered with bark ; it is in good repair, and well kept. To the school are attached a residence for the teacher, a water-closet, and a good playground not enclosed ; and in the school are two old desks (not fit for use), a clock, maps—World, Europe, and Australia, and a sufficient supply of books and slates in fair condition. A black-board is required. There is not a time table in the school. The children are tolerably punctual to time, but not regular in their every-day attendance ; they are clean in person and dress. The attainments of the pupils are very poor ; there is not any proficiency observable in them since last examination.

CHARCOAL CREEK :—Visited, 27th July, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—33 boys, 29 girls ; total, 62.
Numbers at the examination :—17 boys, 21 girls ; total, 38.

This school is held in a slab building in fair repair ; there is a good playground, but not a water-closet or teacher's residence attached to the school. It possesses six desks, a rostrum, black-board and easel, a full set of maps, and a good supply of books and slates in good preservation. There is not a clock in the school. The pupils are, on the whole, tolerably regular and punctual to time in their attendance ; they are clean in person and well dressed. The discipline is moderate. The proficiency in each subject of instruction taught in the school is satisfactory. The writing is fair, and the roll well kept.

CHURCH HILL. (F.) :—Visited, 28th June, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—48 boys, 93 girls ; total, 141.
Numbers at the examination :—27 boys, 75 girls ; total, 102.

This school is held in the hall underneath St. Patrick's Church ; it requires painting. There is not sufficient light, and the ventilation is bad. There are pegs needed in the hall for the pupils' head-dresses. There are two water-closets attached, and a small yard used as a playground. The teacher pays rent for the residence, which is not a suitable one. In the school are ten desks, a black-board, and an easel, a book-press, clock, a set of maps, and a good supply of books and slates in good condition. There is not a time table. The children are not punctual to time ; they come into school at all hours of the day ; they are moderately regular ; they are, on the whole, clean in person, and decently attired. The noise in this school is much greater than in the generality of schools. The discipline is not satisfactory. The attainments of the pupils in arithmetic are very moderate, and bad in all the other subjects of instruction excepting history. The writing is, on the whole, very moderate, and the roll is not called aloud ; it is not well kept.

CHURCH HILL (I.) :—Visited, 29th June, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—48 boys, 67 girls ; total, 115.
Numbers at the examination :—31 boys, 45 girls ; total, 76.

This school is held in a part of the hall in which the girls are, which may, in some degree, account for the noise complained of in that school. The out-offices and playground are used in common by the children of both schools. There is a good gallery in the hall, sufficient to accommodate ninety infants. The school possesses only a few tablet lessons and an abacus ; it needs two or three small desks, a black-board, and an easel, object lessons, and a better supply of tablet lessons. Punctuality and regularity same as in the girls' school. The children are, owing to the weather, only moderately clean. The methods in use are chiefly individual and unskilful.

CLARENCE TOWN :—Visited, 20th October, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—10 boys, 11 girls ; total 21.
Numbers at the examination :—6 boys, 8 girls ; total, 14.

The building is a good slab one, well enclosed ; it is used as a church. There are two new out-offices and a good playground. Not a residence for the teacher. There is very good accommodation for the children. The school possesses four new desks, a black-board, and an easel, a clock, map of the World, and a good supply of books and slates. The school has been in operation only a few days, and therefore nothing can be said regarding punctuality and regularity. The children in attendance are clean in person ; a few of them were induced to attend the examination at the National School to-day, which caused the attendance to be so small. The attainments are low.

COOK'S RIVER :—Visited, 26th April, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—28 boys, 27 girls ; total, 55.
Numbers at the examination :—17 boys, 22 girls ; total, 39.

The school is held in the church, which is a good brick building. There are two water-closets, and a good enclosed playground. The teacher has to rent a residence. The school possesses only one desk, which is not sufficient, maps—World and Australia, and a clock ; the supply of books is not sufficient ; slates have not been supplied, and a black-board and an easel are required. The children are tolerably punctual to time, and regular in their attendance ; they are neat and clean in person and dress. The order is moderate. The individual method of teaching arithmetic is practised ; geography and grammar are not much known. The attainments of the children are still very meagre. The writing is very moderate and the roll badly kept.

COLLECTOR:—Visited, 7th December, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—14 boys, 18 girls; total, 32.
Numbers at the examination:—8 boys, 13 girls; total, 21.

This school is held in the church, which is a good stone building, and has very good accommodation. The water-closet is a very bad one; the teacher's residence is in bad repair; there is plenty of playground not enclosed. There are two desks, three maps of the World, one of Australia, black-board and easel, and a good supply of books and slates in the school. A clock, press for books, &c., and a time-table, are required. Punctuality and regularity are between fair and moderate. The children are tolerably clean. Discipline is not thought of. There is not any perceivable improvement in the children's attainments—they are still meagre. The writing is bad. The roll is badly kept.

CONCORD:—Visited, 28th April, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—27 boys, 23 girls; total, 50.
Numbers at the examination:—19 boys, 19 girls; total, 38.

The house is a brick one in good repair, and used occasionally as a church. A residence for the teacher, a good playground and the necessary out-buildings, are attached. There are seven desks, a clock, black-board and an easel, maps—Australia, Europe, America, British Isles, and two of the World, and a good supply of books and slates in good preservation. As many of the children have to come a long distance, they necessarily arrive at school late in the morning; they are tolerably regular. The girls are clean in person and dress; the boys are not so. The discipline is satisfactory. The general appearance of the school is improved. Dictation and reading are fair, and arithmetic, geography, and grammar are very meagre. The writing is moderate. The roll is not correctly kept.

Numbers at the examination:—5 boys, 9 girls; total, 14.

The school is held in the church, which is a neat wooden building in good repair, and affords very good accommodation. The necessary out-buildings, a teacher's residence, and a playground are attached. School furniture and apparatus in the school:—four desks in moderate repair, black-board and easel, rostrum, clock, maps—Europe, Palestine, and two of the World, and a fair supply of books and slates in fair preservation. The children are very irregular in their attendance, and when they do come they are not punctual to time. The attendance has been for some months past much below the average. The attainments of the children are very meagre; there is not any proficiency observable in them. The teacher was not clean in person or dress. The cleanliness of the children is fair. The discipline is moderate.

DOUBLE BAY:—Visited, 3rd May, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—11 boys, 11 girls; total, 22.
Numbers at the examination:—10 boys, 10 girls; total, 20.

This school is held in a new stone building; it is not centrally situated. There are out-buildings and a playground not enclosed; the teacher has a residence attached to the school. There are four good desks, black-board and easel, clock, maps—World, Australia, Europe, and Ireland, and a good supply of books and slates in good condition. The children are punctual, regular, clean, and neat in person and dress. The discipline is good. The attainments of the children in reading, grammar, and geography are satisfactory, and moderate in arithmetic and dictation. The writing is fair, and the roll is fairly kept.

GERRINGONG:—Visited, 3rd August, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—15 boys, 14 girls; total, 29.
Numbers at the examination:—9 boys, 11 girls; total, 20.

The school is held in a good wooden building, in which there is accommodation for sixty-four pupils. There is a fair playground. A teacher's residence and a water-closet are required. There are in the schoolroom six very good new desks, a clock, maps—World and Australia, and a fair supply of tablet lessons. The books and slates are not sufficient. The children are tolerably regular, but not punctual to time. They are clean, neatly dressed, and orderly. The attainments are as yet low, but promising. The school is a new one, and was much needed.

GOSFORD:—Not visited.

GOULBURN:—Visited, 25th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—60 boys.
Numbers at the examination:—46 boys.

This is a good brick building in good repair, and possesses good accommodation; to it are attached the necessary buildings, excepting a teacher's residence; there is a good playground. The schoolroom is not well kept; there is not a proper place for the caps. There are five desks, a black-board and an easel, a clock, maps—Asia, Europe, America, Palestine, Australia, and two of the World, in the school. The supply of books and slates is ample for present demands. The pupils are regular in their attendance, and tolerably punctual to time. Their cleanliness is satisfactory. The discipline is not good, or even fair. The pupils have made good progress in their attainments since my last visit. In addition to the ordinary subjects, geometry, algebra, and Latin are taught.

GOULBURN (F.):—Visited, 24th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—44 girls.
Numbers at the examination:—27 girls.

This school is held in a part of the new Convent in Goulburn. The necessary out-buildings and grounds are attached. The school possesses six desks, a clock, maps—Europe, Australia, and an old map of the World. A black-board and an easel are required. The books have been three years in use; a fresh supply of books and slates is needed. The pupils are punctual to time, but they do not attend every day as regularly as they ought. The order, cleanliness, and demeanour of the pupils are good.

good. The attainments of the pupils are in some respects satisfactory. The writing, is on the whole, moderate. Many of the children have not been long at school.

GOULBURN (I.) :—Visited, 23rd November, 1864.

The house is built of brick, the walls of which are only one brick in thickness; it is in moderate repair, and it is not suitable to be used as a schoolhouse. The situation of the water-closet is very bad; it is placed against one of the walls of the schoolroom, the door of which is about a yard from a door of the schoolhouse. The ventilation is bad. There is a residence for the teacher; it is not a healthy one. The children have not a playground. There are in the school six desks, two black-boards; maps—World, Asia, Europe, Ireland, Australia, British Isles, and two of Palestine; a fair supply of books and slates; the globe, which is not required in the school, is kept in the teacher's residence. The children are not punctual to time, and they are very irregular in their attendance; they are not clean in person or dress, and are badly disciplined. The tone of the school is bad; nothing has been done by the teacher to improve it; he is most careless in every way regarding the success of the school. I have not on any occasion that I visited the school found him occupied instructing the children. The attainments of the children are very meagre. The roll is badly kept; it does not be marked for weeks at a time.

The building is of brick, it is a nice structure in good repair; the boys' school is held on the ground floor, the girls' and infants' in two separate rooms up-stairs; there is good accommodation in each. The buildings are nicely enclosed. The necessary out-buildings and a teacher's residence are provided. The school has seven single desks and one double one, a clock, rostrum, two black-boards, a terrestrial globe, time-table maps,—Asia, Palestine, Africa, America, Europe, Australia, Australasia, England, Scotland, and two of the World—and a fair supply of books and slates. The pupils are, on the whole, punctual to time and regular in their attendance; they are clean, tolerably well dressed, and well conducted. The boys' playground has been separated from the girls', and a suitable place has been erected for the pupils' caps. The discipline is good. In consequence of the numerous floods with which this town has been visited during this year, the duties of the school had to be at times suspended, which in some degree may account for the want of more proficiency; although, all things considered, fair progress has been made during the past year. Together with the ordinary subjects, geometry and algebra are taught in this school with some degree of success. Now that a pupil teacher has been appointed, it is to be hoped the junior classes will be better attended to. The writing is only tolerable. The teacher appears to be most zealous in the discharge of his duties; the school accounts are well kept.

The appearance of this schoolroom has been much improved since last inspection; it is at present a good cheerful schoolroom, and has all the necessary out-buildings, and a playground, except a residence. The school has eight desks, black-board, clock, rostrum, time-table, an abacus, and maps—World, Europe, Ireland, Australia, and Palestine. The supply of books and slates is not sufficient. The pupils are punctual to time, and regular in their daily attendance; they are clean in person, neat and tidy in dress, and well disciplined. In consequence of the almost continual flooded state of the Hunter during the last seven or eight months all the schools in the district have suffered to some extent; and therefore a great degree of proficiency in the pupils' attainments cannot be expected. The attainments of the pupils range from fair to tolerable; they think slowly, and answer only to repeated questions; the writing is on the whole fair, and the roll is tolerably kept. The school is at present taught by the Sisters of Charity.

This school had been for a long time much needed, and I must say that as far as the room would permit, nothing has been left undone to make it as suitable and cheerful as possible for its young occupants. There are four new desks, a gallery, a map of the World, a book press, a good supply of books, and slates, and clock. A black-board is required. The children are regular in daily attendance, and punctual to time; they are clean in person, neat in attire, and well disciplined. The subjects taught are those which are considered most appropriate to infant schools. The methods are of the same character, the attainments are very fair, the roll is well kept, and so is the schoolroom.

The house is of wood, shingled, and in fair repair; the schoolroom is not well kept. Playground and water-closet are good; a residence is needed for the teacher. The school is supplied with eight desks, a rostrum, black-board, clock, a good supply of books, slates, and tablet lessons, maps—Europe, America, Australia, and three of the World. The children attend school very irregularly, coming only a few-days in each week or month, and at times many of them absent themselves for months; but when they do attend, they are not punctual to time. Cleanliness, discipline, and demeanor of the pupils are satisfactory. The attainments of the advanced class are pleasing, the junior classes are very moderate in their attainments. The writing is not satisfactory. The pupils are not classified on the roll, and it is badly kept.

The scholars are taught in a small wooden building not sufficiently large. The necessary out-buildings, playground, and residence are provided. The school has three single desks and one double one and a small black-board, maps—World, Europe, and Australia; it requires a clock, time-table, books and slates. The children are regular in their daily attendance, but not punctual to time; they are clean in person and well dressed. The discipline is moderate. A proper place is required for the pupils' head-dresses. With the exception of one or two, the attainments of the children are very moderate. The writing is, on the whole, bad, and the roll is badly kept.

The school is held in a weather-board building which is used as a church on Sundays, there is good accommodation, and the required out-buildings, residence, and playground are attached to it. The school possesses five desks, a rostrum, black-board, clock, time-table, full set of maps, and a good supply of books. Slates are required. The children are punctual to time, on the days they attend school; they are very irregular in their attendance. The discipline is moderate. The personal appearance of the children is tolerable. The children are not timid, but they speak in an under tone, and it is at times difficult to obtain answers to the questions from them. Their attainments may be stated as being meagre. There are no text-hand copies large or small allowed in the school.

The school is held in a fine brick building which is used as a church, it is not enclosed; there is a residence for the teacher. Water-closets are much needed for the use of the school. The school has three old and the same number of new desks, a black-board, clock, maps—World, Australia, Africa, Europe, America, and Australia—a good supply of books and slates in good preservation. A press is required for the books; there is not a time-table in the school. The children are not punctual to time, but they are tolerably regular in their attendance. They are not clean in person or dress, and the discipline is not at all satisfactory. All the grown pupils who were in this school last year have been put to trades, or have been kept at home since the school has been held in the present building against the wishes of some of the inhabitants. The proficiency of the pupils is not at all satisfactory in any one department. The school has retrograded very much since last year. The tone of the school is not good. This house is a weather-board building, used as a church, and in good repair. A very good stone building is in course of erection, in a portion of which the school is to be held when erected. There are out-offices, and a good playground. A residence for the teacher is to be built. There are seven desks, a black-board, clock, an abacus, a rostrum, maps—Palestine, America, Europe, Asia, England, Ireland, Australia, and World. A book-press, and a second black-board are required. The children are punctual to time, and regular in their attendance; they are clean in person, and fairly disciplined. The proficiency is, in some subjects, satisfactory. The writing is, on the whole, good. Owing to the day being observed as a holiday in this town, the attendance was much below the average. The school is at present in a healthy state.

A brick cottage, rented by the teacher; it is in good repair, not suitable for a schoolhouse. A small yard used as a playground; there is a water-closet attached. For the use of the school there are two desks, a black-board, maps—World, Australia, Europe, Africa, and America—and a moderate supply of books and slates. Required for the school, a clock and time-table, two desks, and a better supply of books and slates, as well as a more suitable house. The children are punctual to time, and from the roll they would appear to be regular; but I have not at any time seen only about the half of them in attendance. The appearance of the children is satisfactory; the discipline is moderate, and the organization bad; the attainments of the children are very moderate, excepting in reading and writing. There was not one successful in doing a sum in simple subtraction. The roll is not called aloud, and the daily attendance was not marked in it for the last three weeks.

The premises, which include a residence, are of brick, and are in excellent repair. The school-room is at present used as a church. The required out-buildings and a playground are provided. For the use of this school, as well as for the girls, there are six desks, a black-board, clock, good supply of books, and slates, and maps—two of the World, three of Australia, one of Europe, and one of England and Wales. The punctuality and regularity of the pupils are good; the cleanliness, demeanour, and discipline are satisfactory. It being the first examination of the kind to which the children were subjected, they were rather timid in their answering; but they gave satisfactory answers to many of the questions put to them; their attainments are, however, as yet, meagre. The school, which is a new one, was much needed, and has done very well for the short time it has been in operation.

For conducting the education of the children there are three desks, a clock, map of the world, and a fair supply of books and slates. The punctuality of the children is moderate and their regularity fair; they are clean in person, and fairly attired. The discipline is not satisfactory. The children, who are for the most part infants, are very timid in answering anything; their attainments are still low. The writing is tolerable; the roll is very badly kept.

The premises are of stone, substantially built, and with good accommodation; the out-offices are still in the same disgraceful state; they are not fit for use; and the playground is a bad one. The windows of the schoolroom are much broken. The pupils are punctual to time, and regular in their attendance; they are clean in person, fairly dressed, and well disciplined. The school has considerably advanced within the last three months, both in its attendance, moral tone, and in the order and demeanour of the pupils. The teaching is effective and the methods are suitable. The attainments of the pupils are most satisfactory as a whole. The roll is well kept.

The schoolhouse and teacher's residence are built of brick, and in moderated repair. The school-room does not afford sufficient accommodation for the pupils in attendance. A new schoolhouse is much required. The furniture and apparatus are ample and in good preservation. The school possesses a full set of maps, a clock, two black-boards, a time-table, an abacus, a large supply of books and slates in good condition. The pupils are not punctual to time, they come into school at all hours of the day. The discipline is good; but the noise is very great at the time instructions are given, in consequence of the great number of classes receiving them at the same time in an over crowded schoolroom. The pupils are neat and clean in person and dress. As in large schools where several teachers are employed, the methods differ in kind and quality. The black-board is not much used. The average proficiency is very tolerable. The writing of the girls in the most advanced class is good, and of the others moderate. The school accounts are well kept.

This school is held in a part of the same schoolroom as the above one, it is not separated from it by a partition which to some extent causes the noise complained of in that school. The part of the building in which it is held is in bad repair. The accommodation is very small for the requirements of the school. There are two galleries, two black-boards, and one desk, a good supply of books, slates and tablet lessons. The maps in the girls school are used. Punctuality and regularity are the same as described in the above school. The children are clean, neatly dressed, and well conducted. The methods of instruction are in keeping with the apparatus and school accommodation. The children are divided into too many classes; their attainments are not, on the whole, as good as may be expected.

The premises and teacher's residence are built of stone, they are in excellent repair and possess very good accommodation. There is a good playground. For the use of the school there are ten desks, a black-board and two easels, a clock, rostrum, book-press, a full set of maps. The supply of books and slates is not sufficient; there is not a time-table in the school. The pupils are not punctual to time, and they are not regular in their attendance. The cleanliness, order and demeanour of the children are fair. I must say I was much disappointed in not finding the pupils in this school more advanced in their attainments; those who were present did not shew that much care had been paid to them, or their studies for the last twelve months. The day was a most inclement one, causing many of the children to absent themselves. The teacher is assisted by his wife and a paid monitor. The roll is fairly kept.

The buildings are wooden ones, in good repair, plastered on the inside, not ceiled. There is not a residence attached; but there is a good playground. To assist in the education of the children there are seven desks, a black-board, clock, and a full set of maps. The books are badly kept, and some are required for the junior classes; there is a good supply of slates. No time-table in the school. The punctuality and regularity are fair, and so is the cleanliness; the discipline is not satisfactory. Five read very well; but they did not appear to understand what they did read, or the meaning of the words in the reading lesson. The attainments in arithmetic are fair, and very meagre in all the other subjects. The writing is not at all satisfactory. The roll is fairly kept.

The school is held in the sacristy of the church at Petersham; it is built of stone, and is in good repair. The accommodation is fair; and the proper out-buildings and a good playground are attached. There are three desks, a black-board, clock, a press for books, of which there is a good supply, except for the junior class; the slates are sufficient, and the maps in the school are—World, America, Europe, Ireland, and British Isles. The children are punctual to time, and fairly regular in their attendance. The cleanliness and discipline are moderate. The attainments are, on the whole, low. The teacher wants system; he allows the children to use their own books, which are of an indiscriminate kind, and he hears them say their lessons separately in these books. The teacher's wife does not be in the school. The school has suffered of late from the frequent changes of its teachers. The roll is moderately kept.

This school is held in a rough slab house, in fair repair; it is not enclosed, and the water-closet is not fit for use; a suitable one is required. There is not a residence for the teacher. The furniture and apparatus in the school consist of two desks, a black-board, clock, map of Europe, and one of Australia; and a good supply of books, slates, map of the World, time-table, and two desks are required for this school. The pupils are punctual to time, but irregular in their attendance. The cleanliness and and discipline are fair. It is almost impossible to get the children to speak aloud; they do not evince much knowledge of the subjects taught in the school, and, judging from the results of the examination, the methods of instruction in use cannot be good. The attainments of the children are still very meagre. The writing is tolerable; the roll is very moderately kept. The grown boys and girls are at present kept at home working on the farms, and many families have left the district in consequence of the late floods, which causes the attendance to be as small as it is at present.

The old schoolhouse is not fit for use; so the school is at present held in a small room of a cottage rented by the teacher, in which a quantity of her furniture is kept; there is not any room for school furniture or apparatus, excepting a few forms. The room is not at all suitable. A small yard and an out-office are used by the children. Desks, maps, a black-board, clock, and time-table, are not in the the school. For present wants the books and slates are sufficient. The children do not attend school but very seldom; they are clean in person and dress; I cannot say anything regarding the discipline. The roll is not called aloud and it had not been marked for seven days previous to my visit. The children who attempt to read the third book are not able to read the second book. ST. MARY'S (M.):—Visited, 3rd October, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—245 boys.

Numbers at the examination:—187 boys.

The school is held in an excellent stone building, in very good repair, and to it are attached good water-closets and a moderate playground. No residence for the teacher. There are not any class rooms attached to the school, and a gallery is much required. The school is in all other respects abundantly supplied with all the necessary appliances. The schoolroom is not well kept. The pupils are, on the whole, punctual and regular in their attendance; they are clean in person, and decently attired; they are inattentive, and inclined to talk in class; in other respects, the discipline is good. Where so many classes are taught at the same time, and in the same room, it is hard to prevent much unnecessary noise. The attainments of the pupils are good; much progress has been made during the past year; the writing in the copy-books is very much improved, and they are well kept. Some of the pupils who are studying geometry and algebra, evinced a good knowledge with each of the above subjects as far as they have studied. The school is conducted by the head teacher, second teacher, an assistant, and two pupil teachers. The roll is tolerably kept.

SAINT MARY'S (F.):—Visited, 7th July, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—135 girls.

Numbers at the examination:—84 girls.

This school is at present temporarily held in one of the large rooms underneath Saint Mary's Cathedral; it has a class-room on either side, they are very suitable, but the schoolroom is not sufficiently commodious; they are in a good state of preservation. For the use of the school there are five desks, one black-board, a clock, a good set of maps, and a sufficient supply of books and slates in good condition. The pupils are, on the whole, tolerably punctual and regular in the school; the discipline and cleanliness are good; the attainments of the pupils are satisfactory as a whole. The copy-books are very well preserved and decently written. The roll is well kept.

SAINT MARY'S (I.) :—Visited, 8th July, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—84 boys, 120 girls; total, 204.
Numbers at the examination :—38 boys, 33 girls; total, 71.

This school is held in a commodious stone built building, adjoining Saint Mary's Cathedral, it is in very good repair, and possesses a good gallery, four desks, a blackboard, an abacus, and a good supply of books and slates. The attendance, owing to the season of the year, is only moderate. The cleanliness, discipline, and demeanour of the children are most satisfactory. The subjects taught are those proper to infant schools, and the methods are generally of a suitable and interesting character. The proficiency of the children is, for their age and opportunities, good. The writing is fair, and the roll well kept.

SAINT LEONARD'S :—Visited, 27th April, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—27 boys, 27 girls; total, 54.
Numbers at the examination :—24 boys, 17 girls; total, 41.

The premises in which this school is held, as also the teacher's residence, are built of weather-boards; the schoolroom has good accommodation, and is in good repair; the necessary out-buildings and a good enclosed playground are provided. For the use of the school there are five desks, a press for books, a black-board, clock, time table, maps—World, Ireland, Europe, British Isles, America, Australia, and Palestine—and a fair supply of books. The slates are not sufficient. The children are punctual and regular in their attendance, clean in person, decently dressed, and fairly disciplined. I was much pleased with the appearance of this school. The attainments of the pupils are on the whole, very satisfactory in the different subjects in which they were examined. The copies are clean and some fairly written, and the roll is well kept.

SINGLETON :—Visited, 31st October, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—65 boys, 60 girls; total, 125.
Numbers at the examination :—53 boys, 54 girls; total, 107.

The building in which the school is held, is a very old slab house, not fit for its present use, or safe at certain seasons of the year for persons to be near, much less within it. A new schoolhouse is much required. The out-offices are also bad; there is a good playground; not a teacher's residence. The school possesses seven desks, a rostrum, clock, black-board, a full set of maps, and a good supply of books, slates, and tablet lessons, all in good preservation. There is a good time-table in the school. The pupils are punctual and regular in their attendance, remarkably clean in person, neatly attired and well disciplined. The moral tone of the school is good. The instruction is earnest, and the methods good. The proficiency is very fair in the Christian Doctrine and reading, fair in geography and grammar, and moderate in arithmetic and dictation. The pupils are considerably improved in attention, but deficient in self-reliance in some subjects; on the whole, their answering is very pleasing. The writing is fairly executed, and the roll is well kept, and called every day.

SOUTH CREEK :—Visited, 16th May, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—20 boys, 18 girls; total, 38.
Numbers at the examination :—12 boys, 14 girls; total, 26.

This school is held in a small brick cottage, which is rented by the teacher, it is not suitable as a schoolhouse; the necessary out-buildings, and a good playground, are taken with the cottage. The room in which the school is held, does not afford anything like sufficient accommodation. A new schoolhouse is very much required. For the use of the school there are two desks, a clock, black-board, time-table, maps—Europe and Australia—and a large supply of books; the slates belong to the children. A map of the World is required. Punctuality and regularity are fair; discipline is moderate; and cleanliness satisfactory. The attainments of the children are fair, excepting in geography. The girls write very well, the boys do not. The roll is fairly kept.

SPRING VALLEY :—Visited, 8th December, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—28 boys, 18 girls; total, 46.
Numbers at the examination :—16 boys, 12 girls; total, 28.

The school is held in a good wooden building, and the schoolroom is well kept. The playground which is a small one is not enclosed. A water-closet and a residence for the teacher are not provided. There are two desks, a black-board, clock, maps—World, Europe, and Australia—in the school. The supply of books and slates is not enough. The children are punctual, but very irregular in their attendance. The discipline, order, and cleanliness are fair. The majority of the children attend school but a short time each year, and hence their attainments are moderate. The methods of instruction are not good. The teacher needs training. The roll is well kept.

SPANIARD'S HILL :—Visited, 9th June, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—28 boys, 31 girls; total, 59.
Numbers at the examination :—18 boys, 31 girls; total 49.

The schoolhouse, teacher's residence, and out-buildings are built of slabs; there is good accommodation in the schoolroom, and it is very well kept; plenty of playground; not enclosed. The school possesses four desks, a rostrum, black-board, an abacus, maps—World, Australia, and Europe, and an ample stock of books and slates. The children are punctual to time, regular in their attendance, clean in person, and neatly dressed, and well disciplined. The attainments are, on the whole, fair, and the writing in the copy-books is satisfactory. The tone of the school is good. The roll is well kept.

SURRY HILLS (M.) :—Visited, 30th May, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—101 boys.
Numbers at the examination :—73 boys.

This school is held in a portion of the hall underneath the church of the Sacred Heart. There are many obstacles in the way, which will always prevent the teacher of this school in carrying out order and discipline as he would wish. The schoolroom is not at all a suitable one. The necessary out-buildings, playground, and residence, are provided; and the school possesses nine desks, two black-boards, a clock, a large supply of books and slates in good condition, and maps,—World, Europe, Asia, Australia, America, and Palestine. The pupils are punctual to time and regular in their attendance; they are also clean in person, but rather untidy in appearance. The discipline is not very satisfactory. The attainments are pleasing, excepting the writing, which is only tolerable. The ciphering books are badly done. The roll is well kept.

SURRY HILLS (F.) :—Visited, 20th June, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—31 boys, 105 girls ; total, 136.
Numbers at the examination :—20 boys, 66 girls ; total, 86.

The premises are of the same kind as those in which the boys' school is held. The furniture and apparatus in the school consists of five desks, a black-board, maps—World, Europe, Asia, Africa, America, and Australia. The supply of books and slates is not sufficient. The same clock does for both schools. The punctuality and regularity are, on the whole, good ; the children are remarkably clean and neatly dressed ; the discipline is not in some respects satisfactory. All the subjects prescribed receive due attention, and in most of them a fair degree of proficiency has been gained. Uniform habits of attention require greater cultivation. The roll is fairly kept.

SUTTON FOREST :—Visited, 21st November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—37 boys, 13 girls ; total, 50.
Numbers at the examination :—31 boys, 10 girls ; total, 41.

The buildings are of slab, in good repair and well kept. The necessary out-buildings, residence, and playground are attached to the school. The school is provided with four desks, a clock, black-board, rostrum, maps—World, Europe and Australia and a good stock of books and slates.

The children are regular and tolerably punctual in their attendance, they are clean in person and attire, and fairly disciplined. The tone of the school is good. The proficiency is, on the whole, tolerably fair. The school accounts are well kept. The teacher is zealous in the discharge of his duties.

THE OAKS :—Visited, 16th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—14 boys, 18 girls ; total, 32.
Numbers at the examination :—7 boys, 15 girls : total 22.

The children are taught in a small slab built house, in good repair ; one-half of the floor is boarded and the other is of earth. There is plenty of good playground and the required out-buildings, and a residence are provided. There are in the school-room, two desks, a black-board clock, maps, —World, Europe, and Australia, and a very ample supply of books and slates all in good condition. The children are moderately fair in their attendance ; they are clean and fairly disciplined. Some of the girls read very well, their attainments may be stated as being, on the whole, fair. The roll is not well kept. The present teacher is not long in charge of the school.

TUMUT :—Not visited.

VICTORIA-STREET, (F.) :—Not examined.

VICTORIA-STREET, (I.) :—Not examined.

WATERLOO ESTATE :—Visited, 25th April, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—82 boys, 50 girls ; total, 132.
Numbers at the examination :—59 boys, 38 girls ; total, 97.

This school is held in the nave of the church on Mount Carmel, which is a fine brick building. The portion of the building used as a schoolroom was very dirty and untidy, and apparently had not been swept for some days. There are two out-buildings and a playground for the use of the school ; a residence for the teacher is not attached. For the use of the school there are seven desks, a black-board, maps—World, Europe, Australia, and a small map of Asia and America. The supply of books and slates is ample for the requirements of the school. A book-press and a clock are required. The children are not punctual to time, but they are regular in attending a part of each day ; they are clean in person and fairly attired. The order and discipline are very bad ; the children go out by the half-dozen and the noise in the school is something fearful. The teacher does not appear to have any command over the children. In grammar and geography the pupils are very badly prepared, and their knowledge of arithmetic is poor ; on the whole, there is a great lack of intelligence, and no evidence of intellectual teaching. The writing is very bad, and the roll badly kept, it had not been marked for the last four days, and it is never called aloud.

WAVERLEY :—Visited, 21st April, 1864.

Numbers on the roll :—20 boys, 23 girls ; total, 43.
Numbers at the examination :—13 boys, 17 girls ; total, 30.

The children are taught in the transept of the church, which is a weatherboard building, in good repair. The necessary out-buildings and a playground are attached. A residence is required. The school has one desk, and two large tables, a black-board, which is not used, a press for the books, maps, —World, Europe, Australia, Asia and Palestine—and a good supply of books and slates all in good condition. The children are tolerably punctual, but irregular in their attendance ; they are clean and tidy. The discipline is moderate. The attainments are, on the whole, fair ; the proficiency is not satisfactory. The writing is bad, and the roll is not well kept.

WINDSOR :—

REPORT FOR THE YEAR 1864.

49

WINDSOR:—Visited, 22nd September, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—53 boys, 71 girls; total, 124.
Numbers at the examination:—50 boys, 41 girls; total, 91.

The schoolhouse and residence are built of wood, and have of late been put in excellent repair. The schoolroom is very well kept. There are two good separate water-closets, and a fine playground attached to the school. The pupils are punctual and regular in their attendance, orderly, well-disciplined, and clean, both in person and dress. To assist in their education, there are seven desks, a black-board, clock, a full set of maps, a press for books, of which there is a good supply. The attainments of the children are, on the whole, satisfactory. The school accounts are well kept.

WOLLONGONG (M.):—Visited, 25th July, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—24 boys.
Numbers at the examination:—20 boys.

The buildings are built of weatherboard, in good repair, well kept, and provided with out-buildings and a playground. There are in the school four desks, a rostrum, black-board, maps—Asia, Australia, Palestine, Ireland, and Africa, and a fair supply of books and slates. The attainments of the pupils are very low, excepting in arithmetic; and the writing is, on the whole, bad. The roll is fairly kept.

WOLLONGONG (F.):—Visited, 26th July, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—53 girls.
Numbers at the examination:—43 girls.

The school is held in a portion of the same building with the boys. The out-buildings and playground are the same. The school is supplied with four desks, time-table, a black-board, an abacus, a clock, which is used for both schools, maps—Europe, America, Palestine, and two of the World, and a good stock of slates. The books are not sufficient for the wants of the school, and those in it are in bad condition. The children are punctual and regular in their attendance, clean, and tolerably disciplined. The attainments of the pupils are satisfactory. The roll is fairly kept.

YASS (M.):—Visited, 29th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—59 boys.
Numbers at the examination:—41 boys.

The buildings are of brick, in good repair, and well kept; the out-buildings and playground are good. The school is supplied with five desks, a black-board, clock, time-table, maps—World, Europe, N. S. Wales, Australia, and Palestine, and a sufficient number of books and slates. The pupils are punctual and regular in their attendance, clean and neat in person and dress, and very well disciplined. Together with the ordinary subjects, book-keeping, geometry, algebra, and trigonometry, are taught. The proficiency of the pupils continues to be very satisfactory in each subject of instruction. The roll is very well kept.

YASS (F.):—Visited, 28th November, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—5 boys, 40 girls; total, 45.
Numbers at the examination:—2 boys, 24 girls; total, 26.

The school is held in a portion of the same building with the boys. The school possesses five desks, a black-board, maps—America, Africa, England, Ireland, Palestine, World, and two of Australia. Books and slates are required. The children are tolerably punctual to time, and regular in their attendance; they are clean in person, and very well dressed. The discipline is fair. The attainments of the pupils are, on the whole, meagre. The roll is fairly kept.

YOUNG:—Visited, 2nd December, 1864.

Numbers on the roll:—32 boys, 43 girls; total, 75.
Numbers at the examination:—19 boys, 17 girls; total, 36.

The school is held in the nave of the church, which is a new weatherboard building. The required out-buildings, residence, and playground are attached, and the school has two desks, a map of the World, and a good supply of books, which are very badly kept. A black-board, clock, slates, two desks, maps, and a time table, are required for this school. The children are irregular in their attendance, but tolerably punctual to time. The cleanliness and discipline are fair. In consequence of the illness of Mrs. Callan, the attendance this week has been much below the average, which is about fifty. The attainments are, in some respects, fair. The children in attendance are of a tender age. The roll is fairly kept.

Sydney, 20 January, 1865.

Sir,

I have the honor of submitting, for the information of the Denominational School Board, my Fourth General Annual Report upon the Catholic Schools of New South Wales, for the year ending 31st December, 1864.

Owing to the flooded state of the country, but more especially to the inundations of the Hunter and Camden Districts, I was forced to return to Sydney from each of the above places without being able to visit the schools in them, and had to return to these districts as soon as travelling was practicable, in consequence of which I was unable to visit as many schools during the year as I expected.

DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOL BOARD.

The following table exhibits the number of schools inspected, not inspected, in operation the whole year, and in operation only a part of the year.

|                              | In operation the whole year. | In operation a part of the year. | Total in operation. | Examined. | Not examined. | Closed. |
|------------------------------|------------------------------|----------------------------------|---------------------|-----------|---------------|---------|
| Old-established schools..... | 106                          | 4                                | 110                 | 95        | 15            | 4       |
| New schools .....            | 6                            | 10                               | 16                  | 6         | 10            | 2       |
| Total .....                  | 112                          | 14                               | 126                 | 101       | 25            | 6       |

Of the hundred and one schools examined, sixty-six were visited once; twenty-five, twice; five, three times; three, four times; and two, five times; making in all one hundred and fifty-three visits.

The schools inspected include—

|                          |     |
|--------------------------|-----|
| Boys' schools .. .. .    | 13  |
| Girls' schools .. .. .   | 15  |
| Mixed schools .. .. .    | 66  |
| Infants' schools .. .. . | 7   |
| Total .. .. .            | 101 |

The schools not inspected include—

|                          |    |
|--------------------------|----|
| Boys' schools .. .. .    | 2  |
| Girls' schools .. .. .   | 2  |
| Mixed schools .. .. .    | 20 |
| Infants' schools .. .. . | 1  |
| Total .. .. .            | 25 |

Six schools, to which salaries have been granted, were not opened during the year.

The total number of children on the roll-books, in schools inspected, was 7,546; the number present being 4,329, and would have been much larger if I were allowed to give notice of my visits as all the other Inspectors of schools in the Colony are. The severity of the weather, during a great part of the year, caused the attendance in many of the schools, on the days of examination, to be very small, although the numbers on the roll-books and in attendance shew a fair increase, compared with the previous year. If the whole number of schools had been examined, the increase would have been very considerable.

Total distance travelled, 3,506 miles.

The following table shews the ages of the pupils on the roll-books of ninety-five schools, at the date of examination. This information could not be obtained from the roll-books of six schools.

GENERAL SUMMARY.

|-----------------------------|--|
| Buildings.                  | The material state of the buildings, with the exception of six, is, on the whole, fair.  |
| Accommodation.              | The accommodation in them is not so; being only good or fair in 48·3 per cent. of the schools examined, tolerable or moderate in 32·9 per cent., and indifferent or bad in 23·8 per cent.  |
| Where held.                 | Six are held in small dwelling-houses rented by the teachers, which are not suitable as school-houses; five are held in the halls underneath churches; seventeen in buildings which are occasionally used as churches; and seventy-three in buildings which are used for no other purpose than school-houses. To only one is there a class-room attached.  |
| Class-room.                 | There are but few of the schools well ventilated. I have frequently found windows which were not opened for days and weeks together, and some which could not be opened at all. As regards health, cleanliness, decency, and the growing moral habits of the children, the cleanliness of the school-room and supervision of water-closets should be better attended to.   |
| Ventilation.                | There are at present only six of the schools inspected without a water-closet.   |
| Water-closets.              | The want of residences for the teachers is much felt, and is very detrimental to their success, as they have to lodge in houses which are not suitable for them. Six are in bad repair, and not fit habitations for teachers.  |
| Residences.                 | The furniture and apparatus are, on the whole, amply supplied to all the schools at present, excepting Irishtown and Muswellbrook. The new desks are generally too large; only in six schools of those supplied with them have I found them of the proper dimensions.  |
| Furniture and apparatus.    | I have had, on a few occasions, to complain of allowing schools to remain, for months at a time, without their supply of books. The schools are at present fairly supplied with them; but, comparatively speaking, in few have the children books or slates for home study.  |
| Books.                      | The state of the roll-books is nearly the same as in 1863.   |
| Roll-books.                 | Remarks are not often seen in the pages of the roll-books from members of local boards, or from visitors.  |
| Local boards.               | A new form of class roll and register is much needed.  |
| New class-roll.             | The number of schools at present without time-tables is only seventeen; the number was thirty-six in 1863; but the number which is indifferent or bad is double what it had been in the above year.  |
| Time-tables.                | It is the duty of teachers to see that their pupils receive the greatest amount and the best order possible of instruction, in the limited time during which their schools are assembled. A judicious teacher can accomplish this by arranging his time-table so that occupation for the desks—as writing, slate arithmetic, dictation, composition, &c.—may alternate with appropriate employment for the floor.  |
|                             | I have come to the conclusion, after some careful consideration, during a long experience of teaching and four years of school inspection, that this "committing to memory," or "preparing lessons," during school hours, is as destructive an employment as any to which children can be put; and I regret to find that the practice is very general in our schools. Home is the place for the preparation of lessons. To afford children opportunities in the school-room to prepare their lessons is no encouragement to them to become students at home. When teachers are asked why they resort to this expedient, they say they cannot keep them better employed, and that the children are not provided with books to prepare home lessons. |
|                             | Nothing conduces so much to good order, or so effectually prevents the natural vivacity of children from becoming troublesome in school, as the active employment of every child in it.  |
| Punctuality.                | The number of schools in which punctuality is indifferent is ten less than it had been in 1863, while the number in which it is good or fair is four more than it had been in the same year. I cannot say so much for the regularity of the pupils. The cleanliness of the pupils, which has been generally very good, on the whole, is about the same as in the previous year.  |
| Regularity.                 | In the order and discipline I have observed an improvement.  |
| Cleanliness.                | Discipline is, in reality, the governing element in education; and to understand the discipline that prevails in a school, the business of each class must be minutely entered into—the manners of the children, and their eagerness or apathy to learn must be observed; they must be seen enter the school in the morning, and retire again in the evening; and the control and influence which teacher and school exercise over them must be estimated.   |
| Order and discipline.       | Classification has also improved, but there are two great defects in it: 1st, the placing of children in classes for which their education is not sufficiently advanced; and 2nd, subdivision of classes.  |
| Classification.             | The instruction in religion is very satisfactory; it is one of the subjects of instruction in our schools which receives most attention, and is, therefore, one in which the pupils are at home.   |
| Religious instruction.      | There is a reasonable improvement observable in reading, writing, and arithmetic; but geography and grammar are about the same as in the previous year.  |
| Proficiency in attainments. | Dictation has not much improved. Needlework is successfully taught in twelve schools; it cannot be said to receive any attention in any of the other schools.  |
|                             | Mapping or drawing is taught with some success in one.   |

Although

Although there is some improvement to be noticed in this department since the previous inspection, still it cannot be said to be in a satisfactory state.

Little time out of school is devoted to maturing plans for doing the work inside. A great many teachers act as if their connection with the school was severed at 4 o'clock, not to be resumed until 9 next morning. Granting that they know the subjects, they assume that they must also know how to impart their knowledge. A teacher must be always advancing; as soon as ever he has lost his taste for learning, be sure he has no taste left for teaching. I could infer, in some instances, that a lesson had received previous special preparation; and, except in such cases, there appeared to be no evidence in the treatment of a lesson, that the method in which it should be given had been considered at all.

The methods are very indifferent in the schools conducted by some of the teachers who have been trained in Sydney. It may be the time of training is too short, or that they do not receive any instruction in the art of teaching.

It, however, affords me much pleasure to be able to state that, on the whole, the Catholic schools of New South Wales have made fair progress during the past year.

I have, &c.,
W. P. CASEY,
Inspector of Catholic Schools.

The Honorable the Chairman of the Denominational School Board, Sydney.

Church of England Schools' Office,
15 February, 1865.

Sir,

I have the honor, herewith, to forward the Report of the Training Master in our Model School, for the year 1864. In doing so, I would take the opportunity of expressing the satisfaction I feel with the zeal and assiduity with which Mr. Huffer has discharged the duties of his office, and my sense of the benefits derived to the cause of education by means of the training which the teachers who have passed through the school have received therein.

The reports of the Inspector in many instances shew that the schools taught by those who have had these advantages are superior in point of discipline and general efficiency.

I have, &c.,
WILLIAM M. COWPER.

The Honorable the Chairman of the Denominational School Board.

St. James' Model School,
1 February, 1865.

Very Reverend Sir,

I have the honor to submit, for your information and approval, the following Report of the Training Department in connection with this school, for the year 1864.

1. Four (4) candidate teachers remained in training from 1863.
2. Seventy-five (75) persons applied in the year for admission into the training school. Of these, sixteen (16) having produced satisfactory testimonials of character, &c., and passed the preliminary examination successfully, were accepted as candidate teachers. Four (4) produced satisfactory testimonials, but have not yet been required to undergo the preliminary examination, there being no vacancies for them in the training school. Two (2) being qualified teachers, were appointed at once to schools, and fifty-three (53) applicants were for various reasons rejected.
3. Of the twenty (20) candidates in training in the year—
  - One (1) was discharged after remaining a fortnight in the training school.
  - One (1) withdrew from the training school to follow other employment.
  - One (1) was trained 10 months and appointed to a school.
  - One (1) do. 8½ " " "
  - One (1) do. 6 " " "
  - One (1) do. 3 " " "
  - One (1) do. 2 " " "
  - One (1) do. 1 week, " "
  - Two (2) do. 6½ months each, and appointed to schools.
  - Two (1) do. 5 " " "
  - Two (2) do. 3 weeks each, " "
  - Two (2) do. 2 " " "
  - And one (1) had been trained 7 months, and remained in training at the end of the year.
  - Three (3) had been trained 5 months each, and remained at the end of the year.
4. Two male pupil teachers from the primary school were appointed in the year as assistants—one in this school and one in St. Philip's primary.
5. From the foregoing table, it will be seen that the average length of the training course in the year has been four (4) months, which is considerably less than in either of the two previous years 1862-3. This result has been caused partly by a greater number of qualified candidates having applied in the year, and more especially by a rule of the Denominational School Board, issued in the latter half of the year, limiting the maximum length of each candidate's training course to six (6) months.

Owing to the repairs and alterations which were going on in the school-buildings in the latter part of the year, neither the work of the school nor that of the training department could be carried on with proper method and regularity; but under the circumstances, I have great pleasure in reporting favourably of the attention, application, and earnest desire to qualify themselves for their work, displayed by all the candidates in training in the year; and I feel sure that those appointed to schools will prove themselves quite equal, if not superior, to the same number sent out in any previous year since the establishment of the training school.

6. The classification of those teachers appointed in the year has been made upon the same basis as that given in my report for 1863. But with reference to this subject, and to the remarks contained thereon in my last report, I think that the time has now arrived when arrangements can be made for a proper classification of all our teachers—those in charge of schools as well as those to be afterwards appointed. It appears to me that the chief difficulties in the way of a proper classification have been removed, and that now a practicable scheme for carrying out the Denominational School Board's expressed wishes on the subject might be conveniently introduced. I am sure that if such a measure were carried out, it would raise both teachers and schools very much in the estimation of the public, and would also materially advance the interests of education in the Colony.

7. With reference to pupil teachers, I have to report for the year that twelve (12) candidates have been examined, eight (8) of whom were successful and received appointments; there being now thirty-seven (37) pupil teachers (32 female and 5 male) employed in our schools.

A general first year's examination of these teachers (at which thirty-five attended) was held in this school on the 23rd December. I beg to enclose with this report copies of the "programme of study" and of the examination papers which each pupil teacher was required to answer in writing. They were also required to read a portion from one of the school reading books, and each wrote the substance of a simple prose narrative read over to them two or three times for the purpose.

With reference to the general results of the examination, I am sorry to be unable to report favourably. In the majority of cases the pupil teachers appear to have received but little instruction, or else to have profited but little by what they have received. In some subjects a few of them answered fairly, and I observe that in several instances those who stood lowest on the list in the preliminary examination before their appointment are now much in advance of others who were then before them. While, on the other hand, some who were among the first on the list then are now placed nearly last. However, this being the first examination they have undergone since their appointment, some allowance should be made for the deficiencies shewn in their papers. And steps having been taken to impress upon them the necessity for greater application on their part during the present year, I believe much more will be done by all of them, and that the results produced at the next examination (to be held at Christmas, 1865), will be much more satisfactory.

I have, &c.,

JOHN HUFFER,

Head Master and Training Master.

The Very Reverend
The Dean of Sydney.

2. Name the last five judges, the first four kings, and the last prophet of the Israelites; and write out the names of the Books in the Old Testament, as arranged, from the Book of Ezra to the prophecy of Isaiah.
3. Write out the characters of Enoch and Noah, as given in the Bible; and trace the descent of Abraham from Noah.
4. Give the chief events in the life of Joseph.
5. Name the different writers of the Books of the New Testament.
6. Give the events in the life of Our Blessed Lord from His birth to His temptation, as recorded by St. Luke.
7. Name four miracles and four parables of Our Lord, recorded by St. Luke, with the places where the miracles were performed and the parables spoken.
8. Write out the substance of Our Lord's teaching on "Forgiveness of injuries," as recorded in xvii chap. of St. Luke's Gospel.
9. What hymns of praise; from the 1st and 2nd chaps. of St. Luke, are used in the order for Morning and Evening Prayer? In what part of the service are they used? And by whom, and on what occasions, were they first spoken?
10. Write out the order for Morning Prayer, from the beginning to the Apostles' Creed.
11. Write out your "Duty towards God," and give the Scripture proofs for it.
12. Write out the answer to the question "What meanest thou by this word Sacrament?"

ENGLISH GRAMMAR.

Write the first line of your answer as a specimen of copy-setting in large hand; and the second line as a specimen of copy-setting in small hand.

1. Give the derivations and meanings of the words—Noun, adjective, preposition, and conjunction.
2. What is meant by "inflection of words"? In which person and number do pronouns undergo inflections for gender? and for what purposes are nouns and verbs inflected? Name the classes of English words not subject to inflection.
3. Give the plurals of hero, money, scarf, penny, man, datum; and the past tenses and past participles of "cast," "hurt," "lay," "grind," "lie," "strive."
4. Give a general and a detailed analysis of the following simple sentences, and parse the words printed in italics:—
  1. "The age of the great Constantine and his sons is filled with important events."
  2. "In that hour of deep contrition,
He beheld with clearer vision,
Through all outward show and fashion,
Justice, the Avenger, rise!"

Wednesday, July 13th, 1864.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit to you, for presentation to the Denominational Board of Education, the accompanying Reports in a tabulated form, embodying the results of the working of the Training Department attached to St. Mary's Model School, and the Department in connection with the Parramatta-street Denominational School, for the half-year ending the thirtieth day of June, eighteen hundred and sixty-four (1864).

For the past half-year there were in all fourteen applicants who sought admission into the Training Department of St. Mary's Model School. The examination papers of seven of these applicants having proved satisfactory, they were accordingly admitted in due form. There was, however, one applicant of these seven whose papers were at first found unsatisfactory; but the Catholic Board of Education having granted him the privilege of a second examination, pending which he receive; instruction from me for the space of three weeks, he was at the expiration of this time re-examined; and his second examination having had a favourable result, he was accordingly appointed candidate teacher. The remaining seven applicants were unsuccessful, their examination papers having in several instances been very unsatisfactory. There at present remain three candidate teachers unappointed to schools under the Denominational Board.

It is with great pleasure I affirm that the progress of the candidate teachers for the past half-year is very marked; their classification, as seen in the accompanying tabulated form, being higher than that of those of whom I had the honor of furnishing a report for the last half of 1863.

With regard to the Female Training Department, I have the honor to inform you that, though there have been several applicants for admission during the past half-year, their applications could not be entertained, there being no vacancies, on account of the same causes being still in operation which I had the honor to represent in my last report relative to this department, to which I beg leave to refer you. I must, however, make an exception in the case of one applicant who succeeded in obtaining admission.

In reference to the Pupil Teachers' Department, I have the honor to inform you that there has been no increase in the males since my last report. There has been an increase of two to the number in the female department in the course of the past half-year. The instruction to the teachers in this department still continues to be given on the same days that I had the honor of specifying in my last report.

I have, &c.,

To C. E. Robinson, Esq.,
Secretary of Denominational Board.

† Miss M'Manus voluntarily resigned the office of candidate teacher at the close of the month of March.

Sydney, Tuesday, 31 January, 1865.

Sir,

I have the honor to lay before the Denominational School Board, in a tabulated form, the results of the working of the Training Department in connection with St. Mary's Model School, and with the Parramatta-street Girls' School, for the six months ending the 31st day of December, 1864.

For the twelve months ending the 31st of December of the past year, there were in all twenty-six applicants for admission to the Training Department of St. Mary's Model School. The examination papers of fourteen of these applicants having met with the approbation of the Catholic Board of Education, they were accordingly admitted into the Training Department. The examination papers of the remaining twelve having proved to be all of various degrees below mediocrity, their applications were rejected without a single exception.

During the above period, there were six successful applicants for admission as candidates to the Parramatta-street Girls' School. Of the number whose applications were not attended with success, it may be said their want of success was mainly owing to the fact of there being no vacancy for them.

It is with very great satisfaction I state, that the progress of the candidate teachers in connection with St. Mary's Model School, is unquestionably more marked since I last had the honor of furnishing my report of the working of the department, to the Denominational Board of Education.

In the Pupil Teachers' Department, there was one of the teachers (male) dismissed during the last month of the past year, and his place temporarily filled. During the past twelve months there were three female teachers added to the staff, and there are now in all six female pupil teachers distributed through various schools in the city.

I have, &amp;c.,

JNO. NICH. JOSH. KELLY,
Training and Organizing Master,
St. Mary's.To C. E. Robinson, Esq.,

* Mr. M'Faddin, on the representation of the Master of the Model School, was dismissed by the Catholic Board in the end of December.

† Mr. M'Gauran took his departure from the Model School, and obtained employment in a different walk of life in the Colony about the same time.

Teachers, both male and female, are classified when they are appointed to the charge of schools.

MEMORANDUM:—

These returns are compiled from the latest information received by the Board, and shew, as nearly as possible, the present state of the schools. In one or two cases the average attendance at schools in the Country Districts is below the proper standard. The Board are informed that this arises from the children being temporarily required for agricultural purposes, or from the prevalence of epidemics.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOLS.

(STATEMENT OF BALANCES TO CREDIT OF BOARD, &c.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 14 June, 1865.

SECRETARY TO DENOMINATIONAL SCHOOL BOARD to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Denominational School Board Office,
Sydney, 13 June, 1865.

SIR,

I am directed by the Denominational School Board to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 20th ultimo, and to return the following answer to the same.

1. In compliance with the request contained in the first paragraph of your letter, I am directed to forward the enclosed statement, shewing (subject to the explanation therein contained) on the 1st of each month, beginning with the 1st January, 1864, the sum standing to the credit of the Board; also the portion of each such sum appropriated, and therefore liable to be called for at any moment; also the actual balance of each such sum unappropriated. From this statement it will be seen that on the 1st June instant there was a sum of £11,105 13s. 1d. to the credit of the Board, in the bank, of which sum £8,020 12s. 7d. is appropriated, leaving, therefore, a balance of £3,085 0s. 6d. available for the purposes of the Board.

2. With reference to the representation mentioned in the second paragraph of your letter, I am directed to state, that it is true to the extent that, while the Board has been pressing upon the Government the necessity for making larger grants for Denominational education, there have been considerable sums to their credit in the bank; but that in every other respect the statement is inaccurate.

3. In answer to the third paragraph of your letter, I am directed to point out, first, that sums appropriated—that is, sums actually promised by the Board on certain conditions being complied with, and which conditions are in course of being complied with—can in no way be treated as balances to the credit of the Board; and secondly, that the real balance of £3,085 0s. 6d. is a very moderate sum to remain unappropriated, when it is recollected that it belongs to four distinct bodies, and that it is not possible for these bodies, however much they may desire to avail themselves of the money granted to them, so to regulate their expenditure as to make it absorb the whole sum which at any particular date may be at their disposal. I am directed, however, to state, by way of further explanation, that the fact of there being any balance at all arises chiefly from the circumstance that when an increase has been made by the Legislature to the Vote for Denominational Schools, it has been made so late in the year as not to be available for the ordinary service of that year. The consequence is, that such increase has formed an unexpended balance for the year, applicable to special purposes, but not absorbed in the general operations of the Board. The attention of the Legislature has been more than once drawn to the circumstances, in the annual Reports of the Board. I am directed further to state, that the requests which the Denominations have been constantly pressing on the Board, and which the Board has pressed on the Government, have been chiefly for the means to open and maintain additional schools. With regard to the Church of England, the want of schools is particularly felt in the newly-formed Diocese of Goulburn; and the Board has no means to supply the want except by closing schools which are in efficient working in the other dioceses. With regard to the Roman Catholic Church, the case is equally urgent, inasmuch as, unless additional funds are placed at the command of the Board, twenty-five schools will shortly have to be closed. I am further directed to mention that, generally speaking, the Board does not place on its list any school for which a permanent provision cannot be made, and that therefore an accidental balance of a few hundred pounds does not in any way meet the wants just described.

I have, &c.,

C. E. ROBINSON,
Secretary.

These amounts include the balance of the Vote for 1863, and a large sum was at these dates owing for salaries, books, apparatus, &c., for that year. The liabilities for 1863 were satisfied by the end of June, 1864.

These amounts include the balance of the Vote for 1864, and a large sum was at these dates owing for salaries, books, and apparatus, for that year. The liabilities for 1864 were nearly all satisfied by June 1, 1865.

* These sums do not include the Vote for the current year, which, being in the course of daily expenditure, is the subject of an entirely separate account.

NATIONAL EDUCATION.

(REPORT, 1864.)

Presented to both Houses of Parliament, by Command.

SEVENTEENTH REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF NATIONAL EDUCATION IN NEW SOUTH WALES.

REPORT for the Year 1864.

To His Excellency the Right Honorable SIR JOHN YOUNG, Bart., Governor-in-Chief of New South Wales, &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY :—

We, the Commissioners of National Education in New South Wales, beg to submit to your Excellency this our seventeenth Report.

I.—SCHOOLS.

The number of schools in operation in 1864 was 228, of which five were old schools re-opened, and nineteen were newly established. Ten of the schools in existence in 1863 were closed in 1864, though it is probable that some of them may hereafter be revived. The number of pupils in attendance was 16,255, and the advance upon the previous year was, consequently, fourteen schools and 530 pupils. It is not difficult to explain the causes of this small addition to the number of pupils. During the earlier portion of the year, repeated floods not only interfered with the establishment of new schools, by stopping building operations, but also occasioned a temporary suspension of existing schools and, in one instance, led to the final abandonment of a school. Even after the floods had subsided, and physical obstacles no longer interposed to prevent school attendance, the poverty and distress which remained exerted a very injurious influence upon the schools. At a later period, and in other parts of the Colony, similar evils resulted from the prevalence of rust in the wheat crop, large numbers of children being kept away from school on account of the inability of the parents, from poverty thus occasioned, to provide them with suitable clothing. It is gratifying to observe that, notwithstanding these impediments to regular attendance, the proportion of pupils in average daily attendance to the whole number upon the books has been maintained, and even exceeds slightly the ratio attained in previous years. The per centage of pupils in average daily attendance to the number enrolled, was—

|--------------|--------------|
| In 1860..... | 66 per cent. |
| 1861.....    | 69 „         |
| 1862.....    | 65 „         |
| 1863.....    | 69 „         |
| 1864.....    | 70 „         |

There is reason to regard the results which these figures indicate as very satisfactory, especially when due weight is allowed to the many circumstances which tend to promote irregularity of attendance. Some of these causes have already been noticed ; but but others of more permanent influence are the practice of employing children of even a tender age in productive labor, and the general indifference to education which exists among some classes of the community.

In the following Table the progressive increase in the number of National Schools and pupils is exhibited, for the last ten years :—

<sup>1</sup> On the 30th November, 1859, two Vested Schools, attended by 156 children, were transferred to the Board established in the newly erected Colony of Queensland.

II.—BUILDING GRANTS.

The sum of £3,787 18s. was granted in 1864 for the erection and repair of school buildings, rent, furniture, and apparatus; and at the close of the year a further sum of £3,840 1s. 6d. had been pledged for similar purposes. As there is a strong probability that a larger number of applications for the establishment of schools will be received by the Board during 1865, than in any previous year, it is highly desirable that the means at their disposal should be increased, so as to enable them to meet such applications by granting aid for payment of Teachers' salaries, and for the erection of school buildings. We append the copy of a letter which we have addressed to the Colonial Secretary on this subject.

Appendix C.

III.—SALARIES.

The salaries of teachers during the year amounted to £24,561 2s. 1d., and the salaries and allowances to officers and servants to £4,590 19s. 11d.

Special circumstances have obliged us to make some change in the relative duties and salaries of the officers attached to the Central Establishment. The health of the Secretary, Mr. Wills, had been failing for several years, while, concurrently with this misfortune, the weight and importance of the duties of the office have enormously increased, and the desirability of having as Secretary a gentleman practically conversant with the details of the System, and therefore fitted to act as the confidential adviser of the Board in all technical matters, became more and more apparent. To meet the exigency of the case it was found necessary to employ Mr. Wilkins, then Chief Inspector, in such of the duties of Secretary as Mr. Wills was unable to fulfil, and to relieve Mr. Wilkins in proportion from the duty of Inspector. This transfer of duty became more complete in October, 1863, when Mr. Wills obtained, with consent of the Government, leave of absence to proceed to England, in order to submit himself to an operation for removal of cataract in the eyes. During his absence, we have had to congratulate ourselves that Mr. Wilkins' peculiar qualifications have enabled him to discharge the various and increasing duties of Secretary with complete efficiency. On the return of Mr. Wills from England, with his sight and health happily restored to a sufficient extent to enable him to offer to resume his duties, the Board felt it very difficult to determine how to act, especially as they could hardly regard Mr. Wills' permanent restoration as sufficiently certain to be relied upon.

The impossibility, under existing circumstances, of giving Mr. Wills any distinct assurance of a fair retiring allowance, has added to the difficulty. The result of our consideration has been to make the following provisional arrangement for the present year, viz. :—That Mr. Wilkins should act as Secretary, with his existing salary and house allowance, and Mr. Wills as Assistant Secretary, at a somewhat reduced salary, and with residence as heretofore.

The

The reduction of salary which has resulted from force of circumstances, we do not intend as any disparagement of Mr. Wills' services, which have been now faithfully rendered—with intervals of illness excepted—for sixteen years; and in the event of his being at any time held entitled to a retiring allowance, we consider that the full salary he before received should still form the basis for its computation.

We have to record the death of one of our Inspectors, Mr. B. H. M'Cann, who was accidentally drowned while travelling in discharge of his duty. By this lamentable occurrence his family were deprived of the means of support, and although some temporary assistance was extended to them, we did not feel justified in devoting any portion of the funds confided to our care to making provision of a permanent nature. The Superannuation Act, if interpreted so as to include the Board's officers, could appropriately have been applied in this case. We take this opportunity of inviting the attention of the Government and of the Legislature to the claim of our officers to participate in the provisions of the Superannuation Act. Although engaged in performing the work of the public, and paid from the public funds, they are denied recognition as public servants.

The nature of the duties discharged by Inspectors, involving frequent exposure to wet and cold and to the dangers arising from travelling in all seasons through remote parts of the country, and consequently rendering them liable to accidents and sickness, peculiarly entitle them to consideration. But if, on an objection so purely technical as that they are not appointed by a responsible Minister, the claims of our officers be disallowed, it might be desirable to invest us with power to establish for those in our employ a Special Superannuation Fund, which might then include Teachers. In this case, it would be necessary to provide a reasonable sum to form the basis of such Superannuation Fund.

Mr. Harris, formerly Head Master of the Model School at Fort-street and subsequently Training Master, has been appointed to succeed Mr. M'Cann as Inspector, and the vacancy thus occasioned has been filled by the appointment of Mr. J. S. Jones, late Master of the Cleveland-street School, as Training Master.

The total amount of school fees paid in 1864, was £12,331 2s. 5d., being an increase of £95 15s. 8d. upon the sum paid in 1863. The same causes which affected the attendance of scholars operated even more injuriously upon the payment of school fees. In fact, such payments were altogether suspended in some of the districts that suffered from floods and rust, not only at the time when these calamities prevailed, but for subsequent periods of considerable length, and parents omitted even to pay arrears previously due from sheer inability to find money.

IV.—CLASSIFICATION OF TEACHERS.

In the early part of 1864, we deemed it expedient to discontinue the practice then in existence of requiring Inspectors to revise the examination papers of teachers, and to appoint a special officer for this duty. We were induced to take this step partly with a view to relieve the Inspectors of a labor for the proper performance of which, in connection with other duties of an onerous nature, they had not sufficient time; but chiefly to remove from the teachers' minds all ground of suspicion as to the perfect impartiality of the reports upon their papers. The appointment of Examiner was accordingly conferred upon A. Oliver, Esq., B. A., Universities of Sydney and Oxford. The number of teachers examined in 1864, exclusive of candidates in training and pupil teachers, was 122. The beneficial influence of this stimulus to improvement continues to be as marked as in former years, a very fair proportion of the teachers examined having obtained a higher classification.

V.—TRAINING.

From the Report of the Training Master appended hereto, it will be evident that Appendix D. the work of the department was largely extended during 1864. Many defects are known to exist in the present system, but the expense requisite to establish a more perfect organization for the training of teachers would absorb too great a proportion of the funds at our disposal for us to attempt to carry out the plans which we believe to be desirable.

VI.—INSPECTION.

Appendix E.

Owing to the decease of Mr. M'Cann, we are unable to give complete statistics as in former years respecting schools examined in 1864, but we append reports from the other Inspectors upon their several districts. These documents convey a tolerably complete notion of the condition of the schools inspected, and may be said in general terms to indicate that some advance has been made during the year.

VII.—FINANCE.

Appendix F.

A Statement of Receipts and Disbursements is appended hereto.

Should the vote for 1865 not exceed that for 1864 it will not suffice, without retrenchment, to meet the liabilities we have already undertaken, and no provision can be made for the erection of new schools. We trust that the Legislature will continue to exercise the same wise liberality that they have hitherto displayed in providing for the educational wants of the Colony.

We submit this, our Report, for the year ending 31st December, 1864; and in testimony thereof, we have caused our corporate seal to be affixed hereto, this twenty-first day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

APPENDIX C.

National Education Office,
Sydney, 9 March, 1865.

Sir,

I have the honor, by direction of the Board of National Education, to submit for your information the following statement regarding the Board's financial position, and to solicit the favorable consideration of the Government to the application which, on account of the circumstances now to be disclosed, they deem it necessary to make for an augmentation of the usual Parliamentary Vote for National School purposes.

2. During 1864, the Board had 228 schools in operation, and since the commencement of the present year, they have granted aid, for salaries or for buildings, to nine others. They have now 237 in actual operation. Applications have also been made this year for the establishment of seven vested and seven non-vested schools; it is expected that twelve schools in operation in former years will be re-opened;

re-opened; and intimation has been received from twenty-nine other localities that applications for aid may be expected within the current year. Even if no other applications should be received, as is hardly probable; the Board would by the close of the year have 292 in actual operation, being an increase upon 1864 of 63 schools, and—to adopt the lowest estimate—of 2,855 pupils in average attendance.

3. Assuming that the Parliamentary Vote for 1865 will be at the same rate as last year, the funds at the disposal of the Board may be thus estimated:—

|                           |    |    |    |    |    |         |
|---------------------------|----|----|----|----|----|---------|
| Vote..                    | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | £35,000 |
| Church and School Estates | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 900     |
|                           |    |    |    |    |    | £35,900 |

4. The expenditure on account of schools already in existence will be—

|  |    |    |    |    |    |         |
|--|----|----|----|----|----|---------|
| Salaries—Officers and Teachers..                       | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | £31,442 |
| Building Pledges ..                                    | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 4,798   |
| Miscellaneous Expenses, including Training Department, | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. |         |
| Travelling Expenses, Books and Stationery ..           | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 2,750   |
|  |    |    |    |    |    | £38,990 |

The expenditure required for these schools will therefore exceed the available funds by more than £3,000, and in addition to this sum, there will be required for—

|                                  |    |    |    |    |    |        |
|----------------------------------|----|----|----|----|----|--------|
| Buildings already applied for    | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | £1,300 |
| Salaries for schools applied for | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 650    |
| Do. do. expected                 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | £1,950 |
|                                  |    |    |    |    |    | £3,900 |

The total amount required will consequently be £42,890—£6,990 more than the estimated income.

5. It will be observed that, in the foregoing estimate, the Board have taken into account only the natural growth of the system by the multiplication of schools of the ordinary kind, and that they have omitted all reference to schools which, though of the highest importance, do not come within that description. For example, the Board have at various times given much anxious consideration to the propriety of establishing District Model Schools, which are not only necessary for the extension and completion of the system as an organization for carrying on the work of Education, but also as a means of relieving the central administration by assigning a portion of its duties to local agency.

The necessity of Industrial Schools, and for cheap Boarding Schools in the interior, has not been overlooked, but owing to the entire absorption of the funds for ordinary school purposes no active steps could be taken in this matter. The Board have not relinquished the hope that they may yet be able to accomplish this object, though compelled by the circumstances already detailed to forego the idea for the present.

Considerable additions are required to some of the Model Schools in Sydney, but these works have been deferred from year to year in the expectation that their finances would enable the Board to complete them within a short period, but funds are still wanting for this purpose.

In view of the facts that, without an increased grant, some existing schools must be closed, building aid must be refused to others, all new applications must be declined, and expensive buildings must be permitted to fall into a state of dilapidation for want of requisite repairs and additions; the Board trust the Government will coincide with them as to the necessity of increasing the Parliamentary Vote to £40,000 at least, for the year 1865.

6. In this estimate, the Board have taken fully into account the financial pressure which may at present be expected to restrain the liberality of the Legislature within narrower limits than might be applicable under happier circumstances. It cannot be too clearly understood that any reduction below the amount above stated, would cause a positive retrogression in National Education, by leaving the Board, having relation to their growing field of operations, with actually less support than they have hitherto received.

The Board are however assured that their anxiety, not only to maintain, but advance, the present character of popular education, is far from being confined to themselves; and if it should be found possible, in consideration of the paramount importance of the object, to place a further sum under their control, they would suggest a special Vote for an experiment in Industrial and Agricultural Boarding Schools. By this means alone, the children of persons resident in scattered stations, not sufficiently populous to support a school, can be brought under the influence of the instruction diffused by the Board. If the buildings were once erected in fertile and well chosen spots, these schools might, it is hoped, be rendered ere long self-supporting, partly by the contributions of parents and friends—partly by the substitution for purchased articles of food and clothing, of the produce of well regulated domestic industry occupying some of the intervals between mental instruction—and occasionally, even by the profitable sale of a surplus. If even one or two schools on such a system should prove sufficiently successful to justify their multiplication throughout the Colony, they would solve a problem of immeasurable importance with reference to its future destiny.

I have, &c.,
G. K. HOLDEN,
Chairman.

To the Colonial Secretary.

MEMO.—Appended to this letter was a list of—

- 8 Vested Schools in course of erection,
- 7 do. do. from which applications for aid had been received,
- 12 Schools likely to be re-opened,
- 7 Non-vested schools from which applications had been received,
- 29 places from which applications were expected.

Total, 63

Since the letter was written, applications for the establishment or re-opening of ten Vested and five Non-vested schools have been received.

APPENDIX D.

TRAINING MASTER'S REPORT.

*Training Department, Model National School,
Sydney, 5 January, 1865.*

Sir,

I have the honor to submit, for the information of the Board of National Education, the following Report upon this department, for the year ending 31st December, 1864.

2. During the year, thirteen (13) teachers already in the Board's service, and one hundred and one (101) candidates for situations under the Board, applied for admission to the department; namely, sixty-nine (69) males and forty-five (45) females. The number admitted was fifty (50) males, and thirty-one (31) females. Eight (8) withdrew their applications, the application of one (1) is now before the Board, and the remaining twenty-four (24) were rejected. Of this number, eight (8) males and fourteen (14) females failed in the preliminary examination, and two (2) were refused admission upon other grounds.

3. The following table shews the period of attendance of males and females respectively :—

|               | One Month. | Two Months. | Three Months. | Total. |
|---------------|------------|-------------|---------------|--------|
| Males .....   | 42         | 5           | 3             | 50     |
| Females ..... | 22         | 5           | 4             | 31     |
| Total.....    | 64         | 10          | 7             | 81     |

4. The number that succeeded in obtaining classification as National School Teachers, is as follows :—

|               | Classification—3rd Class. |    |    | Not classified. | Total. |
|---------------|---------------------------|----|----|-----------------|--------|
|               | A                         | B  | C  |                 |        |
| Males .....   | 7                         | 21 | 19 | 3               | 50     |
| Females ..... | 2                         | 11 | 12 | 6               | 31     |
| Total .....   | 9                         | 32 | 31 | 9               | 81     |

Candidates are not examined in alternative subjects, and therefore cannot obtain classification in either the first or second class. This course is pursued in order that the teacher's rank may not be wholly dependent upon his attainments. After his practical skill has been tested by an inspection of his school, he is eligible for re-examination, with the view of obtaining a higher classification.

5. Except in the case of persons who are already principal or assistant teachers in schools, the only candidates eligible for admission to the department are those whose ages are not less than eighteen years or more than forty years. It has been considered that persons upwards of forty years of age, and especially those who have had no experience in teaching, would be unlikely to derive much benefit from a course of training, or to become efficient teachers; and, on the other hand, that, as the character of a person under eighteen years of age is not fully formed, it is undesirable to entertain applications from such, except for the office of pupil teacher, for which purpose they need not enter the training department.

6. By referring to the foregoing statements, it will be seen that 31 per cent. of the female candidates failed in the preliminary examination; and yet most of them professed to have received a respectable education in private schools. In this examination, which was conducted in writing, easy questions were given in English grammar, geography, and arithmetic; but the replies received clearly shew that a great want of solidity exists in much of the so-called education of women. The per centage of males that failed was 11·5

7. No material alteration has been made in the course of instruction. As in the previous year, it has been restricted to the subjects taught in every National School, namely,—reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar, geography, and the National School books, and to matters bearing upon school management and methods of teaching. The fact has been constantly borne in mind that, in the case of those under instruction, two purposes had to be served,—first, the giving of correct information upon the subjects brought under their notice; and second, the exhibition of such methods as they might be expected to adopt in their schools with the greatest advantage to their pupils.

8. Although by the altered regulations a candidate may attend the department for three months, the practical value of this extension of time is greatly reduced by the circumstance that fresh candidates are admitted at the beginning of each month, and consequently the course of instruction in any one month differs but little from that given in any other. I am still of opinion that, as a rule, the period of training should not be less than three months, and that candidates should be admitted only at the commencement of each quarter.

W. Wilkins, Esq.,
Secretary, Board of National Education.

I have, &c.,
T. HARRIS,
Training Master.

APPENDIX E.

GENERAL REPORT.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT upon the National Schools of the Metropolitan and Central Districts, visited during the Year 1864.

I.—THE AMOUNT OF INSPECTION.

The schools inspected lie in the County of Cumberland, and extend into that of Camden, as far to the southward as the limit of Kiama. In the Central District, forty-one schools were visited, and in the Metropolitan twenty-one; but two of the former were, at the period of visitation, not in a condition to be regularly examined. The names of the schools are given in the usual statistics. Briefly, it may be said that—

|  |       |
|--|-------|
| The number of schools examined .. .. .               | 60    |
| Number of children enrolled in those schools .. .. . | 4,718 |
| Number present during examination .. .. .            | 3,816 |
| Number of miles travelled .. .. .                    | 1,936 |
| Number of visits paid .. .. .                        | 148   |

The time not devoted to travelling and examining schools was occupied in correspondence, writing reports, in attending to the examination of teachers, and other special matters.

II.—CHARACTER OF INSPECTION.

In examining the condition of schools, the same course has been followed as in previous years, the Board's Regulations, the Instructions to Inspectors, and the Table of Minimum Attainments being as usual, the chief guides. The principal subjects of attention have been the moral and intellectual condition of the pupils; but, at the same time, no important inquiry on other matters has been omitted; and no work has been passed unless the conditions of the standard were properly satisfied. The periods occupied in examining each school varied from one day to two weeks.

III.—THE MATERIAL CONDITION.

1. Situations.—Forty-three of the school sites are good; eight, fair; seven, tolerable; and four are unsuitable. The main defects are insufficiency of space, liability to floods from adjacent water-courses, and proximity to noisy thoroughfares.
2. Buildings.—Of the school buildings, twenty-nine may be regarded as good, eleven as very fair, ten as fair, seven as tolerable, and four as indifferent. Under this head, very little change has accrued during the year. The two new schools opened have been stone buildings.
3. Playgrounds.—Twenty-five schools have good playgrounds, properly enclosed, sufficiently spacious, and provided with out-buildings; thirteen are in these respects fair; and eleven are indifferent, or, for the purposes of recreation, nearly useless.
4. Furniture.—In proportion as new schools are opened, good furniture comes more prominently into use; but where defective desks have long been employed, it is not easy to persuade local authorities to replace them with new ones of proper construction, especially where a vigorous effort has to be made in order to raise the necessary funds. In nineteen schools, the furniture is good; in fifteen, very fair; in thirteen, fair; in four, tolerable; and in eight, indifferent or bad.
5. Apparatus.—The case is much the same as that of the furniture, when improved apparatus has to be provided; but on the whole the supply is better. Twenty-three schools have a good stock of apparatus; nineteen are very fairly supplied; eleven, fairly; four, tolerably; and five, indifferently.
6. Books.—No books are used save those which are sanctioned by the Commissioners. It is not often that there are deficiencies in quantity. In twenty-six schools, the supply is good; in sixteen, very fair; in twelve, fair; and in eight, tolerable.
7. Registers.—It is infrequent to find the records in arrear. In general, they are also correct, but not so neatly kept as they ought to be. In twenty schools the keeping of the registers is good; in fifteen, very fair; in eighteen, fair; and in nine, tolerable. Many of the quarterly returns are still transmitted incorrectly.

IV.—MORAL CONDITION.

1. Punctuality.—The character of the punctuality may be thus stated: eleven schools, good; twenty-four, very fair; sixteen, fair; six, tolerable; one, moderate; three, bad. Generally the hour of opening is 9, but in some schools it is 9:30, and has been so altered to suit some peculiarity in the circumstances of the district. The punctuality is in no sense permanently benefited by this arrangement; and I frequently find that those pupils who have to walk farthest arrive among the earliest.
2. Regularity.—The incessant wet weather which prevailed during the first six months of 1864, rendered regularity of attendance, for the time, almost out of the question. Throughout the last half of the year, however, matters have been better. The free selection movement, floods on the low lands, and embarrassment among the agriculturists have tended to produce a very general decline in the number of pupils attending the forty-one schools of the Central District, which are included in this Report; and all these difficulties united have necessitated greater exertions on the part of the teachers, in order to secure a due amount of progress. I estimate the regularity as follows:—nine schools, good; thirteen, very fair; twenty-five, barely passable; eight, moderate; and six, indifferent to bad.
3. Cleanliness.—In this respect twenty-seven schools rank as good, twenty-three as very fair, seven as fair, and four as moderate. This feature continues to be one of the most satisfactory in the discipline. In many cases of late, parents have objected to sending their children at all, unless able to clothe them properly. Failing in the power to do this to their own satisfaction, the children become lost to the school for the time.
4. Order and Government.—The standard in the point of order has been fixed high; and viewed under this light, the result is not in general satisfactory. The importance of excellent government, as a powerful auxiliary to the teacher, has, save in the case of a few notable exceptions, never been adequately felt. The country schools, as a whole, leave a much more favourable impression than do the others; for in many of the latter, the reins of government are held by no means with a resolute hand. The concessions made to listlessness and trifling, and the neglect to put down abuses vigorously, when serious application to work is necessary, often produce results which recoil upon the teacher, and punish him in the feeble attention, the waste of his lessons, and the impossibility, when the day of searching examination arrives, of securing continuous effort for any useful period. Thus the disregard of the culture of self denial and control at one period, causes the pupils to fail in endurance and attention when most wanted. Nine schools under this head may rank as good, fifteen as very fair, sixteen as fair, thirteen as tolerable, seven as indifferent, and one as bad.

V.—INSTRUCTION.

1. Classification and Occupation.—These are some of the points to which increased attention has been given during 1864. I may say indeed that the secondary inspections of the year have been largely occupied with the regulation of lessons, and the processes of instruction. Considerable care has been taken to see that explicit time-tables, rational programmes, and a judicious distribution of the classes had been made by the teachers. As these matters, even when well defined, are liable to change every quarter, besides being injuriously affected by every influence from without, the regulation of lessons and classes has always demanded, and always will continue to demand much attention from teachers, until the desired experience has been gained. In eighteen schools the classification and occupation may be regarded as well arranged, in nineteen as very fairly disposed, in fourteen as fair, in nine as tolerable, and in one as bad.

2. Subjects.—The subjects of reading, writing, dictation, arithmetic, grammar, geography, scripture, and object lessons, are taught in nearly all the schools. There are few in which needlework does not also receive due attention. To these subjects are added, in most of the metropolitan schools, vocal music, drawing, geometry, mensuration, and algebra. In some cases Latin and French have a place. In the infant schools, the first named subjects are presented to the pupils under appropriate forms, along with natural history, moral lessons, and other subjects adapted to the capacities of very young children.

3. Methods.—In nine schools, I regard the methods in use as good, in thirteen as very fair, in nine as fair, in twelve as tolerable, in sixteen as moderate, in two as indifferent. What are the methods you employ? How do you test those artifices? How do you determine when the lesson given has taken proper effect?—are questions often put to teachers without always eliciting satisfactory replies. The truth is, that method, while it professes to guide the teacher to the best means of teaching, has so many varied phases, that the more inexperienced misapprehend the uses of the expedients employed, and mistaking mere talk for substantial instruction, produce anything but good results.

Method for example, takes cognizance of—

I. How a subject is to be presented to the mind of the pupil.

II. How it is apprehended or received by the pupil.

III. How the matter conveyed is to be grounded, in order to produce the desired result of mental development.

Now many do the first, and do it well, but they rest there, and when such is the case, the results are nothing. Others go to the second step, and still the results are very shadowy. The true teacher proceeds to the third stage. He, dreading evanescency and despising superficialism, sees that he is understood, reiterates the lesson, goes over and over the difficulties to remove obscurities, makes his instruction thoroughly penetrative, and does not relax his efforts until the pupils can do for themselves unaided, that through which he has just carried them. It is because so many rest in half-way measures that so large a proportion of the schools are set down in method as moderate; and it is precisely owing to this cause that the results in arithmetic, grammar, and geometry, are lower than in the other subjects. These branches will not bear slovenly teaching. Unless well grounded, failure arises under the tests applied in examination, and the confidence or timidity, endurance or weakness, of the pupils stand out in the most unmistakable manner.

VI.—PROFICIENCY OF THE PUPILS.

In the Metropolitan District, rather more than 2,300 pupils were examined.

Out of nearly 1,000 examined in the reading of monosyllables, letters, and easy combinations, four-fifths range from the limit of good to that of fair, and the remaining fifth from tolerable to indifferent. Of 570 examined in reading of easy narratives, four-fifths range from good to fair, and the remaining fifth from tolerable to indifferent. Of about 750 examined in the reading of ordinary prose, including largely, derivation, synonyms, application of words, paraphrase, transposition of clauses, analysis, and re-construction of sentences, three-fourths vary from good to fair, and one-fourth from tolerable to indifferent. In writing upon slates, out of 1,300 examined, three-fourths range from good to fair, and one-fourth from tolerable to indifferent. In copybooks, about six-sevenths vary from fair to good, and one-seventh from tolerable to moderate.

In arithmetic, out of nearly 1,800 examined in the simple rules, fully one-half ranged from good to fair; and the remainder varied from tolerable to indifferent. In the compound rules, two-thirds proved fair to good, and one-third tolerable to moderate. In the higher rules, two-thirds also ranged from good to fair, and the remainder from tolerable to indifferent.

In elementary grammar, not much more than one-half ranged from fair to good; the rest stood to a great extent, at the limit of barely tolerable. In advanced grammar, considerably more than one-half varied from good to fair; and the remainder ranged from tolerable to moderate.

In the subject of elementary geography, nearly four-fifths ranged from fair to good, and the remaining fifth from tolerable to indifferent. In advanced geography, five-sixths ranged from good to fair, and one-sixth from tolerable to moderate.

I regard the average proficiency in drawing as fair; in vocal music, as fair to good; and in mathematical subjects as barely passable.

From the above, it will be seen that the results are lowest in those subjects, which require the greatest reflection and thought.

Turning to the Central District, it appears that out of nearly 650 pupils examined in the reading of monosyllables, and easy combinations of letters, three-fourths ranged from fair to good; and one-fourth varied from tolerable to indifferent. In the reading of easy narratives, six-sevenths ranged from good to fair, and the remaining seventh from indifferent to tolerable. In ordinary prose, seven-eighths were found from good to fair, and the remainder varied from indifferent to tolerable. In writing upon slate, out of 700 examined, the proportion ranging from fair to good was six-sevenths, the remainder being classed as moderate. In copy-books, five-sixths varied from good to fair, and one-sixth from tolerable to indifferent.

In the simple rules of arithmetic, out of more than 1,100 examined, two-thirds were found varying from the limit of fair to that of good; and one-third might be reckoned as moderate or indifferent. In the compound rules, three-fourths ranged from fair to good, and one-fourth from tolerable to indifferent. In the higher rules, the general proficiency was very fair.

In the subject of elementary grammar, two-thirds ranged from good to fair, and one-third from tolerable to indifferent. In advanced grammar, fully one-half varied from fair to good, the remainder ranging from indifferent to tolerable.

In elementary geography, two-thirds of those examined ranged from fair to good, and one-third from tolerable to indifferent. In the advanced portions of the subject, the range of proficiency was nearly the same. There is thus a decided improvement in all, save arithmetic and grammar, which stand lower.

Most of the needlework executed in country schools is of a useful character; that known as "ornamental," but often misnamed, is rather discouraged. Tolerable proficiency is made in vocal music in several schools; the drawing is of a purely elementary character; and, except in rare instances, the older boys do not continue in school sufficiently long to enter upon the study of either Euclid or algebra.

Scripture.—The children of nearly all the schools are tolerably well acquainted with the narratives of Scripture. It has, however, been felt that this is only a part of what is necessary; and the attention formerly given to this subject has been increased. The teachers have been requested in the "Practical Directions"

NORTHERN DISTRICT.—INSPECTOR'S ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1864.

Armidale, 8 February, 1865.

In obedience to instructions, I beg to submit, for the consideration of the Commissioners, a General Report upon the Schools inspected by me in the Northern District during the year 1864, and upon which I have already forwarded for each the customary ordinary report required by the Board.

OCCUPATION OF TIME.

Before proceeding, however, to the proper subject of my present communication, I beg to subjoin a brief statement of the occupation of my time for the year:—

|   |                  |

| Sundays and holidays .. .. .  | 56 "             |
| Total .. .. .  | 366 days. |

SCHOOLS IN OPERATION.

At the beginning of the year, thirty-five schools were in operation in the District. One of this number, Gunnedah, was closed in consequence of the disastrous floods which inundated the town, and it has not been re-opened. During the year five new schools were opened, situated as shewn in the following Table:—

| Name of School.        | Situation.               |
|------------------------|--------------------------|
| Wingham .. .. .        | Manning River.           |
| Maitland Point .. .. . | Rocky River Gold Fields. |
| Barrington .. .. .     | Near Gloucester.         |
| Tenterfield .. .. .    | New England.             |
| Tarree Town.. .. .     | Manning River.           |

Making a total of thirty-nine schools in the District at the close of the year.

PROPOSED SCHOOLS.

School buildings were in course of erection at the following places, on the 31st of December last, viz. :—

Seven Oaks.
Palmer's Island.
Rocky Mouth.

The first of these is situated on the Macleay River, about fifteen miles below Kempsey, and will be vested in the Commissioners. The other two are on the Clarence River, between the Elbow and the Heads, and are to be non-vested, in consequence of the buildings being intended for divine service on the Sabbath. In consequence of "free selection," the dispersion of population, and the rapid settlement of the agricultural districts, creating a necessity for additional schools, I wrote in one of my reports, dated the 6th of June, 1864, to the Commissioners as follows :—"There is no question which urges itself so much upon the Inspectors as the immediate extension of the National system, to meet the educational requirements of the Colony more fully and satisfactorily. I am of opinion that some arrangements could be made for extending education into the isolated localities, and sparsely populated districts of the interior. In order to do this, I think a number of itinerant teachers could be employed. Each teacher could attend two localities three days in each week, or three localities two days, if the places were not more than ten miles apart. The settlers at each place would be required to provide a schoolroom, furniture, and apparatus; and the Board would probably grant salaries to the teachers, and a first stock of books, if sufficient funds were placed at their disposal." So soon as I was informed that the Commissioners had decided to grant aid in support of small schools in isolated localities, where a greater average attendance than twenty pupils cannot be secured, and where no other means of education exist, I informed the inhabitants of all the localities in the Northern District, where I thought a small school could be established. The following Table shews the names of the places to which I refer, with the situation of each :—

| Name of Place.     | Situation.           | Name of Place.    | Situation.              |
|--------------------|----------------------|-------------------|-------------------------|
| Rawden Island ..   | Hastings River.      | Bowling Alley ..  | Peel River Diggings.    |
| Blackman's Point.. | Near Port Macquarie. | The Bellenger.... | North of Macleay River. |
| Bow Bow Creek ..   | Manning River.       | Gundurimba ....   | Richmond River.         |
| Tucki Tucki ....   | Richmond River.      | Bogabri .....     | Liverpool Plains.       |
| Wallamba River..   | Near Cape Hawke.     | The Table-land .. | Near Tenterfield.       |
| Narrabri .....     | Liverpool Plains.    | Carroll .....     | Liverpool Plains.       |
| Woodford Island..  | Clarence River.      | Wee Waa.....      | The Lower Namoi.        |

I understand measures are to be taken for the immediate establishment of small National schools at the eight places which stand first on the list, and I am of opinion that the Board's arrangement will ultimately be productive of much good.

AMOUNT OF INSPECTION.

All the schools in the district at the close of the year were inspected, with the exception of Tarree Town, which was not opened when I visited the Manning River in September; and from pressure of other business, I had no time to make a special journey of 300 miles for its inspection, before the close of the year. The unusual amount of rain, and number of floods, in the first six months of the year, were much against travelling, and the progress of inspection; but notwithstanding so much unfavorable weather, twenty-seven schools were once visited, ten twice, and two three times,—making a total of fifty-three visits for the inspection of schools in operation. Ten visits were made to places where schools were proposed to be established, some time was occupied in the selection of sites for new schools, thirty-two teachers were examined, 470 communications were written on the business of the Board, and in the discharge of the duties of my office,—the distance travelled was about 2,750 miles.

CHARACTER OF THE INSPECTION.

In my report for 1863, the mode and character of the inspection were minutely explained, and I consider it is unnecessary to repeat the description. It may, however, be advisable to mention that the examinations were equally as rigid as last year, and carried out in all the details with as much strictness. The inspection was in fact more efficient, in consequence of the means of comparison afforded by the examination of so many schools, which were inspected last year; and I was able from the results obtained, to decide with more certainty of correctness, as to the condition, progress, and usefulness of the schools. The actual attainments of the pupils, as well as their deficiencies, with suggestions for improvement, were entered in the observation books, for the information and guidance of the teachers; and I embodied in my reports to the Commissioners, the substance of these remarks, together with such recommendations as I concluded would improve the schools.

GENERAL CHARACTER OF THE SCHOOL PREMISES.

I have some improvement to report under this head. The sites of thirty-one of the schools are suitable in every respect, and six are tolerably so. The only two of an indifferent kind being the same as last year, viz. :—Redbank and Summerland, which are liable to inundation occasionally. Twenty-six of the school buildings are suitable for the purposes of teaching, and in good repair, and ten are tolerably satisfactory in these respects. The school houses at Parkhaugh, Dingo Creek, and Maitland Point, are not sufficiently substantial nor commodious, but I understand that the patrons at Parkhaugh intend to erect new buildings immediately, and the schoolrooms at the other two places are only temporary premises. Thirty of the schools have sufficient and suitable playground accommodation, and considerable improvement has been effected during the year in reference to the supervision of the children while in the playground, and the teachers in many schools are now more attentive to this duty. The teachers who faithfully discharge this necessary duty are performing an important work, without which no school is efficiently conducted. The playground is as necessary for moral training, as for physical recreation, and it is there the teacher can obtain a full insight into the conduct, habits, and disposition of his pupils, and pay due attention to the formation of their character. The playgrounds attached to four schools are of an indifferent kind, either from the nature of the soil, the want of fencing, or the insufficiency of the accommodation.

FURNITURE, APPARATUS, BOOKS, &amp;c.

The supplies of school furniture, and apparatus, are suitable, and sufficient in quantity in the majority of the schools, there being only three indifferently furnished. The greater number are well provided with books and maps, and during the year the teachers have, with but few exceptions, supplied their pupils with the necessary lesson books for home study. This is a step in the right direction; it often keeps the children usefully employed at home, tends to improve them, and gives satisfaction to their parents. The teachers generally reserve one-tenth of the payments of the scholars for a book fund, but the patrons take very little interest in carrying out the Board's arrangement in its integrity. They

They seldom take charge of the fund, nor see that it is judiciously expended, but several of the local boards have undertaken to perform this duty during the current year. The school records are in general neatly and correctly kept, but in some cases I found the daily attendance and promotions of the pupils had not been entered at the proper time, nor the class roll duly closed at the end of the quarter. But on the whole, the school accounts are carefully and honestly kept, and with the exception of some newly appointed teachers, the returns are kept in progress, and punctually despatched at the close of the quarter.

DISCIPLINE, CLEANLINESS, OBSERVANCE OF RULES.

The Board's rule as regards cleanliness receives due attention. In thirty-three schools the cleanliness observed varies from fair to good, and in the remaining six, some of which have been recently established, it is tolerably satisfactory for the time the pupils have been under discipline. The daily inspection of the scholars as regards cleanliness is carried out in the same manner as last year. The children form themselves into parallel lines on the playground morning and afternoon, before entering school, and the teachers satisfy themselves by personal inspection, that the hands, face, and ears, of the pupils are clean, their hair brushed, and their clothes clean and neat. It is worthy of remark that of late years, cleanliness has been one of the most pleasing features in the discipline of the schools. This is in itself of great importance to the community, because it is so conducive to health and morality, that it has been often and truly said, that "cleanliness is a virtue." And no doubt there is an intimate connection between purity of person and purity of mind. The teachers are bound not only to promote the health of their pupils, but to protect them from everything detrimental to it; and should any of their scholars be found to have any of those infectious diseases incidental to children, the parents or guardians are requested to keep them at home until perfectly cured. In almost every case, I found the schoolrooms clean, the apparatus and books well cared for, and the fundamental regulations of the Commissioners faithfully observed. The unusual amount of rain, and number of floods during the first six months of the year, were much against the punctual and regular attendance of the pupils, but the returns of the last six months shew some improvement upon the previous year. In about two-thirds of the schools inspected, the order seemed to range from fair to good, and in the remainder from tolerable to indifferent. In many of the schools the order is not of so high a standard as may be attained; although the children are quiet, obedient, and attentive to their lessons, and their manners and behaviour in most cases pleasing and respectful, the physical exercises, changing of the classes, and other movements, such as sitting and standing, are not performed in a simultaneous manner, with sufficient readiness and precision. "Order is heaven's first law," and requires, "a place for everything, and everything in its proper time and place." It requires regularity in the movements, and uniformity in the positions of the children. There must be thorough industry and attention on the part of the pupils, and complete control on that of the master. Speaking generally, the government of the schools is mild; moral suasion is the ruling principle, but I did not find any in which corporal punishment has been wholly abandoned, neither did I hear of undue severity having been practised by any teacher. Of the kinds of punishment adopted in the schools, rebuke is considered sufficient for some children; while others, according to their faults and dispositions, require different treatment, such as confinement in school during play time, separation from their classfellows, or the administration of the cane.

CHARACTER OF INSTRUCTION IN NON-VESTED SCHOOLS.

About one-half of the schools in the Northern District are non-vested, and, in every instance, the instruction is the same in all respects as in the vested. The promoters of these schools appear to be satisfied with the amount of Scriptural instruction and moral training administered by the National system, because there is no special religious teaching whatever given in any of the non-vested schools in this district, by managers, teachers, clergymen, or others. The only difference between the two classes of schools is, that the vested buildings have been partially erected at the public cost, that they are better furnished, more suitable for the purposes of teaching, and afford better accommodation for the teachers. The great object of the establishment of non-vested schools was not to satisfy any want felt for special religious teaching, but simply for the immediate organization of schools in temporary premises, in order to meet the educational requirements of the Colony, until permanent buildings could be erected. In almost all the non-vested schools, I found children belonging to all the three leading denominations living in peace and harmony with each other, and from whose parents I never heard any complaint in the matter of religion.

ATTENDANCE OF PUPILS.

The following table shews the attendance of Pupils at the schools inspected, with the average attendance, and number on the Rolls for the last quarter of the year:—

|  | Boys. | Girls. | Total. |
|--|-------|--------|--------|
| Number of pupils on Rolls at time of inspection .. .. .    | 885   | 846    | 1,731  |
| Number of scholars present at Examination .. .. .          | 739   | 697    | 1,436  |
| Number of pupils on Rolls for last quarter of year .. .. . | 935   | 903    | 1,838  |
| Average attendance for the same period .. .. .             | 697   | 665    | 1,362  |

By comparing the figures in the above table, it will be observed that nearly five-sixths of the pupils on the rolls at the time of inspection were present at examination; and that the average daily attendance for the last quarter of the year was a little less than the number examined. It also appears from the foregoing table, that 74 per cent. of the number of children on the rolls attend school daily, which is an increase of 3 per cent. for the year.

AGES OF THE CHILDREN EXAMINED.

Of the 1,436 pupils present at the time of inspection,—

| 333 boys and 304 girls were 7 years of age and under. |
| 92 " 85 " 8 years of age.                             |
| 80 " 68 " 9 " "                                       |
| 64 " 62 " 10 " "                                      |
| 64 " 66 " 11 " "                                      |
| 105 " 112 " 12 " and above.                           |

From the foregoing statement, it may be observed that about 44 per cent. of the pupils examined are not over 7 years of age, that nearly one-third are between 7 and 10 years, and about 24 per cent. of the entire number of the children examined are above 10 years. These proportions of the different ages are much the same as last year.

The

The following table shows the Ages of the Pupils entered upon the school rolls at the time of inspection :—

|   |   |     |   |                  |
|---|---|-----|---|------------------|
| 386 boys and 363 girls were 7 years of age and under. |   |     |   |                  |
| 103   | " | 91  | " | 8 years. of age. |
| 79  | " | 79  | " | 9 "              |
| 87  | " | 91  | " | 10 "             |
| 92  | " | 76  | " | 11 "             |
| 138   | " | 146 | " | 12 " and above.  |

In this statement, the proportions of the different ages are much the same as in the number examined.

PROFICIENCY OF THE PUPILS.

The following statement shows the Number of Pupils learning the different branches, at the time of inspection :—

|   |            |
|---|------------|
| Learning alphabet and monosyllables .. .. .           | 620        |
| Learning to read easy narrative .. .. .               | 404        |
| Learning to read ordinary prose .. .. .               | 412        |
| Learning to write on slates .. .. .                   | 545        |
| Learning to write on paper .. .. .                    | 706        |
| Learning simple rules of arithmetic .. .. .           | 512        |
| Learning compound rules .. .. .                       | 240        |
| Learning higher rules .. .. .                         | 166        |
| Learning elements of English grammar .. .. .          | 454        |
| Learning advanced parts of the subject .. .. .        | 852        |
| Learning elements of geography .. .. .                | 608        |
| Learning advanced parts of the subject .. .. .        | 312        |
| Learning to write from dictation .. .. .              | 812        |
| Learning scripture history .. .. .                    | 640        |
| Learning book-keeping .. .. .                         | 18         |
| Learning drawing .. .. .                              | 200        |
| Learning vocal music .. .. .                          | 418        |
| Learning Latin .. .. .                                | 10         |
| Learning geometry .. .. .                             | 4          |
| Learning mensuration .. .. .                          | 4          |
| Learning lessons on objects and common things .. .. . | 812        |
| Learning needlework, knitting, &c. .. .. .            | 450 girls. |

Reading.—When it is remembered, that many schools have been only a short time in operation, that the heavy rains and floods in the early part of the year were much against regular attendance, and that nearly half the pupils are not more than seven years of age, it will not be considered remarkable that 620 (or 43 per cent.) of the scholars have not advanced beyond the first class. The proficiency attained in reading, as ascertained by examination, is shown in the following statement :—

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Able to read ordinary prose correctly .. .. .       | 222 |
| Can read ordinary prose tolerably .. .. .           | 143 |
| Can read ordinary prose indifferently .. .. .       | 47  |
| Able to read easy narrative correctly .. .. .       | 151 |
| Can read easy narrative tolerably .. .. .           | 156 |
| Can read easy narrative indifferently .. .. .       | 67  |
| Able to read monosyllables correctly .. .. .        | 315 |
| Can read monosyllables tolerably .. .. .            | 120 |
| Learning alphabet, and words of two letters .. .. . | 185 |

The time and attention devoted to reading last year has not been in vain; both teachers and pupils take more interest in the subject than formerly, and the proficiency attained is a considerable improvement upon last year. But in many schools, especially those recently established, the instruction in this branch is still of an indifferent kind; and some teachers have but very little knowledge of the work they have undertaken to perform. Good reading involves a very complex process, and it is therefore difficult to attain; it requires that the subject be well understood, that the reader possess a thorough knowledge of the language and style of the writer, and to this must be added a correct pronunciation, combined with distinctness, fluency, and expression of sentiment. The ability to read with ease and intelligence is a valuable attainment; it may be called the key to all knowledge, and is undoubtedly one of the most efficacious instruments for cultivating and developing the powers of the mind. Although the proficiency in reading in several schools is below the standard, this ought not to be a matter of surprise, for if we look back to the condition of the schools a few years ago, the improvement is marked and decided; the methods of teaching the alphabet and monosyllabic reading are much altered for the better. I remember noting instances of children occupying a year, and in some cases, fifteen months in learning the alphabet. The plan of making the pupils repeat the whole of the twenty-six letters at one lesson, was very objectionable; to make them learn the names and forms of all the letters in the alphabet, both large and small, before they were allowed to advance a single step in a practical direction, was a great and unnecessary difficulty thrown in their way; and this was not all, the next step was to teach the children a series of unmeaning syllables—such as ab, ib, ob, ub, ac, ic, oc, uc—with endless spelling lessons, before they were allowed to read the most simple words. These methods, are, however, no longer in use, and among the many plans of teaching the elements of reading which have been suggested, there is perhaps none easier or better, than the one adopted by the Commissioners, and laid down in the first book. According to this method, the alphabet is taught in portions, only a few letters at a time; these are combined into simple words, with which the children are made perfectly familiar before passing to others; and with the names of the letters, the children are in this way taught their uses, which renders their lessons not only easy, but at once practically useful and interesting.

Spelling.—This subject is fairly taught in many schools; the modern and most improved methods being generally adopted, and the old plan of learning to spell from the columns of a spelling-book is now obsolete. The objections to the practice being, that time was wasted in learning many words which were very seldom used in ordinary composition, that words in daily use received no more attention than those never employed, and that the words being arranged according to the number of syllables, without any reference to their origin or meaning, many of them were above the comprehension of children, and the memory was uselessly burdened. In addition to viva voce spelling from the reading lessons, the children write exercises upon some given subject at home, which are corrected at school; but the most common method of teaching the subject is copying the reading lessons, and writing from dictation. There is no better plan of teaching spelling, than writing from dictation, if the pupils commence the exercises so soon as they can write easy monosyllables, and every error committed corrected by the child who made it.

Writing.—The writing was, in general, performed with rather more care than last year, and the penmanship in several schools, was very creditable, but in many, it was still rather indifferent among the junior classes. The great defect is the want of legibility; the teachers do little to aid the eye of the pupil, and the hand cannot imitate what the eye does not perceive. The time to begin teaching writing has been a much disputed point; and the old practice was not to allow children to commence to write until they could read well, but this was a great waste of valuable time, and most teachers now agree in an early commencement. In the schools in the Northern District, the rule is, that the pupils in all the classes are expected to write legibly and correctly from dictation a passage selected from their reading lessons, and, in many schools, this standard of proficiency has been fairly attained. The following table shews the attainments in this branch of instruction :—

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Able to write with correctness .. .. .    | 504 |
| Can write with tolerable accuracy .. .. . | 468 |
| Write indifferently .. .. .               | 205 |
| Cannot write .. .. .                      | 74  |

Arithmetic.—The proficiency in this branch is, in general, more satisfactory than last year, and there is a visible improvement in a large number of the schools; but, in many, the deficiencies mentioned in my last report still remain. The elements of the subject, such as the tables, notation, numeration, and the simple rules, are not sufficiently dwelt upon, and but imperfectly understood; the consequence is, that the progress of the pupils is much retarded. The instruction is, in some cases, too mechanical; the numbers used in teaching the elements are too large, and the attainments in mental arithmetic are unsatisfactory. The following table shews the proficiency in this subject :—

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Able to solve questions in proportion and practice .. .. | 166 |
| Can work compound rules with tolerable accuracy .. ..    | 240 |
| Learning tables and simple rules .. .. .                 | 512 |
| Infants learning to read, write, and add digits .. ..    | 298 |

Grammar.—The proficiency of the pupils are much the same as last year. As regards the mode of instruction, the trained and better informed teachers begin to teach a few of the simpler and more important parts of speech first, such as the noun, adjective, verb, &c., to the second class; and the knowledge is gradually increased as the pupils advance in other branches, and before they enter the third class, or have a text book in their hands, they are not only able to distinguish the parts of speech with readiness, but are familiar with their simple inflections. In the third and higher classes, the pupils are taught parsing, composition, and analysis of the English language. The proficiency in this subject is shewn in the subjoined table :—

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Can parse syntactically .. .. .                    | 292 |
| Able to distinguish parts of speech fairly .. .. . | 221 |
| Learning the mere elements .. .. .                 | 302 |

Geography.—Of the 1,436 children examined, 920 were learning geography. A considerable number of these were studying the elements,—such as the common geographical terms, the relative positions of the continents and oceans, and the outlines of the geography of Australia. The more advanced pupils have a fair knowledge of the physical and descriptive geography of the globe, with Europe and Australia more in detail. Mathematical geography and the use of the globes are taught in none of the schools to any appreciable extent, but since the publication of "The Geography of New South Wales," by W. Wilkins, Esq., the Chief Inspector of National Schools, Sydney, the physical, industrial, and political geography of the Colony is more studied and taught, and better understood by both teachers and pupils. The schools are nearly all supplied with maps, but globes are found in few, and map-drawing is not much practised. Geography is taught in the schools by means of maps, reading lessons, and lectures; these are considered the most improved plans when combined with map-drawing, and the reproduction of the lessons by the pupils. Dr. Watts has observed in his work "On the Improvement of the Mind," that "the situation of the several parts of the earth is better learned by one day's conversing with a map, than by merely reading the description of their situation a hundred times over in books of geography." The attainments of the pupils in this branch are shewn in the following table :—

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Fairly acquainted with the physical and descriptive geography of the Globe ..   | 312 |
| Can define the relative positions of the Continents and Oceans, and know the outlines of the geography of Australia .. .. . | 448 |
| Able to define the common geographical terms, and know the use of a map ..  | 160 |

Scripture.—A large number of the children examined were learning Scripture, either from the second or third reading books, or from some of the four volumes of Scripture lessons. The pupils in the second class have made fair progress in such subjects as the following :—

- "How the World was made."
- "Adam and Eve."
- "Cain and Abel."
- "The Flood."
- "The Tower of Babel."
- "Parting of Abraham and Lot."
- "The Destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah."

The most of the sequel class pupils were learning the subjects contained in the extracts from the New Testament, the first volume of which contains the whole of the Gospel of St. Luke accompanied with other portions of Scripture, and the second volume commences with the Ascension of our Lord, and ends with an account of Paul's sufferings in the service of Christ. In several schools I found the third class studying the extracts from the Old Testament, the first volume commences with the Creation, and ends with the death of Joseph; and the second is a continuation of the subject from the migration of Jacob and his family into Egypt till the death of Moses. The attainments of the elder pupils are in most respects fairly satisfactory.

The knowledge of common things.—This is a branch of school instruction which has recently sprung into great repute among educationists. The school books in use generally deal with abstract subjects, while knowledge of the food we eat, the clothes we wear, the air we breathe, and the water we drink, was until lately considered unworthy of a teacher's notice, and excluded from the school-room. But instruction of this kind, with lessons on minerals, plants, animals, and manufactures, is now given by most teachers. Several schools are not supplied with the necessary prints, models, diagrams, and objects for illustration; and some teachers do not make themselves sufficiently acquainted with the subjects attempted to be taught. A visible improvement has, however, been effected, and lessons on objects and common things are given in nearly all the schools; whereas, some years ago, it was rare to find a country teacher who would attempt to give instruction of this kind.

Needlework.—This useful branch of domestic economy is taught in all the schools, with the exception of a few conducted by single men; and the proficiency attained is in general tolerably satisfactory. This is gratifying, because a competent knowledge of needlework, especially the plainer branches of the art, is one of the most essential parts of female education. To girls in the humbler, as well as the middle classes of society, a practical acquaintance with cutting out, and making up articles of wearing apparel, is of great importance; and fancy work, if skillfully taught, with due regard to what is useful, and most required for domestic purposes, is also beneficial as a means of cultivating the taste. In connection with this subject, I would strongly recommend that, when the Commissioners are supplying their first stock of books to new schools, some good work on domestic economy should be included for the use of the teacher's wife, in order that she may give lessons to the girls occasionally on other domestic affairs, as well as needlework.

Vocal Music.—In the National Schools in Germany and France, singing is universally taught. In these countries every pupil learns to sing, every teacher can play the organ, everywhere the sound of the human voice is to be heard; and it is believed that a better preservative of pure morals, a more innocent amusement, and a more cheerful stimulant to all exercises, whether of study, labour, or religion, cannot be devised. Although vocal music is systematically and successfully taught in the model schools in Sydney, it is not so in the country. It is, therefore, to be hoped that the Commissioners may be enabled to extend the period for the training of teachers, in order that some arrangements may be made for giving the candidates instruction in music. The subject would then be gradually introduced into the country schools upon a systematic principle. Singing is already taught in several schools in the Northern Districts, but the method of teaching is far from satisfactory, and none of the teachers have succeeded in obtaining the gratuity offered by the Commissioners for efficiency of instruction. If the subject were taught to candidates in the training department, the Board's gratuity increased from £5 to £8 per annum, and a supply of Hullab's music sheets granted to all National Schools where the teachers are competent to use them, I think vocal music would be more generally and more efficiently taught in country schools.

Drawing.—Since the publication of "The Free Hand Drawing Book" by Mr. J. Fowles, the drawing master in the Central Model School in Sydney, and its distribution among the schools, greater progress has been made in this useful art. There are, however, many schools in which it is not taught, and the methods of teaching are not efficacious. In order to remedy this, I think it would be useful, if lessons on the subject were given to candidates while attending the training department. Of the utility of drawing it is almost unnecessary to speak, because all persons conversant with educational matters must discern what immense advantages are derived from the cultivation of an art which not only improves the knowledge, but elevates the moral character. Drawing is of great use to carpenters, smiths, engineers, and others employed in works of construction; and to the tourist, and those engaged in the study of the physical sciences, it is almost indispensable. The Minister of Public Instruction in Prussia has recently ordered drawing to be added to the list of branches belonging to primary education.

Methods of Teaching.—Considerable improvements have been effected in many schools, but there are several in which deficiencies still exist, and where the modern modes of tuition are not well understood. The teachers are, however, in most cases, eager for improvement; and knowing that the Commissioners attach so much importance to the proficiency of the pupils, and that promotion depends upon the condition of their schools, the methods of teaching are now receiving more attention than formerly. Inspection has also a beneficial tendency in pointing out improper methods, and suggesting modern improvements. I have often suggested to inexperienced teachers that they should carefully prepare the work which daily engages them, because a person teaches ill that of which he himself knows but little. Teachers must learn to distinguish between the mere child and the more advanced boy; their language must be simple, and the instruction imparted in such a manner as the youngest child can comprehend. Periodical repetitions of lessons are necessary, and satisfactory proficiency cannot be attained without thorough examination. Every error must be corrected by the pupil making it, after it has been pointed out by another, and every lesson imparted in such a manner as to improve the mind in the course of its acquisition. The three great means of instruction are—explanation, repetition, and interrogation.

Results and improvements for the Year.—From the remarks which I have already made, it is evident that the organization, discipline, and instruction of the schools have been considerably improved, the attendance of the pupils is more regular, and their proficiency more satisfactory. The number of teachers examined with a view to promotion were greater than in any former year, and the remuneration and comforts of many have been increased. The supply of Observation Books to the schools, and the entry therein of the Inspector's opinion upon the condition of the schools appear to give general satisfaction. The specimen time-tables and programmes have been of service to teachers in the proper construction of these documents, and the practical rules for their guidance have been highly beneficial. Since the extra allowance of £18 per annum to teachers on New England and Liverpool Plains, the obstacles which stood in the way of obtaining efficient teachers for these places have been partially removed. The establishment of schools in the sparsely populated parts of the interior, with the advantages of night schools, will do much to extend and adapt the system to the educational requirements of the Colony. When all these matters are carefully considered, I think the progress and success of National Education must be considered as fairly satisfactory.

Night Schools.—The Board's regulations regarding the establishment of night schools have been issued so recently, I have not had much time to ascertain how far the public may avail themselves of this means of education, but I hope I shall be able to report some definite results for the current year. No arrangements have yet been made for the opening of any night schools in the Northern District.

Model and Industrial Boarding Schools.—In my Report for 1863, I promised some remarks upon this subject. Industrial instruction combined with the education of the elementary school is but of recent origin, although the theory is by no means a new one. There is a very prevalent feeling among the most eminent educationists, that the instruction of the primary schools is not sufficiently practical in its character, and it has been positively affirmed by men of experience in the work, that industrial training facilitates school instruction. J. C. Symons, Esq., one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of schools in England, writes on this subject as follows:—"To children who are to earn their bread by the sweat of their brow, it is almost impossible to exaggerate the importance of associating manual with mental labour at an early period, and this cannot be done if habits of bodily industry are postponed to a later period. The spirit of the labourer cannot be imparted without labour. I do not believe that Solomon's golden maxim, 'to train up a child in the way he should go,' was intended to be applied 'only to morals and minds, but to all the great duties and behests of life,—physical as well as mental. 'Habitual industry in childhood would have prevented three-fourths of the idleness, dependence, disease, and pauperism, of which a grievous amount still exists, and rankles like a canker worm among the poorer classes of England. Allow me now to dwell for a moment on the direct influence of judicious 'bodily industry in the development of mental power. It is all but universal testimony of the teachers and inspectors of those schools, which have adopted out-door industry, especially in spade husbandry, that the boys so employed learn far more readily than they formerly did, and that although their time is shorter in school, they learn more quickly whilst there. It is equally so with 'moral habits.' The employment of the industrial pupils in such schools will depend upon circumstances; but it appears that nothing excels spade husbandry for boys, with the care of cows and pigs; and household affairs, such as needlework, washing, ironing, and cooking, are the proper occupations for girls; for although many may not be called upon to do such work when they come to be women, all females should know how it is properly done. It is not intended in such schools to make the pupils skilful gardeners, perfect husbandmen, or domestic servants, but they will acquire an aptitude for useful labour which cannot be acquired in schoolrooms. It may be urged, however, that the children of labouring parents will be put to work soon enough, and that it is a pity to withdraw any portion of their early years from the education of their minds. In answer to this it must be admitted that many parents put their children to work too soon, and that they are now compelled to take them wholly from school for that purpose; whereas the great benefit of industrial training is, that the early adoption of useful and productive labour, combined with school instruction, induces parents to allow their children to remain longer at school than they otherwise would. In this Colony, wealthy squatters and persons of independent means can afford to send their children to Sydney for their education; but there are many settlers, such as small stockholders, superintendents of stations, well-to-do farmers, and others, living in isolated parts of the Colony, far from neighbours and elementary schools, who cannot afford to educate their children in Sydney, and for such persons Industrial Boarding Schools are much required, required, where a useful and practical education for their children, at an easy distance from their homes, may be obtained at a reasonable cost. The productive industry of these pupils would lessen the cost of their education considerably, and the fruits of their labours would be reaped by themselves in the matter of education. Before giving this subject further consideration, I would observe that the time has arrived when at least three model schools are required in the Northern District—one at Armidale, one at Grafton, and one at the Manning River. Several teachers are untrained, in the interior and more remote parts of the Colony, from the want of such schools; and a higher standard of instruction, with more perfect methods, would be very beneficial in the district. Greater facilities are required for the education and training of pupil teachers, and children whose parents desire to give them a more liberal education than they can at present obtain in the ordinary National Schools. The expenses of sending probationary teachers to the Central Model School in Sydney are considerable, and, after all, it is not a suitable model for the training of teachers for country schools. Many improvements would be effected by the establishment of District Model Schools, and a great impulse would be given to primary education throughout the district. It is therefore to be hoped that sufficient funds may be placed at the disposal of the Commissioners for the establishment and maintenance of these schools.

Having now briefly noticed the necessity which exists for District Model Schools, with their advantages, I beg to submit, as an experiment, that in connection with some of the proposed schools, accommodation for a number of boarders should be provided, and industrial training combined. These schools should have accommodation for about 100 day pupils and 40 boarders, with sufficient teaching power. They would be open to all the scholars for five hours, daily, as in all other schools, with the exception of the industrial class, which would be absent from the schoolroom on certain days, at fixed hours, for out-door work; but as little of the school time as possible would be occupied in this way, certain mornings and evenings in the week, with the forenoon of every Saturday, would be employed in industrial training. It is rare to find the requisite qualifications for the schoolroom and the out-door work in the same person; and if teachers could be found capable of discharging both duties, they would often be overtasked. It would therefore be necessary that one teacher should have sole charge of the institution as a model school, while another had full control of the industrial training. The mistress of the girls' school would probably require an assistant, and the industrial master's wife, with a well-informed domestic servant, would manage the household affairs and industrial training of the girls, with the exception of needlework, which would be taught by the mistress of the girls' school in the schoolroom. The necessary buildings, furniture, land, stock, and tools required for a Model and Industrial Boarding School would cost about £1,500, and the annual salaries of the teachers would probably amount to £450; but such schools could be organized in connection with some of the schools now in operation, and maintained at about one-third of the expenditure above named. Industrial pupils could be boarded and lodged for 1s. (one shilling) per day, and educated for 1s. (one shilling) per week. This calculation is based upon the supposition that the productive labour of the industrial pupils would go to support the establishment, in order to lessen house expenses—that the parents pay the charges above named quarterly in advance, and that the Commissioners would grant fixed salaries to all the teachers. Much might be said upon this subject regarding the description of buildings, the character and quantity of land necessary, the age, sex, and number of boarders, and many other minute details, but I only intend the foregoing remarks to give a mere outline of the character, advantages, management, and cost of the institution.

CONCLUDING REMARKS.

The education of each pupil on the rolls of the schools for the last quarter of 1864, cost the Commissioners on an average a few pence more than £2 (two pounds) for the year, and the people one-third of that sum in the shape of school fees. The local supervision of the schools remains unchanged. Many of the patrons are but little impressed with the importance of the duties of their responsible office, and few of them make any provision for the education of the children of the poor, or visit the settlers in their school district in order to ascertain how many children are growing up uneducated. For the information of those who are not acquainted with the nooks and corners of the Northern District where settlers have located themselves and schools been established, I append a table which will afford some information as to the situation of each school.

Inspector of Northern District.

GENERAL REPORT.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT upon National Schools in the Western and a portion of the Southern District, visited during the Year 1864.

In arranging my programme of duties for the year 1864, I had decided upon making at least two visits to each school, and one to each of the following places in the Southern District:—Binalong, Wagga Wagga, Gundagai, Adelong, and Murrumburrah. But the sudden and melancholy death of Mr. M'Cann, in the midst of his labours, and just as I was entering his district, rendered necessary an extension of my tour there, and a consequent postponement of my prior appointments in the Western District; to complete which it was my duty to visit eleven localities scattered over a distance of nearly 700 miles, and varying from 6 to 170 miles apart; and so much time was thus consumed in travelling alone, that on reaching my station the year was too near its close to allow of any successful endeavour being made of fulfilling my original intention.

In this report the same order of detail will be observed as formerly, but all statistical information will be appended collectively, instead of being incorporated; and while concerned principally with the Western District, the report will contain such allusions to the Southern, as may seem desirable or necessary. Distinct tables of statistics are however furnished.

In the Western District I visited and reported upon thirty-six schools, of which twenty-one were examined, ten were inspected secondarily, and five incidentally; of these last, some were either closed, or only just come into operation, and in the others the smallness of the attendance, through external and temporary causes, suggested this mode of inspection. Eight localities were visited for the purpose of reporting upon, or affording information respecting applicant schools, in four of which schools have been established; in another, the erection of one decided upon; and in the remainder, there is a reasonable prospect of success.

Twenty-four teachers were examined, as follows:—three at Bathurst, three at Carcoar, three at Mudgee, two at Meadow Flat, two at Albury, and one at each of the following places: Rockley, Dubbo, Forbes, Hovell's Creek, Molong, Marengo, Orange, Tambaroora, Wattle Flat, Wellington, Young—and seven pupil-teachers: two at Bathurst, two at Mudgee, one at Carcoar, and two at Albury.

In the Southern District, ten schools were examined, and five localities visited to ascertain educational wants, in one of which, Murrumburrah, a school has been revived. The Appendix contains a tabulated statement (marked A.), shewing the distribution of my various duties during the year, and the amount of time devoted to each; the entire distance travelled in their performance was about 2,500 miles.

CONDITION OF THE SCHOOLS INSPECTED.

I.—ORGANIZATION.

Situations.—A reference to the table marked B. will shew that there are very few sites of a decidedly unfavorable character; and under this head accordingly there is ground of reasonable satisfaction.

School Buildings.—Of the forty-six schools inspected in both districts, only seven, or very nearly one-seventh, are quite unsatisfactory, and these mainly include non-vested schools. The remainder range from tolerable to fair; but this estimate applies principally to their technical, or strictly professional aspect. The amount and character of domestic accommodation are, in very many instances, insufficient and paltry, but more especially in non-vested schools, which, indeed, in this respect, are often wholly defective. For three of these,—Bathurst, Hovlong, and Tumut, a rent is paid by the teachers.

Playgrounds.—The character of the playgrounds as based upon their suitability, sufficiency, and convenience, may be similarly proportioned to that of the school buildings—about one-seventh indifferent. The very grave and prominent defect noticed in former reports, viz., want of out-offices, has, to some extent, disappeared, and the strictness observed in the inspection of this important adjunct renders highly probable a more thorough and general improvement.

Furniture and Apparatus.—In the Western District, nearly one fourth, and in the Southern, about three-fifths, of the number of schools inspected are defective in this most essential condition of their organization; and although the majority of local boards endeavour to meet all reasonable requirements at the outset, few make sufficient effort to maintain an adequate supply. They are, for the most part, too ignorant to perceive the connection between the efficiency of a school and its equipment, and so, when once the Board's aid has been obtained, their interest in the institution gradually decays. Still, however, the condition of the schools inspected is, in this respect, tolerable upon the whole.

Books.—No change has been made within the year upon the matter of those in use. The supply is well maintained, and in accordance with the provisions laid down in the Regulations of the Commissioners. Some few instances appeared of teachers attempting to evade the requirements of the "Book Fund"; but its recognition as a record has tended very much to diminish these attempts.

School Records.—For the most part these are faithfully kept. Causes of complaint arise chiefly in the case of teachers newly appointed, and sometimes also in that of persons about to leave the service.

II.—DISCIPLINE.

Punctuality.—Except in very few localities, the causes which operate against the strict observance of punctuality, are now reduced considerably within the teacher's power of control, so that much, if not all, depends upon themselves. If they be animated by the desire of performing their duties well, they cannot fail to recognise in this, one of the first essentials to that end, nor to give it its due effect. The great majority of the schools inspected are, in this respect, fairly satisfactory.

Regularity.—In most parts of the Western District, and in the majority of instances, the circumstances of the people seem to render necessary frequent demands upon the labour of the children. But a course so deplorable in its results, is not one, it appears to me, either arising from, or imposed by, actual imperative necessity, and might be avoided by a sacrifice, in itself slight compared with the injuries inflicted. To make this, however, few parents are willing; and, as they are generally impervious to any argument not directed through the medium of the pocket, it is, I am afraid, almost hopeless to expect any radical change for the better, until the value of education is more justly and generally appreciated; that is, until we have more educated fathers and mothers in the country—an epoch, the advent of which is, I trust, sensibly accelerated by the influence and action of our schools. Education must, meanwhile, be content should it succeed in averting great evils, slowly raising a standard of morality, and fixing thereon the minds and hearts of even a small fraction of the community.

Cleanliness.—This continues very satisfactory.

Order.—The number of schools is few in which order, as a means of facilitating instruction and forming the character of the pupils, is fully understood and practised. In most cases it is confounded with the absence of noise, or the natural demeanour of the children; but in a few of the best, is successfully applied as a habit of the school.

Government.—

Government.—In most of the schools visited, little or no effort is required on the part of the teachers to exact a ready obedience from the pupils; but as this is often the result of personal influence or natural temperament, it cannot be said that the laws of good government are either wholly understood or put in force by the teachers. All, however, seem to avoid the use of corporal punishment, which is a sign that their efforts are directed by a reasonable degree of skilful intelligence.

III.—INSTRUCTION.

Classification.—Good classification is more general than the reverse. There are comparatively few schools in which there is not a tolerable degree of judgment apparent in this respect; the disadvantage of subdivision are admitted and avoided, and a fair attention bestowed upon the proper guides.

Occupation.—The skilful and comprehensive arrangement of the occupation of a school, is perhaps the most difficult part of a teacher's duty. Certainly, it is that least understood, and most seldom met with. But the necessity of observing a certain amount of method is fully and generally acknowledged. Accordingly we find no school now without its time-table and programme of lessons. Their advantageous application, however, varies with the zeal of the teacher, supposing him to have a correct knowledge of their use. Some neither do nor try to understand them, while others again, better acquainted with their nature and object, but as little interested, yield a reluctant compliance with the requirement, on the quasi ground of clerical labor, irregular attendance, and the like. But the majority of teachers, I am happy to say, give these really useful auxiliaries full effect, and carry out the spirit, as well as the letter, of their instructions.

Methods.—These vary very considerably, and are in few instances good. As the result of experience and natural tact, the bulk of persons engaged in the conduct of country schools, can become acquainted with, and practically apply judicious methods, only to a very limited extent. Few of them ever thought of teaching as the profession of their choice, and their adoption of it late in life is well known to be often necessitated by their failure in other pursuits, and inability to obtain other employment. They possess no special qualification, as to habit and disposition; but, on the contrary, are often very objectionable in these respects; while their literary attainments are low, vague, and indistinct. Their feelings and sympathies, too, are foreign to the work, which is, therefore (to them), the dullest and most monotonous imaginable, and in its results injurious, rather than beneficial, to the best interests of the school. Yet, from such materials, little better can be expected, even were the term of training afforded adequate in point of duration. We want a body of teachers possessing in some degree at least a fitness for, and an interest in, their vocation; whose enrolment in the service has therefore been voluntary; whose education and habits of life have been consonant with this object; and whose training has been careful, appropriate, and progressive. In other words, we want the extension of those institutions—the District Model Schools—one of the primary objects of which would be, the practical application of the preceding views in the education of pupil teachers.

IV.—PROFICIENCY OF THE PUPILS.

The course of instruction continues much the same, embracing the ordinary subjects, as specified in the "Table of Minimum Attainments," together with vocal music, outline drawing, Latin, geometry, algebra, and mensuration in some schools; and needlework generally.

Reading.—The treatment of this subject is marked by increased attention; but the results, owing to want of judgment and adequate preparation in imparting instruction, are not quite satisfactory. Too many teachers make it a mere mechanical exercise, in which the repetition of dry words, without suitable and copious explanation, forms the most conspicuous feature. The subject matter, therefore, is not well understood; and the reading, as might naturally be expected, neither intelligent nor expressive.

Writing.—A reference to the Table marked D, shews that about three-fourths of the numbers present at examination were learning to write; that those using copy books were considerably in excess of the number writing on slates only; and that the number whose writing was satisfactory, comprised about fifty-four per cent., or more than one-half the entire number, learning the subject. Want of systematic analysis of the elementary portions continues a defect. Dictation is practised with tolerably satisfactory results.

Arithmetic.—The great majority of the pupils learning this subject, have not passed the simple rules, a circumstance which may be explained by the extreme youth of many, their irregularity of attendance, and their comparatively short stay in school. Defective knowledge on the part of teachers, and want of method in imparting what they do know, may also be regarded as forming a considerable hinderance to its effectual teaching. I have noticed several instances in which it is taught entirely by the aid of text-books placed in the hands of the children, without question or explanation. Generally speaking, the fundamental rules are not well understood, even when a much higher progress is indicated. Mental Arithmetic is more or less generally practised, but with, upon the whole, partial results.

Grammar.—Beyond the mere elements, this subject is not very extensively understood, and like the preceding, wants a better knowledge of method and principle in its teaching. I have seen very few schools in which the advanced classes reach the standard in their parsing and analysis of sentences; indeed, the latter operation is regarded by several teachers as something new in the science, and with which few of them are well acquainted.

Geography.—This subject is somewhat more philosophically treated than hitherto, but in very many instances, it is still little more than an uninteresting repetition of facts.

Object Lessons.—These lessons are not always given with due preparation, nor suitably adapted to the mental capacities of children, too much information is attempted to be afforded, and too little room thus left for the exercise of their powers of observation and comparison; still, some improvement is discernible.

Scripture Lessons.—Fair attention is bestowed upon this subject, and a moderate knowledge evinced, but want of careful and suitable explanation continues a serious defect.

V.—LOCAL SUPERVISION.

With comparatively few exceptions, the connection of local patrons with our schools, is not of a very satisfactory nature; they are seldom sufficiently intelligent, interested, and independent in mind and character to benefit the institutions by their visits, or give much impetus to their progress; while their fitful and intermittent bursts of activity, often spring from trifling causes, and tend to no practical result.

VI. TEACHERS.

The classification of teachers was decided during this year, upon the same principles as formerly, viz.:—examination, and skill in teaching. Table E shews their several ranks at the close of the year, as also their average emolument from all sources. As a body they, maintain a good moral character, and perform their duties willingly and conscientiously.

VII.

VII.—GENERAL RESULTS OF INSPECTION.

The material condition of the schools inspected is, for the most part, satisfactory; the discipline with the sole exception of regularity, evinces a tolerable degree of excellence upon the whole; the instruction is throughout somewhat more systematic and better directed than hitherto; and the proficiency though rather lower, must be estimated in connection with the fact that several of the best schools were not examined for reasons already explained.

SUGGESTIONS.

So many suggestions of a practical and beneficial nature, emanating from the late Conference of Inspectors and other sources, have been adopted and put in force by the Board, that I foresee no important contingency in the general working of the system—at least for some time—which they are not calculated to meet; there is therefore no present occasion to submit fresh ones.

W. DWYER,
Inspector, Western District.

GENERAL REPORT, 1864.—HUNTER RIVER DISTRICT.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT upon the condition of National Schools in the Hunter River District, for the year 1864.

Amount of Inspection.—During the earlier portion of the past year, the work of inspection was much retarded by successive floods. Some schools could not be reached, and consequently received but one visit. Not only, therefore, were the full benefits of inspection lost to these schools, but the means for measuring their progress in efficiency, were from the same cause, rendered less satisfactory. The following statement exhibits the number of visits paid to schools in the Hunter District for the year:—

|  |    |    |    |
|--|----|----|----|
| Number of schools which received one visit.. | .. | .. | 13 |
| " " " two visits ..                          | .. | .. | 28 |
| " " " three visits ..                        | .. | .. | 1  |
| " " " four or more ..                        | .. | .. | 9  |

The schools at Campsie and Scott's Flat, having been brought into operation towards the end of the year, could not be visited.

The number of schools in operation at the end of 1863 was 48. Of these, the school at Ellalong lapsed from causes which have been already laid before the Board. Four new schools were brought into existence, and two at Campsie and Seaham, re-opened. At the end of 1864, therefore, the number of schools receiving aid from the Board in this district was fifty-three.

Applications for aid in the establishment of National Schools at Eagleton, Lambton, Thalaba, and the Myall River were also received, and duly reported upon. Measures are in course of progress for erecting the necessary school buildings at each of these places.

Inquiries

Inquiries were made into the educational condition and requirements of the following localities:—Tilimby, Paterson, Wallarobba, Warkworth, Jerry's Plains, Denman, Myall River, Myall Lakes, Wiseman's Ferry, Upper M'Donald, Gosford.

Character of Inspection.—The inspection comprised an inquiry into the material condition of each school, its moral tone, the character of the instruction imparted, and in general,—whether as an educational institution, it was really subserving those objects for which it was established.

School buildings.—Without exception, the school buildings of this district are constructed with a view to mixed education—that is to say, instruction is given to males and females together in the one compartment. Three-fifths of the schoolhouses are fairly adapted to the purpose, and are for the most part the property of the Commissioners. The remainder are either built upon bad models, or are in indifferent repair.

In remote country districts, slabs form the ordinary material for building purposes. People in general receive their ideas of school architecture from the character and style of their dwellings, and these in distant and isolated localities being of an inferior description, it is difficult to obtain schoolhouses, to any large extent, superior. When it is remembered how much time is spent by children in the schoolroom, every effort should be made to make it attractive and comfortable; not to mention that their future ideas of domestic neatness, cleanliness, and order, will be largely moulded by its style and character.

Playgrounds.—In two-fifths of the schools, the playground accommodation ranges from bad to tolerable, want of adequate area being the ordinary defect. The result is that the children are either too much penned up, or get beyond the range of the teacher's eye. Hence, too, the discipline in such cases becomes more or less imperfect. As a rule, in vested schools, the playground accommodation is of a satisfactory kind.

Furniture and Apparatus.—The number of schools with bad or unsuitable furniture is becoming less each year—an improvement which may be fairly regarded as one result of constant inspection. At present, there are four schools only where the desks are either double, or arranged on the Lancasterian plan. In all the rest, the arrangement is on the mixed system. Occasionally, the supply of furniture is rather scanty, but with skilful management on the part of the teacher, is made to answer. Inferior and insufficient apparatus is usually associated with a similar description of furniture; but the following articles at least may be found in all the schools:—One black-board, and the maps of the World and Australia. It frequently occurs that the school is without a clock, and more frequently still without a bell; but it rarely happens that either is wanting where an active, earnest-minded teacher is to be found. The use of maps and other apparatus is not infrequently regarded as quite unnecessary, and as taking up time which might be more profitably spent in teaching the children to read, write, and cipher. Ignorant prejudices of this kind are fortunately becoming less common. To some extent, the amount and kind of apparatus employed may be controlled by the wants and choice of the teacher; but it is too commonly the case, that he experiences little of the one, and exercises less of the other.

Books.—The schools are well found in books, the reservation of one-tenth of the school-fees forming a fund for the purpose. I have to complain, however, that the amount thus deducted is frequently left exclusively at the disposal of the teacher for expenditure, who in too many instances, is careless to use sufficient efforts to relieve himself of the responsibility. Teachers are recommended by the Board to keep a supply of books on hand for sale to the children. In about half a dozen schools only this recommendation is carried out.

School Records.—With one or two exceptions, the records are correctly kept. I observe, however, a decided falling off in the neatness with which the different returns are compiled.

Punctuality.—Want of punctuality is a feature which characterises a large proportion of schools. The better class of teachers endeavour to devise means to lessen or remove the evil; but not a few seem by their indifference either to wink at or in effect actually to encourage it. I could point to cases where schools which, under one set of teachers, were remarkable for a punctual attendance, have, under another, lapsed into the other extreme, and vice versa. It is generally conceded, that much in the punctuality depends upon the personal character of the teacher, and the same may be safely predicated of the whole discipline, as well as of the general moral tone of the school.

Regularity.—Physical causes during the past year have operated more than usual to interrupt a regular attendance. Farming operations were for a long time entirely suspended; during the short intervals of fine weather, the elder children were required to assist in the field. It is reasonable to suppose that the attendance of pupils for the year would have been much greater, had it not been for the causes thus specified.

I have in previous reports adverted to the evil which so commonly obtains in this country, namely, that of utilising children's labour. After having devoted some little attention to the subject, I have come to the opinion that, although little can be done whilst the educational interests of the Colony are divided, nevertheless the subject is a fair one for the consideration of those who may be called upon to devise a scheme by which the two existing systems may be amalgamated. Compulsory education is no doubt an unpopular idea to the minds of a British community; and without recommending recourse to such a desperate expedient for securing adequate instruction to a large class of children, I nevertheless think that a small capitation tax, levied in a direct form, might go far towards realizing that end. Such a tax could only be distasteful to those who, influenced either by cupidity or ignorance, withhold that instruction from their children which is calculated to make them amenable to law and order; and even if it failed in part to remove the evil, the moneys thus derived would form a fund for relieving the country of a large portion of the costs at present incurred by an expensive police establishment. Education upon such a basis might get rid of the obnoxious subject of school fees; but without some such safeguard, free education would, as all experience shews, simply magnify the evil a hundred-fold.

The total number of the pupils on the rolls of the schools inspected was 3,147, and of these 2,430, or 70 per cent., were present at examination. Of those examined—

|       |                |    |                        |
|-------|----------------|----|------------------------|
| 43.56 | per cent. were | 7  | years of age or under. |
| 13    | " "            | 8  | years of age.          |
| 10.65 | " "            | 9  | " "                    |
| 9.26  | " "            | 10 | " "                    |
| 6.4   | " "            | 11 | " "                    |
| 12.1  | " "            | 12 | " " and above.         |

It will thus be seen that nearly one-half the pupils were of the age of seven or under; 61.56 per cent., eight or under; and 72.21 per cent., nine or under. It may reasonably be inferred, therefore, that the presence of so large a proportion of young children in our schools must not only affect the general standard of discipline, but also the character of the instruction; especially when it is borne in mind that there is little scope in a sparsely populated country like this, for the establishment of infant schools.

Order.—In one-half the schools the order ranges from fair to good, in the other half, from bad to tolerable. It is no uncommon incident to come upon a school where the order is seemingly fair—where the pupils are possessed of a modest and respectful demeanour, and the whole routine is being quietly and faithfully carried on—but where, when one, in the course of an examination, begins to penetrate below the surface, loose mental habits will be found to prevail to a surprising extent. The proportion of schools in which the attention is sustained for any length of time, is small indeed. The moral tone of a school is one, if not the principal, means by which the Board estimate a teacher's efficiency, as it is an incontrovertible fact that, where the general discipline and moral tone are low, the efforts of the teacher teacher for good, are to a large extent paralysed. It is true that, in their attempts to place their schools upon a satisfactory basis in this respect, teachers occasionally encounter serious obstacles where they have a right to look for aid; ignorance and unnecessary intermeddling on the part of parents, and want of sympathy and support from local patrons, are not the least of these. I am acquainted with places in which schools have languished because the teachers, efficient in other respects, aimed at a high state of discipline; whilst schools kept in the same localities by careless easy-going and incompetent persons, have had four times the attendance of pupils.

When it is remembered what a powerful auxiliary drill is to the establishment and maintenance of order, it is surprising that more teachers do not seek to introduce it into their schools. The only schools at present in which it may be said to be systematically taught, are those of Maitland, Newcastle, and Pitt Town.

Classification and Occupation.—In about four-fifths of the schools, the pupils are classified with fair judgement. In schools under one teacher, that division of classes known as the Tripartite almost universally prevails. Errors are frequently committed by a too numerous subdivision of classes, arithmetic being the subject of all others in which this process is carried to its furthest extent.

In the construction of time-tables and programmes, I notice a great improvement as compared with those of last year. Serious faults still frequently characterise both documents, especially the latter. Too much ground is mapped out; an insufficient margin is left for recapitulation; and the successive stages in the treatment of the subjects are not always clearly defined. Such errors result in the main from inexperience, but where observed, have been pointed out to the teachers.

Subjects of Instruction.—Reading, writing, arithmetic, grammar and geography, are taught in all the schools. In addition to these, linear drawing is taught in six, vocal music in six, algebra in five, Euclid in five, Latin in two, French in one. It is much to be regretted that drawing and vocal music are not more widely introduced into our schools. Both subjects will, however, soon be taken up by the members of the Teachers' Mutual Improvement Society, in which case a large amount of improvement may be anticipated. Very gratifying progress has been made by the pupils attending the schools at Clarence Town, Newcastle, and Pitt Town, in the practice of vocal music, on the tonic-sol-fa method. I observe, too, that the same system of teaching the science has recently been introduced to the school at the Wollombi. It might prove productive of good results, were the Board to award a small annual premium to teachers, whose schools, efficient in other respects, passed a creditable examination in either vocal music or linear drawing.

Methods.—The same faults characterise the methods of teaching as criticised in my report for last year, though to a less extent. In about two-thirds of the schools, the amount of skill ranges from fair to good, and the results produced are of a respectable kind. It may seem somewhat anomalous that fully one-half of the more successful teachers hold certificates of the third class. The major part of the less successful fail chiefly from one of two causes, or from both; either they overdo the teaching by too much talk, or they neglect to adopt proper precautions to see that the work is effectively done. Some of these have a correct perception of method in the abstract, are able to discriminate between analysis and synthesis, and are conversant with the various artifices resorted to in the application of both; nay, they are even able, as far as matter and arrangement go, to give a fair lesson themselves; and yet their teaching is productive of indifferent results. It will be found upon examination that teachers of this order fail to insist that the mental disposition of the class shall be such as to be capable of receiving the lesson with full effect, and that the pupils shall do a fair share of the work; or they do not honestly endeavour to detect the weak points in their own teaching. They omit to institute that rigorous and searching examination into their own labours, without which the best instruction must more or less fail. In schools where the teaching is most effective, I have almost invariably found that the teacher prepares the lessons beforehand. If it be necessary that the information to be conveyed shall be rigidly correct, and that the instruction shall be directed to realize some properly defined objects, such preparation becomes indispensable; where these conditions are ignored or misunderstood, the teaching is devoid of systematic aim, and the mental training of the pupils is only carried on in a one-sided or imperfect manner.

Reading.—In the reading lesson, much stress continues to be laid, and properly so too, upon the explanation of the subject matters. It is still true, however, that sufficient pains are not taken to teach children to read well. Fluency in reading is attained by a large proportion of the pupils attending our schools, but the proportion who are able to read with feeling and expression is comparatively small. A slow, clear, and distinct enunciation is not sufficiently insisted upon, nor does exemplar reading by the teacher prevail to sufficiently large extent. The elements of reading are usually taught from tablets; in two schools, I have seen them taught by means of chalk and the black-board with considerable effect. On the whole, I think some improvement in the teaching of the subject is discernible.

Of 2,430 pupils examined in reading during the year—

|----|-----------|-----------------------|
| 14 | per cent. | were in the alphabet, |
| 27 | " "       | monosyllabic words,   |
| 40 | " "       | easy narrative,       |
| 19 | " "       | ordinary prose,       |

In easy narrative and ordinary prose, the reading of one-seventh was indifferent or bad, that of the remainder ranging from moderate to good. In monosyllables, the reading of two-fifths was indifferent or bad; in the case of three-fifths, it ranged from tolerable to good.

Writing.—In many schools, the writing is still taught upon no regular progressive principles. It is too frequently the case, that the pupils are permitted to write too much at a time, and thus allowed to acquire loose and slovenly habits—the natural results of a want of proper supervision by the teacher. Nevertheless, it may be fairly said that the subject is beginning to receive increased attention, and the black-board to be more generally used in the teaching of it.

2,430 pupils examined in writing were distributed, thus :—

|    |           |                |
|----|-----------|----------------|
| 49 | per cent. | upon slates.   |
| 51 | per cent. | in copy-books. |

Of those who wrote upon slates, 16 per cent. had not got beyond the right line, 14 per cent. were in easy text, and the remainder wrote mixed hands ranging from tolerable to good.

Nine per cent. of the writing in copy-books was indifferent, and the remaining 42 per cent. ranged from tolerable to good.

Spelling.—Spelling is taught both in connexion with the reading lesson and from dictation. In the latter case, it may be safely said that the importance of the black-board is to a large extent ignored. After dictating the passage to the class, the words should be taken seriatim, spelt by the pupils, and written by the teacher upon the black-board. The lesson might be usefully amplified by calling for the spelling of words of similar sound but of different orthography. Not only would attention thus be drawn to many important orthographical anomalies, but some general principles might be deduced for future guidance. In the case of the higher classes, it might be advisable to treat the subject, where possible, in connection with the derivation of words. In four schools of the district, I observed that the teachers made the spelling of the more difficult words which occurred in the reading lesson for the next day, a home exercise, and the practice seemed to work well.

Arithmetic.—Some little improvement is discernible in the teaching of arithmetic, though the results hitherto produced in this branch are far from satisfactory. Teachers mostly fail in the earlier stages of the subject, partly from inability to explain the principles in an intelligent manner, partly from want of discrimination in the selection of appropriate examples, but mainly from neglecting to work constantly constantly such examples upon the black-board. The teacher should not rest contented by solving one or two questions by way of illustration, but should with the children work every question rapidly upon the black-board, until he is satisfied that the principles are thoroughly understood. One good example solved in this way is worth an hour's silent work.

The number of pupils examined in arithmetic was 1,621. Of these—

33 per cent. had not advanced beyond easy mental calculation,
45 " were in the simple rules,
13½ " " compound rules,
8½ " " higher rules.

Of those in the simple rules, the proficiency of 28 per cent. may be estimated as indifferent, and the proficiency of the remainder as ranging from fair to good. In the compound and higher rules, the proficiency of one-half may be characterised as indifferent, and of the other half as ranging from tolerable to good.

Grammar.—Grammar is almost universally taught from viva voce explanation, and with fair skill. In the case of the more advanced classes, parsing is taught from the black-board, and in connection with the reading lesson. Analysis of sentences is less skilfully handled.

1,370 pupils were examined in grammar—
53 per cent. in elementary,
47 " in advanced.

Of those examined in the elements, the knowledge of about one-third was indifferent; in the case of the rest, it ranged from tolerable to good. Of those examined in the higher portions of the science, the knowledge of one-fifth was indifferent, that of the remainder ranged from tolerable to good.

Geography.—The same faults characterise the teaching of geography as noted in the report for last year, and almost to an equal extent. The lesson, for the most part, is still made to consist of dry, disjointed facts, no sooner learnt than forgotten. Outline map-drawing has not been introduced, except in the case of three or four schools; and sufficient prominence is not given to that portion of the science which treats upon physical phenomena. An equal absence of skill is manifested in the treatment of the elements.

1,412 pupils were examined in geography—
56 per cent. in elementary,
44 " in advanced.

In the elements, the proficiency of—

26 per cent. ranged from bad to indifferent,
27 " " moderate to tolerable,
15 " " fair to good.

In the advanced part of the subject, the relative proficiency was much higher.

Object Lessons.—The subject of object lessons has engaged the attention of a large section of teachers in the district during the year. They are beginning, therefore, to be better understood. There is still, however, a tendency to treat the parts of the lesson as totally distinct, as having no direct or immediate connection, care not being taken that each successive step in the lesson shall arise out of and logically follow the preceding.

Scripture.—In general, the pupils shew a fair acquaintance with the leading facts mentioned in Scripture; they are also tolerably well grounded in the principles embodied in the general lesson.

Local Supervision.—In about one-half the schools, the local supervision may be regarded as of a beneficial character; in the remaining half it nominally exists. Monthly meetings are held in few instances, and arrangements for the regular visitation of the school are seldom made, and seldomer carried out. A common plea for omissions of this kind is, that the school is doing well, no complaints are being made by the parents, and the teachers seem attentive to their duties. If patrons could only realize the amount of sympathy and support which their frequent presence in the schoolroom affords to faithful and industrious teachers, they would, in all probability, make some slight sacrifice of their time to gratify and encourage them in this respect.

Teachers.—During the year, 51 teachers, 9 assistant teachers, and 12 pupil teachers were employed in the schools of this district. The teachers and assistant teachers were classified thus—

| CLASSES. |     |      |               | TOTAL. |
|----------|-----|------|---------------|--------|
| I.       | II. | III. | Probationers. |        |
| 1        | 18  | 37   | 5             | 51     |

The annexed table shews the average amount of emoluments received by teachers of each class, exclusive of residence—

| CLASS OF TEACHERS.     | EMOLUMENTS. |         |          |
|------------------------|-------------|---------|----------|
|                        | Salary.     | Fees.   | Total.   |
|                        | £ s. d.     | £ s. d. | £ s. d.  |
| First Class . . . . .  | 180 0 0     | 78 8 6  | 258 8 6  |
| Second Class . . . . . | 114 15 0    | 40 16 1 | 155 11 1 |
| Third Class . . . . .  | 82 3 0      | 37 14 1 | 119 17 1 |
| Probationers . . . . . | 60 0 0      | 14 19 1 | 74 19 1  |

When the mental and moral qualifications required of teachers in the Board's service, are taken into consideration, and the many difficult and high responsibilities incidental to their office, it will be readily admitted that the scholastic profession, even under the National Board, is inadequately remunerated. Those who are best off, can do little more than exist; they are unable to make provision for old age, whilst with questionable justice, they are denied participation in the advantages offered by the Superannuation Act. It is to be hoped, therefore, that in the event of any change in the existing educational arrangements of the Colony, due regard will be paid to the claims of the individual teacher.

About

About two-thirds of the teachers employed in the district are intelligent, painstaking, and industrious; their practical skill ranging from moderate to good. A few of these would do credit to any Educational Board. There is a small section, however, who measure their labour in a fixed, invariable mould, who seldom make an effort to raise the character of their schools, nor look beyond their own immediate convenience or comfort, but console themselves with the thought that, should matters assume an unpromising aspect, they have only to seek a new scene of labour, and leave to others the task of remedying the results of their apathy and indolence.

The Teachers' Mutual Improvement Association, established some three years ago, musters over thirty members, and has been productive of a large amount of good. The subjects which engage its attention are purely of an educational character, such as are calculated to raise the literary qualifications and practical skill of teachers. The society possesses the nucleus of a good library.

Need of Industrial Schools.—It is without doubt true, that a large class of children is to be found, particularly in the larger towns of the Colony, whose wants the educational machinery at present in existence fails to meet. These, for the most part, are children under no parental control, or those who are not infrequently designated "City Arabs." One very obvious way to meet the wants of this class would be for the government to establish a few industrial schools in different parts of the Colony. These, if conducted upon principles similar to those which regulate schools of the same character in the home country, might be made to some extent self-supporting. It is just possible, however, that the want of proper provision being made for the educational and other wants of these children, is, in part, owing to the existence of two distinct systems of education, and to the large unnecessary expense which, without any commensurate return, the country is thereby put to. It is much to be desired, for the sake of education itself, that the two existing systems should be amalgamated, particularly when the adoption of the non-vested principle by the National Board, would seem to have removed the most formidable obstacle to such a union. It appears to me that the simple application of that principle to other schools than National, would solve the educational difficulty.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

SYDNEY GRAMMAR SCHOOL.

(REPORT FOR 1864.)

Presented to both Houses of Parliament, by Command.

SECRETARY TO SYDNEY GRAMMAR SCHOOL to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Sydney Grammar School,

15 April, 1865.

SIR,

I have the honor, by direction of the Trustees of the Sydney Grammar School, to transmit to you, for the purpose of being laid before the Legislative Assembly, the following Report of their proceedings and of the progress of the School during the year 1864.

At a meeting of the Trustees, held on the 2nd February, Thomas Barker, Esq., was re-elected Chairman for the year.

At a meeting held on the 4th April, Mr. John Kinloch was engaged as Assistant Mathematical Master, to attend three afternoons in the week, at a salary of £120 per annum.

On the 1st August, Mr. F. Lander was appointed German Master, at a salary of £40 per annum, to attend the School once a week.

At the October meeting of the Trustees, on the suggestion of the Head Master, the following By-Laws for regulating the discipline of the School were passed, viz. :—

1. "Every gentleman engaged as a Master in the Sydney Grammar School, is hereby empowered to inflict punishment upon all pupils, except prefects, by detention, tasks, and posting (any or all), according to his discretion, for want of punctuality in attendance, for idle or disorderly behaviour in School, and for neglect of exercises or recitations set to be prepared out of School hours."
2. "All cases of stubbornness, deliberate neglect of tasks, wilful mischief, all immoral action or language, all insolence towards Masters or other insubordinate conduct, and all exercise of tyranny or cruelty, are to be reported to the Head Master. In like manner all offences committed by prefects against the general discipline of the School, shall be referred to the Head Master."
3. "No Master shall under any circumstances strike, or otherwise assault a pupil."

The account of the whole income and expenditure of the School, and the number of pupils who attended during the year 1864, will be found in the annexed Appendix.

I have, &amp;c.,

W. H. CATLETT,

Secretary.

UNIVERSITY OF SYDNEY.

(REPORT FOR 1864.)

Presented to both Houses of Parliament, by Command.

REGISTRAR, UNIVERSITY, to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

University of Sydney,
3 April, 1865.

SIR,

I do myself the honor to transmit herewith a Report of the proceedings of the University during the year 1864, together with an account of the Receipts and Disbursements during the same period, for the purpose of being laid before the Governor and Executive Council.

I have, &amp;c.,

HUGH KENNEDY,
Registrar.

REPORT of the Proceedings of the University of Sydney, for the year ended
31st December, 1864.

University of Sydney,
9 March, 1865.

1. The Senate of the University of Sydney, in compliance with the provisions of the 22nd clause of the Act of Incorporation, 14 Victoria, No. 31, have the honor to submit, for the information of the Governor and Executive Council, the following Report of their proceedings during the year 1864.

2. Ten students were admitted to matriculation, after having passed the preliminary examination.

3. The following students, who had completed the University course, extending over a period of three years, and who were declared to have passed the statutory examination, were admitted to the Degree of Bachelor of Arts, viz. :—

Arthur Mansfield Allen.
William Henry Mate.
John McGibbon.
Robert Smith.
William Browne (ægotat).

4. Certificates of having passed the examination for the B.A. Degree were granted to—

Alfred Cape.
George Edward Long.
William Alexander Manning.
Lucius O'Brien.
Charles Edward Pilcher.

5. A Board of Examiners was appointed by the Senate to examine, in conjunction with the Reader in Jurisprudence, for Degrees in Law, in accordance with the second clause of the thirteenth chapter of the By-laws. The following candidates, who passed the examination, were admitted to the Degree of Bachelor of Laws, viz. :—

John Donovan, M.A.
James Paterson, M.A.
John Norbert Quirk, B.A.
George Henry Stanley, M.A.

6. The Degree of Master of Arts was conferred, after examination, on the following gentlemen, viz. :—

Cecil Bedford Stephen, B.A. } (In the School of Mathematics.)
Edward Bowman, B.A. }

Andrew Bowman, B.A. (In the School of Physic.)

The Reverend William Ridley, B.A., of the University of London. (In the School of Moral, Mental, and Political Philosophy.)

This gentleman was admitted under the By-law relating to Bachelors of Arts of British Universities, chapter 12, clause 38.

7. In the examination for Scholarships, the following were the successful candidates :—

GENERAL UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIPS.

Third year :— { Frederick Mate.
George Edward Long.

Second year :— { George Knox.
Joseph David Sly.

First year :—Edward Iceton.

SPECIAL SCHOLARSHIPS.

Frederick Mate.

“Barker” Scholarship (for proficiency in Mathematics) :—
Frederick Mate.

“Deas Thomson” Scholarship (for proficiency in Chemistry and Experimental Physics) :—

Alfred John Cape.

8. The Chancellor’s Medal for the best translation from English into Latin Elegiac Verse was awarded to Frederick Mate.

9. The Honorable Edward Deas Thomson, C.B., was re-elected Vice-Chancellor of the University.

10. Under the will of the late William Lithgow, Esquire, £1,000 was bequeathed to the Senate, for the purpose of founding a Scholarship in the University. This sum has been invested in Treasury Bills, bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent.

11. Two By-laws were passed during the year; copies of which are appended, viz.,—one for regulating the admission of persons to examination for the Degree of Doctor of Laws in certain cases, and the other for altering the lining of the hoods belonging to the Degrees of Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Medicine—that formerly prescribed being distinctive of the same Degrees in Oxford.

12. A copy of the principal Speeches of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort was forwarded, by Her Majesty the Queen, to the Governor, for presentation to the University. This work was presented to the Senate by His Excellency, in Her Majesty’s name, and was thankfully acknowledged. A report of the proceedings on that occasion is appended.

13. A movement was made by persons desirous of establishing a Wesleyan College in connection with the University. A conference with the deputation appointed by the promoters was interrupted by the death of one of its members—the Reverend J. A. Manton.

14. Leave of absence for one year was granted to Professor Woolley, to enable him to visit England; satisfactory arrangements having been made by the Senate for the discharge of the duties of his Chair during that period.

15. The want of funds has prevented the progress of the building towards completion. The discovery of the white ant throughout the basement of the building necessitated the outlay of a considerable sum of money for removing and replacing the flooring, and otherwise taking steps to prevent further mischief.

16. A statement of the receipts and expenditure of the University during the year is appended.

The foregoing Report was adopted at a meeting of the Senate, held on the first of March, 1865, and was ordered to be transmitted to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, for presentation to the Government and Executive Council, and the Parliament, in pursuance of the 22nd clause of the Act of Incorporation—14 Victoria, No. 31.

HUGH KENNEDY,

Registrar.

APPENDIX.

1.

BY-LAW.

“The Senate shall have power to admit to examination for the degree of Doctor of Laws, any person who shall have obtained, at least two years previously, the Degree of Bachelor of Laws, at any of the Universities hereinbefore mentioned as those whose Bachelors of Arts will be admissible to examination for the degree of Master of Arts in this University, and who shall also have obtained the degree of Bachelor of Arts or an equivalent first degree in Arts, at any of the said Universities, or shall pass an examination similar to that prescribed for the Degree of Bachelor of Arts in this University.

“ University. Every candidate for admission under this By-law must make application in writing to the Registrar, and supply satisfactory evidence of his qualification as aforesaid, and that he is a person of good fame and character; and upon the approval of his application, he shall pay to the Registrar a fee of £2, for the entry of his name in the University books, in addition to the prescribed fee for his degree. Before the granting of this degree, every passed candidate will be required to furnish evidence of his having completed his twenty-third year.”

BY-LAW.

Report of the proceedings on the occasion of the presentation of Her Majesty's gift to the University.

The following Address was read by the Governor, on the occasion of his attendance at the University, for the purpose of presenting Her Majesty's gift to the Senate:—

“ Mr. Vice-Chancellor,—

“ I have the honor to convey to the Sydney University Library, by the Queen's command, a copy of the Principal Speeches and Addresses of His Royal Highness the Prince Consort. The gracious directions to this Institution, and Her Majesty's autograph in the first page, will be regarded with affectionate reverence. In placing this touching and precious memorial in your hands, I am instructed to express Her Majesty's full assurance, that it will be valued as a memento of one who took a lively interest in the welfare of each separate portion of Her Colonial Empire, and who studied, at all times, to promote the diffusion of that sound and useful knowledge which is one of the surest foundations of order and prosperity in every community, and which, Her Majesty doubts not, the Sydney University Library is the means of spreading in New South Wales.”

The following Address, which had been agreed to by the Senate, was then read by the Vice-Chancellor:—

“ May it please your Excellency,—

“ On behalf of the Senate of the University, I have the honor to express the high gratification with which they receive this distinguished mark of Her Majesty's favour. They are very sensible of the honour conferred upon the Institution, by Her Majesty's gracious presentation of a work recording many of the great services rendered to the nation by her profoundly regretted Consort. The gift is infinitely enhanced by Her Majesty having been pleased to authenticate it by Her own autograph. It will ever be preserved among the archives of this University, in grateful remembrance of a Prince who was so advanced a leader in literature, in science, and in art, and whose whole life presented to Her Majesty's subjects throughout her wide extended dominions a great example—so worthy, but so difficult of imitation.”

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

DR. LINDLEY'S HERBARIUM AND LIBRARY.

(CHANCELLOR OF UNIVERSITY TO COLONIAL SECRETARY, RECOMMENDING PURCHASE OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 16 June, 1865.

CHANCELLOR OF THE UNIVERSITY to COLONIAL SECRETARY.

*University of Sydney,
3 May, 1865.*

SIR,

I have the honor, at the instance of the Senate of the University, to bring under the consideration of His Excellency the Governor and the Executive Council, the enclosed copy of a correspondence forwarded to me by Sir Charles Nicholson, offering for sale the Herbarium and Library of Dr. Lindley, whose reputation as a botanist and author is as well known as it is highly appreciated, not only in England, but throughout the scientific world. Dr. Hooker (a very competent authority) observes, that he considers it the best arranged, preserved, and named of any private herbaria in England, except that at Kew, and that it has been the sole working materials of Dr. Lindley's long and useful botanical career. It will be seen that one portion of the herbarium and books has been reserved for the Royal Collection at Kew. This relates to one natural family only—the Orchids—and the Lords of the Treasury have agreed to purchase it for £500. The remaining portion of the herbarium and library, estimated at nine-tenths of the whole, is now offered for £1,500. This herbarium consists of a first-rate named collection of plants from all parts of the world. The specimens are represented to be in perfect condition, all fastened down on folio blue wove cartridge paper, poisoned, and named with their habitat and collector's name, date, &c., on the sheet, in Dr. Lindley's handwriting, and arranged systematically. The library is also stated to be in perfect condition, to be most valuable, and to contain many works of the early part of this century, of which few copies were printed, and which are rapidly becoming absorbed by the annually increasing number of public libraries in Europe. It contains also many costly illustrated works, such as the Botanical Magazine, Register, &c., comprising many thousand plates. Amongst them is an original copy of Sibthorp's "Flora Græca," which, when published, cost £300. Dr. Hooker mentions also the interesting fact, "that the herbarium contains the authentic type specimens of Mitchell's Expedition, " which Dr. Lindley described; besides Gunn's Tasmania, and Drummond's Swan "River."

The Senate consider that it would be most desirable to secure this valuable collection for one of the Public Institutions of the Colony. They consider it their duty, therefore, to submit the matter for the consideration of the Government, more especially as no opportunity of procuring so interesting and extensive a collection, and at so moderate a cost, will in all probability again occur.

As the offer will only be kept open until an answer be sent by the next mail, I shall feel obliged if you will favour me with the decision of the Government, so as to enable me to communicate finally on the subject with Sir Charles Nicholson, by that opportunity.

I have, &c.,
E. DEAS THOMSON,
Chancellor.

No. 1.

Dr. Hooker to Sir Charles Nicholson, Bart.Kew, 4 February, 1865.

My dear Sir Charles,

I called upon you yesterday to inform you of the approaching offer for sale of a most valuable named herbarium and botanical library, which would be extremely well suited for such an institution as the Sydney University. This is no less than Lindley's, which is, I should think, the best arranged, preserved, and named, of any private herbarium in this country, except ours at Kew, and which has been the sole working materials of his long and useful, botanical career. Dr. Lindley's health has utterly broken down, and he is most anxious that the herbarium and library should go to some British public institution. One natural family—the Orchids—he always kept apart, and wished to go to Kew. This we have recommended the Treasury to purchase for £500, and they have agreed to do so. The remainder of the herbarium—that is, nine-tenths of the whole—and library, remains to be disposed of, and consists of a first-rate named collection of plants from all parts of the world, and is especially rich in Swan River named types (which were published by himself). The specimens are in perfect condition, all fastened down in folio blue wove cartridge paper, named with their habitat and collector's names, date, &c., on the sheet, in Lindley's handwriting, poisoned, and arranged systematically.

The library is in perfect condition, and very valuable.

I do not at all know whether it would be worth Lindley's while to offer his collection and library to Sydney, and should be extremely obliged if you would tell me.

Poor fellow, his faculties are so shattered that he can himself take no steps in this matter, and I have agreed to help him, as far as is in my power, to provide a purchaser in the British dominions, before offering it abroad. I have thought first of Sydney, as being our chief colonial possession, and the future nucleus of eastern science: failing it, I was thinking of Melbourne and Queensland and Calcutta; but these all have herbariums, though none of the same practical value, and which will rank as Lindley's ever must as an important item in the history of science.

We have been asked to value the herbarium and library, and have considered £1,500 for the herbarium, and £750 for the library, as a fair price to have offered, had we wanted the herbarium and books for Kew.

I should, however, advise the family to take less if the institution were a specially desirable one. The books, I should say, are most valuable, and many of them costly, especially the large and fine ones of illustrated works, as the Botanical Magazine, Register, &c., &c., together comprising many thousand plates. Amongst them is an original copy of Sibthorp's "Flora Græca" which cost £300 when published.

As illustrating the rise and progress of botany in Britain, and as a means of standard reference, there is no such other herbarium and library in England as this, except my father's; and as the working materials and result of the labours of so great a man as Lindley, it is eminently valuable and interesting. Till hearing from you, I shall not make the subject known elsewhere. I need not say that, should you desire it, I shall be happy to accompany you to see it.

Very sincerely your's,

J. D. HOOKER.

P.S.—The orchidacean books go with the library. They contain every work upon this order of plants that could be procured during the last forty-five years, many most costly illustrated folios.

Dr. Hooker to Sir Charles Nicholson, Bart.Kew, 6 February, 1865.

My dear Sir Charles,

I am very much obliged for your most kind and considerate letter. I shall be in town to-morrow (Tuesday), and run my chance of finding you at home in the forenoon, on my way to lunch with a friend in Regent's Park. I saw the Lindleys yesterday; they have put the whole matter into my hands, limiting the amount to £1,500 for herbarium and library, if taken together. The latter is very valuable, and in beautiful condition; it contains many works of the early part of this century, of which but few copies were printed, and which are rapidly becoming absorbed by the annually increasing number of public libraries in Europe. I forgot also to mention that the herbarium contains the authentic type specimens of the plants of Mitchell's Expedition which Lindley described; besides Gunn's Tasmania, and Drummond's Swan River. Mrs. Hooker desires her kind compliments, and hopes when the weather gets better you will join some of our very small informal meetings of scientific men, who spend very pleasant summer evenings with us.

Very sincerely yours,

JOS. D. HOOKER.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MRS. PEGUS.
(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 10 March, 1865.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of the Colony of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Ellen Rosa Pegus, of Forbes-street, Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, widow,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner's husband, the late Campbell John Pegus, faithfully served the Government for upwards of eleven years (lately in Her Majesty's Customs).

That, during the period of the above service, your Petitioner's late husband suffered many privations in the discharge of his duties, especially during three years of his superintendence of Gabo Island, which tended greatly to accelerate his death.

That your Petitioner's late husband, the said Campbell John Pegus, died on the seventeenth day of March, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, leaving your Petitioner, and four young daughters, totally destitute.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays your Honorable House to take her case into your serious consideration, and afford her such relief as to your Honorable House shall seem fit.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c., &c., &c.

ELLEN ROSA PEGUS.

Dated this 6th day of March, A.D. 1865.

MR. EWEBANK LOUGH.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 14 March, 1865.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Ewebank Lough, of Parramatta,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner has held the situation of Teacher to the Presbyterian School, Parramatta, for upwards of five years and nine months, during which time he has paid the rent of a school for the Presbyterian body, and has never received any assistance from them for that purpose; and that, on the 26th September last, the Revd. John M'Gibbon, the then Moderator, came and examined the school under Petitioner's charge, and wrote in Petitioner's Roll Book favourably, having at the time 54 pupils in attendance.

That your Petitioner was requested by the above-named gentleman to resign, or to make it up with the people; and as your Petitioner had done nothing wrong, nor ever sought a quarrel with the Presbyterian body, or any other party, could not see the justice of resigning his situation without a charge. The Revd. Gentleman said that the small number of Presbyterians in the school was a sufficient charge. He therefore wrote to the Central Denominational School Board, recommending that the salary of Petitioner should be stopped after the 31st of October last, which was accordingly done.

That your Petitioner has been now without his salary four months, and is consequently in great difficulties, having had to pay rent and taxes during that time.

That your Petitioner has now on the Roll 73 pupils, the parents of whom are generally satisfied; and that a Memorial was presented by the parents and guardians of the children, and other inhabitants of Parramatta, to His Excellency the Governor and the Executive Council, to that effect, expressing their entire confidence in Mrs. Lough and myself as teachers, and sympathizing with us in our many difficulties and disadvantages since our appointment—the Petition being signed by 188 persons, praying an enquiry might be made into the cause.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays that your Honorable House will take the premises into your consideration, and cause an enquiry to be made into the whole affair, and afford such relief as the circumstances of the case requires.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

EWEBANK LOUGH,
Schoolmaster.

TIMOTHY DUNDAS RUSK.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 22 March, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Timothy Dundas Rusk, a Gold Digger and a subject of Her Most Gracious Majesty, Queen Victoria.

SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner arrived in this Colony the latter end of the year fifty-one.

That your Petitioner being a practical miner for some time in Gold, did shortly after his arrival proceed to the Gold Fields.

That your Petitioner, on viewing them, and the way that they were managed, observed that a change might be made for the best interest of the Colony.

That your Petitioner, after mature consideration, did himself the honor to suggest his views to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary.

That your Petitioner suggested an export duty upon the gold raised in the Colony, of from one shilling and sixpence to two shillings and sixpence, upon each and every ounce.

That your Petitioner, on arriving in Sydney in October, fifty-two, after travelling through the Northern Gold Fields, did make a report to the Honorable the Chairman of the Gold Fields Committee upon the management of the same.

That your Petitioner, while so engaged, got a severe cold, which has caused him a great deafness.

That your Petitioner, leaving Sydney for Braidwood, received a letter from the Chief Commissioners of Crown Lands in regarding speculation in the licensing.

That your Petitioner, being well aware that the Gold Fields were not likely to have the Export Duty Bill for some time, did suggest a reduction in miner's licenses of from five to ten shillings monthly.

That your Petitioner, leaving Braidwood, proceeded by Goulburn and Tuena, and made known to the Government what he deemed essential for the Government to know for the best interest of the Colony.

That your Petitioner has got a severe bodily ailment, by oppression and labour, that renders him unfit to earn a living by manual labour.

That your Petitioner considers that he might make still further suggestions that would, in his opinion, make the Gold Fields of this Colony yield from two to four hundred per cent. more gold than they do now, in the space of twelve months.

That all your Petitioner's suggestions have had a trial, and that none of them have failed.

Therefore your humble Petitioner prays that your Honorable House will receive his Petition, and appoint a Select Committee to inquire into his claims, and as in duty bound your Petitioner will ever pray.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

DAVID BLAIR.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 30 March, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of David Blair,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner, David Blair, has been dismissed from his honorably obtained and very suitable Government appointment, which he had wisely secured as a provision for his advancing years, namely, from his situation of front doorkeeper and messenger to the Legislative Assembly, and ruined, without having had the privilege of a British felon—a hearing in his own defence—and without any just cause; or, in other words, he was stripped of all the long-established customs and common usage of civilized society, which the English nation has made their study, and deep study, to bestow upon their public servants, particularly upon those at your Petitioner's peculiar advanced years; in short, there was nothing against your Petitioner to hear—at least, nothing that would stand a hearing; his bread was wanted for others, and knowing, as they did, that he had not a relative or friend in the Colony, they found a way to take it from him; in fact, all their other plans had failed to get his bread from him, which some of the neighbours on the opposite side of the street, and others, made their comments about, which was, namely, that your Petitioner did as much or more work than all the other messengers of the Legislative Assembly did put together, especially during the recesses of Parliament; and your Petitioner's Government appointment, humble as it was, was one of the most honorable-made Government appointments on record, or at least should be on record—it was made by the first Ministry of New South Wales, about eight days before the first sitting of the Legislative Assembly took place, namely, on the 22nd of May, 1856, when, on account of a favourite who wanted to creep into your Petitioner's situation at the front door of the Legislative Assembly, at that early stage, before he, your Petitioner, had got warm in his situation there, which caused your Petitioner's Government appointment to be referred to the House for their approval, when the voice of the House was unanimously given in favour of your Petitioner, Blair, when Sir William Manning, who was one of the first Ministry, said, in his place in the House, that Blair was a very decent man, and would make a very good doorkeeper; and again, during the Parker Administration, the first Premier of New South Wales, Mr. Donaldson, who was then the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer, now Sir Stuart Alexander Donaldson, told your Petitioner, in the Chamber, on a certain day during that administration, just before Sir Daniel Cooper took his chair, and in the presence of at least one-half of the Honorable Members, that he had made your Petitioner front door-keeper; in fact, merely confirming him in his situation, which clearly shews that there had been a continual snailing for your Petitioner's Government appointment at the front door of the Legislative Assembly. Patrick Figgott, one of the messengers belonging to the Legislative Assembly, who managed to creep into your Petitioner's Government appointment at the front door of the Legislative Assembly so nicely at last, is a countryman of Mr. O'Connor, and was often at Mr. O'Connor's house when your Petitioner was at the Legislative Assembly, and before he (Mr. O'Connor) was promoted to the Upper House, or the Legislative Council. Patrick Piggott is also one of those who waits at dinners; and although Lady Cooper always paid him well for his attendance there, your Petitioner's situation at the front door of the Legislative Assembly was still coveted, which he (Patrick Piggott) obtained at last, and in a manner, too, which the Honorable the Minister of Works, Mr. Arnold, did condemn for its hollowness and injustice, in your Petitioner's hearing, at the time it happened, not only to the present Chief Clerk, Mr. Charles Tompson, but also to Sir Charles Nicholson, Baronet, now in England.

Your Petitioner's prayer therefore is, that your Honorable House will take his case into your humane consideration, and have him restored to his suitable situation of front door-keeper and messenger to the Legislative Assembly, which he held and filled well for a period of five years all but three weeks, and which he can fill as well as ever he did for ten years to come, or some such Government situation.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

DAVID BLAIR.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. AUSTIN FORREST WILSHIRE.

(PETITION OF, RESPECTING REMOVAL OF TANNERIES FROM CITY OF SYDNEY.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 31 March, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Austin Forrest Wilshire, of Paddington, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, Esquire,—

SH EWETH :—

That in the year one thousand eight hundred and five, your Petitioner's late father, James Wilshire, of Sydney aforesaid, having become the owner of a piece of land situated between George and Pitt Streets, near Liverpool-street, in the city aforesaid, erected thereon, at a considerable expense, certain plant, machinery, and buildings, for the purpose of carrying on the business of a tanner, fellmonger, parchment manufacturer, soap maker and candle maker.

2. That at that period the locality mentioned was very thinly populated, and that the then existing Government, as your Petitioner is informed and believes, gave encouragement to your Petitioner's father in carrying on the said business; as instanced by the fact that, in consequence of a memorial presented to the Crown by him, the Crown granted him an additional piece of land in that locality, to enable him to carry on the said business.

3. That the said business was carried on, on the same premises, by your Petitioner's said father until his decease, and thereafter by your Petitioner and his late brother, James Robert Wilshire, as devisees under their said father's will, until the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty.

4. That on the eleventh day of October, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, the Legislature of this Colony passed an Act of Parliament whereby it was enacted, amongst other things, that from and after the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty, the business of a soap boiler, tallow melter, tripe boiler, tanner or currier, which had been already established within the limits of the city of Sydney, should not be carried on within the limits thereof.

5. That shortly before the said Act came into operation, your Petitioner and his said brother, foreseeing the injury likely to be thereby inflicted upon them, petitioned the Honorable the Legislative Assembly, with a view to having the said Act amended, so as to exempt tanners and curriers from the operation thereof; and the said Petition having been referred to a Select Committee, the said Committee reported unfavourably to the prayer of the said Petition.

6. That on the death of your Petitioner's said brother, in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty, his interest in the said land, plant, and machinery, and in the said business, survived to your Petitioner.

7. That in consequence of the passing of the Act hereinbefore mentioned, your Petitioner was obliged to discontinue the said business, which up to that time had been a very profitable one; and that the valuable plant, machinery, and buildings used for carrying on the said business having become useless to him, he was obliged to destroy the same, although at a considerable expense.

8. That the land where the said business had been carried on had been specially selected for the purposes of the said business, and, except in connection therewith, was not suitable for building purposes.

9. That, under the circumstances hereinbefore stated, your Petitioner was subject to great pecuniary loss.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays that your Honorable House will take the premises into your favourable consideration; and your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

A. F. WILSHIRE.

 REPORT.

---

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on the 3rd of May last, "to consider and report upon the Petition of Austin Forrest Wilshire,"—have agreed to the following Report:—

Your Committee have considered the alleged grievance complained of in the Petition addressed to your Honourable House by Mr. A. F. Wilshire, and have taken the evidence of the Petitioner and other persons on the subject.

In 1860, when the Act 13 Vic., No. 42, came into operation, the Petitioner, in partnership with his late brother, was carrying on the business of a Tanner and Currier, on an extensive scale, in the City of Sydney, and he alleges (and his allegation is supported by other evidence) that his business was never made a matter of complaint by his neighbours, and, in his belief, was in no respect prejudicial to the public health. Your Committee also find that in 1860 petitions from the residents in the neighbourhood of other similar establishments were addressed to Parliament, confirmatory of this view of the case. The Petitioner further alleges that his business was not contemplated, in the first instance, as among the nuisances sought to be removed by the Act 13 Vic., No. 42, but that the measure was made to apply to the trade of Tanners and Curriers by an amendment in Committee of the former Legislature, not based on any evidence of its necessity. By the operation of the Act a valuable plant, which it is stated, on the authority of an experienced architect, could not be replaced for less than a sum of £3,500, was totally destroyed, and the Petitioner considers that, in consequence, he has suffered a serious injury and injustice.

Your Committee find, on reference to the Votes and Proceedings of the period, that the late firm of J. R. and A. F. Wilshire petitioned against the passing of the Act in 1850; and that, at different periods since, they have repeated their petitions against the grievance under which they considered they were suffering. Under all the circumstances, your Committee beg to report to your Honourable House, that the case of the Petitioner is one which deserves to be taken into consideration by the Government.

HENRY PARKES,

Chairman.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON

MR. AUSTIN FORREST WILSHIRE (TANNERIES, ETC.)

WEDNESDAY, 10 MAY, 1865.

Present:—

Mr. FORLONGE, | Mr. PARKES,
Mr. NEALE, | Mr. SUTHERLAND.

HENRY PARKES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Austin Forrest Wilshire, Esq., called in and examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You were formerly engaged, for a long period of years, in Sydney, as a tanner and currier, I believe? I was.
2. Your place of business was in George-street? In George-street, or between George and Pitt Streets.
3. You are aware that an Act was passed by the Legislature, some years ago, to the effect that persons engaged in a business like yours should remove without the boundaries of the city, at the expiration of ten years from that date? Yes.
4. Did that Act come in force in 1860? Yes; it was passed in 1850.
5. At that time did your firm petition the Legislative Assembly to have your business exempted from the operation of that Act? We did.
6. Did the petition pray for the exemption of your whole business, or of only a part of it? The business of tanner and currier, I believe.
7. And the Act was put in force? Yes.
8. Your petition was not complied with? It was not.
9. What was the consequence, as far as your business was affected? The consequence was the loss of our business.
10. Did you close your business? Yes, we closed our business, in compliance with the law.
11. When was the precise date that you ceased to carry on the business as you had carried it on up to that period? We ceased during the year 1861, because we carried it on for a short period, by way of clearing up and selling out. We did not comply with the Act to a day.
12. Did you remove your business to any other part? No.
13. Since then have you done anything with the business? I have not.
14. You recently petitioned the Legislative Assembly, alleging that you had been seriously injured by the operation of this Act, and asking the consideration of your case? Yes.
15. Is this a copy of your petition (handing a copy of the petition before the Committee to the witness)? It is.
16. Will you be good enough to state to the Committee, in detail, and at the same time as concisely as you can (having in view a full statement of the case), the nature and extent of the injury which you conceive you have sustained? I have prepared some documents to shew the loss I have sustained in a variety of ways. I shew first the amount taken for six years, from the year 1852 to 1857, from the books of my late brother and myself—when the tannery was not half worked, its capability being much larger—shewing an average profit, for six years, of £1,779 15s. 9d. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix A.)

A. F.
Wilshire, Esq.
10 May, 1865.

A. F.
Wilshire, Esq.
10 May, 1865.

17. I notice in your petition, in the first paragraph, that you describe your business as that of "a tanner, fellmonger, parchment manufacturer, soap and candle maker";—did you carry on all those branches at the time? Not recently; all those trades were carried on formerly, but they were considerably curtailed of late years.
18. Did you carry on business as a parchment maker? No, that was long since discontinued; in fact, excepting to a small extent, all the trades but those of tanner and currier were discontinued by my brother and myself a short time after my father died.
19. When you petitioned to be permitted to carry on business, you did not desire to carry on the business of soap and candle makers? No, only that of tanner and currier—those were the chief trades; in fact, soap and candle making could not be allowed in Sydney. I also produce an estimate of the cost of similar plant, erection of buildings, and forming of pits, if I now intended to remove the business. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix B.)
20. This is the cost of restoring in another place the property that you have been required to remove? Yes; it is made by Mr. Mansfield, the architect. There is one portion of the measurement which might have been excluded—the stone store, which is estimated at £500.
21. What does Mr. Mansfield say would be the cost of putting up, in another place, similar premises to these which were rendered useless to you by the operation of the Act? Not less than £3,500.
22. These various buildings and appliances necessary for your business, situated at the rear of your premises in George-street, which were rendered useless by the operation of the Act, have remained in a state of uselessness to the present time? Yes, excepting the store I have alluded to, which has been used.
23. Will you state briefly the number of buildings and tan pits upon this property? There are altogether six or seven buildings, open sheds, and other erections; and there were ninety-six tan pits in all.
24. What is the size of those pits, and how are they constructed? They are constructed some of them in brick and cement, which we call lime pits; and spenders are also constructed with lime, cement, and brick. The tan pits are composed of 2½-inch planking hardwood, the joiner's work merely doweled and joined, and embedded in puddled clay, to make them perfectly water-tight. I think Mr. Mansfield's estimate is rather low for them.
25. What does he put down for them? £7. I do not think they could be put down for that.
26. What do you think you could put them down for? £10. They are of several sizes, but the average size would be nine by four and a half feet, with 2½-inch planking.
27. You think they would cost more than a third more? I would give any one £5,000 to put such plant upon land as there was there. I have another document which I would lay before the Committee: it is an estimate made by persons engaged in the trade, of the annual value of such a tannery, as an investment to let. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix C.) They estimated it at £400 a year, which I think a low value. I have also brought a plan, which was drawn up shortly after my father's death, when all the property was cut up according to the division made in his will. This shews the extent of the tannery, and what its capability might have been; there was room to have increased it to a large extent. (The witness produced the plan.) We had two mills on the property, one of which cost £240, and the other £120; and we sold them both for £60.
28. I believe you are of opinion—I infer that from your former petition—that the business of a tanner and currier is in no way dangerous to the public health, and that it is not a business that required to be removed out of Sydney by law? I was always of that opinion, and am still so.
29. Therefore you consider it a hard case to have been compelled to remove this business? I do, indeed.
30. Suppose we were to admit that it was a business such as it was necessary, for the preservation of the public health, to have removed,—even in that case should you consider yourself entitled to have compensation for the loss you have sustained? I should, or I would not have petitioned. I may state that we should have been ruined, had we not had another source of income, and that the Government might as well have taken the whole block. My father died in 1840, possessed of considerable property, and he desired to have that property divided among all his children. It was the same with his personal estate. Up to 1843 my brother and I had the management of the estate. The property was not large, amounting to not above £100 each; and in order to pay this to my brothers and sisters, we had to borrow money, and for this purpose we had no other property available than this tannery and plant. We applied for and obtained £3,000 upon this, and it remained mortgaged up to 1854, when we were called upon, as we had repeatedly been called upon, to pay. At this time some moneys came into our hands from another estate, by which we were enabled to pay it off, and that mortgage is actually on the estate now. The plant itself is destroyed, and the land is not worth more than £3,000, and I am actually deprived of the ground itself. I am simply in this position—The money that paid this mortgage off was paid from my brother Thomas' estate; he died some years ago, and I have now to pay it off to my nephew, who is now of age. The land was valued by Messrs. Richardson and Wrench—that is, the block upon which the tannery stands—at my brother James' death, at £2,600. In 1843, with the tannery upon it, it was valued at £6,000, and we obtained £3,000 by mortgage upon it.
31. By Mr. Neale: In what year was it you discontinued the fellmongering and soap and candle making? Many years ago. My father died in 1840, and we carried on the fellmongering a few years, till about 1844, when we discontinued it; parchment making was also discontinued by us about the same period, from want of tradesmen as much as from any other other cause; soap making was discontinued about the same time, and also dip-candle making, but we continued to manufacture mould candles until four or five years later, and carried on a large trade.

32. By the Chairman: Will you be good enough to supply the Committee with a tracing of that portion of the plan now before us which comprises your tannery? I will.

33. You of course would have a knowledge of all other persons engaged in a similar business in Sydney? Yes, I knew most of them, I think.

34. In what way did the Act, when it came into operation, affect some of the owners of the old tanneries—Mr. Hercules Watt, for instance? I have been informed that Mr. Hercules Watt was completely ruined by it. He had let his property (a small tannery in Phillip-street, or at the back of the Club House) to Mr. Begg, at £300 a year; and when he became old and infirm, the property became valueless, he was left penniless, and at the time of his death he was without the means of existence.

35. Did not the rent of this tannery—that is, the rent of this property as a tannery—form the main income of Mr. Watt, before his death? I was informed so by Mr. Begg, the other day.

36. The property as a tannery being destroyed, his income was destroyed? Yes.

37. And he died in a state of indigence as the consequence? Yes, so Mr. Begg told me the other day.

38. By Mr. Sutherland: Do you know the premises of the late Mr. Watt, in Phillip-street? I do not know them particularly, but Mr. Begg informed me that he had to pay £300 a year for them, and to lay out £300 on property for lime-pits. It was a very insignificant place, and had not a building on it equal to ours.

39. By Mr. Forlonge: Are you aware of any other business of the same kind, that was obliged to cease in consequence of this law? Yes, I think there was one other, belonging to Messrs. Alderson and Sons, which formerly belonged to Mr. Pawley, in Castlereagh-street. They removed thence, because the premises were not sufficiently large to enable them to extend their business—it was a very small block of land.

40. Are those the only two that have come to your knowledge? Mr. Pawley established one on Surry Hills, which he is working now in contravention of the Act. I do not wish to say anything against my fellow tradesmen. It is no nuisance there—it is on the bounds of, but still within, the city. Mr. Begg has the Glenmore tannery, from which, although it is outside the bounds, all the filth runs into the city. I do not see why legislation should have been specially directed against tanners and curriers, while sugar refining, which is a far greater nuisance, is allowed to be carried on within the city.

HENRY PARKES, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. William Maddison Alderson called in and examined:—

41. By the Chairman: You are engaged in the tanning business in Sydney, are you not? Yes.

42. And have been for some years? Yes, about twenty-four years; that is, as journeyman and master altogether.

43. Were you acquainted with the business conducted formerly by Messrs. J. R. & A. F. Wilshire? Yes.

44. You knew their premises, and the extent of their business operations? Yes, as far as one could judge.

45. Some years ago—in 1850, I believe—an Act was passed by the Legislature, for the exclusion of slaughter-houses, and other businesses which were considered to be hurtful to the public health, from the city? Yes.

46. The Act was to come into operation ten years after it was passed? Yes.

47. You are acquainted with that circumstance? Yes.

48. Do you recollect the circumstances and the time when that Act was passed, and the causes which led to its being enacted? It was brought into the House by the late Mr. Robert Nichols. It was not in consequence of any fault found by the public, or complaint made by them, but because he lived directly opposite the premises I then occupied as a tannery in Castlereagh-street.

49. Was it not the case that many inhabitants of Sydney petitioned against the existence of slaughter-houses in the city of Sydney? Yes, I think there were some petitions; but there was never anything mentioned about tan-yards, as far as I can recollect. This clause was introduced into the Bill, as far as I can recollect, after it had been in the House a while.

50. You do not recollect the circumstances under which the words applying to tanners and curriers were introduced into the Bill? That is the only reason I can give.

51. Are you aware that Mr. A. F. Wilshire, the surviving partner of the firm of J. R. & A. F. Wilshire, has petitioned the Legislature? I have seen from the papers that he has done so.

52. Have you seen that petition? I have not. (The petition was handed to the witness.)

Mr. W. M.
Alderson.
16 May, 1865.

53. Mr. A. F. Wilshire, whose name is attached to the petition a copy of which is before you, alleges that he was seriously injured by this Act coming into operation, inasmuch as he had very extensive tannery plant, which cost a large sum of money, and which could not be removed but must necessarily be destroyed by the operation of this Act: he says, for example, that he had nearly a hundred tan pits, all of which would be utterly destroyed by the removal of his business, as they could not be taken up and put down elsewhere—the process of construction must be gone over again—and in this respect he considers he has been seriously aggrieved, and he applies to the Parliament of the country to consider his case—have you paid any attention to this matter? Yes, I have always considered he was seriously injured by the Act; he could not help but be seriously injured, because when you require a man to pull pits to pieces, it is the same as if you directed him to pull down his house.

54. As a practical tanner, what should you think the extent of the injury sustained by him? I could not say.

55. Have not you, in conjunction with another gentleman, given some estimate? Yes, as to what we considered would be a fair rent.

56. You estimated the rent of this tannery property at £400 a year? Yes.

57. Are you aware that the late Mr. Hercules Watt let his tannery at £300 a year? Yes.

58. Was his tannery anything near so large as that of the Messrs. Wilshire's? No, it was not. Mr. Begg and I made the estimate, and we were guided by that and other circumstances, and thought £300<sup>1</sup> a year a fair rent, but we paid no particular attention to the buildings on the premises—we looked to the number of pits Mr. Wilshire said he had. I never even counted his pits, for we are not in the habit of going into each other's yards and counting the pits. Perhaps it might have been worth more, but we thought that was about the fair thing. I know the currying shop was not considered to be very eligible—it was very old.

59. Should you consider that Mr. Wilshire was entitled to compensation for the compulsory removal of his business? Yes, I decidedly consider so. My argument was, that time is no compensation for the compulsory removal of any business, however injurious to public health, which tanning has never been proved to be, either here or in any other part of the world—indeed, it is rather the other way.

60. Do you know anything of what were the circumstances of Mr. Watt who carried on the tanning business in Phillip-street, before he died? Yes; the income from that property was the only thing he had to depend upon—the rent of that yard.

61. He had become enfeebled in health, and had let his tannery for £300 a year, and that formed his income, or the greater part of it? Yes.

62. This Act coming into operation destroyed his property and income, and he died in a state of indigence? Yes; he received the rent up to the time that Mr. Begg was compelled by the Act to remove. It cost Mr. Begg a great deal of money to remove.

63. Mr. Wilshire has brought to this Committee an estimate of the cost of putting up plant similar to his own at the time of the Act coming into operation; this estimate has been made by Mr. Mansfield, the architect, and I think the estimate of forming new plant similar to that in George-street is £3,500—does that strike you as an under estimate, as excessive, or as fair? I do not think it an excessive estimate.

64. I think Mr. Mansfield estimates the cost of construction of the pits at about £7 each? I calculate that my pits cost me £10 each, fully; but I have never noticed Mr. Wilshire's pits.

65. By Mr. Sutherland: Did you ever take notice of Mr. Watt's premises, in Phillip-street, at the time the tanning business was carried on? Yes.

66. If Mr. Watt's premises were worth £300 a year, what do you think was the value of Mr. Wilshire's premises, taking the extent of the pits and of the premises altogether? Mr. Wilshire did not explain to us—we were quite in the dark as to the number of pits. There seems (referring to the plan) to have been more conveniences than we thought at the time. You must understand that I was very little in Mr. Wilshire's yard when he was carrying on business, for I had enough to do to attend to my own business; I do not go about prying into other people's places. Mr. Wilshire told us the number of pits he had, and Mr. Begg and I came to the conclusion that £400 would be a fair rent. He thought he was paying a high rent to Mr. Watt.

67. Could these premises be turned to any other use after they were vacated for the purpose of a tannery? The pits could not—the other premises might.

68. By Mr. Tighe: Could any lawful manufacture be carried on, so as to yield a portion of this £400 a year rent? Certainly I should think so; there are buildings, and there is the land.

69. I want to know whether the premises as they stand would produce any portion of the £400 a year—whether they could be devoted to any other purpose? Some of these buildings might possibly be used for other purposes.

70. Could you give any idea of the value of the property? I could not.

71. You could not give any idea of the market value of the premises, as they stood when the tannery business was prohibited in Sydney? No; the pits, which are the chief desiderata in a tan-yard, would be of no use.

72. They would be of no use for anything else? No, they could only be filled up or dug up.

73. Could you form any idea what was the value of the land to be let out on building lease, supposing everything to be taken away? I have no idea of that. It is all enclosed with buildings, I think. The only thing that could be done with it would be to build a sort of square there.

74. How much land is there? I have no idea. There is one thing I would like to point out to the Committee,—that time is no compensation.

75. By the Chairman: You are alluding to the ten years allowed by the Act? Yes; in my case it was a positive disadvantage to me. I did not wait until the termination of the ten years before I removed, and it was exceedingly expensive to me, as at that time I was paying 30s. a day for labour. The only compensation that can be given is money.

Mr. W. M. Alderson.

16 May, 1865.

76. By Mr. Tighe: Supposing an Act were passed requiring you to remove your business from your present position, would you sooner get a day or ten years' notice? I should require a certain amount of notice, but also a money compensation; nothing else would compensate you—it would ruin me.

77. It would ruin you to give you a ten years' notice? I think it would, after getting all my plant, which is much more expensive than Mr. Wilshire's was, because we have steam appliances in many of the operations, which we did not have in those days.

78. By the Chairman: In the ordinary course of things, is not a business worth more and more, the longer it is in existence, by reason of the local reputation obtained? Yes.

79. Must it not impair any business, be it what it may, if the persons carrying it on have to make gradual preparation for removal? Yes. There is one point which we lost sight of, namely, that Mr. Wilshire's position was the best for carrying on his business.

80. Being of a central character? Yes, it was in a good situation for persons coming from the country, requiring the goods manufactured by the Messrs. Wilshire. There is another matter I would refer to: it was a foolish thing to include carriers in the Bill—that is quite a separate business from the tanners.

81. The carriers' business is in no way offensive? No, the carrier has nothing to do with the hide until after it is made into leather.

82. He dresses the surface? Yes, he puts the oil on it, and such like. That shews the ignorance of those men who passed the Act. I think it would have shewn a little better judgment on their part, if they had sent for some of the trade and inquired into the matter before passing the law—if they had appointed a Committee, as in the present instance; but this was never done—at least, I was never sent for, and I do not think Mr. Wilshire was. It is not to be supposed that legislators know everything; and if they do not, they ought to ask those who do.

Mr. John E. Begg called in and examined:—

83. By the Chairman: You have been engaged for some years in the business of a tanner? Mr. J. E. Begg. I have.

84. How long have you been engaged in that business in Sydney? About ten or eleven years. 16 May, 1865.

85. You formerly rented a tan-yard belonging to the late Mr. Hercules Watt? Yes.

86. How came you to leave that? Because by an Act of Parliament I was compelled to remove.

87. You allude to the Act that came into operation in 1860? Yes.

88. How long had you rented this tannery from Mr. Watt at the time you had to remove? I think about five or six years.

89. Will you be good enough to state what rent you paid? £250.

90. Not £300? £300 the first four years, and I think £250 the last portion of the time.

91. Were you personally acquainted with Mr. Watt's circumstances—that is, to this extent, whether the rent derived from this tannery formed the principal part of his income? Yes, it was the principal part of his income.

92. The operation of this Act, and your consequent removal out of the city, destroyed the income which Mr. Watt received from you? Yes, completely.

93. You are aware that Mr. Watt, the greater part of his life, was in very comfortable circumstances? Yes, so long as I knew him.

94. And the operation of this Act against tanners and carriers did, at all events, reduce him to a state of penury? It did almost.

95. You are aware that there was an extensive business carried on by the late firm of J. R. and A. F. Wilshire? Yes, on Brickfield Hill.

96. Being engaged in the same business, you would probably have some personal knowledge of the premises? Yes, I had knowledge of the premises; they were pretty large.

97. Do you consider that the operation of the Act did, in effect, injure the firm of J. R. and A. F. Wilshire to such an extent as to entitle them to compensation? I do.

98. Are you aware that the surviving partner, Mr. A. F. Wilshire, has petitioned the Legislative Assembly on the subject? Yes.

99. Have you seen his petition? No; I have observed a notice of it in the proceedings of Parliament.

100. He alleges in this petition that he had been carrying on this business—his father first, and himself and brother of late as successors to their late father—for a great number of years; that their establishment was a very extensive and profitable one, and that by the operation of this Act, which absolutely destroyed that portion of the property which was invested in the appliances for carrying on this business, an injury was done which he estimates at from three to five thousand pounds? I should think it had done so.

101. What should you consider to be the value of that property? I should consider that the yard if let would be worth £400 a year.

102. You have, in fact, given an estimate of the rental at £400 a year? Yes; I judge from Mr. Watt's premises that that is the lowest figure I could put down.

103. Do you consider £400 a year a low rent? Yes, judging from the place I have at Glenmore, and looking to the fact that he would effect a great saving in cartage in that position; besides, the premises were very large.

- Mr. J. E. Begg. 104. Did you ever hear of curriers being excluded from cities in any other part of the world? No, for there is nothing injurious in the business of a currier.
- 16 May, 1865. 105. I believe tanners are not excluded from cities in England or Scotland? Not that I am aware of.
106. The business of a currier is harmless? Yes, as much so as shoemakers; oil and tallow are the only articles used in currying.
107. Supposing the business carried on by yourself and the late firm of J. R. and A. F. Wilshire were injurious to the public health—supposing it were even of a poisonous character, and that it was necessary for the public good to have it removed from the town, should you consider yourself entitled to compensation if you were compelled to remove? Yes, especially as Mr. Wilshire's yard was formed when the city was not in existence—the city came to his property, he did not come to the city.
108. According to Mr. Wilshire's evidence, the tannery was established sixty years ago? Yes.
109. Mr. A. F. Wilshire, it appears, has employed Mr. Mansfield, the architect, to inspect his property, and to give an estimate of the cost of erecting a similar property; and the estimate of Mr. Mansfield is £3,500? I think it would take all that to make the same sized yard.
110. To enable you to judge of the estimate more definitely, I may mention that Mr. Mansfield's estimate of the cost of constructing the pits is £7? I think that is lower than the cost at which they could be made. It would depend upon the locality; if formed of wood and clay they would be more expensive.
111. You consider that Mr. Wilshire has been seriously injured, and is entitled to compensation, if it has been found necessary for the public good that he should remove his business? I do.
112. And you think Mr. Mansfield's estimate is not excessive? I do.
113. And you think, if the property had been let as a tannery, £400 a year would have been a low rent? Yes. I know that the cost of removing to Glenmore, and of repairing the tan-yard that had been made before, cost me £1,500.

Mr. Henry Bond called in and examined:—

- Mr. H. Bond. 114. By the Chairman: You are an old resident of Sydney? Yes, I have been forty-three years in Sydney.
- 16 May, 1865. 115. Are you a practical tanner? Yes, I have carried it on for some years.
116. Were you at one time connected with Messrs. Wilshire's business? I was nine years with them when I first came to the Colony.
117. In what capacity? I was a sort of superintendent—I managed the currying business and the tanning.
118. Then you have a thorough knowledge of the extent and character of their premises? Yes.
119. Was it a large tannery? Yes, the largest in the Colony at that time.
120. How many men have you known to be employed there at one time? Most of them were Government men in those days; from twenty to thirty.
121. I believe you have not been engaged in business of late years? No, not for the last ten or twelve years.
122. You are aware of an Act of a former Legislature that was passed in 1850, and came into operation in 1860—ten years after its passing—which required all tanneries to be removed beyond the boundaries of the city? Yes.
123. Should you consider that the operation of this Act, ten years' notice being allowed for the removal, was any injury to persons engaged in this business? I conceive it would be an injury, as it would involve the expenditure for making new premises, and the loss of property sunk on the land—the plant. It would cost a considerable sum of money to make a new tan-yard.
124. The plant in a tannery could not be converted to any other purpose? No.
125. Confining ourselves to Mr. Wilshire's business, we have before us a petition from Mr. A. F. Wilshire, the surviving partner of the firm, alleging that he has been injured by the destruction of this property, to the extent of some thousands of pounds—I think he estimates it at from £3,500 to £5,000 pounds, that it would cost him to reconstruct his plant—do you think that a fair estimate? I think it would cost him that, if he had to purchase the land in an eligible spot, and to make all the necessary premises to carry on the business—it would cost him fully that; I am supposing the erection of similar premises to those in George-street.
126. How much should you think would be the cost of constructing tan-pits similar to those on Mr. Wilshire's premises? When I left, which was a long time ago, about thirty-three years, —
127. Have you not been connected with the business since? Not with their business for thirty years.
128. What should you consider the cost of constructing a single tan-pit? I could hardly say.
129. Would it be fifty shillings? The labour of sinking a pit would be more than that; I suppose the cost of labour and timber would be from £5 to £10, but it would depend upon the cost of timber at the time.
130. By Mr. Tighe: Could not the timber be taken up and made use of for a new pit? Some of it, if it were carefully taken up, might be removed.

A. F. Wilshire, Esq.
Sir,

In accordance with your instructions, I have carefully examined the buildings upon your property, near George-street, formerly used as a tannery; and having made a detailed measurement and estimate of their value, I have to report that the cost of erecting a similar establishment, with buildings, pits, &c., on the same scale, would be not less than three thousand five hundred pounds (£3,500).

I have, &c.,

We, the undersigned, have for many years known the property on Brickfield Hill, Sydney, formerly called Wilshire's Tannery; and we are of opinion that, from the year 1854 to the present time, its annual value, if let as a tannery, would have been £400 per annum.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

JOHN PEARCE.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 5 April, 1865.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of John Pearce, of Hoskin's-place (No. 8), in the city of Sydney, Storeman and Warper,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioner served for a period of ten years (viz.—from 1841 to 1851) as a member of the City Police, during nine years of which, Petitioner filled the responsible position of Inspector, and in such capacity had under his charge one of the most important police divisions of the city.

That, during Petitioner's service, no complaint of any kind had ever been made against him or the mode in which he performed his duties; but on the contrary, Petitioner had invariably given the fullest satisfaction, not only to the officers under whom he served, but to the citizens generally residents in the wards entrusted to Petitioner's supervision.

That on the night of the anniversary of the Birth of Her Most Gracious Majesty, in the year 1851, your Petitioner was on duty, and observing with satisfaction the orderly conduct of the citizens while indulging in the customary harmless recreations common on such occasions, when the Inspector General (Mr. Spain) and the then Superintendent of Police (Mr. McLerie) happened to see one of the citizens in the act of firing a squib or other harmless firework, immediately directed your Petitioner to take such individual into custody.

That your Petitioner being aware that he was not (under the then Police Act) justified in incarcerating a citizen on so trivial a charge, ventured a respectful remonstrance, but was at once peremptorily ordered to clear the streets.

That the citizens (who had before been peaceable), on witnessing this proceeding, became a little disorderly, making it then a matter of great difficulty for Petitioner to execute this sudden order; Petitioner, however, while endeavouring to do as directed, ventured respectfully to advert to the great change which the orders of his superior officers had occasioned in the feelings of the populace, when he was at once suspended from his duties as a Police Inspector, and charges of drunkenness and disobedience preferred against him.

That your Petitioner was soon thereafter cited to appear before a Board of Police Magistrates (Messrs. Dowling, H. H. Browne, and George Allen), when, although the evidence adduced before such Board was mainly favourable to your Petitioner as a public officer, and that his conduct had been for nine years previously well known to have been that of an active, zealous, and efficient officer, he was at once summarily dismissed.

That, in order to shew your Honorable Assembly the malus animus entertained towards your Petitioner, he begs to submit to your Honorable House, the fact that the then Inspector General gave peremptory orders that Petitioner and his family should be immediately ejected from quarters which he had for some years occupied at one of the public watch-houses; and although an arrangement had been made by the authorities with Petitioner, that whenever it was decided that Petitioner should be removed from such quarters, one month's notice to quit should be served upon him, yet, notwithstanding, he was, during his absence from home, subject to the gross outrage of having his young family as well as his furniture and effects at once turned into the public streets, during rainy and tempestuous weather, by the police; and your unfortunate Petitioner was, under the circumstances, in a manner compelled to dispose of his effects at a ruinous loss, to save them from total destruction.

That your Petitioner is grieved to find that, in a letter addressed to him by the Honorable the Colonial Secretary, bearing date the eighth day of this present month, the present Inspector General of Police (Mr. McLerie), after being called upon to report upon this subject, has not hesitated to state that the ejection of your Petitioner from the watch-house in question had not been effected by the police, but by persons who had purchased the said building. This statement Petitioner can have no hesitation in saying is entirely at variance with the facts; the purchaser of the house in question (Mr. Robey) having also consented to an arrangement that Petitioner should receive a month's notice previous to removal; and Petitioner must, in justice to himself, and in defence of his veracity, again assert that it was the police authorities, by means of their officers, and those only, who had thus most cruelly and inhumanely acted towards your Petitioner and his unoffending family.

That your Petitioner, some time after his ejection from the watch-house, as hereinbefore explained, was, while walking quietly in one of the public streets, apprehended by constables as a runaway, and when brought before Sergeant Garvin, the watch-house keeper, they were confounded, and after consultation, entered on the W. H. Book Protection; was subsequently brought before the Sydney Bench of Magistrates, who directed he should be forwarded to Darlinghurst Gaol for breach of good behaviour, whence he was subsequently sent by the late Captain Webster, Principal Gaoler, and Doctor Grant, Dispenser of that establishment, to the Lunatic Asylum, Tarban Creek, as a lunatic.

That Petitioner was confined in the Lunatic Asylum for two years and a half, without being examined by a Magistrate; when, it being directed that he should be discharged, a warrant, under the hand of the then Governor Denison, at the instance of the then Acting Colonial Secretary (C. D. Riddell, Esq.), was forwarded to Tarban Creek, which Dr. Campbell and Dr. Greenup can testify, not, however, for Petitioner's discharge, but for his admission to that institution, and in consequence of this irregularity, Petitioner was detained in the Asylum for six weeks longer.

That during the term of Petitioner's service as an Inspector of Police, he was on several occasions assaulted and injured while in the execution of his duty; and that on one of these occasions your Petitioner was so violently assaulted by the mob, who seized his person, and violently pulled at his limbs, that a dislocation of one of his knees was effected, and he is since rendered thereby unfitted for any laborious employment.

Under all the circumstances of the above case, your Petitioner now most earnestly prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to look with a favourable eye upon this humble Petition, and grant him such redress as under the circumstances you may deem meet.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

JOHN PEARCE.

WILLIAM MOORE.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 6 April, 1865.

The Honorable the Legislative Assembly, New South Wales.

The Petition of the undersigned William Moore, of Morpeth, of said Colony,—
RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That, in or about the year 1824, a Mr. Palmer had a stone mill and seven acres of land near Darlinghurst Gaol. The Government of that time requiring the ground as a reserve to the Gaol, gave in exchange three acres of land (now the corner of William-street East), and, your Petitioner also believes, money to build a mill. Mr. Palmer had the foundation of the mill built, when he took sick and died, bequeathing the property to his housekeeper, Hannah Hopkins, as set forth in two deeds of gift. One deed included ground at the back of what is now Lyons' Terrace; the other deed included the three acres as above described. The land near the terrace she (Mrs. Hopkins) sold to Sheriff M'Quoid; the deed for the three acres she said Mrs. Hopkins transferred to her-son-in-law, William Moore, the Petitioner, who fenced the said ground in with a two-rail fence, to receive paling at a future time.

Petitioner never sold, exchanged, or parted with his right to the land, in any shape or form.

Your Petitioner went to Launceston in 1830, where he remained for several years, and on his return found his land built upon. On making inquiry, your Petitioner was informed that, during his absence, Commissary Laidley obtained it as a grant from Government.

Your Petitioner begs leave most respectfully to state that the land given by Mr. Palmer, near the Gaol, has since been exchanged for land on the "Riley Estate" by the Government, thus shewing the land in the first place was a purchase, and could not be granted by the Government afterwards, except by mistake.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays that your Honorable House will take his Petition into consideration, and grant such relief as may seem to it just and expedient.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c., &c., &c.

MR. THOMAS COOK.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 12 April, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of Thomas Cook, formerly Police Magistrate of Port Stephens and Dungog, now residing near Sydney,—

HUMBLY SHEVETH :—

That your Petitioner was in the service of the Colony of New South Wales for the long period of twenty-five years. That during the first portion of that term, your Petitioner was Police Magistrate at Port Stephens and Upper William River, and continued to act as such at Stroud and Dungog during the dark official and commercial crisis preceding 1850, when the Legislature of that day had to resort to the reduction of stipendiary Magistrates. Your Petitioner continued, nevertheless to perform the duties of the office of Police Magistrate, and that of other minor official offices, strictly within the sphere of colonial service—was one of the old Commissioners of Crown Lands and Coroner for twelve years.

Your Petitioner humbly desires to state, that he finally resigned in 1859, under the firm belief that he would be re-appointed to another district of the same Colony ; and it is because your humble Petitioner has not realized his expectations, that he now reluctantly appeals to your honorable and learned House—the highest and only Court of Appeal to which he can apply or submit a Petition.

All that your Petitioner humbly solicits is, that this Petition may be received by your Honorable House, and dealt with in the broad spirit of justice which the high Parliament of a British Colony, in its unfettered will, has the power to command.

And your Petitioner shall ever pray.

NEW SOUTH WALES

MR. NICHOLAS TRENGROUSE
(PETITIONER)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 19 April 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.
The humble Petition of Nicholas Trengrouse, late Draftsman in the Railway Branch of the Works Department,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioner had been near two years engaged as Chief Draftsman for the Sydney Railway Company; and when said railway works were transferred to the Government, your Petitioner was still engaged as Draftsman, for about eight years, in the Railway Branch of the Public Works Department.

That your Petitioner begs to invite the attention of your Honorable House to the memo. of the head of the Branch, recommending his removal from the Public Service, viz:—"The evidence of Mr. Trengrouse is either true or not true. If true, he is highly "capable, in not reporting such occurrences to me; if not true, his conduct deserves
"severe condemnation; and, in either case, I consider his services should be dispensed "with."

That your Petitioner has been given to understand that the cause of such dismissal was in consequence of the disclosures of highly improper conduct made by him during the recent inquiry.

That with regard to the foregoing charge, your Petitioner proved, to the satisfaction of a Select Committee of your Honorable House, that he had communicated verbally to the head of the Branch, the disorderly conduct complained of.

That your Petitioner further states, that three gentlemen connected with the said Branch, bore testimony before said Committee to his having reported to the head of the Branch the irregularities complained of.

That your Petitioner declares that his reasons for not reporting the said misconduct in writing were,—firstly, that when he brought it under notice as aforesaid, the reply he got was "I would recommend you, Mr. Trengrouse, to mind your own business, and attend to your own duties"; secondly, that he did not consider his position in the drawing office would warrant him in reporting the circumstances officially, not being the senior in point of salary in the office.

That your Petitioner, believing that he has been wrongfully removed from his office, as well as deprived of nearly ten years' honorable and faithful service, therefore prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to take his case into your favorable consideration, and make such recommendation in the premises as to your Honorable House may seem fit.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

WILLIAM DUNN.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 25 April, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of William Dunn, now residing at Paddington, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales,—a British subject, although a coloured man,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

First.—That in the year 1823, your Petitioner's wife, then Elizabeth Blaxcell, a coloured woman, became entitled, by custom then existing, to a grant of either 30 acres of land in the country or a half-acre town allotment, she having arrived in the Colony of New South Wales a free colonist from India, many years previously, when a very young girl.

Secondly.—That the said Elizabeth Blaxcell, afterwards Elizabeth Dunn, was married to your Petitioner at St. Philip's Church, Sydney, on the 8th day of August, 1823.

Thirdly.—That, prior to her marriage, the said Elizabeth Blaxcell lived several years in the service of His Excellency the then Governor General Macquarie, who took occasion, on the eve of his departure from the Colony, to inform her of the fact that she would be entitled to a grant of land upon her marriage and settling in the Colony.

Fourthly.—Pursuant to such direction, your Petitioner's wife, by your Petitioner, forwarded a Petition to the then Governor General Sir Thomas Brisbane, praying for a grant of land; and your Petitioner was on one occasion personally informed by His Excellency that his wife's application should be granted.

Fifthly.—That your Petitioner being directed, by a letter from the Surveyor General's Department, to make a selection, did so accordingly, by pointing out a spot off Kent-street near the Flagstaff, which selection a half an acre in extent was measured to him in right of his wife, by Mr. Mien, the then Deputy Surveyor General, and the Surveyor of the said selection were then thereupon staked, by direction of the then Deputy Surveyor General, and your Petitioner thereupon partially fenced in the said half an acre of land.

Sixthly.—That your Petitioner and his wife subsequently resided for some years in the country, during which time he made no use of the said land; and owing to his ignorance of its importance or its necessity, he made no application for the deed of grant or otherwise in respect of the said land, believing that a record of the fact in the Surveyor General's Department was sufficient, and all that was necessary to secure to him the right and title to, and possession of the said land.

Seventhly.—That, during your Petitioner's residence in the country, the fencing placed by your Petitioner upon the land was, by some persons or other means unknown to him, removed, and consequently on his return to Sydney after the death of his wife, your Petitioner was unable to identify the boundaries of the said land; and upon taking steps to get the same defined, he found that no record could be discovered in the Surveyor General's Office by which the boundaries could be determined; but your Petitioner found upon one of the earlier charts a plot of ground delineated, similar in size and position to that selected by him, which was marked on such chart as reserved, and from which your Petitioner believes his name has been by accident omitted ; and your Petitioner also found that the land in the vicinity had in the mean time been alienated from the Crown ; and finally, that your Petitioner had no means of legally establishing his right to obtain the necessary title to the said land (although grounding his claim upon the fact of possession having been given to him, he considers himself seised and possessed of the said land) except by appeal to your Honorable House.

Eightly and lastly.—Your Petitioner deeply laments his want of knowledge at the proper time, of what was necessary to be done by him to avoid the difficulty which has arisen, and also that so much time should have elapsed without his taking the prompt and proper steps to secure his title to the said land. Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays your Honorable House to take all these circumstances into consideration, and be pleased to direct an inquiry into the subject, so as to discover what was officially done by command of His Excellency the then Governor, in respect of your Petitioner's late wife's Petition, presented in the year 1825 ; and your Petitioner prays your Honorable House to grant him such redress as from the premises may appear just and expedient.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 26 April, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The Petition of Keiran Rigney, of Maitland, in the said Colony, late Principal Turnkey at the Gaol, at Maitland,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioner was appointed one of the Warders of Maitland Gaol, on the 20th September, 1849, and promoted to be Principal Warden, 28th August, 1854.

That in the year 1863 the health of your Petitioner began to fail, and as your Petitioner thereafter suffered from disease of the lungs, night duty was very hurtful; and at length, on the 29th February, 1864, your Petitioner was compelled to resign his appointment, having served for fourteen years and nine months, without ever having had one complaint made against him.

That your Petitioner has a wife and eight children; and finding, subsequent to his resignation, that had he served but three months longer, he would have had a claim for a pension, he submitted his case to the authorities, but found it was one which, under the regulations, could not be dealt with.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly submits his unfortunate case to your Honorable House, and prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to grant such relief in the premises as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioner will for ever pray, &c.

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners are the proprietors of certain Water Privileges and Water Races at Kiandra, granted to them by the written authority of Mr. Chief Commissioner Cloete, in 1860. That in the year 1861, your Petitioners were wrongfully deprived of their rights and privileges by Mr. Ex-Commissioner Cooper,—that these deprivations caused your Petitioners losses exceeding £3,000,—that the discretionary power invested in the Gold Commissioners, by the Gold Fields Act, has shut out from your Petitioners all hope of obtaining legal redress,—that, at the Government enquiry in 1862, it was proved that your Petitioners had suffered heavy losses and grievous wrongs, solely caused by Mr. Ex-Commissioner Cooper,—that the Parliamentary Papers in reference to the enquiry, abundantly prove the injustice to which your Petitioners have been subjected. And your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that your Honorable House will take their Petition into favorable consideration, and grant them such redress as your Honorable House may deem most fitted to meet the circumstances of the case.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 28 April, 1865.

---

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.

The humble Petition of the undersigned, a Naturalized Subject of Her Majesty Queen Victoria,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That in the year 1862, a Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales held an inquiry into the case of Dr. F. Beer, and brought up their Report.

That such Report was ordered to be printed, by the Legislative Assembly, but had not been adopted by it, as there was not sufficient time left for such a motion being made in the House before the closing of its sittings.

Your humble Petitioner, therefore, prays that the Report of the Select Committee on his case, be adopted by your present Honorable the Legislative Assembly, and that the injury done to him be repaired; or that, if any objection in regard to his prayer should be raised, to give him an opportunity to set such aside, by calling him to the Bar of that House.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

MRS. ELIZABETH CASTLE.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 4 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Elizabeth Castle, of Paddington, near Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, Widow of the late Morris Castle, house and land proprietor, deceased,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

1. That the above-named Morris Castle departed this life on the fifteenth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, having first made his last will and testament in writing, whereby he appointed your Petitioner his sole executrix thereof, and that probate of the said will was duly granted to your Petitioner.

2. That by a deed-poll or grant under the hand of Sir George Gipps, Knight, Captain General and Governor-in-Chief, and under the Seal of the said Colony, dated the twenty-third day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight, His Excellency, in the fulfilment of a promise made on or before the twenty-eight day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-three, by His Excellency Sir Thomas Brisbane, did grant unto Thomas Whitty Toby, of Parramatta, one hundred acres of land, in the county of Northumberland and parish of Warkworth—commencing at the north-east corner of Robert Hoddle's grant on Hunter River, and bounded on the south by thirty-seven chains and fifty links of Hoddle's north boundary line, bearing west; on the west by the east boundary line of Edward Harrington's land, bearing north fifty-two chains and eighty links to Hunter's River; and on the north and east by Hunter's River to the north-east corner of Hoddle's grant—being the land promised to John Heffron on or before the date above mentioned, and advertised at his request in favour of the said Thomas Whitty Toby, as number 109 in the Government Notice dated eighth May, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight, which said grant is duly enrolled.

3. That the said Thomas Whitty Toby, by a certain indenture of release or conveyance, dated the third day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven, in consideration of one hundred pounds paid by the late Morris Castle, the since deceased husband of your Petitioner, to one G. F. Baker, and of thirty pounds by him also paid to the said Thomas Whitty Toby, the said G. F. Baker and Thomas Whitty Toby conveyed and assured the said land and premises to the said deceased husband of your Petitioner, free from incumbrances, which said conveyance is duly registered on the eleventh day of May, in the same year.

4. That the aforesaid contract, sale, and conveyance were initiated, carried out, and perfected, by the now deceased husband of your Petitioner, without fraud to any person, and without any knowledge of the circumstances hereinafter set out.

5. That the said deceased husband of your Petitioner had, during his lifetime, and at the time of his death, been unable to obtain possession of the said land, or any part thereof.

6. That the said grant still remains in your Petitioner's custody uncanceled.

7. That the deceased husband of your Petitioner, during his lifetime, on inquiry at the Office of the Colonial Secretary, discovered that, on the record of the said grant kept in the said office, it is noted therein as void, on the twenty-third day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven, which is subsequent to the date and registration of the before-mentioned conveyance to the said deceased husband of your Petitioner.

8. That your Petitioner's deceased husband, subsequent to his said purchase from the grantee, Thomas Whitty Toby, upon discovering that the land was in adverse possession, and subsequently, at the Colonial Secretary's Office, that by a grant or deed-poll, dated the 5th day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-five, His Excellency the then Governor of this Colony granted the same land to one John Cobcroft, in pursuance of the said promise of the twenty-eighth of October, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-three.

9. That the said John Cobcroft, or his representatives, assumed the possession of the said land, and now retain the same:

10. That by reason of the issue to the said Thomas Whitty Toby of the said grant of twenty-third August, one thousand eight hundred and thirty-eight, and of the same, and of all the enrolments and records thereof, remaining uncanceled at the date of purchase of your Petitioner's deceased husband, he was, after due search being made at the Registrar General's Office by his Solicitor, induced to purchase the said land at the sum of one hundred and thirty pounds; but that by reason of the issue to the said John Cobcroft of a previous grant of the same land, of which your Petitioner's deceased husband was ignorant at the time of his said purchase, was unable to obtain possession of the said land, and has consequently received no value for his money, and has therefore sustained considerable loss, not only to the extent of the said purchase money, but to large legal expenses in investigating the matter.

11. That your Petitioner is advised that she has no remedy against the said Thomas Whitty Toby.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays your Honorable House as follows:—

1. That a grant having been made of the land to the said Thomas Whitty Toby, the deceased husband of your Petitioner purchased the said land from the said Thomas Whitty Toby, without notice of the prior grant to the said John Cobcroft, and therefore humbly prays your Honorable House will take the circumstances of the case into your favourable consideration, and grant to your Petitioner such relief as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioner will ever pray, &c.

Dated this second day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on the 16th of May last, "to inquire into, and report upon, the "Petition of Elizabeth Castle,"—"with power to send for persons and papers,"—have agreed to the following Report:—

Your Committee have examined several witnesses, and it appears to your Committee that, although the grant to Thomas Whitty Toby, of the land subsequently purchased by the late Mr. Morris Castle, ought never to have been issued by the Crown, your Committee are of opinion that the purchase of the late Mr. Castle was bonâ fide, and that he could not, in the ordinary way of business, have any means of ascertaining that the grant under which he purchased had been improperly issued.

Your Committee beg, therefore, to recommend the claims of Mrs. Castle to the favourable consideration of your Honourable House.

R. DRIVER, JUNR.,
Chairman.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

PETITION OF MRS. ELIZABETH CASTLE.

FRIDAY, 26 MAY, 1865.

Present:—

MR. COOPER, | MR. DRIVER,
MR. GRAHAM.

RICHARD DRIVER, JUN., ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Michael Fitzpatrick, Esq., called in and examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You are the Under Secretary for Lands? I am.
2. Do you produce any correspondence from the Lands Office, relating to the claim made by the late Morris Castle for compensation? I do. (The witness produced the same.)
3. Do you, of your own knowledge, know anything of this grant? I have made myself, before coming here, acquainted with the case, by reading all the correspondence, and some part of it passed through my hands when I was in the Secretary's Office.
4. This is the Grant from the Crown, is it not, to Thomas Whitty Toby, of 100 acres of land on the Hunter (handing a document to witness)? It is; signed by Sir George Gipps, and purporting to be under the Seal of the Colony, as no doubt it was.
5. Do you know anything of the cancelling of that grant, of your own knowledge? I know, partly from my own knowledge and partly from a recent perusal of the papers, that in one of the public offices a memorandum was made that this grant was invalid. I am not aware that the Government ever purported to cancel it; they held that it was invalid from the first.
6. Do you know when that memorandum was made? I can ascertain by referring to some of the papers. (The witness referred.) The instruction to note the invalidity of the deed is dated 23rd November, 1847—that is in the Registrar General's Office. Previously there appears to have been a memorandum made, I think, in the Colonial Secretary's Office, of the same fact.
7. Are the reasons given, in any of the documents you produce, for making the memorandum declaring the grant invalid? Yes, the whole history of the case is disclosed in these documents, from beginning to end.
8. There would be no record in the Registry Office of the grant being declared invalid before November, 1847? I think not.
9. Is there another grant of the same land? There is, of a previous date.
10. Do you recollect the date of the previous grant? 5th August, 1835.
11. In whose favour? In favour of John Coberoft the elder, of Wilberforce.
12. That grant is still in existence, and in full force? Yes.
13. Castle's purchase was in 1847? Yes; and Toby was informed of the invalidity of the grant before 1840, and had been invited by the Government to hand in his deed for cancellation, which he declined to do.

Michael Fitzpatrick, Esq.

26 May, 1865.

Michael Fitzpatrick,
Esq.

26 May, 1865.

14. Then, persons purchasing from Toby for a bonâ fide consideration, would have no means of ascertaining, in the ordinary course of business, whether the grant had been cancelled or not? I think it very probable that there was no such means before 1847; that is to say, assuming that Toby wished to deceive them, for Toby was aware of the invalidity of the deed. There can be no doubt of the fact, for I hold a letter in my hand, dated 21st January, 1841, in which Toby specifically declines to give up the deed for cancellation. The Government were of opinion that it was a barefaced fraud on the part of Toby, and there were circumstances in the early history of this transaction which tended to strengthen that opinion.

15. By Mr. Graham: There was a mistake on the part of Government in issuing this second grant? No doubt of that.

William Vallack, Esq., called in and examined:—

W. Vallack,
Esq.

26 May, 1865.

16. By the Chairman: You are the Acting Principal Under Secretary? I am.
17. Is there any correspondence in the office of the Colonial Secretary, relating to the grant to Mr. Thomas Whitty Toby of 100 acres of land at the Hunter? The whole of the papers in the Colonial Secretary's Office were transferred to the Secretary for Lands, on the 24th September, 1856; and no further correspondence has taken place since that time.

David Bruce Hutchinson, Esq., called in and examined:—

D. B.
Hutchinson,
Esq.

26 May, 1865.

18. By the Chairman: You are Prothonotary of the Supreme Court? Yes.
19. Do you produce the will of the late Morris Castle? I do. (The witness produced the same.)
20. Was probate granted? Yes, on the 3rd February, 1864.
21. To whom? To Elizabeth Castle, sole executrix in the will named.
22. Do you know the present Registrar General, Mr. Jaques? Yes, very well indeed.
23. Was he Deputy Registrar in the month of May, 1847? I think he was.
24. Will you look at that signature—(handing to witness conveyance from T. W. Toby and G. F. Baker to Morris Castle)—is that Mr. Jaques' signature? It looks like his handwriting; I know it very well; I have not seen it very recently, but he was junior clerk to me for years.
25. That deed appears to have been registered in May, 1847? Yes, on the 11th May, 1847.
26. Do you produce a copy of the will? I do. (The witness produced the same.)

Henry Halloran, Esq., called in and examined:—

H. Halloran,
Esq.

26 May, 1865.

27. By the Chairman: You are Secretary to the Survey Department? I am.
28. Do you produce some documents from the Survey Department, relative to a grant of land on the Hunter to Thomas Whitty Toby? I do; but the majority of the documents are with the Under Secretary for Lands. (The witness produced several documents.) I have here a list of papers, and a statement which was forwarded to the Colonial Secretary by the Deputy Surveyor General, in March, 1839, and which was written by the late John Thompson, who was then Chief Draftsman, and had been for many years in the Survey Office.
29. Can you give us any further information than is contained in the documents which have already been produced by Mr. Fitzpatrick? I think not.
30. Is this one of the grants (handing to the witness the grant to Thomas Whitty Toby)? The grants have both been issued; that is the one Toby was called upon to surrender, which he never did surrender; it is cancelled in the register of the office.
31. Cancelled, or declared invalid? Declared invalid.
32. Do you know from the correspondence, or have you any means of knowing, when information was first given of the cancellation of the grant? I do not know whether it was before 1847. Here is a letter to Castle in 1847. (The witness read the letter, dated 26th July, 1847.)
33. Mr. Castle made a claim for compensation? Yes.
34. And the claim was rejected? Yes.
35. No compensation, up to the present time, has been awarded to any person? I believe not—officially, it was regarded as an attempt at fraud.
36. On the part of Toby? Yes, and of Heffernan also.
37. Who was Heffernan? The original promisee, John Heffernan.
38. The promise was made originally to Hefferson? Yes, he is called Hefferson, Hefferon, or Heffernan. The deed was issued to John Cobcroft, senior, whose claim was proved before the Commissioners of the Court of Claims. An award was made in his favour by their report, and the deed issued 5th August, 1835. The deed to Toby is dated 23rd August, 1838, and viewed officially as a piece of waste parchment.
39. Persons purchasing from Toby would have no means of ascertaining that? Unless through the Registrar General's Office. I believe now searches are made; I do not know whether they were in those days.

40. When was the first information forwarded to the Registrar General of the invalidity of this grant? I really cannot say; it would go from the Colonial Secretary's Office. H. Halloran,
Esq.
41. Mr. Fitzpatrick has told us he believes it was in November, 1847? There is a letter, dated 23rd November, 1847, from the Colonial Secretary to the Deputy Surveyor General. 26 M y1865.
(The witness read the same.) I have no doubt the Registrar General was advised the same date.
42. That would be the first intimation the Registrar General would have of the fact? I should say so.
43. So that, from the issue of the grant, in 1838, to November, 1847, there would be no entry in any office in which it was usual to make searches in those days, of the erasure or cancellation of the deed? I think that is very likely.
44. So that intending purchasers would have no means of ascertaining? Just so, if the premises be correct.
45. Can you state the circumstances under which the grant was issued to Toby? Yes, from the papers before me. (The witness read the statement of the case contained in the papers produced.)
46. The grant to Cobcroft is of the same parcel of land? Of the same parcel of land, no doubt.

TUESDAY, 30 MAY, 1865.

Present:—

MR. COOPER,

MR. GRAHAM.

RICHARD DRIVER, JUN., ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Montagu Consett Stephen, Esq., called in and examined:—

47. By the Chairman: You are a Solicitor of the Supreme Court? Yes. M.C. Stephen,
Esq.
48. And, during his life-time, acted occasionally for the late Mr. Morris Castle? I believe I did; I have no very distinct recollection of it—it must have been some years ago. 30 May, 1865.
49. Do you recollect acting for him in the latter end of 1847 or the beginning of 1848? It must have been about that time I acted for him.
50. Did you also act for him in the year 1857—this (handing a letter to the witness) may perhaps refresh your memory? I have no doubt I did.
51. That is in the year 1856? This is dated 13th January, 1857, and refers to a letter in 1856.
52. With reference to a claim made by the late Mr. Castle for compensation? I recollect very little about it.
53. Mr. Jaques was then your managing clerk? Yes, and I see his handwriting on this.
54. Business in connection with this matter was generally managed by him, was it not? This matter was managed by him.
55. Have you any recollection of the amount of costs paid by Mr. Castle to yourself with reference to this matter? I have not; but from the references in the letter and the documents before the Committee, I see there must have been a good deal of work done; a great many of these documents were prepared in my office.
56. Will you look at this grant (handing the grant to Toby to witness)—If you were employed to prepare a conveyance from the grantee, in what office would you search for encumbrances? In the Registrar General's Office; in the Registry of Deeds Office, also in the Sheriff's Office, and perhaps also in the Insolvency Office; that would depend upon the circumstances.
57. You would not think of searching in the Lands, or in the Surveyor General's Office? No, we never search there, except from some accidental reason.
58. Under ordinary circumstances, you would not think of searching in the Lands or in the Surveyor General's Office? Never; it is neither usual nor necessary.

Mrs. Elizabeth Castle called in and examined:—

59. By the Chairman: You are the widow of the late Mr. Morris Castle? Yes. Mrs. E. Castle.
60. Mr. Castle has been dead some two years, has he not? Very near two years. 30 May, 1865.
61. Do you recollect ever having heard Mr. Castle speak of the matter mentioned in your petition to the Assembly? Very frequently; he often talked about it, and advised me in case of his death to move this Honorable House in the matter.
62. Did you ever hear from Mr. Castle the amount of costs incurred by himself, in his endeavours to obtain compensation? I recollect he said between £50 and £60.
63. Were these the costs paid to Mr. Stephen, or general costs in connection with this matter? General costs.
64. Mr. Castle obtained the opinion of Mr. Daryall as counsel, did he not? He did.
65. Do you recollect Mr. Castle at any time leaving home, to visit the land included in this grant? He employed people to go; I am not sure whether he went himself, but I think he employed three people to go down.
66. Did Mr. Castle ever busy himself in endeavouring to obtain compensation? Yes.
67. Do you know what was the amount paid by Mr. Castle for this land? £130, I think it was.
68. And you say you know that frequently during his life-time he endeavoured to obtain compensation, and that he requested you, before his death, to take steps to endeavour to obtain it? Yes.

PETITION OF MRS. ELIZABETH CASTLE.

APPENDIX.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

WILLIAM GOODIN.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 16 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of William Goodin, of Parramatta,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That on the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, your Petitioner purchased from the Government the dues arising from, and authorized to be collected at, the Anandale, Pitt Row, and Hebersham Toll-gates, at public auction.

That on the 9th day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four, the Government altered the traffic arrangements on the Railways, and established a system for the transport of produce, called and known as the truck system, by which a very great portion of the traffic was withdrawn from the Turnpike Roads; and consequently the revenues derivable from the Toll-gates, were materially affected, and your Petitioner subjected to very great loss.

That your Petitioner complains that the Government, after having sold the revenues arising from the said Toll-gates, did so alter the Railway Traffic; which had the effect of depriving your Petitioner of a great portion of the revenue which had previously been sold to him.

That although the alteration, as above stated, may have been for the public good, by serving the many, still your Petitioner ought not to be a sufferer thereby. Your Petitioner, therefore, prays that your Honorable House will take the premises into your favourable consideration, and grant to him such relief as to your Honorable House shall seem meet.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

MRS. CALLAGHAN.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 17 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Eliza Milford Callaghan, of Sydney,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner is the widow of the late Mr. District Judge Callaghan.

That your Petitioner's husband, in the year 1845, was appointed Crown Prosecutor, and discharged, until the time of his death, various legal and judicial duties of great trust and importance.

That your Petitioner's husband served the Government of New South Wales, in such judicial offices, with satisfaction to the public and credit to himself, for the term of twenty years, and until his death.

That your Petitioner's husband died on the twenty-eighth day of November, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, whilst on circuit as such District Court Judge; his death being occasioned by an accident.

That, owing to the sudden and unexpected death of your Petitioner's husband, your Petitioner and her three Children were left totally unprovided for.

That, under the regulations promulgated under the Acts 4 and 5 Gul. IV., c. 24, your Petitioner's husband would have become entitled to a considerable superannuation allowance on his retiring from public duties, had they been in force.

That, had your Petitioner's husband lived for a few months longer, he would have been entitled to all the benefits and advantages of the present Superannuation Act, and was prevented from receiving such benefits and advantage by accident received in the discharge of his duties.

Your Petitioner, therefore, prays that the premises may be taken into favourable consideration, and that your Honorable House will grant her such relief as, under the circumstances, may seem meet.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &amp;c.

 REPORT.

---

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on the 19th of May last, “to consider and report upon the Petition of Mrs. E. M. Callaghan,”—“with power to send for persons and papers,”—have agreed to the following Report:—

Your Committee, having taken the evidence hereunto appended, find—

That the late Mr. Callaghan, the Petitioner’s husband, was appointed Commissioner of the Court of Claims, on the 18th day of October, 1841.

That he was appointed Crown Prosecutor at the Courts of Quarter Sessions of the Colony, on the 7th day of September, 1844, and discharged the duties of that office until the 11th day of February, 1857.

That while he held the office of Crown Prosecutor at Quarter Sessions, he continued to hold the office of Commissioner of the Court of Claims, and also at various times discharged the duties of Crown Prosecutor at several Circuit Courts, in the absence of the Attorney General and the Solicitor General.

That on the 11th day of February, 1857, he was appointed Chairman of Quarter Sessions, and discharged the duties of that Office until the 21st day of December, 1858.

That on the 21st day of December, 1858, he was appointed a Judge under the District Courts Act of 1858, which had been then recently passed, and discharged the duties of that office, as well as those of Chairman of Quarter Sessions for the District of which he was Judge, from that date until the occurrence of the accident which occasioned his death.

That on the 28th day of November, 1863, Mr. Callaghan, while on Circuit at Braidwood, as such District Court Judge, met with an accident which resulted in his death, in the 49th year of his age.

That the deceased gentleman had thus been in the Public Service of the Colony, without intermission, for a period of more than twenty-two years.

That

That Mr. Callaghan left some property, which, however, was found not to be sufficient to meet his liabilities; and his estate having been (after his decease) sequestrated for the benefit of his creditors, the result has been that his widow (the Petitioner) and her three children have received no provision or benefit whatever out of his estate.

That it appears, however, that the Petitioner, by means of a settlement made in her favour by her father at her marriage, is in the receipt of the sum of £150 a year, being the gross amount of rents derivable from some house property; which sum, however, is subject to be reduced by the expense of keeping the houses in repair, and other incidental expenses. This sum, subject to such reductions, your Committee find to be the only provision which the Petitioner has to rely upon for the support of herself and her children.

Your Committee also find that, by the 10th section of the Superannuation Act, 27 Vic., No. 11, upon the death of any officer while in the service of the Government, his widow shall be entitled to receive a gratuity of one month's salary for each year of service. If this Act had been in force at the time of the death of the late Judge Callaghan, the Petitioner would have been entitled to the benefit of this provision.

Such a gratuity, if calculated at the rate of salary which the late Judge Callaghan had been receiving for the last five years before his death, would amount to the sum of £1,833 6s. 8d.

Considering, then, the long services of the late Judge Callaghan, and the circumstances in which, in consequence of his untimely and unexpected death, the Petitioner has been left, your Committee beg earnestly to recommend the Petitioner's case to the favourable consideration of the Government.

P. FAUCETT,
Chairman.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

PETITION OF MRS. CALLAGHAN.

THURSDAY, 8 JUNE, 1865.

Present:—

MR. CALDWELL,
MR. DIGNAM,
MR. FAUCETT,MR. HART,
MR. JOSEPHSON,
MR. MATE.

PETER FAUCETT, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

William Vallack, Esq., called in and examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You are acting as Principal Under Secretary? I am.
2. Will you state what was the first commission held by the late Mr. District Judge Callaghan? The first commission was dated 18th October, 1841, and appointed William Carter, Esq., Charles Windeyer, Esq., and Thomas Callaghan, Esq., Barristers-at-law, Commissioners of the Court of Claims. The next is a commission dated 7th September, 1844, appointing Thomas Callaghan, Esquire, Barrister-at-law, Crown Prosecutor at the several Courts of Quarter Sessions during the time Mr. Cheeke should be Chairman of Quarter Sessions. He was confirmed in that office by commission dated 25th January, 1845. The next commission, dated 8th March, 1845, appointed William Carter, Esq., Charles Windeyer, Esq., and Thomas Callaghan, Esq., to be Commissioners of the Court of Claims.
3. That is the same commission as the first referred to by you? Yes, they are the same Commissioners.
4. Do you know why that commission was issued? I do not.
5. Did this gentleman hold his appointment from the first commission of the 18th October, 1841, to this time? He did.
6. He held the appointment continuously? Yes.
7. Can you say when he was next appointed—there seems to have been a third appointment to the Commissionership of the Court of Claims? Yes, there is a commission dated 3rd April, 1848, when Mr. Carter, Mr. Callaghan, and Mr. Purefoy were appointed.
8. Did he hold the appointment of Commissioner of the Court of Claims from 1841 to 1848? Yes, and beyond that; I cannot say to what date.
9. He was appointed Crown Prosecutor at Quarter Sessions in 1845? Yes, temporarily on 7th September, 1844, and permanently on 25th January, 1845.
10. Can you tell when he was appointed Chairman at Quarter Sessions? 11th February, 1857.
11. Can you say whether he held the office of Crown Prosecutor continuously from 1845, when he was first appointed, until 1857, when he was appointed Chairman? He held the appointment continuously. The next appointment he had was that of District Court Judge, on the 21st December, 1858.
12. Did he hold the appointment of Chairman of Quarter Sessions continuously from his first appointment in 1857 until that date? Continuously.
13. And he held that last office continuously until his death? Until his death.
14. Can you state whether he was appointed as Prosecutor to Circuit Courts while he held the office of Crown Prosecutor? Yes: on the 3rd November, 1851, Crown Prosecutor at the Circuit Court at Brisbane; on the 4th August, 1852, at the Circuit Court at Goulburn;

W. Vallack,
Esq.

8 June, 1865.

on

W. Vallack, Esq. on the 26th August, 1853, on the 6th March, 1855, and 31st August, 1855, he was also appointed Crown Prosecutor at the Circuit Courts at Goulburn.

8 June, 1865. 15. These latter appointments were all merely temporary? Yes, all the appointments as Crown Prosecutor at Circuit Courts were temporary, in the absence of the Attorney or Solicitor General.

16. I believe these are all the appointments he has held? Yes.

17. Can you state what salary Mr. Callaghan had as Commissioner of Court of Claims? He received no salary—he was paid by fees.

18. As Crown Prosecutor what salary had he? £600 at first, up to the 31st December, 1852; from the 1st of January, 1853, he received an increase of £175—this was what was called the gold increase, at the time an increase was made on all salaries, in consequence of the discovery of gold—making his salary at this time £775. From the 1st January, 1857, he received £700.

19. As Chairman of Quarter Sessions what salary did he receive? From the 12th February, 1857, £800 up to the time he was appointed District Court Judge.

20. As District Court Judge he received £1,000 a year? Yes, and he was paid that amount to the 28th November, 1863, when he died.

21. During this time he received the usual travelling allowance? Yes.

22. For the temporary offices he held as Crown Prosecutor at Circuit Courts did he receive any salary? I think not. This is a memorandum from the Audit Office of all the salaries he received, and it does not appear that he drew salary for these temporary offices. He received the usual travelling expenses.

23. Have you the regulations under the 4th and 5th William IV., chapter 24? There were no colonial regulations.

24. Have you the English regulations? They are contained in a paper headed "Colonial Civil Service," laid upon the table of the Assembly and ordered to be printed on the 5th April, 1859, a copy of which I have here. (The witness produced the same.)

25. Are these regulations under the Act? Yes, by the Imperial Government: an amended Act was sent out, but never acted upon.

26. Were these adopted? Not as an absolute right, but they were acted upon and always sanctioned by the Imperial Government, under the recommendation of the Colonial Government.

27. Superannuation allowances were granted under these regulations? Yes, under the Act and under these regulations.

28. I believe there are no regulations made under the present Superannuation Act? No; Commissioners were appointed under the Act.

29. There is nothing to affect the claims? Not anything.

30. What was the date of the passing of the Act? 12th April, 1864.

Frederick Chapman, Esq., called in and examined:—

F. Chapman, Esq. 31. By the Chairman: You are a Solicitor of the Supreme Court? I am.

32. Did you manage the estate of the late District Judge Callaghan after his death? I sequestrated the estate.

8 June, 1865. 33. Can you tell what property he had at the time of his death? I hold in my hand the original schedule of the estate of the late Judge Callaghan, entrusted to me by the Chief Commissioner of Insolvent Estates.

34. From that can you state the value of the property he left at the time of his death? According to the summary at the end of the schedule, it would appear that the estimated amount of assets available for unsecured creditors was £1,017 0s. 2d. I have endeavoured, since I last attended before the Committee, to see Mr. Sempill, the Official Assignee of the estate, and have called twice at his office by appointment, but have been unable to see him. I wished to inquire from him the actual value of the property mentioned in the schedule as worth £1,017; I believe it to be of much less value.

35. It is estimated at that sum? Yes.

36. Can you tell what was the amount of his liabilities at the time of his death? Secured debts £4,290 4s. 6d., unsecured £2,530 10s. 8d., and a claim of £137, making a total of debts and claims of £6,957 15s. 2d. The gross amount of assets to meet these liabilities, secured and unsecured, was £4,168 18s. 2d., leaving a deficiency of £2,789 7s. That is the summary appended to the schedule signed by the administrator.

37. By Mr. Dignam: Are you aware whether in the schedule there is any mention made of mortgaged land situate in Goulburn? There was a Court House, I think, at Goulburn, under contract with Government at the time of Mr. Callaghan's death, which was built upon some land of his: the purchase money of £250 is mentioned in that schedule. Whether or not that £250 belonged to the Judge's estate is a question. Mr. Lee claimed to have an equitable mortgage over that, and that remains to be decided between Mr. Sempill (the Official Assignee) and Mr. Lee.

38. By the Chairman: In any event, will the money arising from the sale of that Court House, or the land on which it is built, come to Mrs. Callaghan? Mrs. Callaghan herself has no interest whatever in it; it belongs to Mr. Lee or the estate.

39. Is the land at Randwick possessed by him included in the assets you have just mentioned? Yes.

40. By Mr. Caldwell: What is that property put down at? Thirty acres of freehold land at Randwick, under mortgage for £1,850, actual value £1,500. There is more property at Randwick mentioned in the schedule—a house and 1½ acres of land freehold at Randwick, let to Thompson, yearly rent £110, under mortgage to Mrs. Crane for £2,000; house and 1½ acres of land freehold, Randwick, unoccupied, under the same mortgage for £2,000.

41. By the Chairman: Then it appears that out of Mr. Callaghan's estate, without going into particulars, there is no provision made for Mrs. Callaghan or her children? The only interest which Mrs. Callaghan would have in the insolvent estate of Mr. Callaghan would be the right of dower in the equity of redemption in the properties mortgaged, which is absurdly small—not above £2 or £3 a year. This property which was under mortgage to Mrs. Crane has part of it been sold; the other portion of it did not sell, for it did not fetch the reserve price; if it had fetched the reserve price there would have been a surplus of £200, of which Mrs. Callaghan would have been entitled to one-third, that is to say, she would have been entitled to one-third of the interest of £200, at 8 per cent.
42. And that is, in fact, the only provision out of his estate? Yes, supposing the mortgage were realized.
43. That property at Randwick has greatly decreased in value, in consequence of the general depreciation in the value of property? I am not aware.
44. By Mr. Josephson: Are you aware whether any settlement was made upon Mrs. Callaghan at any time? There was—I have here the original settlement.
45. The settlement of what? The settlement made previously to Mrs. Callaghan's marriage with Mr. Callaghan.
46. By the Chairman: The marriage settlement? Yes.
47. Of what property? It is a settlement made by the late Judge Milford. There was a reversionary interest in some money in the funds at home, which subsequently came into the possession of the trustees of the settlement—it was £2,000 originally. There was also another matter which was the subject of settlement, namely, a policy of insurance which Mr. Callaghan had to effect on his life for £2,000; so that the whole subject matter of settlement was £4,000, or thereabout.
48. By Mr. Josephson: What is Mrs. Callaghan's yearly interest in the settlement? The first £2,000 I have spoken of was by some means reduced to a sum of £1,850, which was lent by the trustees of the marriage settlement to Judge Callaghan, upon the security of land at Randwick; that is the property I mentioned before, which was mortgaged for £1,850, but is now of the value of £1,500.
49. By the Chairman: Can you say whether at the present time the amount of that money lent, £1,850, is likely to be recovered for the benefit of Mrs. Callaghan? Never; the only benefit Mrs. Callaghan can derive from it is by the receipt of the rent—about £60 a year gross.
50. By Mr. Caldwell: That is the rent at which the house is now let? The gross rental.
51. By Mr. Josephson: What do I understand by your saying that it is not likely she will ever recover that mortgage money? The trusts of the settlement are to pay the interest of the trust fund to Mrs. Callaghan during the term of her natural life, and the remainder to her children.
52. By the Chairman: The gross income from that mortgage money is at present £60 a year? Yes.
53. By Mr. Josephson: What income does she derive from the other £2,000? The £2,000 has by some means been reduced. £1,200 of it was laid out by the trustees of the settlement, subsequently to Mr. Callaghan's death, in the purchase of the house at Coogee. The proceeds of the policy were received by the trustees of the marriage settlement after Mr. Callaghan's death. They invested £1,200, part of the proceeds of the policy, in the purchase of the house, which house brings in at the present time a gross annual rental of £90.
54. By the Chairman: How has the surplus been employed? The surplus was invested in the purchase of Government debentures, which pay 5 per cent. a year. Then Mrs. Callaghan, subsequently to her husband's death, borrowed £160 for her immediate purposes, and some of these debentures were sold to provide for this £160. The number of debentures the trustees now have is 310, but the interest, at 10 per cent. upon the money borrowed is £16, and the interest upon the remaining debentures is £15 10s.; so that that property brings her in no income, but is rather a loss.
55. So that she has about £160 a year upon this settlement? I should submit not so much, because, from the gross annual rentals you have to deduct a certain per centage for repairs. About £130, altogether, I reckon it. There is also a piece of land at Rockhampton, but that at the present time is bringing in nothing; whether it is likely to do so at a future time I cannot say.
56. Was that settled by Judge Callaghan? No, by the late Judge Milford.
57. The first £2,000 that was settled, was that money of the late Judge Milford's? It was money that had been in the Chancery Court.
58. Is that the entire provision that was made by this settlement upon Mrs. Callaghan? Yes.
59. Has she any other income that she can fall back upon? None that I am aware of.
60. I suppose, as the solicitor who acted in this matter, you have, as far as possible, made yourself acquainted with all her affairs? I am well acquainted with the insolvency proceedings; I have not the same personal knowledge of matters connected with the settlement or the trust fund.
61. By Mr. Dignam: The £160 gross rental, you say, is reduced to £130? Yes.
62. Does that include the insurance of the property, rates, and other incidental expenses, as well as repairs? No, my deduction was for repairs only.
63. Do you know the value of the land at Rockhampton? No. I may further state that I have seen the original of the late Judge Milford's will, and it appears that Mrs. Callaghan receives no benefit from that whatever, except that she has given to her a legacy of £25; but her husband being an attesting witness to the will, that legacy is void.

F. Chapman,
Esq.
8 June, 1865.

Henry Milford, Esq., called in and examined:—

H. Milford,
Esq.

8 June, 1865.

64. By the Chairman: You are brother of Mrs. Callaghan? I am.
65. Are you a trustee, or in any way acting for her? I am the surviving trustee of her marriage settlement. My father and myself were the trustees; originally, Mr. Foster, formerly a barrister here, was a trustee; then Mr. Plunkett; Mr. Plunkett resigned, and my father was put in his place.
66. Without going into particulars, can you tell the Committee whether any provision is made for Mrs. Callaghan out of the estate of the late District Judge Callaghan? None whatever.
67. His assets, as we have heard, were entirely taken up in meeting his liabilities? Yes; in fact, his estate was placed in the Insolvent Court; but Mrs. Callaghan is in receipt of some rents from the property—I believe £60 a year—which property consists of 30 acres of land at Randwick, and was mortgaged by Judge Callaghan to the trustees of his marriage settlement, for £1,850. It is now worth about £1,500.
68. We have also heard of the settlement of a life insurance of Mr. Callaghan's? Yes, that was settled upon her. My father used to give him £100 a year to pay the premiums. He insured his life for twenty years, and the £100 was to be paid to make up the amount of £2,000.
69. Your father, you say, regularly paid that £100 to Mr. Callaghan? Yes; there is a provision in the trust deed, I believe, to the effect that this £100 was to be paid for the purpose of paying the premiums upon this policy.
70. In fact, that insurance was equivalent to a settlement of £2,000 from Judge Milford? Yes, and we claimed it as such, and have received the principal part of it.
71. What is realized out of that £2,000 at present—we have been told that £1,200 has been expended? £1,285 has been expended upon the house, which produces £90 a year gross. There was £500 worth of debentures, upon which Mrs. Callaghan receives 5 per cent.; but £160 has been taken out by Mrs. Callaghan to buy a piece of land at Rockhampton, which is producing nothing at present; she is paying 10 per cent. for the £160, and from the remaining debentures, about 320, she receives £16 a year, and this goes to the payment of the interest upon the money borrowed.
72. So that, in fact, out of that £800, setting the interest upon the loan against the receipts from the debentures, there is little or nothing? Nothing at all. There were 490 debentures; and from the balance between the £1,280 and £490, Mr. Plunkett and myself, at the suggestion of Mrs. Callaghan, paid some of Judge Callaghan's debts.
73. Then, from your statement and that of Mr. Chapman, it appears that Mrs. Callaghan derives nothing from Mr. Callaghan's estate, and that from the settlement made by her father upon her at her marriage she derives in the gross the sums of £90 and £60? Yes, she gets about £150 a year.
74. Out of that, something must be allowed for repairs and insurance? Yes, a considerable sum for repairs, for they are houses that require a good deal of attention. When we bought that house for £1,250, we had immediately to lay out £25 upon it. There was a small sum of £25 left to my sister under my father's will; but there is a question whether, Mr. Callaghan being one of the attesting witnesses, she can receive the legacy.
75. Assuming there were no question of law, that is the only sum that was left to her? Yes, £25. When my father was alive he used to give her £100 a year.
76. That stops now? That stops.
77. By Mr. Caldwell: What was the extent of the land upon which £1,800 was lent? Thirty acres.
78. And the house let at £60 a year is on that? No, there are three or four little cottages upon that which yield altogether £60.
79. That is the only land Mrs. Callaghan has at Randwick? No, there is the £90 a year house which overlooks the other property.
80. Is that house which produces £90 a year the house in which he lived himself? No, another house lower down. He built three houses altogether; two were sold for the mortgage to a Mrs. Crane, for £2,000. This house was mortgaged to the Building Society, and having large fines due upon that, it would have been forfeited if we had not purchased it, and it now produces £90 a year.
81. Does this house come up to the front of the main road? No, there is a right of road to it by the side of the other houses.
82. By Mr. Hart: It also fronts Nathan-street? Yes, I think it does; at all events there is a right of road to it.
83. By the Chairman: What family has Mrs. Callaghan? Two boys and a girl.
84. The eldest boy is in England, I believe? Yes, he is at school at Oscott.
85. What does it cost to keep the eldest boy at school? £150 a year.
86. Do you recollect the time of Judge Callaghan's death? I do.
87. Do you know whether he was on Circuit at the time? He was, at Braidwood.
88. It was during the Circuit he died? Yes; he had to go the same morning at 10, to finish the business at Court. He met with the accident at half-past 7 on the morning of the 21st November, 1863, and on the 28th he died.
89. By Mr. Hart: Have you a report of the inquest? There was an account of the accident in the paper—the Braidwood Despatch. He was standing looking at a horse which was offered him for sale; the horse, which was very wild, made a rush at the panel by which he was standing, the panel flew back and struck him on the jaw. The medical men said the actual cause of death was pericarditis, which brought on congestion of the lungs.
90. By Mr. Caldwell: He wanted to purchase the horse to enable him to pursue his journey? Yes, it was for the purpose of enabling him to perform his Circuit duties; he was going to Cooma.
91. By Mr. Mate: What are the ages of his children? The boy at home is sixteen, the girl fourteen, and the other boy twelve.

Present:—

MR. JOSEPHSON,

MR. MATE.

PETER FAUCETT, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

William Edmond Plunkett, Esq., called in and examined:—

92. By the Chairman: You are Secretary to the Crown Law Officers? Yes.

93. Can you say whether any opinion has been given by the late or present Attorney General, with respect to the position of the District Court Judge under the Superannuation Act? There was an opinion given by the late Attorney General, Mr. Martin, and also by the present Attorney General, Mr. Darvall. I produce an extract from the opinion of Mr. Martin, from which it appears that District Court Judges are to be included under the provisions of the Superannuation Act. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix A.)

15 June, 1865.

94. They come within the operation of the Act? Yes.

95. Does Mr. Darvall, the present Attorney General, coincide in that opinion? Yes; I have here a copy of his opinion. (The witness handed in the same. Vide Appendix B.)

Henry Milford, Esq., called in and examined:—

96. By the Chairman: At the time of Mr. Judge Callaghan's death, what was his age? He was in his forty-ninth year.

H. Milford,
Esq.

97. By Mr. Josephson: Do you know whether he had any other property than what was mortgaged? No, nothing; he had a property at Goulburn which he had paid a certain sum upon.

15 June, 1865.

98. And the property out at Waverley? Yes.

99. What did he give for the property at Darling Point? That was sold some eight or nine years ago. He sold that to buy the Waverley property.

100. By the Chairman: That property at Goulburn is entirely worthless? Yes; he had to pay something on it, and then gave it up afterwards.

PETITION OF MRS. CALLAGHAN.

(To Evidence given by W. E. Plunkett, Esq., 15 June, 1865.)

A.

EXTRACT from Mr. Attorney General Martin's Minute of 27th August, 1864, on the Superannuation Act of 1864.

By section 11 of the Superannuation Act of 1864; that Act is not to apply to—

- 1.—Any Judge of the Supreme Court.
- 2.—Any Minister of Religion.
- 3.—Any Honorary Officer.
- 4.—Any Political Officer.
- 5.—Any Officer, the right to appoint to whose office is not vested in the Governor, with the advice of the Executive Council, or in a Responsible Minister.
(This must be read in connection with the clause in the Constitution Act which vests appointments to Public Offices, under the Government of this Colony, in the Governor and Executive Council, with the exception of such minor appointments as "by Act of the Legislature, or by order of the Governor and Executive Council, may be vested in the Heads of Departments, or other Officers or "persons within the Colony."—To the persons within this exception, and whose appointments are not vested in a Responsible Minister, the Superannuation Act does not apply.)
- 6.—Any Officer, Constable, or other Member of the Police or Volunteer Force.
- 7.—Any Official paid out of Contingencies.
- 8.—Any Officer remunerated solely by Fees or Commission.
- 9.—Any person temporarily employed, or employed only on probation.
- 10.—Any person receiving a small salary or retaining fee, and following any other pursuit.

B.

Mr. District Court Judge Francis, as to deduction from his Salary under the Superannuation Act.

THE Superannuation Act comprehends the District Court Judges, who are not within the exception defined by that Act, 27 Vict., No. 11, ss. 1, 11; and although it may be hard that the 29th section of the District Courts Act is to some extent repealed, that is a matter, if necessary, for amended legislation.

If the form of the Treasury Receipt does not shew the exact transaction, it might be altered so as to do so.

J. B. DARVALL,
Attorney General.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. HUGH DIXSON.
(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 19 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of Hugh Dixon, of York-street, in the City of Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales, tobacco manufacturer,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That on the ninth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-six, Petitioner being in affluent circumstances, became bound to our Sovereign Lady the Queen in the sum of five hundred pounds, that one F. W. Perry should faithfully perform the duties of Official Assignee in the Insolvent Department of the Supreme Court of New South Wales.

That the circumstances which induced your Petitioner to become such bondsman, are as follows:—The aforesaid F. W. Perry, was at that time Associate to His Honor Mr. Justice (now Sir J. N.) Dickinson, who appeared to have held him in such esteem that His Honor the Chief Justice, Sir Alfred Stephen, appointed him to the lucrative office of Official Assignee—"the gift of which was then and is now in His Honor the Chief Justice's hands"—on his procuring the usual bonds, "which, in a case like his, was represented to be a mere formality."

That, about three years after the said bond had been executed, your Petitioner, from a series of losses in business, became so reduced in circumstances, that in January, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine, it became necessary to assign all his estate and effects to trustees, for the benefit of his creditors.

That this assignment having been duly registered in the Supreme Court, as also advertised in the Government Gazette, and other newspapers, was so well known that the then Chief Commissioner of Insolvent Estates caused to be transmitted to the said F. W. Perry, a letter, of which the following is a copy:—

" Insolvency Department,
" Sydney, 23th September, 1860.

" Sir,
" I have the honor to inform you, that the persons named in the margin, " Thomas Wool-
" (being two of your sureties for the performance of your duties as Official Assignee) " ley, £1,000, de-
" have become disqualified for the reasons set forth opposite their names; and have, " ceased."
" therefore to request that you will be good enough to submit, for the approval of His " Hugh Dixon,
" Honor the Chief Justice, the names of other two responsible persons to fill the places " having made
" of those so disqualified. " an Assignment
" for the benefit
" of his credi-
" tors."

" I have, &c., &c., &c.,
" W. A. PUREFOY.

" Frederick Wm. Perry, Esq.,
" Official Assignee."

That your Petitioner now believed that, as a matter of course, by such assignment and notification, he was released from all liability, and that the Government had duly cancelled the bond; he therefore dismissed the matter from his mind.

That three years after your Petitioner supposed the bond had been cancelled, to his astonishment, he received a demand from the Government for the payment of the amount, for breaches of duty committed by the said F. W. Perry, after your Petitioner's assignment.

That shortly afterwards an action was brought against your Petitioner, by the Government. To this action your Petitioner, through want of means, was unable to raise a defence; for although your Petitioner's creditors, deeply sympathizing with him in his misfortunes, had voluntarily returned him a portion of his assets, yet having a large family, and business continuing untoward, he was still struggling with poverty, and was compelled to allow judgment to go by default.

That your Petitioner had recourse to the only expedient left him—that of petitioning the Governor, which your Petitioner was confident would have ended in a release from payment, on the merits of the case; but there was no reply returned to the said petition, until the Martin Ministry came into power, when a reply, of which the following is a copy, was received:—

“ Crown Law Offices,
“ Sydney, 4th December, 1863.

“ Sir,

“ With reference to your Petition to His Excellency the Governor, “ 63-2174, praying release as one of the sureties of F. W. Perry, late Official Assignee, “ I am directed by the Attorney General to state, that it is impossible to avoid enforcing “ the bond which you have executed, however great may be the hardship of your individual case. The execution must, therefore, go against you.

“ I have the honor to be, Sir,

“ Your most obedient servant,

W. E. PLUNKETT.

“ Mr. Hugh Dixson,

That the same month on which the above letter was received, and during your Petitioner's absence on business in Melbourne, his property was levied on by the Crown. The bailiff, however, was withdrawn when Petitioner returned, on his satisfying the Crown Law Officers that his effects were under mortgage for funds to enable him to carry on his business.

That about the same time that the Attorney General raised the suit of the Crown against your Petitioner, or shortly afterwards, he (the Attorney General) commenced a suit against the executors of the late Thomas Woolley, Esq., for his portion of the same bond. They, however, having money, defended the action; and on its being brought before the Court, the Attorney General proposed a compromise, to which the Executors assented; namely—that a verdict should be entered up for the full amount of £1,000, but that £500 should be accepted in full satisfaction of the claim; which having been notified to His Honor the Chief Justice, he expressed the gratification it afforded him that such compromise had been effected, for, as he stated, “ in the event of Perry having been “ proved to have misapplied even £5, a verdict for the whole £1,000 must have been “ recorded against the Executors.”

That on this circumstance coming to the knowledge of your Petitioner he waited on the Attorney General, in hope of being able to effect a compromise in his case, but the Attorney General told him that he understood your Petitioner was prospering again in business, and as he had judgment against him he should have to pay it in full; that he had given orders that your Petitioner should be levied on if he did not pay it, and the utmost indulgence your Petitioner could get from the Attorney General was, that conditionally on your Petitioner immediately paying down £200, he should allow the remaining £300 to lie over for a few weeks, until Parliament should meet.

That your Petitioner, on the 22nd day of December last past, paid to Government the sum of £200, and that they now seek to recover the full amount of your Petitioner's bond, notwithstanding the diverse reasons and good causes shewn against the same by your Petitioner.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays your Honorable House to take into your gracious consideration the foregoing premises, and to grant such relief, as in the wisdom of your Honorable House may be deemed expedient to meet the exigencies of your Petitioner's case.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

Dated this 17th day of May, A.D. 1865.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

MR. JOHN M. BATE.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 19 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of John M. Bate,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner, while employed as a Clerk in the office of the Telegraph Department, was grossly insulted by being called liar by a Junior Clerk named John Quodling, and afterwards by the Accountant, Mr. John Muston, in somewhat similar terms. Your Petitioner reported the conduct of Quodling to the head of the office, who, although Quodling had said he would do the same thing again, simply reprimanded Quodling to Mr. Muston the Accountant. Your Petitioner addressed a letter, of which the following is a copy, viz. :—

“ Sir,

“ Sydney, 21st January, 1865.

“ During our conversation yesterday, in reference to the gross and unprovoked insult I lately received from Mr. Quodling, I stated you had permitted Mr. Cracknell to be under the impression, that my behaviour to Mr. Quodling had provoked the insult, and I attributed that impression solely to your not having correctly reported the circumstances connected with the case; to which you replied with some heat, that my false statements were well known to all the world, or words to the same effect, implying that I am an habitual utterer of falsehood; as such a character would be likely to do me serious injury with all right-minded men, I challenge you to mention a single instance, within your own knowledge, where I have wilfully uttered an untruth, or to prove any case that I have done so to any other individual. An early reply to this will oblige.

“ Yours, &c.,

“ JNO. M. BATE.”

“ Mr. John Muston.

This letter has been made a case of insubordination, and in consequence your Petitioner has been removed from the Public Service, thereby losing to your Petitioner the benefit of thirteen years service, which would entitle your Petitioner, under the provisions of the Superannuation Act, to a large sum of money.

That your Petitioner was offered, unsolicited, the situation he has just been removed from, in October, 1862, at a salary of £200 per annum, with a distinct promise “that it should soon lead to something better;” but, after the lapse of six months, your Petitioner was compelled to return a compensation received by your Petitioner in 1858, by instalments of ten per centum from his monthly salary, the compensation having been paid to your Petitioner for loss of the office of First Clerk in the Legislative Council Department, the salary of which was nearly double that received by your Petitioner in the Telegraph Office, this exaction, so contrary to the promise made to your Petitioner, as well as it being an exceptional case, was several times remonstrated against, particularly as the compensation was given to your Petitioner from failure of health.

That during the the time your Petitioner was employed, he was subject to frequent discouragement and petty persecution; the two other clerks, Mr. M'Auliffe and Mr. Quodling—neither of whom had previously been in the public service, and the latter a youth of less than eighteen years of age—appointed, one a short time, and the latter at the same time as your Petitioner—received an increase of £50 each to their salaries, while your Petitioner (although promised, and being an experienced public servant, and the father of a large family) received no increase, but was compelled after six months service to return a compensation he had long ago received for services rendered years before. Your Petitioner had also to find security in the sum of £500, as well as to contribute four per centum to the Superannuation Fund, in all sixteen per centum, reducing your Petitioner's salary from £200 to £168 per annum.

That your Petitioner considers he has been very hardly dealt with; the father of a large family has not only lost his employment, and the benefit of a number of years service, but suffers under the disgrace of a dismissal, for simply resenting in a peaceable and legitimate manner being called a liar, and other gross insults received in office, and during the discharge of his public duty.

That your Petitioner humbly submits his case for the consideration of your Honorable Assembly, for such redress, as in your wisdom, you may deem it deserving of.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

HENRY MOODY.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 23 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of Henry Moody, of Parramatta, late Ranger of the Government Domain at Parramatta,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That on the first day of March, A.D., 1857, your Petitioner was appointed Ranger of the Government Domain at Parramatta, by His Excellency Sir William Denison, the then Governor of the said Colony.

That your Petitioner managed the same for the Government, by taking in horses and cattle for agistment, doing his best to make it pay.

That your Petitioner after the first twelve months, waited upon the Minister for Lands and Works, at the Lands Office in Sydney; in consequence of which, the Minister for Lands sent Alexander Dawson, the then Colonial Architect, to meet your Petitioner at the Parramatta Court House; when it was arranged, that your Petitioner should continue his charge of the Parramatta Domain at a fixed salary, which your Petitioner did until the lands were sold: then your Petitioner sent in his books to the Honorable the Minister for Lands, which were audited by his (the said Minister's) order; at the same time your Petitioner sent in his claim against the Government, and requested a settlement thereof, which has not yet been attended to.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly submits his case to your Honorable House, and prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to grant such relief in the premises, as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

MR. E. J. H. KNAPP.
(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 23 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales.—

The humble Petition of Edward James Howes Knapp, of the City of Sydney, Surveyor,—

SH EWETH :—

That in the month of May, 1858, your Petitioner presented his Petition to your Honorable House, praying for redress in respect of the non-fulfilment by the Government of this Colony, of a promise by the Imperial Government to your Petitioner, of a grant of land, which promise, your Petitioner respectfully and humbly insists, is still binding upon the Government of this Colony.

That your Petitioner's said Petition was, on the 9th April, 1861, upon the motion of Mr. Windeyer, who was then a Member of your Honorable House, ordered to be referred to a Select Committee then sitting on the subject of Colonial Grievances.

That your Petitioner is informed and believes that the said Select Committee never presented any other Report upon the matters referred to them, than a progress Report, recommending the matters so referred for further inquiry and investigation.

That your Petitioner has been deterred from any special prosecution of his claim, under the expectation that the investigation of the matters referred to the said Select Committee, would have been resumed; but as he finds that there is no prospect of such resumption, he earnestly desires a special investigation of the circumstances of his own case.

Your Petitioner humbly prays, that your Honorable House will be pleased to order that the subject matter of his said former Petition may be duly investigated by your Honorable House, and that your Honorable House will grant to him such further and other relief in the premises, as to your Honorable House shall seem meet.

And your Petitioner, will ever pray.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

PETITION OF MR. E. J. H. KNAPP.

FRIDAY, 9 JUNE, 1865.

Present:—

MR. HART,

MR. MACPHERSON,

MR. PEMELL.

JAMES HART, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

E. J. H. Knapp, Esq., called in and examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You are the Petitioner in this case? I am.
2. Will you state what is the nature of the grievance which you complain of, and for which you seek redress? When I was very young—only seventeen years of age—I was induced to leave England, to emigrate to this Colony. An application was made to the then Secretary of State for the Colonies, and the gentleman entrusted with my care had a letter from Lord Bathurst, or from the Under Secretary, authorizing me to receive a grant of land when I arrived here. I was not aware of this letter, nor ever saw or heard of it until I had been eleven years in New South Wales, when the son of the surgeon of the ship in which I arrived, Dr. Dulhunty, in whose care I came, found it in his father's desk, and forwarded it to me. I immediately transmitted it to the then Colonial Secretary, Mr. Macleay, and applied for a grant, and I received an answer stating that it had been allowed to remain so long in abeyance that His Excellency the Governor, Sir George Gipps then, would not entertain it.
3. In what year did you arrive in the Colony? In March, 1826.
4. You were under the care of Dr. Dulhunty, who was surgeon superintendent of the vessel you arrived in? I was.
5. I believe you had previously received a military education? I had; I had not completed my military education; I was about going to Addiscombe; but I was enrolled as a cadet in the East India Company's service.
6. Who was Secretary of State at the time? Lord Bathurst.
7. Was application made to him on your behalf, to know the terms on which settlers would be allowed to emigrate to this Colony? I presume it was, but I was so young at the time that I was not made acquainted with anything that was done.
8. Have you seen the correspondence relating to your case at any time? I have in my pocket certified copies from the Colonial Secretary's Office.
9. What was the date of the letter from Earl Bathurst's Secretary? 20th November, 1825.
10. Is that a certified copy of it? This is a copy certified by Mr. Fitzpatrick, of the Colonial Secretary's Office. (Handed in. See Appendix.)
11. I observe that in that letter certain Government regulations are referred to—have you a copy of them? I have not.
12. Do you recollect at any time having seen them? I do not remember that I ever saw them.

E. J. H.
Knapp, Esq.
9 June, 1865.

- E. J. H. Knapp, Esq.
9 June, 1865.
13. Do you not recollect seeing them in the Sydney Gazette subsequently? I may have seen them, but I cannot call it particularly to remembrance that I read them.
14. You have remained in the Colony, I believe, ever since? Ever since.
15. Did you accept of a Government appointment at any time after your arrival? I accepted of a Government appointment in September, 1826, but I declined it on two occasions before I was induced to accept it.
16. You were solicited by the Government to accept it? I was solicited by the Government to accept it, through Mr. Macleay, the then Colonial Secretary.
17. At that time, was it somewhat difficult to obtain persons of intelligence for the purpose of surveying and carrying on the Civil Government? No, I do not think it was difficult; there were sufficient here for the requirements of the Colony, and there were several who came out with appointments from home.
18. It was at the request of the Government that you entered the Government employment? I made no application; neither was any application made for me, I believe; not with my consent, at all events.
19. Will you again state the circumstances under which Mr. Hay's letter came to your knowledge? About eleven years after I had come here—in February, 1837—I received from the son of Dr. Dulhunty, the letter of Mr. Hay, the Under Colonial Secretary at home, and thereupon I made instant application to the Government, and was met by the rejection of my claim, on the ground that it had been allowed to stand over so long, although the delay was beyond my control.
20. Did Dr. Dulhunty, in his lifetime, inform you that he had a letter of that kind? Never.
21. Are you aware whether he received a similar letter himself? I believe he did.
22. Did he receive any grant of land? He received 2,560 acres close to Bathurst.
23. Upon ascertaining that there was such a letter in existence, I understand you communicated with the then Government? I think the very same week.
24. Have you the letter you sent to the Government on that occasion? There is a copy here with the other letters certified by Mr. Fitzpatrick.
25. Is the reply to it also there? Yes.
26. Will you hand them in? Yes. (Handed in. See Appendix.)
27. How long did you continue in the Government employment? Between three and four years.
28. And you have since that period, I believe, been recognized by the Government as a licensed and contract surveyor? I am yet a licensed surveyor, and take work under contract.
29. You have received no Government fixed salary since that time? No, except the fees due upon the completion of my work.
30. Was it in 1829 or 1830 you resigned your situation? In the year 1830.
31. The ground, assigned, I believe, by the then Colonial Secretary, Mr. Deas Thomson, for refusing your application was, that you abandoned the advantages offered in the letter by accepting a Government appointment? That was one of the reasons.
32. And the other was what? Delay in the application, I believe; but that was beyond my control.
33. Do you know whether there was, in point of fact, any Government regulation to that effect, or whether it was merely the practice? I cannot say. I am aware that many of my compeers in the Surveyor General's Office obtained their grants of land, who came out with their appointments from home. I came out, and brought my capital here, without any intention of joining any department.
34. Can you name any of the persons who received grants of land, although they accepted office under the Government? All of them—Mr. Hoddle, Mr. J. B. Richards, Mr. George Boyle White, Mr. Ralfe, Mr. Finch, Mr. Cavanagh.
35. I believe the late Mr. George Miller also received a grant of land? He was not in that department when I belonged to it. I believe he received a grant of land, but I do not know.
36. Was it not the practice in those early times, simply to suspend the right of issuing the grant during the time you held a Government appointment, but to give the grant after you left the Government Service? I believe it was; I cannot state positively.
37. Had you sufficient means at your disposal for the purpose of cultivating the quantity of land you would have been entitled to, if it had been given you at the time you ought to have received it? Yes. Mr. Icely, who has expressed his readiness to be present here, should he be called upon, can state what amount I brought here, for he cashed my bills and delivered the proceeds to Dr. Dulhunty.
38. By Mr. Macpherson: The practice was to give an acre for every pound of capital brought out? Well, I cannot say. Sir Thomas Mitchell got his full grant of 2,560 acres, and Dr. Dulhunty got his full grant of 2,560 acres; and I can state that I am very confident, very sure, from circumstances, that he brought nothing.
39. By the Chairman: What Governor held office at the time you arrived? General Darling.
40. When were free grants discontinued, do you know? I think in 1831; I think that was the period when the land sale regulations came into force.
41. By Mr. Macpherson: What was the date of your first application? As soon as I received the Colonial Secretary's order, which was in 1837, after I had been here eleven years; I was not aware of its existence before.
42. By the Chairman: Are you aware of persons who received promises prior to 1826, having the land granted to them subsequently to the discontinuance of free grants, by virtue of the promise? I cannot remember any particular case, but I think I may say very safely that there have been cases.

43. You recollect the case of Mr. Harington, the late Assistant Colonial Secretary, receiving land? I remember he did receive a grant. E. J. H. Knapp, Esq.
44. Did he not come out as a settler, and afterwards receive a Government appointment? I cannot state from my own knowledge. The late Sir Thomas Mitchell arrived after I did, and he received his full grant. 9 June, 1865.
45. Do you recollect any notice being issued by Governor Darling, intimating that the promises to persons who accepted Government situations would be fulfilled after they resigned their offices? I do not recollect it, but I may state that I was a great deal in the interior of the Colony, from the time of my joining the department until I left it, and therefore it is very probable that a great many of these regulations may have transpired without my being at all cognizant of it; I never saw a newspaper from month's end to month's end; in fact, I had nobody to speak to.
46. Do you consider that your case comes within the regulations issued in 1837, by which persons were to send in applications for secondary grants? No; for I have not had the primary grant, therefore I could not consider it in that light.
47. Have you had any personal interviews with any of the late Governors of the Colony, or persons in official positions, respecting your claim? No, I have not. Had the application been laid before the Government by Dr. Dulhunty, I have not the slightest doubt I should have had my grant of land as soon as I arrived here, or as soon as I attained my majority, at all events.
48. I believe, in 1858 you petitioned the Assembly for redress in this matter? I did.
49. Was anything done upon that? The petition was ordered to be printed, on the motion of Mr. White; then in 1861, on the motion of Mr. Windeyer, the petition was referred to the Committee on Grievances, but the case was not taken up by that Committee; they made a progress report on the 10th May, 1861. Eleven petitions in all were before that Committee, but some of them, and mine among the number, were postponed.
50. I believe you have reared a large family, and given them an excellent education? I have, as far as my means would allow.
51. Will you state what family you have? I have five living; I have lost four.
52. I believe you have in your time rendered some assistance to the Government in other matters, such as the capture of bushrangers? I have. I have a letter from one of the Magistrates of Bathurst, who requested me, being an old bushman, to go in chase of those bushrangers at Bathurst. This is the letter. (Produced, and copy handed in. See Appendix.)
53. The persons mentioned in the letter were, I believe, subsequently brought to justice? They were all captured by the party, and subsequently hanged; I was a whole month after them.
54. I believe that Dr. Dulhunty had a large amount of funds of yours in his hands? I cannot say a very large amount, but he had funds of mine in his hands, both prior to leaving England and subsequent to his arrival here.
55. Did you receive those funds? No, I did not; he received them.
56. Do I understand you to say they were not paid over to you? There was a small amount paid over to me by his son, long after his death—some years afterwards, but not the whole amount—not half the amount.

PETITION OF MR. E. J. H. KNAPP.

APPENDIX.

(To Evidence given by E. J. H. Knapp, Esq., 9 June, 1865.)

Colonial Office,
Downing-street, London,
20 November, 1825.

Sir,

I am directed by Earl Bathurst to acquaint you, in reply to your letter of the 18th instant, that the printed memorandum which I enclose will explain to you the conditions upon which persons are permitted to hold lands at New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land; and if, under such circumstances, you should think it advisable to proceed to either of those settlements, with a view to agricultural objects, the Governor will, on your making the necessary application to him for that purpose, and provided he shall be satisfied of your possessing sufficient capital to enable you to fulfil those conditions, make to you a grant of land accordingly.

I am directed further to acquaint you, that the general instructions with which the Governor has been furnished, will render it unnecessary for you, on your proceeding to the Colony, to be provided with any other letter from the Colonial Department than this.

Edward James Homes Knapp, Esq.

I am, &c.,
R. U. HAY.

Goulburn-street West,
Sydney, 6 February, 1837.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit to you a memorandum which I received from the Colonial Office, Downing-street, and a copy of my memorial to Earl Bathurst; and beg respectfully that they, together with this communication, may be laid before His Excellency the Governor, for his consideration, that he may be pleased to order me a grant of land to the extent that was allowed at the time of my immigration to New South Wales, and which, under similar circumstances, has been given to some individuals lately.

I arrived in this Colony in the month of March, 1826, having left England with a view of becoming an agriculturalist here, and for which purpose I brought with me sufficient means. Upon my arrival, I was invited and prevailed upon to join the Surveyor General's Department (by which reason I was incapacitated for receiving a grant at that time, by the Government's order), in which I remained till the close of the year 1829. I beg also to be allowed to state, that the enclosed document has not been in my possession since I came to the Colony, and was only a few days since discovered amongst the papers of the late Dr. Dulhunty, under whose protection I left home.

In the month of October, 1830, being on a visit at Bathurst, I was requested by several of the Magistrates there, to accompany a party in pursuit of a large and desperate gang of bushrangers, who had committed several enormous outrages in that district. I remained in the bush continually upon their track for one month, riding my own horses, until the party succeeded in capturing and bringing them to Bathurst, where they were tried and executed.

I beg permission to bring this under the notice of His Excellency, as a further claim for a grant of land (as I had no property in the country or interest in the undertaking, but was actuated by a desire to be of assistance as far as I was able), as there are precedents of many individuals being rewarded with grants for similar and inferior services.

Should it please His Excellency, under these circumstances, to view my case in a favourable manner, I beg to refer to Alexander Macleay, Esquire, and Thomas Icely, Esquire, J.P., who can corroborate my statements as to the manner I came here and the means I brought with me.

The Honorable
The Colonial Secretary.

I have, &c.,
EDWARD J. H. KNAPP.

Colonial Secretary's Office,
22 April, 1837.

Sir,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 6th ultimo, with its enclosures, stating your claim to a grant of land, I do myself the honor, by the direction of His Excellency the Governor, to inform you, that you have altogether mistaken the nature of Mr. Hay's letter of November, 1825. It merely places you in the situation of an ordinary settler, which situation you abandoned by accepting employment equally with many others. Your power of reviving your application for land as a settler in the interval between your leaving the Public Service in 1829, and the abolition of grants without purchase in 1831, did not depend in any way on the possession of this document; and as no such application was then presented, the regulations of 1831 have finally precluded the Government from granting you land, except as a purchaser at public auction.

As to your claim on account of the capture of bushrangers, none of the alleged precedents are in point. These cases occurred before the present regulations came into operation; independently of which, the lapse of seven years which you have allowed to occur without bringing your claim forward, would have, on this account alone, rendered it inadmissible.

Edward J. H. Knapp, Esq.,
Goulburn-street West, Sydney.

I have, &c.,
E. DEAS THOMSON.

I hereby certify that the foregoing are true copies of the correspondence that has taken place, respecting the claim of Mr. Edward J. H. Knapp to a grant of land, as extracted from the records of this department.

Department of Land and Public Works,
Sydney, 14 April, 1838.

MICHL. FITZPATRICK,
Under Secretary.

Sydney.

Sydney, 12 January, 1838.

Sir,

In answer to your request of this morning, that I would certify to your services in assisting to capture the notorious band of bushrangers who were executed at Bathurst, in 1830,—I have to state that it was at my request, and that of Mr. James Walker, of Walerawang, in our capacities as Magistrates, you were induced to join a party against them; that you continued in pursuit of them for one month, and succeeded in securing and bringing to justice the whole band—ten in number.* I am not aware that you had any interest in the district to have caused you to undergo so fatiguing and perilous a service, and I think your conduct on the occasion deserving the consideration of Her Majesty's Government.

I am, &c.,
GEO. RANKIN, J.P.

Mr. E. J. H. Knapp,
Kent-street, Sydney.

* Were all executed at Bathurst subsequently.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

WILLIAM TYLER.

(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 25 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of William Tyler of Penrith,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioner has been a Contractor, and has executed with fidelity many large public works, amongst which are the re-construction of the Circular Quay, and the erection of the Glebe Island Bridge.

That in the year 1862, your Petitioner obtained the contract for the Nepean Bridge at Penrith, on the Great Western Railway, and commenced the works on the 15th October of the same year. That your Petitioner at that time, possessed nine thousand five hundred pounds in cash, all of which has been sunk in the works of the Bridge; that this loss has been caused by floods, unprecedented in their frequency, and in their destructive effects.

That on the 21st January, 1862, a flood filled up the excavation for the pier, all of which I had to do over again.

On the 16th February following, the river rose fourteen feet, upset and destroyed my coffer-dam, filled up the excavation, flooded the quarry, carried away crab-winch, and other materials. On the sixth March following, the floods again came down, causing loss of labour and materials, and filling up excavations. On the twentieth of April following, the water rose above my new coffer-dam, which caused me loss of labour chains, planks, and other plant. On the seventh of September following, another flood filled the coffer-dam, and did much damage to the prepared foundation of No. 2 pier, and by loss of material. On the 25th of October following, another flood filled my coffer-dam, and caused what may be termed the customary loss of material and labour, by refilling my excavations. On the 1st of March, 1864, the river rose fifteen feet, (15 ft.), carried away my water-frame, and filled in the bed prepared for coffer-dam; besides, the usual loss of material was increasingly greater with the higher flood, and caused me heavy loss. On the first of May, the river rose eleven feet (11 ft.) and caused me loss of time, labour, and material. On the eleventh of June came the great flood, which swept away my coffer-dam and all my plant; filled up one thousand two hundred and twenty-nine yards of excavation, which had been dredged out for No. 3 pier; carried away two thousand feet of masoned stone, prepared for the pier; carried away eight punts, one steam-winch, one steam-crane, one steam-pump, powder-magazine, cement, crab-winch, and all the vast plant I had for carrying on the work; and left me, by no fault of my own, a ruined man.

That your Honorable House may better be enabled to form a judgment as to my losses, I will state my loss in two items by the last flood only, thus: 1,229 yards of excavation at £3 17s. per yard, four thousand seven hundred and thirty-one pounds; coffer-dam, one thousand five hundred pounds—upwards of £6,000 pounds on only two items; and had a week longer elapsed, I should have been paid for the excavation by the Government.

That your Petitioner, when contracting for this work, was furnished with plans of the foundation, shewing the depth to the bedrock, and specifications also reciting the same: that such drawings or plans were altogether wrong, the bedrock being twice the depth shewn on the plan and specification; and had such drawings and specifications correctly shewn the work to be done, a much larger price would have been asked for the work, and no such losses as have been sustained by your Petitioner would have fallen on him—as work under water would not have occupied him half the time, and consequently, only half the risk would have been incurred.

That your Petitioner has devoted his capital, and all his best energies, to the performance of the works he undertook to do, for a period of two years. No human forethought could have anticipated or calculated on the nine disastrous floods succeeding each other in the short space of time; just allowing the works to be put in efficient repair and full operation, between the visitations; and the last at once sweeping off my whole plant and stock, and leaving me irretrievably ruined.

That your Petitioner is brought to this strait by the act of Providence, and by being misled by the plans prepared by the officers of the Government, as before shewn.

Your Petitioner, therefore, prays that your Honorable House will take the premises into your favourable consideration, and will cause such steps to be taken as to your wisdom may seem meet; in order that your Petitioner may not suffer the further loss of the retention money, or ten per cent. of the whole amount worked for by your Petitioner, who has ever paid those who worked for him with regularity, so that they have no claim such as has been allowed in the case of other contractors who have been allowed to throw up their contracts.

That your Honorable House will take the whole case of your Petitioner into your favourable consideration, and make such inquiry into his grievance as to your Honorable House may seem fit.

That your Petitioner humbly prays that your Honorable House will take the premises into your favourable consideration, and grant such relief as your wisdom may direct.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c., &c.

WILLIAM TYLER.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

JAMES THOMAS THORNTON.
(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 1 June, 1865.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of James Thomas Thornton, of Sydney, upholsterer,—

MOST RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner is the son and heir-at-law of James Charles Thornton, deceased, and wishes to obtain recognition of a deed of grant of a town allotment, such deed having been promised to and selected by your Petitioner's late father, James Charles Thornton, by order of Sir Thomas Brisbane, the then Governor of the Colony; which order was duly recorded through Frederick Goulburn, Esq., the then Colonial Secretary and Registrar of Records for the Colony of New South Wales.

That your Petitioner would briefly state the following, as the main grounds on which he bases his claim to the consideration on the part of the Government :—

First, all the conditions on which such grants were given, were duly fulfilled by the promisee, who resided permanently in the Colony (with a few brief intervals of absence in the service of the Government, under Captain Raymond of the Revenue Service) up to the period of his decease in January, 1857.

Secondly, the selection made and described by him, was made in pursuance of the authority given, and remains vacant to this day, various objections having been from time to time made against the issue of the grant.

Thirdly, promisee never abandoned his right in the matter, as is shewn by his petitions, and he never received any other grant or compensation in consideration of the non-fulfilment of the promise.

Fourthly, that the objections on which the claim has been rejected are not in the opinion of the Petitioner based upon valid or sound conclusions, as certain regulations of 1826 and 7, which are referred to in different minutes and letters, evidently have no reference to town allotments, but apply exclusively to lands taken up for purposes of agriculture, and this particular selection was made for a purpose altogether different.

Your Petitioner, therefore, prays that your Honorable House will take the premises into consideration, and arrive at such decision therein as shall seem meet.

And your Petitioner will ever pray.

JAMES THOMAS THORNTON.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

WILLIAM CRONAN.
(PETITION OF.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 7 June, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.
The Petition of William Cronan, of Sydney,—

SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioner in or about the month of April, 1862, having been a Digger at Lambing Flat diggings, and being about to remove from thence, was possessed of the sum of Two hundred and eighteen pounds (£218) in gold, which sum he offered for safe custody to the Gold Commissioners at that place, believing them to be the proper parties with whom such deposits should be made; but they refused to accept the same, stating, in reply to his proposal, that they were too much engaged to attend upon him.

That on the following day your Petitioner was stuck up between Murrumbah and the Yass Road, and robbed of all that he possessed, including the above-mentioned money; which became notorious as a fact at that time.

That since then, your Petitioner has been afflicted with almost total blindness, whereby he is rendered incapable of resuming his occupation as a Digger, or of otherwise obtaining a living by active employment.

That your Petitioner is induced to lay this statement of his case before your Honorable House :—

1st. Because he could not have been robbed, had the Gold Commissioners taken charge of his money, as your Petitioner submits it was their duty, as public officers, to have done.

2ndly. Because your Petitioner, as a ratepayer and consumer, was entitled to the protection of the law, which (as the events have proved) has failed to protect him at the time of his utmost need.

Your Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays, that your Honorable House, will take this his Petition into your favourable consideration, and will do as to your Honorable House may seem fit, or as the equity of the case may seem to require.

And your Petitioner, will ever pray.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH LAND TRUST BILL.

FRIDAY, 10 MARCH, 1865.

Present:—

MR. BURDEKIN,
MR. DONNELLY,

MR. HART,
MR. MACPHERSON.

JAMES HART, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

E. G. Ellis, Esq., re-appeared as Solicitor on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

Eyre Goulburn Ellis, Esq., examined:—

1. By the Chairman: I believe you are solicitor for the promoters of this Bill? I am. E. Goulburn
2. Do you produce the Deed of Grant referred to in the preamble? I do. (The witness Ellis, Esq. produced the same.)
3. Can you furnish the Committee with a copy? Yes. (The witness handed in the same. 10 Mar., 1865. Vide Appendix.)
4. Have you any evidence to give yourself, or any witnesses to produce, in support of the allegations contained in the preamble? Archdeacon M'Encroe being the person principally interested, I propose to examine him as to the desirability of the Bill.

The Venerable Archdeacon John M'Encroe examined:—

5. By Mr. Ellis: Do you know the land referred to in the Bill before the Committee? Yes. The Ven. Archdeacon J. M'Encroe.
6. Is the land conveniently situated for the purposes of the trusts of the grant? No; it is too far from St. Patrick's Church, as the clergyman has to attend in the morning, and during the day to baptisms, marriages, and other duties, and he is liable to frequent interruption and inconvenience. 10 Mar., 1865.
7. Is it desirable that this land should be sold, and the proceeds thereof applied in or towards the purchase of another piece of land, to be held upon similar terms, and in a more eligible situation? Very desirable.

Land Grant.
Register Book—Vol. II, folio 35.

NEW SOUTH WALES.

*Grant for a Roman Catholic Minister's Residence, No. III.*VICTORIA, by the Grace of God, of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, Queen, Defender of the Faith, and so forth.

To all to whom these Presents shall come, Greeting :—

Whereas, in pursuance of a promise made prior to the passing of the Crown Lands Alienation Act of 1861, the lands hereinafter described were duly set apart and dedicated as the site of a dwelling house and appurtenances for the clergyman duly appointed to officiate in the Roman Catholic Church of Saint Patrick, on Church Hill, in the City of Sydney, in the said Colony, and a dwelling house and appurtenances have been erected thereon: Now, know ye, that we, for ourselves, our heirs, and successors, do hereby grant unto the Most Reverend John Bede Polding, D.D., The Venerable John M'Encroe, and Owen Joseph Caraher, being respectively trustees nominated and appointed under and by virtue of an Act of the Governor and Legislative Council of our said Colony, made and passed in the seventh year of the reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled, "An Act to promote the building of Churches and Chapels and to provide for the maintenance of Ministers of Religion in New South Wales," and to their heirs and assigns, subject to the trusts, conditions, reservations, and provisos hereinafter contained, all that piece or parcel of land in our said Colony, containing by admeasurement eight perches, be the same more or less, situated in the county of Cumberland and parish of St. Philip's, city of Sydney, allotment thirteen of section two; commencing on the western building line of York-street, at the northern corner of allotment twelve, and bounded thence on the north-east by that line north-westerly twenty-eight feet; on the north-west by the south-east boundary line of allotment fourteen, south-westerly, at right angles to York-street, eighty feet to a lane; on the south-west by that lane south-easterly, parallel with York-street, twenty-eight feet; and on the south-east by the north-west boundary line of allotment twelve aforesaid, north-easterly, at right angles to York-street, eighty feet to the point of commencement; with all the rights and appurtenances whatsoever thereto belonging: To hold unto the said John Bede Polding, D.D., John M'Encroe, and Owen Joseph Caraher, their heirs and assigns, for ever, upon trust, for the appropriation thereof as the site of a dwelling-house, garden, and other appurtenances, for the clergyman duly appointed to officiate in the Roman Catholic Church of St. Patrick, erected at Church Hill, and known as the Church of St. Patrick aforesaid, in conformity with the provisions of the said Act, so far as the same may apply to the trusts of this our grant, and for no other purpose whatsoever; on condition that the said grantees, their heirs and assigns, or some of them, do and shall construct proper drains through and from the same land to the nearest common drain or sewer, when required so to do; and that they do and shall, in every respect, and at all times hereafter, conform to the Government Regulations for the time being, and to the laws and regulations now or hereafter to be in force, for the better regulating the alignment of streets in our said Colony, so far as the same may be applicable: Provided nevertheless, and we do hereby reserve unto us, our heirs and successors, all mines of gold, of silver, and of coals; and we do further reserve unto us, our heirs and successors, full power for us or them, or for the Governor for the time being of our said Colony, to resume and take possession of all or any part of the said land which may be required, at any time or times hereafter, for any public purpose whatsoever, twelve calendar months' notice of its being so required being previously given in the Government Gazette or otherwise; and the value of the said land, or of such part thereof as shall be so required, and of any building standing on the said required land, being paid by the Government to the party entitled thereto, at a valuation fixed by arbitrators chosen as hereinafter mentioned, in which valuation the benefit to accrue to the said party from any such public purpose shall be allowed by way of set off: And we do also reserve unto us, our heirs and successors, and to the Governor for the time being of our said Colony, by such person or persons as shall be by them or him authorized in that behalf, full power to make and conduct through the said land all common or public drains and sewers which may be deemed expedient, three calendar months' notice being previously given to the occupier, owner, or trustees thereof; and the damage which any building may sustain thereby being paid for by the Government to the party entitled thereto, at a valuation fixed by arbitrators as aforesaid: And we do hereby declare that, in every case of arbitration which shall arise under and by virtue hereof, one arbitrator shall be chosen by the Governor for the time being of our said Colony, and one by the then owner, owners, or trustees of the said land, or of such part thereof as may be thereby affected, which two arbitrators (before they proceed to the said arbitration) shall elect an umpire, who shall determine any disagreement between the two said arbitrators; but if the said owner or owners, or trustees, shall refuse or neglect to choose an arbitrator on his, her, or their part, within one calendar month after being required so to do by public advertisement in the Government Gazette or otherwise, or if such arbitrator, being chosen, shall refuse or neglect to act, and within one calendar month determine the matter to him referred, then both arbitrators shall be chosen by the Governor for the time being of our said Colony, which said last-mentioned arbitrators shall also elect an umpire in the manner and for the purpose above mentioned; and if any umpire shall refuse or neglect to act, and within one calendar month determine the matter to him referred, the arbitrator for the time being, whether chosen one by each party or both by the Governor of our said Colony, shall, in every such case, forthwith elect another umpire, in the same manner, for the same purpose, and subject to the same conditions as the umpire first elected as aforesaid: Provided always that, if the trusts, conditions, reservations, and provisos herein contained, or any part thereof, be not duly observed and performed by the said grantees, their heirs and assigns, then the said land shall be forfeited and revert unto us, our heirs and successors; and these presents, and every matter and thing herein contained shall cease and determine, and become absolutely void, to all intents and purposes: And it shall be lawful for us, our heirs, and successors, by our Governor for the time being of our said Colony, or some person by them or him authorized in that behalf, to re-enter upon and take possession of the said land or any part thereof, and the said grantees, their heirs and assigns, and all occupiers, therefrom wholly to remove. In testimony whereof, we have caused this our Grant to be sealed with the Seal of our said Colony.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH BILL.

TUESDAY, 21 MARCH, 1865.

Present:—

MR. COWPER,
MR. BURDEKIN,

MR. CAMPBELL,
DR. LANG.

THE HON. CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

W. Barker, Esq., of the firm of Norton and Barker, appeared as Solicitor for the Bill.

The Rev. James Cameron, M.A., Richmond, examined:—

1. By the Chairman: What is your designation? I am a Minister of the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales, and Clerk of the Synod.
2. The recital of the Bill now before the Committee states that "since the formation of the said Synod of Australia another Presbyterian Synod has been formed in the said Colony known as the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales consisting of certain ministers and representative ruling elders of certain congregations of Presbyterians the ministers and ruling elders of such congregations not being under the spiritual superintendence of nor having any ecclesiastical connection with the said Synod of Australia"—has such a Synod been formed? Yes.
3. By Mr. Barker: And is still existing? Yes.
4. By the Chairman: The preamble further says:—"And whereas there is a congregation of Presbyterians assembling in Phillip-street in the city of Sydney known as the 'United Presbyterian Church in Sydney' of which the Reverend Adam Thomson is the present minister which is not under the spiritual superintendence of nor has any ecclesiastical connection with the said two Synods or either of them"—do you know that to be the fact? I do.
5. "And whereas the said two Synods and the said United Presbyterian Church in Sydney and the minister thereof have agreed to unite together and form one Church to be called 'The Presbyterian Church of New South Wales'—is that the fact? Yes.
6. By Mr. Barker: I believe the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales includes the majority of the ministers and members of the Free Church? Yes, of the late Synod of Eastern Australia.
7. And also of the Synod formerly known as the Synod of New South Wales? Yes, it comprehends the whole of the Synod of New South Wales, and the larger portion of the late Synod of Eastern Australia.
8. Are you able to state the number of ministers constituting the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales? There are twenty ministers.
9. Besides the ruling elders from the several congregations? Yes.

Rev. J.
Cameron,
M.A.

21 Mar., 1865.

Rev. J.
Cameron,
M.A.

21 Mar., 1865.

10. By the Chairman: Has this contemplated union of the various sections of the Presbyterian Church been matter of discussion? Yes, it has been very long and carefully discussed.
11. Have the various sections of the Presbyterian Church been fairly represented when these discussions have taken place, in such a way as to ascertain the views of the various sections of Presbyterians on the matter? Yes, means have been adopted to bring out as fully as possible the mind of the different bodies.
12. By Mr. Campbell: The opinions of the laity as well as of the clergy of the different Churches? Yes; the laity are fully represented in all our church meetings by elders, who are supposed to represent the congregations.
13. By Mr. Barker: The bodies named in the Bill were fully represented in all your conferences? Yes.
14. By the Chairman: And as far as an opinion could be formed, it is the wish of the various sections of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales that a union of the Presbyterian Church should take place? Yes, it is reckoned highly desirable, I believe, by all of them—by all the parties to this Bill it is reckoned highly desirable that union should be accomplished.
15. By Dr. Lang: You are aware, I presume, that the people—the laity—were more anxious on the subject than the ministers, all along? I believe so.
16. By the Chairman: You are not aware of any strong feeling of opposition in any quarter? A portion of the late Synod of Eastern Australia, to which I belonged, has stood aloof for the present, but it is somewhat difficult to state the various grounds on which they have stood aloof. We are, however, not without the hope that this Bill will have the effect of bringing the greater portion of them in.
17. By Mr. Barker: Can you inform the Committee whether it is the fact that the new Church will comprise by far the largest portion of the Presbyterians in New South Wales? I should say nine-tenths of the whole of the Presbyterians in the Colony.

The Rev. Adam Thomson examined:—

Rev. Adam
Thomson.

21 Mar., 1865.

18. By the Chairman: You are a minister of the United Presbyterian Church in Sydney? Yes.
19. Have you taken any prominent part in promoting this Bill? I have acted throughout as Clerk of the Conference on the projected union.
20. Of whom did the Conference consist? The Conference consisted originally of representatives from the Synod of Australia in connection with the Established Church of Scotland, the Synod of Eastern Australia (popularly known as the Free Church Synod), and the minister and representative elders of the United Presbyterian Church in Sydney.
21. All these various sections of the Presbyterian Church were fairly and fully represented at the Conference? Yes.
22. By Mr. Barker: When did the Conference first meet for the purpose of considering of union? The Conference first met on the 6th November, 1862, to take into consideration the importance of union betwixt the different Presbyterian bodies represented in it, and the desirableness of taking steps for effecting, as speedily as possible, the consummation of such union. The Conference at its first meeting consisted of representatives of the bodies I have already specified.
23. What was the result—was there any agreement among them as to the expediency of union? It was unanimously agreed that a union was exceedingly desirable, and accordingly negotiations were entered into with the view of bringing it about. Various meetings of the Conference took place at subsequent dates, extending over the period from the date I have already mentioned to the 12th of November, 1864.
24. Had the General Synod at this time been formed? No, it was not formed until the 15th November, 1864, when a union took place between the Synod of New South Wales and the Synod of Eastern Australia, and they formed a new Synod under the name of the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales. The intention of forming the Synod so composed, was communicated to the Conference by the representatives of the Synod of Eastern Australia, at the meeting of the Conference held on the 12th November; and the Conference agreed unanimously that the representatives of the General Synod should hold the same place in the union negotiations as had been previously occupied by the representatives of the Synod of Eastern Australia.
25. The Conference, after that, consisted of representatives of the Synod of Eastern Australia? The Conference consisted of the same parties as before, with this difference—that representatives of the General Synod were substituted for representatives of the Synod of Eastern Australia, the latter Synod being now merged in the General Synod by its union with the Synod of New South Wales.
26. Were several meetings held after that—did the Conference agree upon any basis for union, and for the formation of a new Church? Subsequent meetings of the Conference were held, when the parties now composing it unanimously adopted as their own the basis of union previously agreed on.
27. By the Chairman: The whole question had in the mean time been fully and fairly discussed? The whole question had been fully and fairly discussed, and a basis of union drawn up and adopted,

28. Do you hand that in? Here is a printed copy of the articles of the basis of union agreed on by the Conference, on the 10th November, 1863, and subsequently adopted by the Conference as now constituted, on the 16th November, 1864. (Handed in. Vide Appendix.)
29. By Mr. Campbell: The Conference being composed of the parties to this Bill? They are the parties to this Bill.
30. By the Chairman: Referring to the preamble of the Bill, can you state as a fact that "since the formation of the Synod of Australia another Presbyterian Synod has been formed in the Colony known as the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales consisting of certain ministers and representative ruling elders of certain congregations of Presbyterians the ministers and ruling elders of such congregations not being under the spiritual superintendence of nor having any ecclesiastical connection with the said Synod of Australia"? I am aware that that is the case.
31. With regard to the next portion of the preamble—"And whereas there is a congregation of Presbyterians assembling in Phillip-street in the city of Sydney known as the 'United Presbyterian Church in Sydney' of which the Reverend Adam Thomson is the present minister which is not under the superintendence of nor has any ecclesiastical connection with the said two Synods or either of them"—? That is correct.
32. Are you the Reverend Adam Thomson alluded to in that portion of the preamble? I am.
33. By Dr. Lang: Are you the only minister of the United Presbyterian Church in this Colony? I am not the only minister ordained by the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, but I am the only minister having charge of a United Presbyterian congregation in this Colony.
34. Are you aware that there are any other ministers of the same origin in the southern portions of the Colony? There are, I believe, three ministers in New South Wales licensed and ordained by the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland—the Rev. Mr. Paterson, of Pymont; the Rev. David Ballantyne, of Albury; and the Rev. Peter Mercer, of Deniliquin.
35. What is Mr. Paterson's present position? He is a member of the General Synod.
36. By Mr. Campbell: Virtually they are now in connection with other Presbyterian bodies, although they have been ordained by the United Presbyterian Church at home? Though ordained by the United Presbyterian Church, they are now in a different connection. Mr. Paterson is, as I have stated, a member of the General Synod; and Mr. Ballantyne and Mr. Mercer, though on the New South Wales side of the border, are both members, I believe, of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Victoria.

Rev. Adam Thomson.
 21 Mar., 1865.

The Rev. James Fullerton, LL.D., examined:—

37. By Mr. Barker: I believe you are at present Moderator of the Synod of Australia in connection with the Established Church of Scotland? Yes.
38. Will you inform the Committee whether it is the fact that the Synod of Australia have agreed with the General Synod of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales, and the United Presbyterian Church, to form a new Presbyterian Church in New South Wales, under the name of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales? Yes.
39. Have the Synod of Australia entirely agreed, or a large majority? We had no dissentients. The great point with the Synod of Australia was the settlement of the basis, and when once the basis was agreed to and adopted, there was no further discussion.
40. Have the Synod of Australia agreed to the proof of the Bill now before this Committee? Yes, the Synod of Australia considered the former Bill seriatim, and passed it as it was; and after the formation of the General Synod, they appointed a committee to make such alterations as would make the Bill they approved of, suitable to the altered circumstances, and that committee were unanimous in adopting the Bill as it now is. That committee was also authorized to take all steps necessary to having the Bill passed into law.
41. I presume you are aware that the general body of Presbyterians represented by the Synod of Australia are desirous this Bill should be passed into law? I think the great majority of them are.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH BILL.

APPENDIX.

(Paper handed in by Rev. A. Thomson, 21 March, 1865.)

PRESBYTERIAN UNION.

Articles of Basis of Union.

I. That the designation of the United Church shall be "The Presbyterian Church of New South Wales;" and that the Supreme Court of the Church shall be designated "The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales."

II. That the Word of God, as contained in the Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, is held by this Church as the supreme and only authoritative rule of faith and practice.

III. That the Westminster Confession of Faith, the Larger and Shorter Catechisms, the Form of Presbyterian Church Government, the Directory for the Public Worship of God, and the Second Book of Discipline, are the subordinate standards of this Church.

IV. The subordinate standards above enumerated are received with the following explanations:—

1. That while the Confession of Faith contains the Creed to which as to a confession of his own faith, every office-bearer in the Church must testify in solemn form his personal adherence, and while the Catechisms are sanctioned as Directories for catechising,—the Directory for Public Worship, the Form of Church Government, and the Second Book of Discipline, are of the nature of regulations rather than of tests, and are not to be imposed by subscription upon Ministers and Elders.
2. That in adopting these standards, this Church is not to be held as countenancing persecuting or intolerant principles, or any denial of invasion of the right of private judgment.
3. That by Christ's appointment, the Church is spiritually independent, and is not subject, in its own province, and in the administration of its own affairs, to the jurisdiction or authoritative interference of the civil power.

V. That this Church asserts for itself a separate and independent position in relation to other Churches; and that its highest Court shall possess supreme and final jurisdiction over its inferior judicatories, office-bearers, and members.

VI. That this Church shall receive Ministers and Probationers from other Presbyterian Churches applying for admission, on their affording satisfactory evidence of their qualifications and eligibility, and subscribing the formula.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH BILL.
(PETITION—WOLLONGONG.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 5 April, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.
The humble Petition of the Members of Committee of the Presbyterian Church, Wollongong,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners are members of the Committee of the Presbyterian Church, Wollongong.

That the majority of the members and adherents of this Church belonging to the Synod of Australia, in connection with the Church of Scotland, are opposed to a Bill entitled the Presbyterian Church Act of 1864, and which said Bill is now under consideration by a Select Committee of your Honorable House.

That your Petitioners object to this Bill because they are determined to adhere to the Church of their fathers, and thus remain as a branch of that Church in a foreign land; and therefore, your Petitioners, in the name of the Committee, members and adherents of the Scotch Church, Wollongong, protest against the proposed union with other Presbyterian congregations. The grounds of our protest are as follows:—In the month of November last, we applied to the Synod of Australia to cause the Reverend Cunningham Atchison to hand over to this congregation the sum of two hundred pounds, granted by the Government, some considerable time ago, for the special purpose of building a manse or residence for the Minister. It appears that, shortly after the said sum was granted by the Government, the Reverend C. Atchison applied to have the sum appropriated to some other purpose. A member of the Church Court (the Reverend John M'Gibbon) protested, and entered his protest in the church records against the sum being used for any other purpose than that specially granted by the Government; yet strange to say, notwithstanding this protest, the Reverend C. Atchison, by some means or other got hold of the two hundred pounds, and did not apply it for the special purpose of building; but, it appears from the unbusiness statistics of the Synod, for the purpose of paying interest relative to some matters connected with a spire, the building of which was entirely his own fancy, and was never sanctioned or approved of by the congregation, and is now designated "Atchison's Folly." It has no clock, nor even a church bell, and therefore is a pompous introduction to nothing; besides, the spire was not in the original plan of the church. The congregation are also decidedly of opinion that, from what is occurring daily, that the Reverend C. Atchison is indebted to the congregation, and that other sums ought to be restored in addition to the two hundred pounds aforesaid. Your Petitioners applied to the Synod for redress; but in answer received, the Synod sent a document accompanied with a very unbusiness-like account, without dates or vouchers, and which no one would have passed or signed having the least pretension to business. It is signed, however, by William Purvis, a Minister of considerable notoriety in this Colony; the particulars of the transaction are well known to several Members of your Honorable House. It was also signed by John M'Gibbon, who was the man who protested against the same being appropriated for any other purpose than that for the special purpose of building a manse. In fact, the sum could not be applied to any other purpose without a special Act of the Legislature. When it was reported in Wollongong, the congregation felt greatly dissatisfied, and protested against this disgraceful, unclerical, and unjust proceeding on the part of the Synod.

It was stated that a Mr. Anderson, who was a banker, and Elder of the Presbyterian Church, and a member of the Synod, examined and approved of the same. Mr. Anderson, however, heard of this false report, and ascertained that it had been communicated from Sydney, immediately wrote a letter to Mr. C. C. Innes, one of the Church Committee, denying the truth of such an unfounded assertion, and demanding an explanation.

The Synod instructed the Trustees at Wollongong to appropriate the sum for a manse, for the completion of the church at Wollongong, if the sanction of the Executive could be obtained; but no such sanction was ever obtained. This was suggested in the interim, or until the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds was granted from Government for the completion of the church, and which sum was shortly afterwards obtained; and thus the moment it was obtained, even although Government had ordered this sum to be applied in the mean<sup>time</sup>, the two hundred pounds would even then have been required for the purpose it was originally granted. The congregational members of Committee have only to add, that they have been unjustly and shamefully treated by the Synod of Australia, in not ordering the Rev. C. Atchison at once to refund the two hundred pounds. The Church here has petitioned the Presbytery to have Trustees appointed, but the Presbytery has neglected to comply with the prayer of such Petition; they postponed the consideration of it for three months, and by that means virtually shelved it. One of the Trustees (Mr. Irving) is not now residing in this locality, he having been appointed a Police Magistrate, and residing far distant from Wollongong, and thus of no utility here as a Trustee. Another of the Trustees (the Rev. C. Atchison) left Wollongong upwards of twelve months ago, where he formerly acted as constant supplier only of said Church at Wollongong, for a period of twenty-two years; but strange to say, was never inducted according to the laws of the Church, as Minister of said Church. He is now at a missionary station at the North Shore, Sydney, acting in the same capacity, merely as a supplier of a preaching station—he never having been inducted as a regular Minister of the Gospel to either charge. Considering all these things, the Presbytery should have complied with the prayer of the Managers' Petition.

But an additional reason, and a very strong reason too, is, that when the resolutions of the Synod of Australia were brought before the Venerable the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, some years ago, the case was referred to a Committee. At the evening sittings, Dr. Robertson, Convener, gave in the report of the Committee appointed in the forenoon, to answer and consider the resolutions passed by the Synod of Australia. The Committee recommended that those Ministers who adhered to the resolutions should no longer be regarded as Ministers of the Church of Scotland; and that copies of the Minute be transmitted to the Moderator and Clerk of the Australian Synod, and to the Secretary of the Colonies. This was agreed to. Out of the thirteen Ministers who were thus ignominiously turned out of the Church of Scotland, the first on the list is the Rev. Cunningham Atchison, late of Wollongong; so that even the Government annual allowance is now in jeopardy, as he is no longer legitimately entitled, according to the Act of William IV, chap. 7, which states that Ministers receiving State Aid must be in connection with the Church of Scotland; nor is he entitled to act as Trustee, not only in consequence of his non-residence, but because he never was inducted in this Colony as a Minister to any charge; and more especially, because he was deposed from the Ministry by the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

Your Petitioners have to state, that the non-production of the aforesaid two hundred pounds exhibits, in strong and vivid colours, the kind of treatment they may expect from the Synod, should the proposed Bill, called the Presbyterian Church Act, pass into law; and therefore, your Petitioners humbly pray your Honorable House not to pass the aforesaid Bill; and that you will grant such other redress in the premises as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

CHAS. O. INNES.

EXTRACTS FROM THE VOTES AND PROCEEDINGS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

1863-4.

VOTES, No. 49. TUESDAY, 15 SEPTEMBER, 1863.

19. Mortgage on the Property of the Scots Church, Sydney—Claims of Dr. Lang:—
Dr. Lang moved, pursuant to notice, "That" this House will, on Friday next, resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, to consider of an Address to His Excellency the Governor, praying that the Mortgage on the property of the Scots Church, Sydney, in favour of the Collector of Internal Revenue, as a security for certain advances from the Colonial Treasury, during the years 1831, 1832, and 1833, amounting to £3,500, may be cancelled; the Government having received a full equivalent for such advances in the importation of the Scotch Mechanics of 1831, and otherwise, more than thirty years ago.

Debate ensued.

Mr. Dalgleish moved, That the Question be amended by omitting all the words after the word "That," with a view to inserting in their place the words "a Select Committee, with power to send for persons and papers, be appointed to inquire into, and report upon, the circumstances connected with the Mortgage on the property of the Scots Church, Sydney, in favour of the Collector of Internal Revenue, and also to consider and report upon the claims of the Reverend Dr. Lang, for compensation for services rendered to the Colony by the importation of Scotch Mechanics and otherwise.

"(2.) That such Committee consist of the following Members:—Mr. Piddington, Mr. Caldwell, Mr. Sutherland, Mr. Morris, Mr. Tighe, Mr. Cowper, Mr. Gray, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Alexander, and the Mover."

Debate continued.

Proposed Amendment by leave withdrawn.

Mr. Faucett then moved, That the Question be amended by omitting all the words after the word "That," with a view to inserting in their place the words,—
"a Select Committee, with power to send for persons and papers, be appointed to inquire into, and report upon, the circumstances connected with the Mortgage on the Property of the Scots Church, Sydney, in favour of the Collector of Internal Revenue; and also to consider whether any equitable Claims exist for cancelling the said Mortgage.

"(2.) That such Committee consist of the following Members:—Mr. Piddington, Mr. Caldwell, Mr. Sutherland, Mr. Morris, Mr. Tighe, Mr. Cowper, Mr. Gray, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Alexander, and the Mover."

Question,—That the words proposed to be omitted stand part of the Question,—put and negatived.

Question,—That the words proposed to be inserted in the place of the words omitted be there inserted,—put and passed.

And Captain Moriarty requiring that the said Committee be appointed by Ballot,—

Question,—

"That a Select Committee, with power to send for persons and papers, be appointed to inquire into and report upon, the circumstances connected with the Mortgage on the property of the Scots Church, Sydney, in favour of the Collector of Internal Revenue, and also to consider whether any equitable claims exist for cancelling the said mortgage,"—put and passed.

Whereupon the House proceeded to the Ballot, and the Speaker declared the following Members to be the Committee duly appointed:—Mr. Faucett,* Mr. Dalgleish, Mr. Caldwell, Mr. Cowper, Mr. Piddington, Mr. Sutherland, Mr. Gray, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Allen, and Mr. Macpherson.

* Seat declared vacant, 20 October, 1863.

MORTGAGE ON THE PROPERTY OF THE SCOTS CHURCH, SYDNEY.

REPORT.

THE SELECT COMMITTEE of the Legislative Assembly, appointed on the 16th of May last, “to inquire into, and report upon, the circumstances connected with the Mortgage on the Property of the Scots Church, Sydney, in favour of the Collector of Internal Revenue, and also to consider whether any equitable claims exist for cancelling the said Mortgage, with power to send for persons and papers”—and to whom on the 16th and 17th of the same month were referred respectively, the “Evidence taken before, and the Proceedings of, the Select Committee” on the same subject, in the Session of 1863-4—have agreed to the following Report:—

Your Committee having made the investigation which by the terms of their appointment devolved upon them, beg to Report:—

That in the year 1831, the sum of £3,500 was advanced from the Public Revenue of this Colony to the Reverend Dr. Lang, by order of the Right Honorable the Secretary of State, for the purpose of forwarding the establishment of a College in connection with the Presbyterian Church, in order that the youth of this Colony might have greater advantages in respect to their education than were then available to them.

That upon this advance being made, Dr. Lang undertook to repay that sum within five years.

That before the advance was made, an immigration scheme was, with the concurrence of Lord Glenelg, associated with the educational measure.

That, under this branch of the arrangement, a considerable number of valuable immigrants was introduced into New South Wales. Many of these immigrants repaid the whole, or portions of their passage money, in accordance with the terms under which their passages were provided.

That Dr. Lang did also so far carry out the original intention of founding an educational establishment, that a College was formed of which he was Principal—Professors or under masters duly appointed —and

—and that for more than ten years the Institution did essential service to the cause of education. The testimony of Sir W. Burton upon this point is conclusive:—

“To the activity and perseverance of the Rev. Dr. Lang, the senior chaplain of the Presbyterian Church, is to be ascribed, not only the establishment of that Church in New South Wales, and, afterwards, its increase in the accession of numerous clergymen of the same communion, but also the introduction into the Colony of many useful and excellent men as instructors of youth, and especially the establishment of the Australian College; which is to be regarded, as it was intended, not only as a seminary for general education, in which youth of all denominations might receive instruction, but particularly as a College for the propagation of the principles of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales, and in the Pacific Ocean.

“Hitherto, the Australian College has been only an elementary and classical school,* conducted by clergymen of the Church of England, Dr. Lang being the Principal; ‘It was proposed, however,’ (says its founder) ‘from the first, that it should occupy a higher or collegiate position as soon as possible, affording to colonial youth of a more advanced standing, similar educational advantages to those afforded in the mathematical, philosophical, and natural history classes of the Universities of Scotland.’ And again, after describing the educational establishment of the College, Dr. Lang proceeds, ‘An educational establishment of this extent will enable the Australian College to afford the native candidate for the ministry in New South Wales a course of preparatory education, somewhat similar to the one prescribed for candidates for the ministry in the Church of Scotland, previous to the commencement of their theological course. There is reason to believe, moreover, that there will be ample means of establishing a course of theological education before the first series of students in the institution shall have completed their preparatory curriculum.’

“The number of students in the college during the year 1838 was 116; of this number 32 attended these Latin classes,—the first, learning the grammar; the second, Macgowan’s ‘Latin Reading,’ Part II., and Valpy’s Delectus; the third were, at the commencement of 1839, reading Livy, and acquiring the elements of Greek. In the natural philosophy classes, lectures illustrated by experiments are delivered, and subjects prescribed on which the students write by way of exercise; of these essays (some of which extended to 60 closely written pages), several hundred were given in during the year, and several were read with much gratification by the writer of these observations, as shewing in many instances acuteness of observation and reflection, particularly interesting and useful as indications of the natural bent of the mind of the pupil, each being at liberty, out of a number of subjects proposed, to write upon that which he chose.

“In the mathematical class, Euclid’s Elements and Bland’s Geometrical Problems were used as text books. In the course of the year, about 46 attended the classes for natural philosophy and mathematics.

“About 70 attended the classes for history and geography. The books used were the common school Histories of Greece and Rome (with questions), and Steward’s Geography.

“Nearly the whole number of pupils attended the classes for writing and accounts. Engaged in giving these instructions, there were in the year 1838, and at the commencement of 1839, the Rev. Thomas Aitken, A.M., the Rev. David M’Kenzie, A.M., and the Rev. Robert Wylde, A.M., gentlemen possessing every qualification to give instruction in higher branches, but whose time, from the comparatively low estimate at which the standard of a liberal education has at present been held by Colonial parents, is consumed in a course of elementary instruction.

“In the Australian College there may be found about 30 or 40 students who would prosecute studies superior to those of a common education; but this number is obviously too small to provide funds, without other assistance than fees received from the pupils, for the maintenance of teachers devoting their time to the higher branches.

“Having visited the Australian College at the commencement of the years 1838 and 1839, the writer of these observations was highly impressed in favour of the course of instruction pursued at it, so far as it had proceeded: questions were proposed on all the subjects of instruction, and answered with a quickness which proved both the knowledge and care of the teachers, and the aptness of the scholars. Quickness and sprightliness were indeed the general characteristics of the latter; but some evinced also a depth of reflection evidently proceeding from solid genius.

“According to one of the fundamental articles of the institution, the business of each day is commenced and closed with prayer. The Holy Scriptures are read regularly in the English classes, and instruction in the ‘general principles and duties of the Christian religion’ is afforded every Saturday, at the close of the ordinary business of the week; but it is a part of the same article, ‘that no attempt be made, either directly or indirectly, to proselytise to the tenets of any particular denomination of Christians; and that those pupils or students whose parents or guardians may object to their receiving religious instruction at all, be allowed at such stated times to withdraw.’ (The State of Religion and Education in New South Wales: By William Westbrooke Burton, Esq., one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of that Colony, pp. 139—142.)”

That

That subsequently, owing to causes which are differently put by the various witnesses, as may be seen in the Evidence appended to this Report, the Institution languished, and eventually collapsed.

That the buildings which were erected as the College Buildings, have consequently long since ceased to be occupied for the purposes for which they were originally erected. One has been occupied as the residence of Dr. Lang: the remainder appear to have been leased by that gentleman, and the rentals collected and retained by him. It also appears that Dr. Lang had to borrow considerable sums of money to meet the cost for their erection; the interest for which loans have, it would seem, been paid by him.

That the title or titles of the allotments upon which the buildings are erected are involved in great confusion; as indeed are all the accounts and records connected with the affairs of the Institution.

That your Committee do not see in what way the interference of the Government between Dr. Lang and the shareholders can be productive of any benefit, or lead to any satisfactory result.

That under such circumstances they are disposed to concur with the Honorable J. H. Plunkett, M.L.C., formerly Attorney General of the Colony, who, in his evidence, expresses himself thus:—

“I was always under the opinion, after the best consultation I could have, that the Government was powerless from the oversight which was committed in taking the deed, which the Trustees had no power to give until they were authorized by this Act; and although it was an extraordinary defence for any of the Trustees to set up, yet being raised before the Court, I do not think the Court could decide in any other way. Indeed I have been long of opinion that it would be more graceful in the Government to make a virtue of necessity, and give up the deed to the parties it was originally intended to benefit.”

That while it is much to be regretted that the establishment of a College has not been, as yet, secured for the benefit of those for whom such an Institution was first contemplated, your Committee find that; not only were a large number of youths educated in the College while it had an existence, but that great permanent good has also accrued to the moral character of the Colony by the introduction of the immigrants by Dr. Lang.

CHARLES COWPER,
Chairman.

TUESDAY,

TUESDAY, 6 JUNE, 1865.

MEMBERS PRESENT:—

Mr. Cowper in the Chair.

Mr. Piddington,
Mr. Sutherland,

Mr. Macpherson,
Mr. Caldwell.

Committee deliberated.

Draft Report proposed by Chairman, read as follows:—

“Your Committee having made the investigation which by the terms of their appointment devolved upon them, beg to Report.

“That in the year 1831, the sum of £3,500 was advanced from the Public Revenue of this Colony to the Reverend Dr. Lang, by order of the Right Honorable the Secretary of State, for the purpose of forwarding the establishment of a College in connection with the Presbyterian Church, in order that the youth of this Colony might have greater advantages in respect to their education than were then available to them.

“That upon this advance being made, Dr. Lang undertook to repay that sum within five years.

“That before the advance was made, an immigration scheme was, with the concurrence of Lord Glenelg, associated with the educational measure.

“That, under this branch of the arrangement, a considerable number of valuable immigrants was introduced into New South Wales. Many of these immigrants repaid the whole, or portions of their passage money, in accordance with the terms under which their passages were provided.

“That Dr. Lang did also so far carry out the original intention of founding an educational establishment, that a college was formed of which he was Principal—Professors or under masters duly appointed—and that for more than ten years the institution did essential service to the cause of education. The testimony of Sir W. Burton upon this point is conclusive:—

“To the activity and perseverance of the Rev. Dr. Lang, the senior Chaplain of the Presbyterian Church, is to be ascribed, not only the establishment of that Church in New South Wales, and afterwards, its increase in the accession of numerous clergymen of the same communion, but also the introduction into the Colony of many useful and excellent men as instructors of youth, and especially the establishment of the Australian College; which is to be regarded, as it was intended, not only as a seminary for general education, in which youth of all denominations might receive instruction, but particularly as a College for the propagation of the principles of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales and in the Pacific Ocean.

“Hitherto, the Australian College has been only an elementary and classical school,* conducted by clergymen of the Church of Scotland, Dr. Lang being the Principal; ‘It was proposed, however,’ (says its founder) ‘from the first, that it should occupy a higher or collegiate position as soon as possible, affording to colonial youth of a more advanced standing, similar educational advantages to those afforded in the mathematical, philosophical, and natural history classes of the Universities of Scotland.’ And again, after describing the educational establishment of the College, Dr. Lang proceeds:—‘An educational establishment of this extent will enable the Australian College to afford the native candidate for the ministry in New South Wales a course of preparatory education, somewhat similar to the one prescribed for candidates for the ministry in the Church of Scotland, previous to the commencement of their theological course. There is reason to believe, moreover, that there will be ample means of establishing a course of theological education before the first series of students in the institution shall have completed their preparatory curriculum.’

“The number of students in the College during the year 1838 was 116. Of this number, 32 attended these Latin classes,—the first, learning the grammar; the second, Macgowan’s ‘Latin Reading,’ Part II., and Valpy’s Delectus; the third were, at the commencement of 1839, reading Livy, and acquiring the elements of Greek. In the natural philosophy classes, lectures illustrated by experiments are delivered, and subjects prescribed on which the students write by way of exercise. Of these essays (some of which extended to 60 closely-written pages), several hundred were given in during the year, and several were read with much gratification by the writer of these observations, as shewing in many instances acuteness of observation and reflection, particularly interesting and useful as indications of the natural bent of the mind of the pupil, each being at liberty, out of a number of subjects proposed, to write upon that which he chose.

“In the mathematical class, Euclid’s Elements and Bland’s Geometrical Problems were used as text books. In the course of the year, about 46 attended the classes for natural philosophy and mathematics.

“About 70 attended the classes for history and geography. The books used were the common school Histories of Greece and Rome (with questions), and Steward’s Geography.

“Nearly the whole number of pupils attended the classes for writing and accounts. Engaged in giving these instructions, there were in the year 1838, and at the commencement of 1839, the Rev. Thomas Aitken, A.M., the Rev. David M’Kenzie, A.M., and the Rev. Robert Wylde, A.M.; gentlemen possessing every qualification to give instruction in higher branches, but whose time, from the comparatively low estimate at which the standard of a liberal education has at present been held by colonial parents, is consumed in a course of elementary instruction.

“In the Australian College there may be found about 30 or 40 students who would prosecute studies superior to those of a common education; but this number is obviously too small to provide funds, without other assistance than fees received from the pupils, for the maintenance of teachers devoting their time to the higher branches.

“Having visited the Australian College at the commencement of the years 1838 and 1839, the writer of these observations was highly impressed in favour of the course of instruction pursued at it, so far as it had proceeded: questions were proposed on all the subjects of instruction, and answered with a quickness which proved both the knowledge and care of the teachers, and the aptness of the scholars. Quickness and sprightliness were indeed the general characteristics of the latter; but some evinced also a depth of reflection evidently proceeding from solid genius.

“According to one of the fundamental articles of the institution, the business of each day is commenced and closed with prayer. The Holy Scriptures are read regularly in the English classes, and instruction in the ‘general principles and duties of the Christian religion’ is afforded every “Saturday,

* Lang’s Historical Account of New South Wales, 1837.

“ Saturday, at the close of the ordinary business of the week; but it is a part of the same article, that no attempt be made, either directly or indirectly, to proselytize to the tenets of any particular denomination of Christians; and that those pupils or students whose parents or guardians may object to their receiving religious instruction at all, be allowed at such stated times to withdraw.”
 (“The State of Religion and Education in New South Wales: By William Westbrooke Burton, Esq., one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of that Colony, pp. 139—142.”)

“ That subsequently, owing to causes which are differently put by the various witnesses, as may be seen in the Evidence appended to this Report, the institution languished, and eventually collapsed.

“ That the buildings which were erected as the College Buildings, have consequently long since ceased to be occupied for the purposes for which they were originally erected. One has been occupied as the residence of Dr. Lang: the remainder appear to have been leased by that gentleman, and the rentals collected and retained by him. It also appears that Dr. Lang had to borrow considerable sums of money to meet the cost for their erection; the interest for which loans have, it would seem, been paid by him.

“ That the title or titles of the allotments upon which the buildings are erected are involved in great confusion; as indeed are all the accounts and records connected with the affairs of the Institution.

“ That your Committee do not see in what way the interference of the Government between Dr. Lang and the shareholders can be productive of any benefit, or lead to any satisfactory result.

“ That under such circumstances they are disposed to concur with the Honorable J. H. Plunkett, M.L.C., formerly Attorney General of the Colony, who, in his evidence, expresses himself thus:—

“ I was always under the opinion, after the best consultation I could have, that the Government was powerless from the oversight which was committed in taking the deed, which the Trustees had no power to give until they were authorized by this Act; and although it was an extraordinary defence for any of the Trustees to set up, yet being raised before the Court, I do not think the Court could decide in any other way. Indeed I have been long of opinion that it would be more graceful in the Government to make a virtue of necessity, and give up the deed to the parties it was originally intended to benefit.”

“ That while it is much to be regretted that the establishment of a College has not been, as yet, secured for the benefit of those for whom such an Institution was first contemplated, your Committee find that, not only were a large number of youths educated in the College while it had an existence, but that great permanent good has also accrued to the moral character of the Colony by the introduction of the immigrants by Dr. Lang.”

Committee deliberated.

Draft Report proposed by Mr. Piddington, read as follows:—

“ Your Committee, after an examination of Dr. Lang and other witnesses, have ascertained, that the Government hold a mortgage on the Scots Church allotment, Church Hill, executed by the Trustees of the Scots Church, on the 18th of February, 1833, to secure the repayment of the sum of £3,500, advanced towards erecting certain buildings intended for an Australian College, to be built upon the Scots Church allotment, and to be repaid within five years from the date thereof.

“ It also appears to be established by the evidence before this Committee of Messrs. Thos. Barker, Alex. Berry, and George Bowman, surviving members of the Council of the Australian College; that certain shareholders paid up the sum of £2,215 towards the building of the proposed College, and that the above named shareholders paid up shares to the amount of £550, and are not willing to sacrifice their interests in favour exclusively of Dr. Lang.

“ Your Committee are of opinion, that in order to deal equitably with the interests of all parties, that an account of all receipts and disbursements in reference to the Australian College buildings ought to be made up, and verified by a duly qualified accountant.

“ Your Committee are not now prepared to recommend that the Mortgage held by the Government on the Scots Church allotment and buildings, ought to be cancelled.”

Motion made (Mr. Piddington) and Question,—That the Draft Report as proposed by him, be adopted in substitution of that proposed by the Chairman,—put.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

MORTGAGE ON THE PROPERTY OF THE SCOTS CHURCH, SYDNEY.

(CLAIMS OF DR. LANG.)

THURSDAY, 1 OCTOBER, 1863.

Present:—

|----------------|--|-----------------|
| Mr. COWPER,    |  | Mr. FAUCETT,    |
| Mr. DALGLEISH, |  | Mr. MACPHERSON, |
|                |  | Mr. STEWART.    |

THE HON. CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

John Williams, Esq., Crown Solicitor, called in and examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You produce the mortgage deed securing to the Government the repayment of certain moneys advanced to the Trustees of the Scots Church? I do. (Deed produced.) It is a mortgage by the Trustees of the Scots Church to William Macpherson, Collector of Internal Revenue, dated 18th February, 1833. J. Williams,
Esq.
1 Oct., 1863.
2. What is the amount secured by that mortgage? The amounts said to be secured by this deed are the several sums of £520, £1,500, and £1,500, and "any further sum or sums not exceeding £500, which shall be advanced to the said Trustees or their successors in office."
3. Who signed the deed? John Dunmore Lang, John Piper, and David Ramsay. I also produce the grant to the Trustees of the Scots Church, of date 10th November, 1826. (Grant produced.)
4. By Mr. Faucett: Does the mortgage appear to be in regular form? I have not perused it lately. I may state that last session I gave evidence on this subject before another Committee. I had then gone through the whole case; but on this occasion, having only been summoned to produce these documents, I have not refreshed my memory.

WILLIAM RICHMAN PIDDINGTON, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

John Williams, Esq., Crown Solicitor, called in and further examined:—

5. By the Chairman: Have you in your possession the mortgage deed from the Trustees of the Scots Church to the Collector of Internal Revenue? I have. J. Williams,
Esq.
6. Will you hand in that deed? (Deed handed in. Vide Appendix.) 7. 8 Oct., 1863.

- J. Williams, Esq.
8 Oct., 1863.
7. Have you the deed of grant from the Government to the Trustees of the Scots Church allotment? Yes. (Handed in. Vide Appendix.)
  8. Have you any other documents connected with the mortgage deed in your possession? Mr. Faucett requested me, at the last meeting, to obtain copies of the bill filed by the Attorney General and William Macpherson against Dr. Lang and others —
  9. By Mr. Macpherson: That was in 1841? In 1844 apparently; it came on in 1844; it may have been filed in 1841.
  10. By the Chairman: Will you hand that in? I was going to say the bill is set out in the brief which I now produce. (Brief handed in. Vide Appendix.)
  11. Have you any other documents connected with the case prosecuted by the Government, or connected with the mortgage? I also have the minutes of the decree made by the Primary Judge in Equity, on 18th February, 1845, in the same suit.
  12. Will you have the goodness to hand that in also? (Handed in. Vide Appendix.) I will also hand in the bill filed in the suit of the Elders of the Scots Church against the Attorney General. (Vide Appendix.)
  13. Have you the decree of the Judge on that bill? Yes. (Vide Appendix.)
  14. Have you any other documents connected with the mortgage or with the suits in connection with the mortgage? I have in the office a number of papers, being the formal proceedings in the suit; but they are of no use.
  15. Could you furnish the Committee with the letter of Mr. Attorney General Kinchela, dated 13 December, 1831, addressed to the Colonial Secretary? That should be in the Colonial Secretary's Office.
  16. It is not in the Office of the Attorney General? It is not.
  17. Might not the mortgage deed you have handed in now, form the basis of an action in equity, in order to compel the parties to that deed to give a valid mortgage—to give a legal mortgage? Either that or the agreement under which it was given might.
  18. You are not aware whether the Crown Law Officers have taken the course of instituting a suit in equity, in order to compel the parties to this mortgage to give a legal security to the Government? I have no doubt they have not done so, from the inquiries I have made.
  19. You are of opinion that if such a course is considered desirable, it is open to the Government to take it? It was so advised, both by Attorney General Plunkett and the then Solicitor General Manning, with some modifications as to the property to be affected.
  20. By Mr. Macpherson: And also by Mr. Broadhurst? Mr. Broadhurst's opinion went to shew that the proper mode of proceeding was by an action at law.
  21. Did not Crown Solicitor Billyard advise a course similar to that you allude to? He reported upon the case, embodying in his report the opinion of the Solicitor General.
  22. By the Chairman: Have you that report? It is amongst the papers in the Colonial Secretary's Office. Mr. Billyard, in his report, merely notices the opinion of Mr. Broadhurst and of the then Attorney and Solicitor General. I have myself made some inquiry into the present condition of the matter, and I made a report in November last, to the Colonial Secretary, as to how it stands, which report will also be with the papers in the Colonial Secretary's Office.
  23. A report on this subject? Yes, as to the present condition of the mortgaged property. There have been various dealings with it by Dr. Lang, since the date of Mr. Billyard's report.

William Elyard, Esq., Principal Under Secretary, called in and examined:—

- W. Elyard, Esq.
8 Oct., 1863.
24. By the Chairman: Can you furnish the Committee with copies of certain documents that were formerly furnished to a Committee of the old Legislative Council, but which it is deemed desirable to have also supplied to this Committee; for instance, a letter from Colonial Secretary Macleay to Dr. Lang, dated 23th January, 1826; another letter from Colonial Secretary Macleay to Dr. Lang, dated 26th April, 1826; a memorandum of Lord Goderich, dated Downing-street, 13th January, 1831; a letter from Lord Howick to Dr. Lang, dated Downing-street, 28th March, 1831; a letter from Dr. Lang to the Acting Governor, dated Sydney, 28th October, 1831; a letter from Dr. Lang to the Colonial Secretary, 22nd November, 1831; a letter from Attorney General Kinchela to the Colonial Secretary, 13th December, 1831; letter from Deputy Surveyor General Perry to the Colonial Secretary, 19th January, 1832; letter from Attorney General Kinchela to the Colonial Secretary, 21st February, 1832; letter from Dr. Lang to the Governor, 29th February, 1832; letter from Dr. Lang to Governor Bourke, 9th August, 1832; letter from Auditor General Lithgow to the Colonial Secretary, 14th January, 1833; letter from Architect Ambrose Hallen to Colonial Secretary, 17th January, 1833; letter from Lord Glenelg to Sir Richard Bourke, 9th February, 1837; letter from Dr. Lang to Sir George Grey, M.P., dated Edinburgh, 10th January, 1837; letter of 30th January, 1837, from Sir George Grey to Dr. Lang; letter from Dr. Lang to the Governor, dated Sydney, 24th April, 1841.—Have you any of these letters in your possession, or do you think you can furnish the Committee with copies? I can give copies of anything upon record in the Colonial Secretary's Office; but, of course, without comparing the dates and referring to the whole of the papers, I cannot state at once whether the whole of the papers you have mentioned are accessible.
  25. There are one or two letters of Dr. Lang's, addressed to the Governor for the time being: do you think you could procure copies of those letters from any other office, supposing they are not in the Colonial Secretary's Office? I think it probable, if they are official letters, they are on record in the Colonial Secretary's Office, otherwise I doubt being able to obtain them.

26. Are you aware whether the Crown Solicitor reported, in November last, what was done with the property connected with this inquiry, since the date of Mr. Billyard's report? Yes, there was a letter addressed by the Crown Solicitor to the Colonial Secretary, in which he forwarded a statement, shewing what he conceived to be the position of the case, with reference to the claim of the Government upon the Trustees of the Scots Church for the payment of £3,500.
27. Will you have the goodness to furnish the Committee with a copy of that statement? I will. (Dated 15 Novr., 1862.) (Vide Appendix.)
28. Have you any other documents connected with the subject before the Committee? There has been some more correspondence with Dr. Lang.
29. Of recent date? Since the inquiry on the subject of the exchange of land for the Scots Church. It is with reference to this sum of £3,500. There is a letter from Dr. Lang, dated 18th October, 1862, in which he enclosed a copy of a document included with the papers accompanying the Report of the Committee on the Exchange of Land—a statement made by himself. In consequence of this letter a reference was made to the Crown Solicitor, and the report, already referred to, of the 15th of November, 1862, was received from him in reply. Dr. Lang also made a further application in February, 1863, which was replied to on the 10th June, 1863, stating that it was not in the power of the Government to comply with the request preferred by him, unless Parliament should vote the amount for which the security was given.
30. Will you have the goodness to hand in copies of those letters? Yes. (Vide Appendix.) Some of the papers you have mentioned, I think, are already with the records of the first Legislative Councils, having been produced to a Committee on the Loans to the Australian College in 1841. A copy of the despatch from Lord Glenelg of the 9th of February, 1837, has been made from the original despatch. (Vide Appendix.) A copy of the memorandum, dated Downing-street, in January, 1831, which was enclosed in a despatch from the Secretary of State, and of which a copy was produced to the Committee on the Exchange of Land, Scots Church, Legalizing Bill, is also now furnished. (Vide Appendix.)

CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

The Rev. John Dunmore Lang, D.D., M.L.A., examined:—

31. By the Chairman: The Committee have been appointed to inquire into and report upon the circumstances connected with a mortgage upon the property of the Scots Church, Sydney, in favour of the Collector of Internal Revenue, and also to consider whether any equitable claims exist for cancelling the said mortgage;—perhaps it would be more convenient for you, in the first instance, to make your own statement of any matters you wish to bring under the consideration of the Committee? I was induced, in consideration of the state of education in the Colony at the time, to proceed to England, in the year 1830, to endeavour to obtain ways and means for the establishment of an institution for the education of youth in this city. Shortly after my arrival in England, I was led, on the recommendation of the late Joseph Hume, M.P., to whom I had been introduced, to make an application on the subject to Lord Goderich, then Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies; and the result of that application was a communication from Lord Goderich to myself, to the following effect:—"Lord Howick presents his compliments to Dr. Lang, and encloses, for his information, a memorandum of the terms on which the Secretary of State consents to afford assistance from the Colonial Treasury, towards carrying into effect the plan proposed in Dr. Lang's letter of the 28th ultimo, for establishing an academical institution at Sydney, New South Wales.—Downing-street, 13 January, 1831."

"MEMORANDUM.

"Lord Goderich consents to the advance from the Colonial Treasury, in aid of the projected academical institution in Sydney, of a sum not exceeding £3,500, in different payments, in the course of the eighteen months next after Dr. Lang's landing in New South Wales, on condition that, previous to each advance, the Governor shall be satisfied that an equal sum has been actually expended from the private contributions of the promoters of the undertaking.

"It is to be understood that, for the sum of £7,000 thus provided, namely, one half by subscription and the other by the Government, all the buildings necessary for the opening of the institution on a reduced scale are to be completed, care being taken that they are so arranged that it may be possible either to increase the establishment to the extent originally proposed, or to confine it to what shall have been done in the first instance.

"The proposed buildings to be erected on the ground belonging to the Scotch Church, and security to be given on them for the repayment, in five years, of the money advanced from the Colonial Treasury; the five years to be calculated on each instalment, from the date of its being advanced to the trustees."

8 Jan., 1864.

At the period of my visit to England, where I arrived in December, 1830, there was much distress among the industrious, and more especially the agricultural, classes in the Mother Country, rick-burning and machine-breaking being alarmingly prevalent in some of the English Counties; and the Wakefield system of colonization having just been put forth under favourable auspices, the attention of the Government and the public was strongly directed to theories and means of emigration. Being personally known to certain public men of the day as a colonist recently returned from New South Wales, my opinion was asked on the subject by several of these gentlemen. In particular, I had a long communication addressed to me by the Right Honourable Robert Wilmot Horton, Under Secretary of State for the Colonies, under Earl Bathurst, pointing out his ideas in regard to the proper means of effecting an extensive emigration to the Colonies generally, and in particular to the Australian Colonies, and asking my opinion on the subject. And as I knew that, in addition to the general desirableness of having an extensive emigration of reputable persons directed to this Country, there was a great want of mechanical labour—knowing, as I did, that the introduction of a number of superior mechanics from the Mother Country would be a public benefit of unspeakable value to New South Wales, and believing that, at the then usual rates of labour and living in the Colony, such persons would soon be able to repay the cost of their passage out, by weekly instalments from the wages of their labour, I made a further proposal to Lord Goderich, to the effect that, if His Lordship would authorize the payment of £1,500 of the sum which he had directed to be advanced for the establishment of an academical institution in Sydney on my arrival in New South Wales, for the payment of their passage out by a vessel to be hired for the purpose, I would carry out a large body of Scotch mechanics for the erection of the requisite buildings. This proposal was cordially acceded to by His Lordship, in a letter of which the following is a copy:—

“Downing-street, 28 March, 1831.

“Sir,

“I am directed by Viscount Goderich to acquaint you, that he consents to the proposition contained in your letter of the 15th instant, and has accordingly instructed the Governor of New South Wales as follows, viz:—

“To pay to you the sum of £1,500 on your arrival in the Colony with the number of emigrants whom you undertake to land there. This sum to be considered a part of the £3,500 which Lord Goderich agreed to advance from the Colonial Treasury for the purpose of establishing a College, as stated in the memorandum which accompanied my note to you of the 13th of January last; and it being further understood that no additional advance will be made, until the Colonial Government shall be satisfied that at least £1,500 shall have been actually expended on the proposed building.

“When this shall have been made to appear, the remaining £2,000 to be advanced at intervals, as originally agreed upon, you being held personally responsible for the due execution of this arrangement.

“I am, &c.,

“HOWICK.

“The Rev. Dr. Lang,

“&c., &c.”

I accordingly engaged a party of superior Scotch mechanics, chiefly married persons, and bringing out with them their wives and children, to the number of 140 persons in all, consisting of stonemasons, carpenters, plasterers, blacksmiths, &c., with whom I embarked for the Colony, in the ship “Stirling Castle,” from the port of Greenock, in Scotland, on the 1st June, 1831, arriving in Sydney on the 13th October following. My engagement with these mechanics was to afford them employment in the erection of the proposed buildings, at the current wages of the Colony, for twelve months from the period of their arrival, on condition of their repaying the cost of their passage out, by weekly instalments from the wages of their labour. In pursuance of the arrangement I had thus made in England with Lord Goderich, the following entry is to be found in the Votes and Proceedings of the Legislative Council of the period, on the 8th November, 1831:—

“Council Chamber,

“8th November, 1831.

“His Excellency the Acting Governor then laid before the Council the following Minute, viz:—

“His Excellency the Acting Governor, in pursuance of instructions from the Right Honourable the Secretary of State, has the honor to inform the Council, that His Lordship has been pleased to consent to an advance from the Colonial Treasury of a sum not exceeding three thousand five hundred pounds, to the Reverend Dr. Lang, in aid of an academical institution, to be formed in Sydney, on the principles of the schools and colleges of Scotland.

“It is intended that this advance should be made in different payments, in the course of eighteen months next after Dr. Lang’s landing in New South Wales, on condition that, previous to each advance, an equal sum shall have been actually expended from the private contributions of the promoters of the undertaking, and that security be given on the proposed buildings which are to be erected on the Scotch Church Estate, for the repayment in five years of the money advanced from the Colonial Treasury; the five years to be calculated on each instalment from the date of its being advanced to the Trustees who may be appointed.

“The Secretary of State has also subsequently consented to an advance of one thousand five hundred pounds, being part of the three thousand five hundred pounds above alluded to, being made to Dr. Lang immediately on his arrival in the Colony with a certain number of immigrants; and as Dr. Lang has now arrived and fulfilled the condition “ condition upon which this advance was to be made to him, His Excellency recommends

 “ to the Council that the sum of one thousand five hundred pounds should accordingly be “ paid to Dr. Lang from the Colonial Treasury; it being understood that no further advance “ will be made to him on this account, until a sum equal to that amount shall be actually “ expended on the proposed buildings.

“ Government House,
 “ 8th November, 1831.

“ The question was then put that the sum of fifteen hundred pounds, should be “ appropriated in the manner recommended in the foregoing Minute, and carried unanimously “ in the affirmative; security to be taken on the proposed buildings for its repayment, in “ such manner as may be judged expedient by the Attorney General.

“ The Council then adjourned sine die.

“ E. DEAS THOMSON,
 “ Clerk of the Council.”

This advance was made by the local Government, for the payment of the charter of the ship “ Stirling Castle” exclusively; the amount stated being merely the sum agreed on for the hull of the vessel; the cost of fitting her up, and the stores and other requisites, being all additional. The whole cost of the immigration of these mechanics was as nearly as possible £3,000; for although the whole cost of the expedition, as set forth at the time, amounted, on the vessel's arrival in Port Jackson, to £3,433 7s. 8½d., there fell to be deducted from that amount, for surplus stores sold, and cabin passage money received, about £480; and no part of this advance of £1,500 was ever applicable, under the circumstances, to the erection of the buildings as originally contemplated. The proposal, on our arrival, was, as stated in the following paragraph copied from a narrative of the undertaking, published in Sydney, in November, 1831:—

“ The buildings of the proposed College will be erected on the ground adjoining the “ Scots Church—a situation which is perhaps the most eligible for such a purpose of any in “ the Colony—its elevation ensuring its salubrity, on the one hand, and its central position “ rendering it of easy access from all parts of the town on the other. The importance of “ such a situation, both for day pupils, and for the delivery of courses of popular lectures to “ the more advanced youth of the town, in the evening, is too obvious to be overlooked.
 “ It is proposed, moreover, to erect, in the first instance, four houses for the accommodation “ of the masters; the said houses to front the new street, running from the tower of the “ Scots Church to George-street, and to afford temporary accommodation for the different “ classes, till the main building, which will occupy the space intervening between the said
 “ street and Church Hill, is erected.”

The instructions given to Mr. Ferguson, a practical builder and architect, who came out in charge of the immigrants, (and who had a plan and description of the ground, and could make his drawings accordingly, on board ship, so as to commence operations immediately on arrival), were to erect four plain substantial houses of cut stone, on the south side of Jamison-street, to cost £700 each, or at all events not to exceed £3,000 altogether. And simultaneously with the erection of these houses, which were commenced on the 21st October, 1831, eight days after our arrival, an excavation was made for the immediate erection of a portion of the main building, for class-rooms, in the line of Church Hill, at a cost of £115.
 In the mean time the colonial public were earnestly invited to co-operate in the establishment of the proposed institution, and a public meeting was accordingly held, with this view, on the 23rd December, 1831, that is, upwards of two months after the buildings in Jamison-street were commenced. The following is an extract of the account of that meeting in the Sydney Herald of the period:—

AUSTRALIAN COLLEGE.
 (Sydney, 23rd December, 1831.)

“ A MEETING of the shareholders of this institution, and of other friends of education in “ Sydney and its vicinity, having been held this day in Mr. Underwood's Buildings, Church “ Hill, pursuant to advertisement, Campbell Drummond Riddell, Esq., Colonial Treasurer, “ in the Chair, the following Resolutions were unanimously adopted as the basis of the “ future constitution:—

“ That an academical institution be formed in Sydney, for the education of youth in “ the higher, as well as the elementary branches of useful knowledge.

“ That the said institution be designated ‘The Australian College,’ and be available “ for pupils or students of all religious denominations, on the most moderate “ terms.

“ That a capital of at least £3,500 be raised, in shares of £25 each, payable by “ instalments, for the establishment of the said College, and that as the Right “ Honorable Lord Viscount Goderich, His Majesty's Secretary of State for the “ Colonies, has been graciously pleased to grant a loan of £3,500 from the “ Colonial Treasury, to assist in accomplishing so desirable an object, on condi“ tion that a similar amount shall previously be expended on the part of the “ public, the sum of £3,500 shall accordingly be raised, and applied in erecting
 “ the requisite buildings, and in meeting the other expenditure already incurred, “ provided such expenditure shall be found conducive to the general object of “ the institution.

“ That the government of the College shall be vested in a Council of thirteen, twelve “ of whom to be annually chosen by the whole body of proprietors, and the “ thirteenth to be a member of such Council, in right of office, as hereinafter to

- “ be stated : any proprietor to be eligible as a member of Council, and four “ members to constitute a quorum.
“ That the said Council shall have the exclusive management and disposal of the “ funds of the College, and the entire control of all matters relative to the “ erection of buildings, the appointment of masters, the amount of salaries, the “ regulation of fees, and the purchase of property, books, or apparatus for the “ College; and that the said College Council shall submit a statement of their “ accounts, and a report of their proceedings, previous to their laying down “ their office, at the annual meeting of the proprietors.
“ That the Rev. John Dunmore Lang, D.D., be the Principal of the said College, but “ without emolument, and without any active share in the business of education, “ until the completion of the arrangements into which he has entered with His “ Majesty's Government, for the establishment of the said College; as also with “ certain Scotch mechanics, for the erection of the requisite buildings, and with “ certain parties in England, for the payment of books, apparatus, &c.; on “ the completion of which arrangements he shall surrender the said office into
“ the hands of the Council.”

By this last resolution I was constituted the Principal of the College, “ until the completion of the arrangements into which I had entered with His Majesty's Government, for the establishment of the said College; as also with certain Scotch mechanics for the erection of the requisite buildings, and with certain parties in England for the payment of books, apparatus, &c.” It was therefore with a full understanding of these arrangements that the gentlemen associated for the establishment of the institution met together and agreed to co-operate. Unexpected difficulties, however, very soon arose, from various circumstances and from various quarters; but the great difficulty was the gross blunder of the architect, able and competent as he was in his profession generally, in leading those concerned into an enormously greater expenditure, in the erection of the buildings then in progress, than had been contemplated in the outset, or than he was authorized to incur. As I have already stated, the directions to the architect were to erect four buildings of cut stone—four plain substantial buildings—on the south side of Jamison-street, as residences for the masters of the institution; the whole cost of such buildings not to exceed £3,000. And to shew that we were in earnest in carrying out these arrangements, at the same time that these buildings were commenced an excavation was made in the line of Church Hill, at a cost of £115, for the erection of a series of class-rooms. But within a few months after the commencement of the buildings, it was unexpectedly discovered that it would cost greatly more than was contemplated to carry out the plan of the architect. That plan had been submitted to the gentlemen associated under the resolutions I have read, in December, 1831, and was approved by them; for the architect assured us that he could carry out the object within the amount specified, namely, £3,000. That was to be the whole cost of the buildings then erecting in Jamison-street; and, as I have stated, the main building on Church Hill was to go on at the same time—the sum of £115 having been expended in excavating a foundation for it. It appeared, however, within about four or five months from the commencement of the buildings, that the cost would be much greater than was at first stipulated; and the gentlemen associated for the purpose of establishing the institution finding that, in consequence of antagonistic efforts and movements of various kinds—to which I need not allude more particularly—there was but a comparatively small amount of the sum expected forthcoming, insisted upon the buildings being discontinued, and the mechanics then employed on the erection of all the four, dismissed. To this, however, I could not consent, as I was bound on the one hand towards the Government of the day, and on the other to the Scotch mechanics whom I had brought out on the understanding and condition that they were to be supplied with twelve months' work, at the regular wages of the Colony, in erecting the requisite buildings for the proposed institution; and as I was also under obligations in England for payment of books, apparatus, &c. Besides, as the issue of the remaining portion of the Government advance of £3,500 was dependent on an equal amount being previously expended by the promoters of the undertaking, the discontinuance of the buildings would have rendered the whole scheme an entire failure—a result which was very much in accordance with the wishes of not a few influential people in the Colony at the time. Under these circumstances I could not consent to the dismissal of the mechanics, after they had gone on a considerable way, during the period of four or five months, in the erection of the whole four buildings then in progress, especially as the whole amount contributed by the public at that particular period, and indeed for several years after, did not exceed £1,300 altogether. That was a very small and indeed paltry amount towards effecting the object originally contemplated. I felt myself obliged, therefore, in order to raise the requisite funds for the fulfilment of my engagement with the Scotch mechanics, and for the carrying out of the undertaking generally, to sacrifice a very large amount of valuable property of my own, both what had fallen to me from the then recent death of my father, and what I had acquired myself during my previous seven or eight years' residence in the Colony. I had to sell house after house and allotment after allotment in Sydney, and eventually a large extent of land in the interior, to supply the requisite funds for the mechanics to go on with the undertaking in which they had been engaged, and to carry out my obligations both with them and with the Government. The sacrifice of property that I was in this way virtually constrained to make was very great indeed. At the very lowest estimate, that property which I deemed myself called upon at the time to sacrifice, as I conceived, for the public good, would now be worth £50,000. It was of great consequence at the time to carry out the arrangement I had made with the mechanics I had brought out; for if there had been a failure on my part—if they had been dismissed at the time in question, and the original original arrangement had not been carried out with them—great damage would have been done to the character of the Colony, in the estimation of the industrious classes at Home. I regarded it as a very important consideration, in connection with the undertaking generally, that there should be no failure on my part, and that the mechanics should be encouraged to write home to their friends in the Mother Country, in such terms as to induce an extensive and continuous immigration of reputable persons like themselves. The arrangement I had made with the mechanics was that they should repay, by weekly instalments from their wages, the cost of their passage money, which was rated at £25 for each statute adult. Although that was doubtless a higher rate than what has obtained subsequently—when immigration was conducted on a large scale, it was a very moderate rate compared with the cost of passage in times preceding the year 1831; for the passage of a servant of my own family, in the steerage of an immigrant ship, at an earlier period, cost £40. The reduction from that rate—which was the one charged by the Leith Company in previous years—to £25, was a very great reduction in those times. As I have already stated, the mechanics were to make repayments respectively from their wages by weekly instalments, towards the payment of this amount; but in the case of those of them who had families, it was necessarily some time before they could make repayments to any considerable extent, as they had to provide themselves with furniture for their humble dwellings, and other requisites for their families; and this absorbed for a time the greater part of their weekly wages. However, they did commence repayment to an extent which I shall be able to lay before the Committee, in a document in the handwriting of Mr. Ferguson. Up, however, to a comparatively late period of their engagement, the amount repaid had not exceeded £500—rather under that amount; and by this time, in consequence of the failure of funds from the public sources to which we looked for them in the first instance on the establishment of the institution, a considerable number of the mechanics previously employed on the buildings were allowed to leave. In the course of the following year, from the death of one of the masters, and the departure to Van Diemen's Land of a second, I was induced to make another voyage to England, to put the institution, which was then in a very efficient and promising state as an educational establishment, on the footing on which it was originally contemplated to place it. In the mean time the Government had commenced a system of free immigration—embracing from the first the very class of persons whom I had brought out, under the conditions I have stated, in 1831—for whose benefit, in consideration of the advantage the Colony was likely to derive from their importation, the whole cost of their passage was defrayed from the public funds then arising from the sale of the Waste Lands. This new system—which was unknown in the Colony at the time I made the arrangement with the Scotch mechanics in 1831—commenced on the 1st of January, 1832, within three months after their arrival in the Colony; and at the close of ten years from that period, not fewer than 47,804 statute adult immigrants had been brought out to this Colony at the public expense, the funds arising from the sale of the public lands being devoted to that purpose; and in the course of these ten years, a sum amounting to £864,915 0s. 7½d. was paid from the Colonial Treasury for the importation of that large number of immigrants. Now, this system commenced, as I have stated, within three months after the arrival of the Scotch mechanics; and without wishing to compromise their character for honesty and integrity—I acquit them of everything discreditable of that kind—they could not help regarding with peculiar feelings this movement on the part of the Government, and they could not help concluding that it was very unjust towards them to subject them to the cost of paying their own passage money, when so many thousands of others—not more eligible than themselves for the wants of the Colony—were imported passage free. From all these circumstances, and from my being obliged to leave the Colony shortly after the engagement with the mechanics ceased, the amount repaid for their passage money did not exceed about £500. Now, although the first arrangement with Lord Goderich for the grant or loan of £3,500 for the establishment of an academical institution was a positive engagement, yet the subsequent arrangement, in virtue of which £1,500 of that amount was paid to me on my arrival in the Colony with the Scotch mechanics, was virtually an abandonment of that engagement altogether; at least it led to consequences that rendered the fulfilment of the original arrangement impracticable. I have already stated that no part of the original £1,500 paid to me on my arrival in November, 1831, was ever made available for the purposes of education; it was paid for the charter of the mere hull of the vessel that brought the mechanics out to the Colony. And in regard to the allegation that the buildings in Jamison-street were erected from funds contributed by the public in the capacity of shareholders, I am prepared to shew the Committee that the whole of the sums contributed by the public, during the four years that elapsed from the commencement of the institution till 1836—£1,300 in all—were expended in promoting the general objects of the institution as an educational establishment—in payment of the passage out of masters and their families—of salaries, house rent, apparatus, and other requisites for the establishment of an undertaking that promised at the time to prove, and that actually did prove for a series of years, very advantageous to the public. In confirmation of this statement, I have a letter—I found it only recently—from the late Colonial Treasurer, Mr. C. D. Riddell, to Mr. Carmichael, the first of the teachers that were brought out by me, in which that gentleman acknowledges that the shareholders were not the proprietors of the buildings in Jamison-street. It is a letter addressed to Mr. Carmichael, and docketed in his handwriting on the back—"Australian College. From Mr. Riddell, relating to change of management. May 21, 1834." (I was in England at that time.) "Sir,—I have just received and forwarded your note to Mr. Barker; and if he is of the same opinion with Mr. Wallace and myself, we shall endeavour to find funds to repair your house, although, as you are aware, the houses do not belong to the subscribers."

32. By Mr. Piddington: Does he say they belong to you? He does not say so.
33. Or that they do not belong to the Government? He does not say anything either about the Government or the proprietorship. The rest of the letter relates to matters of internal arrangement; but that is the important statement, in the handwriting of Mr. Riddell, that in his estimation, the buildings at that time, in May, 1834, did not belong to the subscribers.
34. Do you put in that letter as a whole, or are you merely making a quotation to serve your own case? I will read the rest of it, if you wish. It is as follows:—"With regard to your former letter of the 8th ultimo, I have not yet been able to get so many of the Council to convene as to make a regular meeting. Mr. Wallace and myself, however, drew up a resolution, and, so soon as we can get it signed by a sufficient number, I shall transmit it to you. The resolution is to the following effect:—That the Council cannot guarantee the gallery of the Scots Church,* but they are willing to co-operate with Mr. Carmichael in using any means which he may think likely to be successful in obtaining it. They approve, however, of the other stipulations of Mr. Carmichael, as to the choice of his assistants, their respective salaries, and of the addition to his own salary. It is not in the contemplation of the Council that any change of the plan proposed by Mr. Carmichael for carrying on the education of the pupils shall take place before the end of the year, nor in any way to alter the original compact with Mr. Carmichael. Mr. Carmichael's letter of December last was received by the Chairman of the Council, and by him handed to the other members of the Council, who expressed their regret at Mr. Carmichael's resolution to return to Europe.
"Sydney, 11th April, 1834.
"I hope this will prove satisfactory.

"I have the honor to remain,

"Sir,

"Your most obedient humble servant,

"C. D. RIDDELL,

"Chn. of the Cl."

35. That letter, I presume, was written by the late Mr. Riddell in his character as one of the Council of the Australian College? It was.

36. By the Chairman: What do you think he meant by saying that the property did not belong to the subscribers? He knew that the whole of the money advanced by the subscribers up to that period had been expended in the payment of salaries, passage money, house rent, apparatus, and in carrying on the institution.

37. Do you wish the Committee to understand that he meant that the property was yours? He certainly made no allegation to that effect, either directly or indirectly; he merely asserted that the buildings had not been erected with the money of the shareholders.

38. By Mr. Piddington: There is nothing in Mr. Riddell's letter to justify you in supposing that he believed the property was yours? I do not say so. He makes no allusion to the question of property, beyond stating that it did not rest in the shareholders as such.

39. By Mr. Stewart: His expression bears only upon the position of the shareholders—it has no reference at all to the Government loan? No, entirely to the shareholders.

40. By Mr. Allen: Whoever had a claim on the property, it is clear Mr. Riddell considered the shareholders had nothing to do with it? Yes; or, in other words, that the buildings had not been erected with their money. The question now is whether the original agreement, sanctioned by Lord Goderich, should be insisted upon under the circumstances I have mentioned. I hold that that agreement was virtually fallen from by the subsequent arrangement in reference to the Scotch mechanics; and although both Lord Goderich and myself were under the impression at the time that the arrangement made with them would be carried out successfully, and the money repaid from the proceeds of their labour, the circumstances I have mentioned rendered that consummation impracticable. It was my great misfortune that it was so; it involved me in the sacrifice of my property to the amount I have stated; but I found myself obliged at the time to go on at all hazards, in order to complete, on honorable terms, the arrangements I had made with the many families and individuals I had brought out from Home. And taking into consideration the fact that within three months—about ten weeks—after the ship-load of immigrants I had brought out arrived in the Colony, the Government of its own accord established a system of free passages for mechanics and various other descriptions of persons, both male and female, required for the Colony—the circumstance of the Government having established such a system so soon, indeed immediately, after the arrival of the Scotch mechanics, virtually gave them a claim to share in this bounty retrospectively; although they had no right under the law to do so, in equity I conceive they had.

41. By the Chairman: And because they failed to pay you, you consider that the Government ought not to enforce its claim under the mortgage? I think so. The first £1,500 of the whole amount was paid entirely for the use of the mere hull of the vessel, on her arrival in Sydney, and the other £2,000 at intervals during the next eighteen months. The buildings were left in statu quo at the end of the period of the engagement with the mechanics, about the middle of October, 1832; and up to the time when a meeting of the shareholders was held, in June, 1836, no further addition had been made to the buildings, and the whole of the £1,300 subscribed and paid by the shareholders up till then had been expended in carrying on the educational objects of the institution. I can state in an appendix to my evidence the different sums that were thus expended, on the authority of Mr. Wallace and the Committee that inquired into the subject in 1836; consisting, as it did,

* NOTE (on revision):—It was required at the time for an additional class-room and lecture-room, and was afterwards obtained for the purpose.

of Mr. Wallace, Mr. Thomas Barker, and Mr. Thomas Walker. In 1841, on my return from a subsequent voyage to England, it had become absolutely necessary to make a great change in the affairs of the institution that had obtained till then. In the year 1830, before I went to England, an arrangement had been made with Sir John Jamison, on the part of the Trustees of the Scots Church, to run a street through our respective allotments, for the improvement of both; and as the street crossed the two allotments obliquely, and left portions of each overlapping the other, the only arrangement we could make to adjust the property was to draw a black line across both allotments, and to agree, as we did, that all above that line should belong to the Scots Church, and all below it to Sir John Jamison. But as the Scots Church property was under trusteeship, and as we had no desire nor any power to alienate any portion of it, a further arrangement was made, that when Sir John Jamison's allotments in the new street came to be sold, I should have liberty to purchase, at the rate of the next adjoining allotment, two allotments from Sir John's estate, including the portion of the Scots Church allotment that had been nominally cut off by the black line. All this, as I have stated, was agreed to before I left the Colony in 1830; and when I returned with the mechanics, we proceeded immediately to the erection of the four buildings for the masters on the south side of the street, excavating also the foundation for the class-rooms on the line of Church Hill. Now, to shew that I had no sinister object in the matter, the arrangement with Sir John Jamison was allowed to remain in statu quo from the period of his sale, which took place in September, 1831, only a few weeks before I returned to the Colony with the mechanics. We expected at the time that the institution proposed to be established would require an Act of Council, separating it altogether from the Scots Church, and giving it a legal position in the Colony; and, in order to allow this to be done, Sir John Jamison was not paid for the allotments purchased from him by an agent I had appointed for the purpose, for ten years from the time of the sale. The matter was left open all that time; and as I had in the mean time expended from the funds arising from the sale of my own property much the greater part of the amount expended in the erection of the buildings, and had neither received principal nor interest for my advances for ten years, the gentlemen connected with the institution had the benefit of residence in the buildings in the state in which they were left by the mechanics in 1832, with class-rooms for their pupils or students, all that time, chiefly at my private expense. For I maintain that, of the grant advanced by the Government, viz., £3,500, only £1,000 went towards the erection of the buildings; whereas they were valued repeatedly in 1841, in the state in which they were then found, at £8,000. I have papers shewing that, in 1841, the buildings were estimated by competent persons to have cost altogether £8,000. Only £1,000 of that sum was derived from the original Government grant. First, £1,500 was advanced for the passages of the Scotch mechanics —

42. By Mr. Piddington: That was done on your own responsibility? No doubt it was; but it was done with the express concurrence of Lord Goderich.

43. By Mr. Macpherson: What was done with the other £2,000? The cost of the importation of the mechanics was £3,000 altogether, of which sum only £500 was repaid by them. I conceive, therefore, that including the £1,500 advanced on my arrival in the Colony with the mechanics in 1831, there is an equitable claim, on my part, against the Government, for £2,500—of the whole amount included in the mortgage. That will account for one-half of the £2,000. The remaining £1,000 was expended in the year 1841, in the erection of a hall or lecture room for the institution, in pursuance of the original arrangement; and that hall was in constant use for one of its classes till the 30th June, 1854, when the passing of the Affiliated Colleges Act, and the prospect of establishing a Presbyterian College, suggested and rendered necessary an entire change in the character and objects of the institution. From the unexpected difficulties that have hitherto prevented the establishment of that College, as well as from the uncertainty in the tenure of the property of the defunct institution, the necessary steps for its re-establishment and revival have not yet been taken; but it is still my firm determination, as it has been for nearly ten years past, to effect that object as speedily as possible. For as the Presbyterian College will be of comparatively little benefit to that portion of the colonial public, without a preparatory institution to receive and train up pupils and students for it from all parts of the Colony, I only await the settlement of the present question and the establishment of the proposed College, to make the necessary efforts for this purpose all over the territory. I omitted to mention previously, the reason why it became necessary to make an entire change in the affairs of the defunct institution in the year 1841. Sir John Jamison, not having been paid for his allotments during the previous ten years, threatened, on my return to the Colony in 1841, to seize the two lower buildings, which were erected entirely on the allotments I had purchased from him in 1831, and give one to one of his sons-in-law and the other to the other; I was therefore obliged to pay Sir John the amount due to him, viz., £497, and get the deed of the ground.

MR. FAUCETT, | MR. PIDDINGTON,
MR. STEWART.

CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

The Rev. John Dunmore Lang, D.D., M.L.A., further examined:—

The Honorable and Reverend Member having read the latter portion of the evidence given by him on a previous day, continued:—

Rev.
J. D. Lang,

44. I have only to state that it was found at the time referred to in the answer I have just read—the year 1841—that, through the blunders and recklessness of the architect who had been brought out to erect the buildings, they had proved unsuitable and much too expensive for the purpose intended. An investigation, in these circumstances, was held into the affairs of the institution from its commencement, by four gentlemen who were connected both with it and the Scots Church, namely—the late Dr. Ramsay, the late Thomas Cadell, of Windsor, Thomas Brown, of Sydney, and Mr. George Bowman. These gentlemen ascertained from competent authorities—practical builders—that the buildings in their then state could not have cost less than £8,000. The following are extracts from the reports of these gentlemen, as submitted by me in the Separate Appendix to the Evidence taken by a former Committee:—

“That it is the opinion of three practical and highly competent men, who have been personally examined on the subject, viz.:—Messrs. Brodie and Craig and Mr. Duncan Campbell, that considering the period at which they were erected, the Australian College Buildings (in their then present state) could not possibly have cost less than £2,000 each, or £8,000 altogether, and that it would not be safe for any builder to undertake the erection of similar buildings at the present time for less than £3,000 each, or £12,000 altogether. That in these circumstances, it being necessary and desirable that the question of property should now be definitively settled, and the claims of all parties interested finally adjusted, it is equitable and just that, as two of the four buildings have been erected by Dr. Lang, Dr. L. should be confirmed in the possession of the two lower buildings in satisfaction of his claims.” The next paragraph, which is not part of the report<sup>1</sup> proceeds to say:—“It had long been acknowledged and regretted, that the costly buildings that had been so unfortunately erected for the Australian College, through the folly and recklessness of the Scotch architect, Mr. Ferguson, were altogether unsuited for the purposes of an academical institution. As soon, therefore, as the two lower buildings had been declared by competent authority my personal property, I mortgaged them to the Loan Company, to enable me to complete them as dwelling-houses, and to erect a hall or lecture-room for the institution, as had originally been proposed, on the opposite side of Jamison-street. That hall was accordingly erected, at a cost of from £800 to £1,000.” It really cost £875. There is nothing further I have to state.

45. By Mr. Piddington: When Lord Goderich permitted a sum of £1,500 to be advanced to you, was it not at your own request? It was at my own suggestion, but that suggestion was made in consequence of communications I had had previously on the subject of immigration with Lord Howick, and also with Sir Wilmot Horton; for there was great excitement on the subject at the time.

46. It was at your own request? It was.

47. Did you undertake, with Lord Goderich, that the temporary advance of £1,500 for the passage of Scotch immigrants should be repaid by them out of their labour on the College buildings? I did; that was the understanding.

48. Did you state, in your letter dated 9th August, 1832, marked L, that the Scotch immigrants had repaid a considerable portion of the £1,500? I did<sup>2</sup>

49. How much did they repay? About £500.

50. Have you any documents to shew that that is the correct amount? I have.

51. Will you have the goodness to furnish them to the Committee? I will.

52. Are you sure they did not pay a larger sum than £500? Very little, if any larger.

53. What is your idea of the term “very little”? I got a very imperfect account from Mr. Ferguson, the architect—

54. Are you certain that the Scotch immigrants did not repay to you more than £500 of the passage money for which they were liable? That is my own impression; I believe they did not.

55. Was not the sum of £1,500 the full amount sanctioned as a temporary advance by Lord Goderich? It was.

56. Did you, in a letter written by you to Lord Goderich, on the 15th March, 1831, undertake to land a number of immigrants in Sydney, provided Lord Goderich would sanction a temporary advance of £1,500 out of the £3,500? I did.

57. Did not Lord Goderich, when he consented to advance the £1,500, insist, in his memorandum of 21st March, 1831, that no additional advance should be made till, at least, £1,500 had been actually expended upon the buildings? He did.

58. Did not Lord Goderich insist that you should be personally responsible for the execution of that arrangement? He did.<sup>3</sup>

59. Did you undertake the charter of the “Stirling Castle” on your own responsibility? I did; of course, however, with the concurrence of Lord Goderich, to which you have referred.

<sup>2</sup> ADDED (on revision):—state that they had then repaid a considerable portion of the whole cost of their passage out.

<sup>3</sup> ADDED (on revision):—And it was the circumstance of my being personally responsible to Lord Goderich for carrying out the undertaking that virtually obliged me to proceed with the erection of the buildings at my own cost and risk, when the necessary funds for the purpose from the contributions of the public had altogether failed.

60. Did you pay for the outfit of the "Stirling Castle" in cash or by bill? I paid for it partly in one and partly in another.
61. Did you not pay for it chiefly by a bill endorsed by Mr. Alexander Birnie for £1,000? A portion was paid in that way.
62. Was not that portion a sum of £1,000? Yes.
63. Was that bill ever fully paid to the charterers—Messrs. Allan, Kerr, & Co.? The bill was not to them at all.<sup>1</sup>
64. Who was the bill given to? To the parties who supplied the stores to the ship.
65. Was that bill, with the endorsement of Alexander Birnie, paid by you? It was paid.<sup>2</sup>
66. Was it paid by you out of your own funds? A portion of it was, but how much I cannot now recollect.<sup>3</sup>
67. Are you not making a claim against the Australian College, upon the ground that you paid for the outfit of the "Stirling Castle"? Yes.
68. And you do not know how much you paid—can you state to the Committee whether you paid the whole of that £1,000, and if not, now much? <sup>4</sup>
69. By Mr. Faucett: Can you, by reference to any documents, tell how much you paid? Yes.<sup>5</sup>
70. By Mr. Piddington: Will you furnish the Committee with vouchers for the whole outfit of the "Stirling Castle"—for sums that you yourself paid? After a lapse of thirty years and upwards, it may be difficult for me to find the documents connected with the matter.
71. Were not the immigrants to pay for their passage out, at the rate of £25 for each adult? Yes.
72. Was not that amount to be paid by instalments out of the wages of these mechanics who came out by the "Stirling Castle"? Yes.
73. How many adults entered into engagements to pay £25 each for the passage by the "Stirling Castle"? I cannot at this moment state; but the number of immigrants was about 140 altogether.
74. Out of the whole number, the adults only engaged to pay £25 each? Yes.
75. Do you think that number was about eighty-four? It was not less, certainly.
76. Premising that the number of mechanics who had agreed to pay their passage amounted to eighty-four; if they had all paid, the sum would have amounted to £2,100, would it not? Yes.
77. Did you not provide cabin passages for ten adult persons at £60 each, and seven children, making the further sum received, of £720? The sum was not received; <sup>6</sup> only a portion of it. It was expected to be received <sup>7</sup> at the time when the account was made up, <sup>8</sup> It was never received, excepting in cases that I can refer to.
78. Will you furnish the Committee with a correct account of the value (I will not say of the money) received for the adult persons brought out by the "Stirling Castle"? I will.<sup>9</sup>
79. Did you receive £480 for two Presbyterian ministers and six other cabin passengers? <sup>10</sup> I do not remember the precise number.
80. Was a sum of £229 received as freight, and £50 as a donation from Allan, Kerr, & Co. for the expenses of that voyage? Yes.
81. Will you furnish the Committee with as correct an account as you possibly can, of the sums received on account of that particular voyage of the "Stirling Castle"? I will as far as I can, but a great many of the papers connected with these transactions<sup>11</sup> were lost during one of my voyages to England, in 1846—they were packed in a case in the hall or lecture-room, and they had disappeared on my return.<sup>12</sup>
82. Who were the owners of the "Stirling Castle"? Allan, Kerr, & Co.
83. Were you connected with Allan, Kerr, & Co., in the charter of a vessel called the "Portland"? No, I do not think it was Allan, Kerr, & Co.—they had nothing to do with the "Portland."

Rev.
J. D. Lang,
D.D., M.L.A.
18 Jan., 1864.

84.

<sup>1</sup> ADDED (on revision):—They were paid in full, with the £1,500 advanced by order of Lord Goderich, on the ship's arrival in Sydney, and no part of that amount ever came to me. I was personally bound, moreover, by the original agreement, to shew an expenditure on buildings, of upwards of that amount, before any further portion of the Government advance could be issued.

<sup>2</sup> Revised:—Mr. Birnie had made advances for the undertaking on two different occasions, which were repaid by me through the mortgage and sale of my own personal property, after my return to the Colony from a subsequent voyage to England, in the year 1834. I can safely state that the whole of the items of expenditure incurred for the "Stirling Castle," and amounting altogether, as I have already stated, to £3,483 7s. 8½d., were paid by me thirty years ago.

<sup>3</sup> Revised:—Entirely. A portion of it was paid directly in money of my own, and another portion I had borrowed for the purpose, but how much in each case I cannot now recollect.

<sup>4</sup> ANSWER (on revision):—I have already stated that I paid the whole of the expenditure incurred on the "Stirling Castle." I was the only person responsible in the case.

<sup>5</sup> ADDED (on revision):—I can safely state, as I have done already, that I paid the whole amount.

<sup>6</sup> INSERTED (on revision):—the parties for whom it was incurred were all connected with the projected institution, and

<sup>9</sup> NOTE (on revision):—It is as follows:—

|  |        |   |   |
|--|--------|---|---|
| Passage money to be paid by the adult immigrants .....       | £2,100 | 0 | 0 |

<sup>10</sup> Revised:—I did not receive that amount, although it was due on the arrival of the vessel. £300 was all that was ever paid of it.

Rev.
J. D. Lang,
D.D., M.L.A.

13 Jan., 1864.

84. Were you not arrested, at the instance of Allan, Kerr, & Co., for non-fulfilment of an agreement with them? I do not recollect Allan, Kerr, & Co.—I do not think they had anything to do with the “Portland.”<sup>1</sup>

85. Were you not arrested at their instance? No.

86. What was the name of the Scotch firm that placed you under arrest? I think it was M'Phee.

87. Of Leith? Of Greenock.

88. Did you, in order to obtain your release from arrest, mortgage your Government salary of £300 a year as a Presbyterian minister, to M'Phee and Company? No, certainly not to them.

89. To whom did you mortgage it? That was a long subsequent transaction.

90. Yes, I know; but under the terms of the reference to the Committee, we have to deal with the equitable claim you may have upon the country? That had nothing whatever to do with this case.

91. With the “Stirling Castle”? No. I got authority in the year 1836, from my brother, and from Mr. Rankin, of Bathurst, to introduce, under the regulations then prevalent in the Colony, a large number of immigrants, if they could be found—100 for each of them—and the arrangement was made in order to enable me to get out ministers and schoolmasters<sup>2</sup> besides a number of reputable people that would be of use to the Colony, on easier terms.

92. Do you object to answer the question, for I do not wish to occupy your time or the time of the Committee unnecessarily? What is the question?

93. I wish to know whether you were not arrested at the instance of a commercial firm in Scotland, for a debt incurred for immigration purposes, and whether, in order to obtain your release, you did not mortgage your salary of £300 a year as a Presbyterian minister? —

The question having been objected to, the witness withdrew. The Committee deliberated. The witness was again called in.

The Chairman having inquired whether the witness intended to confine himself to a statement of losses sustained by the “Stirling Castle,” and the witness having stated that he should restrict himself to that vessel, the examination proceeded.

94. By Mr. Piddington: You do not propose to go into any reference to any other immigration speculation? Certainly not; the Committee might as well enter upon a disquisition of<sup>3</sup> my private history for any time past.

95. Is it just that the Australian College should lose £3,500, if that amount of loss has been caused to you by your speculation in shipping immigrants by the “Stirling Castle”? I do not think this is a fair question. The arrangement originally made with Lord Goderich was with respect to an educational institution; but in the particular circumstances of the mother country at that time, it was the opinion of various others, as well as of myself, that the question of the introduction of a reputable class of industrious persons into this country was of equal importance, and I was under the impression that both objects might be accomplished at the same time; and Lord Goderich surely was equally so, when he expressed his concurrence in my proposal.

96. Did Lord Goderich sanction any advance whatever beyond the temporary one of £1,500 out of the sum of £3,500? I do not exactly understand<sup>4</sup>

97. I have before me two memoranda, purporting to be dated Downing-street, 13th January, 1831, and 28th March, 1831; and in the last I find Lord Howick writes to this effect:—
“I am directed by Viscount Goderich to acquaint you that he consents to the proposition contained in your letter of the 15th instant, and has accordingly instructed the Governor of New South Wales as follows, viz.:—To pay to you the sum of £1,500 on your arrival in the Colony with the number of emigrants whom you undertake to land there. This sum to be considered a part of the £3,500 which Lord Goderich agreed to advance from the Colonial Treasury for the purpose of establishing a College, as stated in the memorandum which accompanied my note to you of the 13th January last; and it being further understood that no additional advance will be made until the Colonial Government shall be satisfied that at least £1,500 shall have been actually expended upon the proposed building. When this shall have been made to appear, the remaining £2,000 to be advanced at intervals, as originally agreed upon, you being held personally responsible for the due execution of this arrangement.” The words “you being held personally responsible” being underlined, now, I ask you, founding my question upon Lord Howick's letter, did Lord Goderich sanction any advance whatever beyond the temporary one of £1,500 out of the sum of £3,500? Certainly not.

98. Did not Sir John Jamison sell you two allotments of land in Jamison-street? Yes.

99. Were not those two allotments intended for the site of a Presbyterian College? They were.

100. You furnished the late Mr. Norton, solicitor, with a statement shewing that the land was intended to be used for the purposes of a College? I presume I must have done so, for he drew up the deed.

101. Why was the land conveyed to you absolutely, instead of to trustees? Because the arrangement had run over for ten years after I had purchased the land from Sir John Jamison —

102. Did you purchase it for yourself absolutely, or by a contract signed by the Trustees of the Scots Church? There was no contract that I know of; in fact I was not in the Colony when

when the purchase was made—it was made by the late Dr. M'Garvie, as my agent. I left him authority to make the purchase. The sale took place in the month of July,<sup>1</sup> 1831.

103. I find in Mr. Norton's evidence before the Committee of the Legislative Council in 1841, that he states:—"The Trustees" (alluding to the Trustees of the Scots Church allotment) "were Dr. Lang, Capt. Piper, Mr. D. Ramsay, and Mr. Thomas M'Vitie. At the time " Sir John Jamison formed Jamison-street, it was found to terminate in the Church grant; and " it was then agreed between the Trustees and Sir John Jamison, that a part of the Church " grant should be appropriated to the prolongation of Jamison-street, in consideration of " which Sir John agreed to give up to the Trustees of the Church that part of his grant " which adjoined the Church. The Trustees also agreed to purchase two other portions of " Sir John Jamison's grant (one on each side of the street), for a money consideration. " The purchase money was not paid by the Trustees; and on the completion of the conveyance " by Sir John Jamison to Dr. Lang, interest was computed on this purchase money, and " the amount stated to be the consideration of the conveyance." Well, Mr. Norton states there that the original contract was made by the Trustees of the Scots Church—not by you as an individual? He was under a mistake in making that statement.

104. I still wish to know why the land was conveyed to you absolutely, when it was intended for public purposes, and not to trustees? It was purchased by me absolutely from Sir John Jamison at his sale. I purchased it certainly with the intention of erecting an educational institution upon it, on the conditions I have stated in my previous answers.

105. Was that mode of conveyance a right mode of dealing with trust property? It was not trust property at all.

106. Have you not acknowledged that it was intended for public purposes? It was, no doubt, so far as my intention was concerned.

107. Did not Mr. Norton make an objection to convey this land to you individually? I forget the particulars of the case.

108. Do you forget whether he made an objection to yourself to convey the land to you individually? I think he expressed some objection; but Dr. Ramsay having called upon him with me, his objection was withdrawn. I stated to him that I purchased the land for the uses<sup>2</sup> to be determined by subsequent investigation; and in order to carry out this original intention, the purchase from Sir John Jamison was left open for ten years.

109. Is this statement of Mr. James Norton, made before the Committee of the Legislative Council, which sat in 1841, correct:—"I afterwards saw Dr. Lang and Dr. Ramsay, and they " then explained that the College was indebted to Dr. Lang in a very large sum laid out by " him in the building of the houses; and that to enable him to repay himself and also to raise " the amount due to Sir John Jamison, he (Dr. Lang) would be compelled to obtain a " mortgage on the land, which could not be done if the land were conveyed to the " Trustees, and Dr. Lang added that he was willing, subject to that loan, to convey the whole " of the land to the Trustees. The impression made on my mind by the statements of Dr. " Lang and Mr. Ramsay was, that the whole of the funds for the erection of the College " buildings were provided by Dr. Lang; I also felt that a Court of Equity would at any time " compel Dr. Lang to release to the Trustees?" I do not think it is altogether correct, because I purchased the ground from Sir John Jamison absolutely, with the intention of carrying out the plan of an educational institution. It was in consequence of the failure of that plan that I was obliged to carry out that right.<sup>3</sup>

110. Is that land sold to you by Sir John Jamison used for the purposes of a College, in accordance with your promise to Mr. Norton? Not now certainly; it was till the year 1854.

111. Did not Sir John Jamison agree to give a portion of his own land to the Trustees of the Scots Church, in exchange for the right of prolonging Jamison-street through the Scots Church allotment? There was an arrangement made between Sir John and the Trustees, in virtue of which the Trustees surrendered to Sir John a portion of their allotment. A black line was drawn across both allotments, and all above that line was agreed to be the property of the Trustees, and all below it Sir John's; but Sir John was bound to sell to me not only that portion<sup>4</sup> but the other<sup>5</sup> portions, at the rate he would receive from the adjoining allotment on both sides, when his land came to be sold; so that the arrangement for the sale of the ground was a merely temporary one.

112. What right had the Trustees of the Scots Church allotment to part with any portion of the land granted to them by the State for ecclesiastical purposes, without an Act of Parliament? They did not part with it<sup>6</sup>

113. Did they not part with that portion of it forming the upper portion of Jamison-street? No doubt they exchanged it.

114. Can you point out on this plan (referring to a plan appended to the Report of the Select Committee on the Exchange of Land, Scots Church, Jamison-street, Legalizing Bill) the precise portion of land given by Sir John Jamison as an equivalent for the land given up by the Trustees of the Scots Church allotment? I cannot say exactly where the line was drawn,<sup>7</sup>

115. You cannot state where the land is that Sir John Jamison gave to the Trustees of the Scots Church, in exchange for the right of prolonging Jamison-street through the Scots Church

Church allotment? The arrangement between the Trustees and Sir John was a temporary one, only till the sale of the allotments of Sir John's property; for the land that I bought back included a considerable portion of the allotment of the Scots Church, which was temporarily alienated to Sir John until his sale, that the adjustment of the lines might be made thereafter.

116. Whether the arrangement with Sir John was temporary or not—can you not point out the land that was exchanged between Sir John Jamison and the Trustees of the Scots Church? The portion that the Trustees eventually agreed to exchange with land<sup>1</sup> from Sir John was the portion A of the Scots Church allotment, for the portion B.

117. I am not speaking of portion A; I am speaking of this right-of-way through Jamison-street; you do not dispute that Jamison-street runs through the Scots Church allotment—you do not dispute that Sir John Jamison gave to the Trustees of the Scots Church a certain portion of land in lieu of the upper portion of Jamison-street, which runs through the Scots Church allotment? There was no separate alienation on the part of Sir John —

118. I am asking a very simple question: Whether Sir John Jamison did not give a piece of land of his own, in exchange for the upper part of Jamison-street. Your recollection will probably guide you so far as to say whether he gave a piece of land for the right of prolonging that street through the Scots Church allotment? There was no portion given absolutely until Sir John Jamison's sale. The whole arrangement was a temporary one until that sale took place.

119. By the Chairman: In what way was the land sold, mixed up with that transaction? The Trustees were sensible that they had no power to alienate any part of the land; and when the exchange was negotiated the line went across their property to Charlotte-place, as well as across Sir John's, and the adjustment of the whole transaction was left till I should purchase, for the institution which it was intended to form, the allotments of Sir John Jamison's property on both sides of the street, including the portion he had got from the Trustees of the Scots Church.

120. By Mr. Piddington: My question does not refer to any land purchased by you from Sir John Jamison, for a money consideration. I wish to know whether you dispute that Sir John Jamison gave a piece of land to the Scots Church Trustees, in lieu of the upper portion of Jamison-street? He gave no part of the ground separate from the arrangement for the purchase of the allotments to be sold by him.

121. Is this a correct statement of the fact, as stated by Sir John Jamison himself, before the Select Committee of the Legislative Council, in 1841. He is asked, "Jamison-street was formed through a part of your property, and a part of the allotment belonging to the Scots Church?" His reply is this:—"It was. I entered into an agreement with Dr. Lang, the late Mr. McVitie, and Dr. Ramsay, as Trustees of the Scots Church, to exchange a portion of my land for a portion of the land belonging to the Church, for the purpose of continuing Jamison-street through it." Is that a correct statement of the facts? The exchange did not refer to any particular piece of land; it referred to the whole that was to be purchased from Sir John Jamison,<sup>2</sup>

122. Do you deny that a certain piece of land was given by Sir John Jamison in lieu of the upper part of Jamison-street? It was given temporarily till the sale should take place.

123. Was that land ever withdrawn? No.

124. Did not Sir John Jamison convey that land that he gave? Yes, he did.

125. Was not the land given by Sir John Jamison to the Scots Church, in exchange for the right of making a street through the Scots Church allotment, conveyed to you absolutely, as an individual? The whole?<sup>3</sup>

126. Was that particular land—either give me an answer, or decline to give one? I cannot give you an answer<sup>4</sup> without acknowledging that the fallacious inference you put forth is well founded. I maintain that the whole arrangement with Sir John Jamison contemplated the<sup>5</sup> purchase, at the same rate as the adjoining allotments of his property, the portion alienated by him.

127. Have you paid to the Scots Church, or to any representative of the Scots Church on Church Hill, for the value of land conveyed to you, but given by Sir John Jamison to the Scots Church, with the view of prolonging Jamison-street? It was out of the question to make any such settlement.<sup>6</sup>

128. Have you done it, as a matter of fact? Your question implies that there were two separate arrangements with Sir John, and there was only one.

129. As I understand my question, it implies that you bought two allotments from Sir John for a money consideration, but that another piece of land was given by Sir John Jamison, as he states himself, for the privilege of running Jamison-street through the Scots Church allotment? But Sir John Jamison got a portion of the allotment of the Scots Church nominally

<sup>2</sup> ADDED (on revision):—which included a portion of the Church allotment to be bought back from him.

<sup>4</sup> INSERTED (on revision):—to the question you now put, in the way you put it,

<sup>5</sup> INSERTED (on revision):—temporary surrender to him of a portion of the Church allotment, and its re-purchase, nominally till his sale had taken place; and when his sale had taken place, all these<sup>2</sup> arrangements went for nothing<sup>3</sup>; they were only temporary.

<sup>6</sup> Revised:—There was a full and adequate consideration given and received in the case. I got nothing for which a fair equivalent was not given.

130. Does not the upper part of Jamison-street now run through the Scots Church allotment? It does.

131. Is that what you call a temporary arrangement? Certainly not.

132. In consequence of that permanent right, did not Sir John Jamison give a piece of land to the Scots Church? He did not give any separate.

133. Did he give a piece? He gave this portion B, for which he had to alienate the portion A<sup>5</sup>

134. Portion A has always been within the lines of the Scots Church allotment—it is included in this plan; the portion A you allude to now, is as much now, and ever has been, as much a portion of the Scots Church allotment as the site upon which the fabric of the Church is built? This exchange of portions A and B was agreed to by the trustees, and the rest of the arrangements, as far as they were concerned, was to be determined by the sale of Sir John Jamison's allotments in 1831.<sup>6</sup>

135. At the time of the sale of Sir John Jamison's allotments, or at any time subsequently, was the piece of land given by Sir John Jamison to the Scots Church, in lieu of the piece lost to the Scots Church by the prolongation of Jamison-street, conveyed to you? There was no separate<sup>7</sup>

136. I do not press the question as to whether the piece was a separate piece, but was that piece conveyed to you? The whole of the land that<sup>8</sup> belonged to Sir John Jamison before the opening of the street was conveyed to me.

137. The land for which you gave a money consideration, as well as the land given in lieu of the Jamison-street prolongation? As far as the trustees were concerned, there was only one arrangement contemplated; that was a definitive one on the purchase of Sir John Jamison's allotment, because he had a right by the agreement to a portion of the Scots Church allotment, which the trustees were conscious they could not alienate.

138. Did you not obtain a conveyance, made out by Mr. Norton, including the land given by Sir John Jamison, as well as the land sold by him? I think your question implies a charge against me that I am —

139. Did you or did you not? I got a deed from Sir John Jamison<sup>9</sup> for the whole of the land that belonged to him before that sale.

140. Did that deed from Sir John Jamison include the two allotments sold to you, as well as the land given by Sir John Jamison to the Scots Church Trustees, in lieu of the land for the prolongation of Jamison-street? It did;<sup>10</sup> because Sir John Jamison nominally —

141. You say it did—that is sufficient? Yes, but I did not say so in your sense<sup>11</sup>

142. Make any explanation you please? At the time of the sale of Sir John Jamison's property, he was in the nominal possession of a considerable portion of the allotment of the Scots Church which I bought, and the purchase of that ground was regarded by the trustees as the final arrangement<sup>12</sup>

143. How could Sir John Jamison be in possession of any part of the Scots Church grant? He was nominally; he was not in actual—he was in nominal possession, because the trustees drew a line<sup>13</sup> across in this way (referring to the plan) and said, all above this shall belong to us, and all below to Sir John.

144. Was not this allotment of the Scots Church conveyed by a specific deed grant to the Presbyterian congregation at Church Hill? It was.

145. Was that grant regularly defined by a surveyor? It was.

146. I want to know by what authority, or what piece of that land was ever in possession of Sir John Jamison? There was never any part of it in actual possession of Sir John Jamison; but in making this complicated arrangement, it was deemed the easiest and the best way of coming to a conclusion in the matter, to draw a line across both allotments, and that was done<sup>14</sup>

147. This plan shews the lines of the Scots Church allotment? It does.

148. What portion within those lines of the Scots Church allotment was Sir John Jamison ever even in nominal possession of? He was in nominal possession of this portion (pointing it out on the plan).

149. On the north side of Jamison-street? Yes.

150. Who gave him any right to that? He had no real right, but he had a nominal right until

<sup>4</sup> Revised:—He did, but he did not give it separately from the general arrangement with the trustees.

<sup>5</sup> Revised:—He did, with the explanation I have given; and the trustees subsequently exchanged this portion B for the portion A.

until the sale of his own property should be effected. As the two allotments overlapped each other, it was thought the easiest and best way to draw an imaginary line across, and arrange that all above that line should belong to the Church, and all below to Sir John Jamison.

151. As a matter of fact, the Scots Church allotment has not been deprived of any portion of land originally granted, except that portion which constitutes the prolongation of Jamison-street? No, but the trustees at the time considered the opening of the street as beneficial to us as it was to Sir John.

152. Whatever may have been the opinion of the trustees, they agreed that Sir John Jamison should have the right of prolonging Jamison-street through the Scots Church allotment, on condition of Sir John giving to the Scots Church a piece of his own land in lieu of that right? I cannot say that that is the real state of the case, because the trustees actually agreed nominally to alienate to Sir John pro tempore, till the time of his sale, that portion of their allotment<sup>1</sup>

153. Does that temporary agreement, which has no legal force, alter the fact of Sir John giving a portion of his land for the privilege? I think it does.

154. In what way? Because the final transaction with Sir John was the purchase of the two allotments at his sale. I paid as much for the ground on this side of the street,<sup>2</sup> although a portion of the Scots Church allotment, as for the land on the opposite side.

155. You did not pay for any portion of the Scots Church allotment? No, but Sir John got credit for it<sup>3</sup>

156. From whom did he get credit? From the trustees.

157. How could the trustees give him credit for the sale of their own land? You do not make allowance for the fact that I have stated again and again, that, in order to effect an<sup>4</sup> arrangement, an imaginary line was drawn across both allotments.

158. Was the line anything more than an imaginary one? No, it was not.

159. Then I do not take any notice of it? The trustees could not alienate any part of their property, and they did not wish to do so;<sup>5</sup>

160. However, they allowed the right to Sir John Jamison to carry the street known as Jamison-street through the Scots Church allotment, for which privilege Sir John Jamison agreed to give a piece of his own land? The arrangement was mutual.<sup>6</sup>

161. Was it not so? Because we had the privilege of the street down to George-street<sup>8</sup>

162. Was not that correct? In the first instance it was so.

163. That piece of land was conveyed to you absolutely as an individual? The whole of the land that had belonged to Sir John Jamison was conveyed to me,<sup>9</sup>

164. And that land belonging to Sir John Jamison included that piece of land which he gave to the Trustees, in lieu of the piece of the Scots Church allotment for prolonging Jamison-street? It included that, but you leave out the fact<sup>10</sup>

165. I am merely asking you a question as to the fact—I leave out imagination—Was it so or not?<sup>11</sup>

166. Did you ever hear of any minister of religion in the Colony, who transferred the proceeds of the sale of a portion of his church allotment to his own peculiar profit or benefit?<sup>12</sup>

167. What difference is there between appropriating the communion plate belonging to a church, and appropriating the proceeds of land belonging to a church, to a private purpose? I do not think there is any difference whatever, but I did neither the one nor the other.

168. When the country has advanced £3,500 to build a Presbyterian College, is it not criminal to divert that endowment from its object, to place the money in the pocket of any private person? Of course it would be, if the question were well founded, which I deny that it is.<sup>13</sup> That is not the state of the case. The Committee are aware that the original arrangement by Lord Goderich for the establishment of an educational institution was fallen from by himself —

169. We have had this statement repeatedly—I only want an answer, or your refusal to give one. I wish to know whether, when the country has advanced £3,500 to build a Presbyterian College, it is not morally objectionable to divert that endowment from its object to place the money in the pocket of any private individual? That is not the<sup>14</sup> state of the case.

170. That is my question? It is a very unjust question—an invidious one.
171. If the Minister of St. Phillip's Church were to sell the school or the church on Church Hill, belonging to the Church of England, would not that act be described as a robbery of the Church? Of course it would.
172. Whatever you may have advanced on account of the Australian College, did you expect to have that advance repaid? I may have expected so for a time, but in the course of the undertaking that prospect became very dark, and I had to expend my own property<sup>2</sup>
173. From what source did you expect repayment? I expected, and Lord Goderich seems to have cherished the same idea, that the undertaking would pay itself, but it failed to do so, like many others.
174. Did you, in a letter to the Governor, dated 9th August, 1832, express the readiness of the trustees of the Scots Church to give a mortgage on the property for the money to be advanced, including the payment for the passage of the Scotch mechanics? I did.
175. How long have some of the houses in Jamison-street been let? The two lower buildings, as I have stated, were assigned to me by competent authority, in 1841, and I mortgaged them to finish the whole four.
176. I do not ask you why you mortgaged them, or when, but how long have some of the houses in Jamison-street been let? I do not think, after that arrangement, the Committee have any right to inquire respecting the two lower buildings, which were assigned to me as my private property in 1841.
177. That was a committee composed of gentlemen who were your private friends? They were gentlemen, and some of them trustees of the Scots Church.<sup>3</sup>
178. I wish to know whether you recollect how long some of the houses in Jamison-street have been let? From 1854.
179. Were not any of them let before 1854? Yes, the two lower ones were let some time<sup>4</sup>
180. How long do you think any one of those houses has been let? I do not recollect when they commenced being let.
181. Have you not occupied one of them yourself for upwards of twenty years? I have.
182. Would not the house you have occupied for upwards of twenty years have produced, one year with another, £200 per annum? That is at the present rate of rent?
183. No, taking one year with another, during the last twenty years? I do not think so; they were let for some time at £100.
184. Were they never let for more than £200? Yes.
185. For how much? I think for £350 during the mania—the gold times.
186. Then, notwithstanding that they have been let for a certain period for £350 a year, you do not think, on the average, the house you occupy would have been worth £200 a year during the last twenty years? No.
187. How much do you think it would have been worth on the average of years? I am not competent to give an opinion.
188. Do you think it would have been worth £150 a year during the last twenty years? I dare say it would.
189. Then, according to that estimate, you have received upwards of £3,000 in the way of rent during the period you have occupied that house. What is the entire amount you have received during the whole period, for the houses in Jamison-street? I cannot say what the houses in Jamison-street are worth. They were built—with the exception of £1,000 from a Government grant, that was expended afterwards, in 1841, in the erection of a hall or lecture-room—from my own funds.
190. That is a matter of opinion. Do you keep any account of your receipts for rent? Of course I do.
191. Can you furnish the Committee with a correct account of the money received by you from rent, from the earliest period to the present time? I cannot. I should like to know what that has to do with the present inquiry.
192. Have you obtained the consent of the shareholders of the Australian College to the cancellation of the mortgage to the Government? The shareholders never contributed one farthing to<sup>5</sup> it.
193. Has not Mr. Barker, who was in the original Council of the Australian College, furnished to the Committee on the Exchange of Land, Scots Church, Legalizing Bill, a list of the subscribers to the Australian College? Yes.
194. Does not that list shew that £2,450 was subscribed by ninety-eight shareholders, and £1,715 was paid? Yes, but I have a statement by Mr. Wallace, who was the Treasurer of the institution, which shews that every farthing of that amount was expended in salaries and passage-money.<sup>6</sup>
195. Do you dispute that the money subscribed by the shareholders was invested in the building? I do.
196. And do you also dispute that the money advanced by Government, £3,500, was invested in the building? The Government have their mortgage on the building.

After going into an examination of the value of the property on Church Hill—"That in these circumstances it being desirable and necessary that the question of property should now be definitively settled, and the claims of all parties interested fairly adjusted, it is equitable and just that, as two of the four buildings have been erected entirely by Dr. Lang, Dr. L. should be confirmed in the possession of the two lower buildings, in satisfaction of his claims"? Yes, I quoted that myself to-day.
202. Then your own friends have reported that your entire claim would be settled by confirming you in the possession of two buildings out of the four? My claim at that time; but these gentlemen took it for granted, as their report shews, that the £3,500 represented by the Government mortgage was expended upon the building.
203. You have found out since that it was not? No, I do not say so.<sup>2</sup>
204. You are not satisfied with two of the houses now—you want the whole four? I mortgaged the first two to finish the whole.<sup>3</sup>
205. You are not satisfied now with two? Certainly not, for I consider the other two as much erected by this money as the two lower ones.<sup>4</sup>
206. Did you not state, on the 12th July, 1841, to the Committee of the Legislative Council, that you were of opinion that if two of the buildings were sold, the proceeds of the sale would be more than sufficient to discharge the debts. I allude to question 46, in the Report of the Committee on Loans to the Australian College. Perhaps I had better read the question:—"If sold, would they realize enough to free the institution from all debt?" Your answer is:—"I think the proceeds of the sale would be more than sufficient to discharge the debt to me"? I have no doubt I gave that as my opinion at the time, but in the situation that the other two buildings were in at the time, as well as the two lower ones, it was absolutely necessary to incur a very large expenditure for their completion.
207. Did not the receipt of fees from the pupils in the College pay the expenses? Certainly not. I have Mr. Wallace's paper —
208. And I have your own statement. I beg to read from your own evidence—Question 48—"Can you state the amount of fees that has been received annually from pupils of the institution?"—Your answer is:—"I am not prepared to state the amount of the sums received for fees, but it can easily be ascertained; the fees have at all times been more than sufficient to pay all the annual expenses of the institution"—Was that statement, made by yourself, correct or not? I cannot charge my memory with the facts necessary to answer such a question, but I have Mr. Wallace's account.
209. By the Chairman: He was the treasurer? He was.
210. Has that ever been before Parliament? No, it has not.
211. Have you got it? Yes.
212. Will you hand it in? Yes. (Vide Appendix.) In reference to the last question, although the fees may have paid the salaries, the Committee must take into consideration that the gentlemen conducting the educational parts of the institution at that time were occupying buildings without cost that had been erected almost entirely from my funds.
213. By Mr. Piddington: Does not your answer apply to all expenses when you say—"the fees have at all times been more than sufficient to pay all the annual expenses of the institution"? The annual expenses were the salaries, but did not refer to the buildings at all.<sup>5</sup>
214. Did not your reply refer to any other expenses besides the salaries of the masters? I do not think my answer could.

<sup>1</sup> Revised:—Because they were connected both with the Scots Church and the College.

<sup>2</sup> Revised:—No; but the question as to that mortgage was one into which these gentlemen could not enter.

<sup>4</sup> ADDED (on revision):—The latter were mortgaged, perhaps to their full value, to complete the others.

<sup>5</sup> ADDED (on revision):—Both the masters and pupils occupied these buildings for ten years, almost exclusively at my expense, rent free.

CHARLES COWPER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

The Rev. John Dunmore Lang, D.D., M.L.A., further examined:—

215. By the Chairman: With reference to the evidence given by you when you were previously before the Committee, do you wish to make any further statement? I do. In the month of June or July, 1830, the late Thomas Bodenham, an auctioneer in the city of Sydney, called upon me to state that Sir John Jamison was desirous of cutting up, and selling in allotments, his property in George-street, adjoining the allotment of the Scots Church, but it was necessary, in order to effect that object, that the street should be formed from George-street to Prince-street or Church Hill, and he wished to know whether the Trustees of the Scots Church would be willing to assent to such an improvement. Mr. Bodenham gave me at the time, a sketch of the improvements proposed, and I saw at once that it was exceedingly desirable for the Scots Church, and all connected with it, that there should not only be a better access afforded us than we then had to George-street, which the new street proposed to form, but that we should also have a better allotment than we then had for the erection of a manse or dwelling for the minister. I saw, at the same time, that the arrangement would enable me to carry out certain objects I had then in view, in regard to the advancement of academical education in the Colony. There were two meetings on the subject, with Sir John Jamison and the Trustees of the Scots Church. At one of these Mr. Rankin, of Bathurst, attended. The object was to get the best possible arrangement with Sir John Jamison, as to getting an equivalent for the portion of their ground now forming the street. The trustees conceived that they had a right to improve their own property by running a street through it, and had no doubt or difficulty in the matter. Their object was simply to procure a better access to the church from George-street, and a sufficient extent of ground as the site for a manse or dwelling for the minister. At the close of the second meeting with Sir John, an arrangement was made, which will appear to the Committee from the paper that was mutually signed on the occasion. This (producing a plan) is the "plan of the intended improvements of the estates of the Scots Church and of Sir John Jamison, Sydney." The portion marked A and coloured green, is the portion of land relinquished by Sir John Jamison to the Scots Church.

J. D. Lang,

21 Jan., 1864.

216. By Mr. Piddington: That is here (referring to the plan), running from the two allotments which commence at Jamison-street and which terminate here? Yes.

217. You could not point that out at the last meeting? It was not difficult to point it out, but<sup>1</sup> from the character of the questions put to me, I felt very much hurt at the time at the imputations made against me, which were altogether unmerited. This, then, is the portion of ground that Sir John Jamison agreed to surrender.

218. Is that marked B in the plan? No, that is a different plan altogether; I will come to that afterwards. Sir John Jamison was somewhat hard to deal with in the matter, and Mr. Rankin in particular got him to give more I believe than he wished to do, but still he insisted on having the line that should divide the two properties, run across the lower part of the allotment of the Scots Church. That line included the portion of the original allotment of the Scots Church marked B, and this triangular portion fronting Jamison-street, which then belonged to Sir John Jamison; the portion B being then given up by Dr. Lang, on the part of the Scots Church, to Sir John Jamison, who certainly had no authority to give up any part of it<sup>2</sup>; but this was a mere temporary arrangement for the settlement of the question between the parties. Sir John Jamison was very unwilling to part with so much of his ground for those improvements he contemplated, as Mr. Rankin and Dr. Ramsay, who were both present, wished.

219. By Mr. Macpherson: Will the Honorable Member point out the original boundary of the Scots Church? (The witness pointed out the same on the plan.)

220. What land was to be exchanged? The portion A was the portion Sir John Jamison agreed to relinquish for carrying out the improvements contemplated—for liberty to have this street carried through. Then C and D are part of Sir John's estate, the latter including this triangular portion fronting Jamison-street, with the other portion that the Trustees of the Scots Church agreed pro formâ to make over to him till the final settlement. C D were two allotments which<sup>3</sup> the Scots Church was to have by purchase at the same rate, in proportion to the street frontage, that the adjoining allotments on the eastern side might fetch on their being disposed of by Sir John Jamison.

221. By Mr. Piddington: Was the allotment marked B, red letter, absolutely alienated to Sir John Jamison? No; it was a mere temporary arrangement, in virtue of which he received the full value of it, as if it had all along formed part of his own property. After this arrangement for a mutual exchange, Sir John Jamison bound himself to sell to me, at the same rate as the adjoining allotments on both sides, the allotments C and D, the latter including the portion of the original allotment of the Scots Church. The reason why I got Sir John Jamison bound bound to consent to this arrangement was, that I had in view the establishment of an educational institution, that required all the room that we could expect to get in Jamison-street, for the erection of four houses for the four masters that the institution was proposed to comprise. It was necessary to purchase Sir John's allotment marked C, for that purpose; and the allotments into which Sir John's property was accordingly cut up for sale, were sold in the month of September, 1831; and the gentleman whom I had empowered to act for me in the matter, purchased the two allotments C and D at Sir John Jamison's sale. I arrived with the Scotch immigrants on the 13th October of that year; and, in the month of November following, within about six weeks of the sale of Sir John Jamison's allotments and our acquisition of the two, C and D, at the same rates as the adjoining ones, the Trustees of the Scots Church all met upon the ground—which was then in process of being pegged off for the erection of the buildings intended for the educational institution in the new street. The first thing that the trustees did was to fix upon the permanent boundary for the Scots Church, on the south side of Jamison-street, and they did so, as shewn in the other sketch, by running the line across from Jamison-street to what was then the Barrack-wall, and agreeing that this (pointing it out on the sketch) should be the permanent division of the property of the Scots Church from what was below or to the eastward of it; and that to enable the trustees and congregation to get a suitable allotment for a manse or dwelling for the minister, this portion B on the sketch should be exchanged, under the authority of an Act of the Legislature of the period, with the portion A that was then unoccupied and forming a part of the allotment of the Scots Church. After having agreed to this exchange, the trustees took into consideration the fact that I had purchased back from Sir John Jamison the portion of the allotment of the Church that we had, pro formâ, agreed to appropriate to him until the time of his sale. This portion B on the original plan, was of course considerably smaller than the portion that Sir John Jamison had agreed to relinquish on our behalf; and<sup>1</sup> in order to an equitable and definitive arrangement for the Church, Dr. Ramsay, one of the trustees, when they were met together on the ground, suggested, and it was at once agreed to by all concerned, that to make up the difference they<sup>2</sup> should be bound to erect a half-gable on the buildings that were then contemplated for a future manse or dwelling for the minister.

222. By Mr. Macpherson: In other words, to represent the difference between the sizes of block A and block B? Yes.<sup>3</sup>

223. Of course this proposed agreement was in writing? There was no writing on the subject, for the trustees were all on the ground<sup>4</sup> and the buildings were going, and every person that passes up and down the street is aware that —

224. By Mr. Piddington: Was any portion of the Scots Church allotment, originally granted to the Scots Church, surrendered to Sir John Jamison, excepting that portion that runs through the Scots Church allotment, and forms the upper portion of Jamison-street? This portion, marked B on the original plan, was surrendered pro formâ.

225. That means nothing at all. I want to know whether any part has been surrendered for any purpose, except that portion known as the upper portion of Jamison-street? Certainly not.

226. By Mr. Faucett: In whose hands is that portion at the present moment (the triangle marked B)? In the hands of the trustees.

227. Or in your hands? In the hands of the trustees.

228. Who are the trustees? They are all dead but myself. There would have been others appointed long since but for these complications.

229. It is in your hands, but you say you hold it as a trustee? Quite so. I have no right to dispose of it individually. If these complications had been settled, there would have been other trustees elected long since.

230. By Mr. Macpherson: Who were these trustees—under the original constitution? They were appointed by General Darling in 1826, at the recommendation of the congregation,<sup>5</sup> I had almost forgotten that I had a further answer to make to the question—Was there any part of the ground surrendered permanently but this portion on which the street runs? The Committee are doubtless aware that there are three large buildings, one of which belonged to Mr. Wentworth some time since, in Charlotte-place.

231. One of the old Treasury Buildings? The buildings on Church Hill. They were never used as the Treasury as far as I can recollect. These buildings were erected by Major Ovons, who was at the head of the Works Department in Sir Thomas Brisbane's time; and there was, during my absence in England, some misunderstanding between—Major Ovons erected those three houses on Church Hill as Government Quarters, but he carried up the

<sup>1</sup> Revised:—Here insert—together with the triangular portion of his allotment adjoining it, having a frontage of thirty-one feet to Jamison-street; and as it was of consequence to the trustees to obtain this frontage, together with the portion of their allotment temporarily alienated, it was further agreed that the twenty-nine feet of frontage on the south side of the street, surrendered or relinquished by Sir John to the trustees, should be exchanged by them for the thirty-one feet on the north side. The rest of the ground relinquished or surrendered to the trustees was all back ground, without frontage in any direction, and consequently of inferior value; but

<sup>3</sup> ADDED (on revision):—after making all due allowance for the exchange of the twenty-nine feet of frontage on the south side of the street for the thirty-one feet on the north side of it.

<sup>4</sup> INSERTED (on revision):—when the arrangements were made, and those arrangements were carried out immediately thereafter, the trustees getting immediate possession of the allotment with the thirty-one feet of frontage which I had purchased from Sir John, and the half-gable, which was erected thirty-two years ago, being a standing evidence of the fulfilment of the other part of the agreement.

the whole of the uppermost houses to the very edge of the allotment of the Scots Church. After Sir Thomas Brisbane's departure, General Darling, his successor, found that these buildings were not required for the public service, and directed their being disposed of.

Rev.
J. D. Lang,
D.D., M.L.A.

232. By Mr. Faucett: Did Major Ovens build them as Government buildings? Yes; but he had not left an approach to the rear of the buildings, on the upper side, there being an approach only on the lower side. In these circumstances the Government proposed (I forget through whom, but through one of their officers at the time) that, as it was absolutely necessary to have a road to the back parts of these buildings off the allotment of the Scots Church,<sup>1</sup> and the trustees, without giving any formal deed in the case, or without doubting that they had full power—especially when it was to oblige the Government—to do so, agreed that the fence of their allotment should be removed ten feet. The Government made some consideration<sup>2</sup> which went to the funds of the Church.

21 Jan., 1864.

233. In other words, the Government purchased ten feet of land as a road? They did; but there was no deed on the occasion; the trustees merely removed the fence.<sup>3</sup>

234. By Mr. Piddington: In reference to this land marked A and coloured green, what is the frontage of the land in Jamison-street, given by Sir John Jamison in exchange for the right of prolonging Jamison-street through the Scots Church allotment? I cannot answer from recollection; but I made, in the year 1831, the memorandum which I hold in my hand, and which I believe gives the exact particulars. From that memorandum I learn that the frontage to Jamison-street, of the land surrendered by Sir John for the prolongation of the street through the Scots Church allotment, was twenty-nine feet.

235. Does that twenty-nine feet refer to the frontage of land exchanged by Sir John Jamison with the Trustees of the Scots Church on account of the prolonging of the street only, or does it include any portion of the land sold to the trustees by Sir John Jamison? It alludes entirely to the land surrendered to Sir John for opening the street.

236. Then I understand the answer to my question is, that the frontage to Jamison-street, exchanged by Sir John for the right of prolonging Jamison-street through the Scots Church allotment, is twenty-nine feet? Yes.

237. By Mr. Faucett: That twenty-nine feet was not any portion of land either purchased in any way from Sir John Jamison or exchanged in any other way? Certainly not, as far as he was concerned.

238. By Mr. Piddington: What houses or portions of the houses known as College Buildings are built on the ground given by Sir John Jamison in exchange for the right of prolonging Jamison-street through the Scots Church allotment? The two uppermost buildings are built partly upon the original allotment of the Scots Church, and partly on the ground purchased from Sir John Jamison.

239. Not partly on ground purchased? I should have said acquired by exchange.

240. By Mr. Faucett: Then the question comes to this—what houses or portions of these houses are built on the portion of which this twenty-nine feet is the frontage to Jamison-street? The second of the houses, counting from George-street.

241. Entirely? It would seem to be entirely upon that portion of the ground.

242. And a portion of the third? A larger portion of the third and a smaller portion of the fourth.<sup>4</sup>

243. By Mr. Macpherson: What is the frontage of each house—what is the width? I cannot recollect; but this plan (referring to the lithographed plan) shews exactly where the line of the original allotment struck the street.

244. Then it is twenty-nine feet beyond that? Yes.

245. By Mr. Dalgleish: What is the whole frontage of the land on which the houses are built? I cannot state. While admitting, as I do most fully, that these houses were in great measure built upon ground surrendered by Sir John Jamison, it is to be borne in mind that this portion D, on the opposite side of the street, was purchased by me as part compensation for this ground, and made over to the trustees of the Church.

246. By Mr. Faucett: I imagine that although you state that this portion having a frontage of twenty-nine feet was given as compensation for the right to carry the street through the Church land, still that was more or less mixed up with the consideration of the other compensation—the land given on this side? Yes, quite so.

247. I imagine also, that the giving up this land was the leading feature in your arrangement, still it was so mixed up with the compensations on both sides as not to form a distinct item in the other arrangement? Quite so.

248. By Mr. Piddington: What other compensations existed to justify any mixing up whatever of the land given by Sir John Jamison in exchange for the right of prolonging Jamison-street, and the land purchased for the purpose of erecting the College Buildings? It was impossible to separate the land surrendered for the opening of the street from the portion that the trustees acquired by my purchase from Sir John of the part formerly surrendered to him, and the portion of his own allotment, at the same time.

249. You state that you purchased from Sir John Jamison a portion of the land surrendered to him? Yes.

250. How was that surrendered? It was merely so nominally, to carry out the arrangements on this plan.

251.

<sup>3</sup> ADDED (on revision):—and the right of way was acquired in the usual manner by the efflux of time.

<sup>4</sup> Revised:—There is no portion of the third of the house erected on the ground having the twenty-nine feet frontage to Jamison-street, but a larger portion of the third, and a smaller portion of the fourth, stand upon the back ground acquired from Sir John in 1830.

- Rev. J. D. Lang, D.D., M.L.A.
21 Jan., 1864.
251. Was there any surrender whatever? Certainly not of a legal character, so as to pass the property; there could not be, as the trustees had no power to alienate; it was a mere arrangement of a temporary character, for the settlement of a complicated question.
252. By Mr. Faucett: It was merely an arrangement between the trustees and Sir John Jamison, that that land should be given up on the one side, and the other on the other? Yes.
253. That was not carried into effect by any kind of deed or writing? No.
254. By Mr. Macpherson: Does it not still belong to the trustees? Certainly not. When the street passed obliquely through both properties, it necessarily cut them up so as to leave triangular portions on each side; and it was Mr. Rankin, of Bathurst, that recommended this arrangement, that a line should be run across both allotments, and that Sir John Jamison should have all below and we should have all above that line.
255. By Mr. Piddington: Was that arrangement made by Mr. Rankin or any one else, carried out by any legal instrument? It was not—there was no necessity for a legal instrument in the case.
256. By Mr. Faucett: Was it carried out, in fact, by giving up the use of land on each side? Yes, it was.
257. By Mr. Piddington: Is any portion of the Scots Church allotment given up? Certainly not.
258. By Mr. Faucett: That is what I want to understand. You say the arrangement was carried out on the plan—never by any legal deed; I want to know whether, in point of fact, it was carried out—was the land below that line given up in any way—was that line, in point of fact, made the boundary line between the Scots Church and Sir John Jamison's property? Only till the sale of Sir John Jamison's allotments.
259. That is, only on paper? Yes.
260. Has it, in point of fact, ever since been given up? No.
261. Then, in point of fact, the arrangement came to nothing—was never carried out? No, certainly.
262. By Mr. Dalgleish: Did I understand that you purchased some of that land from your own pocket, and conveyed it to the Trustees of the Scots Church? No.<sup>1</sup>
263. Did you purchase that land from your own funds or the funds of the Church? Entirely from my own; the Church never contributed a sixpence towards the purchase.
264. Does it, in point of fact, now belong to the trustees or to you? It belongs to the trustees. It went so far to cover the exchange with Sir John; but, as this portion was so much smaller, the trustees agreed that I should erect the half-gable for the future manse or dwelling of the minister in the buildings for education that I had made arrangements for building.<sup>2</sup>
265. Did you carry out your arrangements for building the house? I did;<sup>3</sup>
266. Did you do that out of your own pocket or the funds of the Church? Out of my own pocket entirely; there was never any contribution to the buildings from the funds of the Church.
267. Is that half-gable the property of the Trustees of the Scots Church? Unquestionably; it stands on their ground and cannot be removed.
268. By Mr. Piddington: Which half-gable do you allude to? The half-gable of the house I occupy.
269. Do you state that the half-gable of the house you occupy belongs to the Scots Church? Yes.
270. On what grounds? On the ground of the arrangement made in 1831.
271. Is not the house you allude to, including the half-gable, portion of the buildings known as College Buildings? Yes.
272. In what way does any portion of these buildings belong to the Scots Church? Nothing but the half-gable; it is quite a common arrangement in Scotland.
273. I do not what the half-gable means? I cannot help that. It is upon the understanding —
274. I do not recognize understandings, I recognize facts? The fact is —
275. By Mr. Faucett: You state that you purchased this piece with your own money? Yes.
276. You also state that you consider it belongs to the trustees? Yes.
277. You state that for some reason or other you built the half-gable of the upper house, which half-gable belongs to trustees—was it any part of the arrangement between the trustees and you that that triangle B should be left to you, as compensation for building that half-gable? Certainly not.

<sup>1</sup> Revised:—I purchased this portion D from my own funds, and the trustees have had possession of it these thirty-three years, but no legal conveyance has ever yet been made to them. They required no conveyance, however, for the portion B, which, although nominally, was never really alienated by them, and which I purchased back for them.

<sup>2</sup> Revised:—It belongs to the trustees. It went so far to cover the exchange with Sir John, the thirty-one feet of frontage on the north side of Jamison-street being purchased by me for the trustees, in exchange for the twenty-nine feet surrendered to them by Sir John on the south side; but as the portion surrendered by Sir John included a considerable portion of back ground without frontage, the trustees agreed that, in compensation for that ground, I should erect the half-gable for the future manse or dwelling of the minister, in the buildings for education that I had then made arrangements for erecting.

<sup>3</sup> ADDED (on revision):—and in consequence of the reckless extravagance of the architect, the half-gable, erected thirty-two years ago, cost me more than double the value of the ground paid for it in 1831 or 1832.

278. Having purchased B with your own money, and considering it still as the property of the trustees, have you not a right against the trustees to be paid back your purchase money? I do not think it would be practicable under all the circumstances of the case.
279. I do not speak about practicability or lapse of time, such as the statute of limitations, but simply put the question to you, if you purchased that triangle B out of your own money, and now consider it the property of the trustees, and not your own—do you not consider that you have a claim against the trustees for the purchase money? No doubt; <sup>1</sup>
280. By Mr. Piddington: Had any one a legal right to sell you the land; you say you purchased that portion marked B? Certainly not; there was no legal right pretended in the case.
281. By Mr. Macpherson: Who did you purchase it from? You see the whole arrangement here (referring to the plan). "The part B was given up by Dr. Lang, on the part of the Scots Church, to Sir John Jamison."
282. By Mr. Piddington: He did not give it up—I deny it? Of course there was no legal surrender.
283. By Mr. Faucett: This pink line marks out the original Church allotments, separating it from Sir John Jamison's property; on that property the trustees are at present in entire possession, with the exception of the street? Yes.
284. The trustees have parted with no portion of the original allotment, except that which is covered by Jamison-street? Certainly not, with the exception of the ten feet of road in the case I have referred to.
285. By Mr. Dalgleish: There has been added to that original grant that triangular portion which is coloured pink and marked B, which is now contained in the line of the original allotment? The part marked B was part of the original grant; but in order to effect the arrangement with Sir John, we had to draw a line across both allotments, and Sir John was held, pro formâ, to be the proprietor of all below that line; but he was bound to sell it to me at the same rate as the next allotment, and I purchased it accordingly.
286. By Mr. Faucett: Did you purchase it from Sir John Jamison? I purchased this allotment from Sir John Jamison.
287. It was to him you paid the money? Yes, decidedly.
288. By Mr. Piddington: Did he convey you over the land marked B? No.
289. Had he any power to convey it to you? Certainly not. He conveyed this triangle —
290. I am not speaking of that, but of that portion of the Scots Church allotment which you say you purchased from Sir John Jamison? I purchased it pro formâ, Sir John obtaining the same price for it as if it had been really his own.
291. Was not that part marked B, which you say you purchased from Sir John Jamison, a part of the original Scots Church allotment? Yes.
292. Was it ever conveyed by any legal instrument to Sir John Jamison? Certainly not.
293. How could you purchase land from him which was never conveyed to him? It was supposed to be so, as I had to pay as much for it as if he had been the actual proprietor.
294. By Mr. Faucett: Have you any idea of the actual amount you paid to Sir John Jamison? The allotment, with a frontage of thirty-one feet, on the north side of Jamison-street, which I purchased at Sir John's sale in 1831, cost £104; and the other allotment, on the south side, of twenty-three feet frontage, cost £92; but as, for the reasons I have already stated, the final payment was deferred till 1841, the purchase money of both allotments, with ten years' interest, amounted to £497.
295. By Mr. Piddington: Was that land now described, any portion of the allotment marked B and coloured pink in this plan? Certainly not.
296. By Mr. Faucett: I have asked if you could tell the Committee what money you paid Sir John Jamison for this piece marked B? I purchased from Sir John merely this triangular portion, which formed part of his property, and paid him at the rate of the adjoining property; it was supposed to include, although it did not actually include, the whole of this marked B.
297. By Mr. Dalgleish: The property really purchased from Sir John Jamison, is the frontage from the line of intersection marked in red, to a point further down the street, so as to square the property—that was the allotment purchased? Yes, it was.
298. By Mr. Faucett: As I understand the matter, it was simply this: The line which you say was intended to square the property, was drawn out on the plan by arrangement; below that line it was intended by the trustees the land should pass to Sir John Jamison; that above it was intended to remain in the hands of the trustees. The portion marked D and E, being the part of the land that was intended to pass to Sir John Jamison, was valued at some pecuniary amount, and that pecuniary amount, though, in fact, it did not include B, was intended to do so; but as it did not belong to Sir John Jamison, the trustees did not pass it over to Sir John with the intention of Sir John repassing it to you, but he received a money consideration and transferred the triangle that did belong to him, leaving the other triangle to pass to you? Quite so.
299. By Mr. Dalgleish: What consideration did the trustees obtain from Sir John Jamison for squaring the property—It appears that the suppositional squaring the property suppositionally conveyed to Sir John Jamison a triangular portion of land, the property of the Trustees of the Scots Church? They never received any certainly.
300. Then the arrangement was simply a purchase of a certain frontage to Jamison-street, with no depth at the upper corner, that being one of the junctions of the land where Sir John Jamison had actually no land to give, but adjoining the land of the trustees? Quite so.
- 301.

<sup>1</sup> ADDED (on revision):—but the purchase was made for a specific purpose and under a specific arrangement.

- Rev. J. D. Lang, D.D., M.L.A.
21 Jan., 1864.
301. Having a depth about equal to this frontage at the lower side? Yes.
302. And it was for that property you paid £104? For this allotment.
303. Does this allotment, marked C on the other side, belong to the Scots Church? No, that was the allotment that Sir John Jamison bound himself, as well as this D, to sell to me at the same rate as the next allotment.
304. By Mr. Faucett: To sell to you as trustee? To myself individually.
305. Did you make that purchase? I did, in 1831.
306. Do you hold that property in your own hand, or as a Trustee of the Scots Church? I hold it in my own hand—in my own right.
307. By the Chairman: Is not that what the trustees agreed to give up in satisfaction of your claim? Yes.<sup>1</sup>
308. By Mr. Faucett: Are any of the four houses on Sydney—? Yes, the whole of the — houses.
309. By Mr. Dalgleish: Is your own house built entirely on C? Yes.<sup>2</sup>
310. By Mr. Piddington: Did not the conveyance of land from Sir John Jamison to you, include the parcel of land given up by Sir John Jamison to the Trustees of the Church, in consideration of the prolongation of Jamison-street, as well as the two parcels of land purchased by you from Sir John Jamison for a money consideration? Certainly.
311. By Mr. Dalgleish: The whole of it? The whole of it.
312. That question includes, and your answer includes, this portion marked C? Yes.
313. By Mr. Faucett: I understand that you have been for years in receipt of any income derived from the four houses? I have.
314. Suppose the Government should forego the claim under the mortgage, would you be willing to give up the four houses into the hands of trustees, to carry out the original purpose for which the money was advanced? I shall be quite willing to dispossess myself of the whole four buildings, provided the sum I have expended upon them from my own funds be paid to me.
315. Are you willing to give up the four houses into the hands of trustees, for the purpose of carrying out the original object for which the amount advanced upon the mortgage was intended? I am, on the condition I have just stated; otherwise, I do not think that the proposition is a fair one, considering the information I have given to the Committee as to the arrangements that were made on the part of the trustees. I have stated already that on my return to the Colony in October, 1831, the Trustees of the Scots Church met upon the ground, and agreed to certain exchanges and other arrangements, which I have specified sufficiently, in pursuance of their agreement with Sir John Jamison in the year 1830, and the purchase I had made from Sir John to carry out that agreement in September, 1831. These arrangements, I maintain, were definitive arrangements, and they were made by parties who were perfectly competent to make them—that this portion of the ground (referring to the plan), acquired from Sir John Jamison, should be exchanged permanently for this portion A of the Scots Church allotment; and as I had purchased at Sir John's sale, on the part of the trustees, this portion marked D, which was smaller than the portion surrendered by Sir John Jamison, the trustees considered it an equitable arrangement and a sufficient compensation to him, as representing the Church, that I should erect the half-gable of the house that I occupy, for a future manse or dwelling for the minister; it was a definitive arrangement.
316. That is no answer to my question—Perhaps you will be kind enough to consider the matter? I do not think it is a reasonable question, under the circumstances of the case.
317. I will put it also in this form—Whether you will give up the two upper houses to trustees, for the original purpose for which the money was advanced, for I think there is some difference between the two upper and the two lower houses? The two upper houses are erected partly upon the ground that originally formed a portion of the allotment of the Scots Church.
318. By Mr. Piddington: Did you not pay Sir John Jamison for two allotments, purchased from him by you, by borrowing money from the Loan Company, upon two of the College Buildings? I paid Sir John Jamison £497, and I have stated that that money formed part of the money I borrowed from the Loan Company.
319. By Mr. Macpherson: I think you have stated that the grounds on which you are entitled to receive a cancelment of the Government mortgage for £3,500 are, that Government has received a full equivalent for these advances, in the importation of Scotch mechanics and otherwise? And otherwise.
320. Can you state to the Committee anything about the cost incurred by you in importing these immigrants? About £3,000, as I have stated in my previous answers.
321. That was calculating that the immigrants would cost about £25 for each adult? That was rather the sum they agreed to pay for their passage out.
322. Then, if they had paid the sum they agreed to pay, it would have compensated you? It would so far.
323. The total amount of bringing them out cost about £3,500? I have stated about £3,000.
324. Had they paid up for their passage money, you would have had no claim against the Government on that score? No.
325. You admit that some of them paid? About £500 I have stated they paid.
326. That was the total amount you received? Yes, that I got credit for.
327. Then you expended about £3,000, and received back about £500? Yes, from the mechanics.
- 328.

<sup>1</sup> Revised:—The Committee of Investigation of 1841 agreed to give over to me the two lower buildings (the first of which is erected on the allotment marked C), in satisfaction of my claims at that time; the other two being under the Government mortgage.

328. Have you any recollection of having been examined before the Committee on Immigration in the year 1835? I do not recollect particularly.

329. Then I will refresh your memory. In the Minutes of Evidence given before the Committee on Immigration—ordered by the Council to be printed, 16 June, 1835—at page 296, there occurs this sentence in a portion of your evidence:—"The arrangement made with those who were finally engaged was, that they should have employment for twelve months, in erecting the buildings of the proposed College, at the regular wages of the Colony, and that they should repay, by weekly instalments from these wages, the amount of their passage money." Do you remember the occasion on which you were examined? I do not recollect particularly—I have been examined so often.

330. You further state: "The passage money being calculated at £25 for each adult, a sum considerably lower than the rate usually obtained previous to this arrangement, but supposed likely to cover the expenses of this undertaking." Is that substantially correct? Yes.

331. You state "that the number imported under such terms was 140 altogether, including women and children." Is that correct? Yes.

332. "The greater number of them were employed at the buildings they were brought out to erect; and during their employment in that way, they regularly paid a weekly instalment from their wages, towards the liquidation of the debt they had contracted for their passage out." Is that correct? Yes.

333. "In this way the unmarried men paid up the whole of their debt in from six to nine months, and the married men continued to pay up weekly instalments until the buildings were discontinued." Is that correct? Yes.

334. In point of fact, the unmarried men paid up the whole of their debt? Not the whole of them—I did not say that.

335. You stated so, at all events? I may have stated so then, but it was not correct.<sup>1</sup>

336. "Some of the young men were allowed to employ themselves for their own advantage, as they best could, on their arrival in the Colony, and paid regularly £1 a week each from their wages, until their whole debt was liquidated"? That was unquestionably the case with some of them.

337. You stated, at all events, in 1835, that the whole was paid? The whole debt of some of them. I do not think I could have said what you state.

338. I quote from the Report? I do not think that is exactly what I stated.

339. I quote from the Report. Again you go on to state: "Some of the married men, whose original debt was considerably greater than that of the single men, have paid up the whole amount at different periods during the last two years, and others who have not yet paid up the whole amount they originally owed, are not unwilling to make repayment, but having purchased allotments and built houses during my own recent absence in England, when there was nobody in the Colony to remind them of their obligations, they require longer time." Is that correct? I have no doubt it was.

340. In another passage you go on to say—"Those of them who are still indebted for part of their passage money, with the exception of two or three, will ultimately redeem their debts, and these exceptions consist of persons who are not suited to the Colony." Have you any recollection of having made these statements—are they absolutely incorrect? I cannot say.

341. Do you think you would have been likely to have made a statement in 1835 that was not correct? I do not think I should.

342. You have no remembrance of having been examined, before a Committee of the Council, on Immigration at all? I recollect being examined repeatedly upon the subject, but that particular examination I do not remember.

343. Have you no recollection of that particular examination? I cannot say I have.

344. Have you any reason to doubt that you would not have made statements at that time that were not strictly correct? I do not think I would.

345. Have you any reason to doubt the correctness of the Report? I merely stated what was my own impression at the time, although that was not borne out by documents I received from the architect.

346. Your statement, at the date of 1835, is that their debt had been paid by all the single men, and further, that the whole of the married men, with the exception of two or three, would ultimately redeem their debts. Do I understand you to state that the whole amount received by you, from the whole of the passengers, was £500? That is the whole that the architect, Mr. Ferguson, accounted for to me.

347.

<sup>1</sup> Revised:—I may have stated so then, in giving evidence as to the general result of the arrangement—certain unmarried men paying up the whole of their debt within the period mentioned, for that was the important fact in the case; and the married families generally paying weekly instalments. But there were not a few serious shortcomings in the details. For example, Mr. J. W., a young unmarried man, long since dead, paid up the whole of his own passage money; but he was responsible also for his mother's and two sisters' passages, which he did not pay. And Mr. J. T., who was responsible both for his own passage and his sister's, paid neither the one nor the other, having died at an early period, comparatively, after his arrival in the Colony. Had I been able to keep the married mechanics in employment for two or three years after their arrival, and had things remained as they were in the Colony in 1831, I have no doubt but almost the whole of them would have paid up their whole debt by weekly instalments; but I had not only to discontinue employing them, but to go to England again, when I lost sight of most of them. And the Government, in the mean time, encouraged by the example which their successful importation afforded, commenced, in ten weeks after their arrival, or on the 1st of January, 1832, the system of importing men and women of the industrious classes, passage free. Was it reasonable to expect repayment in such circumstances?

- Rev. J. D. Lang, D.D., M.L.A. 347. Can you give us any statement of proportions between the single and married men out of these 140 who came out? Not from recollection.
348. Can you produce evidence? I have no doubt I can.
- 21 Jan., 1864. 349. Can you give us an exact statement, item by item, by what individuals this sum of £500 has been paid? Yes, as far as Mr. Ferguson has given me an account.

THURSDAY, 28 JANUARY, 1864.

Present:—

MR. DALGLEISH, | MR. PIDDINGTON,
MR. MACPHERSON, | MR. STEWART,
MR. SUTHERLAND.

CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Alexander Berry, Esq., called in and examined:—

- A. Berry, Esq. 350. By Mr. Piddington: Were you a subscriber to the funds of the Australian College, some thirty years ago? To a small extent; I had what they called one share in it.
- 21 Jan., 1864. 351. Were you not a member of the original Council? I find I am; I cannot understand how I became a member, because I have no idea how I was elected.
352. Are you aware that Dr. Lang has submitted a proposition to cancel the mortgage given to the Government of this Colony to secure the repayment by him of £3,500? I have seen something about it in the newspapers.
353. Do you desire that the Government, as trustees of the public, should cancel the mortgage in question? Individually I have no desire about the matter; but viewing it as an abstract question, I consider it would be highly improper in the Government to do so.
354. Are you prepared, as a shareholder of the College, to give your consent to the proposal made to cancel the mortgage? The whole affair is so complicated, and involves so many legal questions—there are so many interests implicated—there is the interest of Dr. Lang, the interest of the Scots Church, the interest of the Government which lent the money, the interest of the shareholders, and consequently I certainly would not be justified in saying that I would give my consent to it. I merely answer it as an abstract question; because I really have no feeling in the matter.
355. What steps do you think ought to be pursued, in order that an equitable arrangement should be come to? My opinion is, that an accountant ought in the first instance to be employed, so as to audit and verify all the accounts; and if it cannot then be settled in any other way, it ought to be brought before the Supreme Court, in the form of a friendly suit, so as to avoid expenses of any future litigation or anything in that way. The fact is, that the whole of the conduct of Dr. Lang has been thoroughly illegal from the beginning. His arrangement with the Home Government was, that they were to lend him £3,500, but that it was to be employed in building a College upon the allotment of the Scots Church. Instead of that, there has been comparatively little employed upon that allotment; it has all been chiefly employed upon other land. The conduct of the Trustees of the Scots Church was equally illegal; they had no power to exchange this land belonging to the Scots Church without an Act of Council, consequently that also is illegal. Another thing is the making the street through the allotment of the Scots Church. I considered that rendered the allotment utterly unfit for the purpose. I consider that a College ought to be built in the form of a square, separate from any other place—at least that is the way all Colleges which have come under my notice have been built; not part on one side of a street and part on another. That, however, is a mere matter of opinion.
356. By the Chairman: You never took any particular interest in this institution? No; I do not recollect now how I was appointed, certainly it was not a matter of my seeking, or I would know something about it. I do not recollect attending the meeting held at Underwood's Buildings, on the 23rd December, 1831, but I find in Dr. Lang's "History of New South Wales," first edition, page 353 of volume 2, he says there was a meeting of the shareholders of the institution, and resolutions "adopted as the basis of the future constitution." According to the sixth of those resolutions, the Council were to "have the exclusive management and disposal of the funds of the College, and the entire control of all matters relative to the erection of buildings, the appointment of masters," and so on. I found, with reference to the few meetings I attended, that we made resolutions, but Dr. Lang, though he did not oppose them, never carried them out, and therefore I considered it to be perfectly useless to attend any more. However, there is something very singular—notwithstanding that I and a number of others paid the sum we had promised, David Ramsay, the great friend of Dr. Lang, and who was perfectly subservient to him in everything, according to the list which has been published, only paid a small portion of the sum he subscribed.

Thomas Barker, Esq., recalled in and examined:—

- T. Barker, Esq. 357. By the Chairman: You are one of the original subscribers to the Australian College? Yes.
- 28 Jan., 1864. 358. Were you a shareholder in it? Yes.
359. How many shares had you? I think I paid £125; I think the shares were £5 each.
360. By Mr. Piddington: You were also a member of the original Council of the Australian Council appointed in 1831? I was of the Senate, I think it was termed.

361. Are you aware that Dr. Lang has proposed to Parliament to cancel the mortgage given to the Government of the Colony to secure the repayment of a sum of £3,500? I am, from reading the newspapers and the parliamentary reports. T. Barker,
Esq.
362. As a shareholder and member of the Council, do you desire that the Government, as trustees for the public, should cancel the mortgage as proposed? Certainly not; I consider it would be an act of great injustice to the shareholders and to the public generally. 28 Jan., 1864.
363. Are you of opinion that any steps ought to be taken by the Government, to secure to the Australian College the legal possession of the land and buildings to which it may be equitably entitled? When I gave my evidence before the Committee on the Exchange of Land, I suggested—and I still think it should be carried out—I suggested that the whole of Dr. Lang's accounts connected with these College Buildings, should be thoroughly gone into by an accountant, or competent person, and if anything were due to Dr. Lang that he should be paid for it, and that the building should be applied, as intended, to educational purposes. I have no desire to get my money back, though I object to its remaining as it has for many years.
364. By the Chairman: You do not object to the Government cancelling the mortgage, provided it is a cancellation in favour of the original design of the establishment of an educational establishment—do you object to the cancellation abstractedly, or to the cancellation in favour of Dr. Lang personally? I think it would be an injustice to the community to discharge it in that manner, without an examination of accounts. If Dr. Lang has borrowed money from other persons for these purposes, this fact should be ascertained before any further movement is made in the matter.
365. By Mr. Piddington: Are you aware that the British Government, in 1831, authorized an advance of £3,500 by the colonial authorities of this country, in order that an Australian College should be erected? Yes.
366. Are you aware that, in addition to any advance the public made in that form, certain persons interested in the establishment of an Australian College subscribed nearly £2,000 for that purpose? Yes, rather more than £2,000.
367. Are you of opinion that the whole of that sum of £5,500, or thereabout, was expended in building certain houses in Jamison-street, known as the Australian College Buildings? These amounts were paid to Dr. Lang for that purpose; how it was they were expended I cannot say.
368. It was paid to Dr. Lang for the purpose of being expended in the establishment of a Presbyterian College? Yes, the money was collected from the shareholders for the express purpose, and the money of the Government was to be expended in that way, in accordance with the conditions on which the loan was made by the home authorities.
369. Does not the mortgage given by the Trustees of the Scots Church to secure the repayment of the £3,500, form a kind of indirect security to the public for the application of the money subscribed by the shareholders to the purpose for which it was subscribed? Yes, certainly.
370. If that mortgage were cancelled, there would be no security whatever that one shilling of the public would be applied to the purposes for which it was given? No, because I think if the mortgage were given up to Dr. Lang, we should have no further claim upon the institution, and he might apply those houses as he thought proper.
371. Did not Dr. Lang build four houses in Jamison-street for the purpose of a College? Yes.
372. Has not Dr. Lang mortgaged two of the houses out of the four, and applied the proceeds to his own personal use? I believe so; I have heard so frequently. I do not know the facts from any documents I have seen.
373. Have you reason to believe that only two houses remain, out of the four originally built for a College, that are now applicable to that purpose? Yes, I am told so; many years since I heard that he had mortgaged two of the houses.
374. Is it your opinion that if the mortgage were cancelled, that Dr. Lang would apply the whole of the interest of the public contained in the remaining buildings to his own private purposes? No doubt he would laugh at the shareholders if they made any claim.
375. Would not the interest of the whole of the Presbyterian children of the Colony be surrendered if this claim were yielded to? Not only of the Presbyterian children, but of the children of other sects who might be sent to the institution.
376. Did you ever, in the course of your experience, hear of any application by an individual to apply a public endowment, intended for scholastic purposes, to his own personal use and benefit? No, I think no one would do so, unless the individual had done some important public service to justify such a course.
377. Would any services conferred upon the Government justify the Government in transferring a charitable fund from the purpose for which it was granted, to the pockets of any benefactor of the public? I think not.
378. By the Chairman: Did you take any particular interest in the management of this institution? I was in the Senate, as the Doctor pleased to style the Committee, and we met frequently—I forget now how often—to transact the business. Dr. Lang was Principal of the College, and acted as secretary at the meetings.
379. Can you, after this lapse of time, inform the Committee how the Trustees, or Council, or Senatus, allowed the whole of the affairs of the institution to fall into the hands of one particular person—Dr. Lang. If the College or institution had claims, why did not the Council enforce them, and resuscitate the institution? They never had any power.
380. Was it not competent for them, if they had rights, to obtain them by appeal to a Court of law? We might have done so by going to a Court of Equity.
381. Can you explain how the whole matter has fallen to the ground and become so complicated as it now is? Yes. We all commenced with a full and ardent desire to carry out this undertaking.

T. Barker,
Esq.
28 Jan., 1864.

undertaking. Dr. Lang attended our meetings as secretary, received instructions from us, entered in the minutes by himself, and we never could get him to attend to them. One chief object was to prevent him running into unnecessary expenses and involving the committee in debt. He insisted upon building four houses. We found that the money we were likely to receive from the public would not enable us to complete them, and desired to have only two of them carried on. He was directed accordingly, but he paid no attention to the instructions of the Council. Not only was he Principal and secretary, but he had his own architect, and gave his own instructions. Whenever we met we found the four houses still going on, and Dr. Lang always made some paltry excuse, as that he told them not to go on with the four buildings, but they would do so. Very unpleasant feelings arose in consequence, between the gentlemen of the Council and Dr. Lang: they became disgusted, and would not meet him. There was a great want of candour, to say the least, on the part of Dr. Lang. As a personal friend of the Doctor, I rode round frequently to ask the members to attend the meetings; but at length things went from bad to worse, and they left him with the whole concern on his hands. In fact, he had involved himself in a variety of ways, making promises of payment, so that many of the committee were afraid to mix themselves up with him in pecuniary matters.

382. The institution, then, fell rather into the hands of the Trustees of the Scots Church? They were always the Trustees; we were merely a Senate to complete the buildings, and to conduct the general business of the College, but we had no power over the ground as trustees. The Trustees of the Scots Church were to be the Trustees, as the buildings were to be erected upon land belonging to them.

383. By Mr. Piddington: But it was not really so? We proceeded on the understanding that the buildings were to be built on Scots Church ground, or ground conveyed for that purpose; we never dreamed of the College Buildings being built upon Dr. Lang's or Sir John Jamison's land.

384. By the Chairman: Were you connected with the management of the institution in 1841? I cannot tell you the date exactly.

385. Were you any party to the arrangement by which, as an equitable compensation to Dr. Lang for advances alleged to have been made out of his private means, two of these houses were handed over to him? They were never handed over to him, certainly, by the College Committee.

386. Not as far as you were concerned? No, never.

387. You know nothing, then, of the various transactions of Dr. Lang and the Trustees of the Scots Church with Sir John Jamison, relative to the purchase of various portions of land, sometimes in his own individual name, and at other times on the part of the institution? I recollect something being said of the buying of land of Sir John Jamison, and of the exchange of land with Sir John Jamison, but the land, we always understood, was conveyed to Dr. Lang for the use of the College, merely to hold as a trustee for the uses of the College; and Mr. Norton made out a deed to that effect. We were afterwards surprised to find it was made over to Dr. Lang, so that he was able to apply it as his own real property.

388. Do you remember anything of the report of Sir William Burton upon the College? I recollect reading it in 1838 or 1839.

389. You have no recollection of any of the circumstances under which that report was written? No.

390. Do you recollect whether you were connected with the institution at that time or not? I think not.

391. It has been stated that £2,000 has been received from subscribers;—there is some document of Mr. Wallace's which certifies that only £1,300 has been received? When I was before the Committee on a previous occasion, I shewed that above £1,700 had been received by the treasurer, and that afterwards Mr. Bowman paid £200 (to which Dr. Lang assented), making £1,900 and some odd pounds.

392. By Mr. Piddington: Might there not have been some other persons who had subscribed, and whose names were not on the list? I cannot say.

393. Are you aware that Sir John Jamison was a shareholder, and held two shares in the College? I do not recollect; I left a copy of my list of subscribers here.

394. Are you aware that Sir John Jamison stated in evidence before a Committee of the Legislative Council in 1841, that he was a shareholder to that extent? No.

395. Are you aware that Sir John Jamison's name is not on the list of shareholders furnished to the Committee? No, it is not.

396. By Mr. Stewart: You think there must have been some error in the statement, then, put forward by Mr. Wallace? No, it was from Mr. Wallace's statement I made up mine.

397. By the Chairman: As long as you were on the Council, were you in the habit of going into the accounts periodically, of the salaries of the professors and masters, and the amount of fees received? No, I think the masters' fees were paid by Dr. Lang. They received, I think, £100 per annum. I know they were almost starved—they got very little money. I believe that, as fast as the money was received by the treasurer, Dr. Lang got it for various purposes.

398. By Mr. Dalgleish: You say the masters were almost starved by Dr. Lang? Yes, they were miserably paid.

399. They received only £100 a year? Yes, and a capitation fee—I do not remember how much that was—they were, however, miserably paid.

400. Who paid the expenses of these masters to these Colonies? Dr. Lang, I think, paid the whole, but I do not think we ever received any account from Dr. Lang of what he had paid.

401. Do you know if the whole amount of money that was subscribed by the public, was expended in salaries to the masters, in the purchase of apparatus for the use of the school, and

- and in the passages of these masters to this Colony? No. I will explain to you:—The money was required for the building as fast as it could be got in. The first money drawn from Government (£1,500) had to be applied by Dr. Lang —
402. What amount was the first sum drawn? £1,500; that went to pay the expenses of the ship, "Stirling Castle," for tradesmen brought out, and I dare say it included the passages of the masters. Then all the money obtained went to the building, as far as I can recollect. I do not think there was anything paid out of it on account of Dr. Lang, except, as before stated, for the "Stirling Castle."
403. By Mr. Macpherson: The greater part of these expenses were repaid by the men who came out? They were employed by Dr. Lang for that purpose, but to what extent they repaid the amount I cannot say.
404. By Mr. Dalgleish: Are you aware that Dr. Lang was personally responsible to Lord Goderich for the amount he received from the Government? I do not know what his personal responsibilities might be.
405. Were the Council responsible to Lord Goderich? No, the buildings were to be the security for the repayment.
406. In what way were the buildings to be responsible? By mortgage upon them. The understanding was, that an equal sum to the amount subscribed should be realized from shareholders; and that security on the building should be given to Government.
407. The amount paid by shareholders was £1,300? £2,000.
408. Actually paid? Yes, within a few pounds.
409. Where does that appear? My former statement would shew. I have it here—£1,715, and besides that, £200 was received from Mr. Bowman. Dr. Lang<sup>1</sup> assented to that when I was before a former Committee.
410. By the Chairman: You understood him to assent? Yes, he did assent.
411. By Mr. Stewart: To what date was the account, which shewed this £1,700, made up? There is no date here.
412. By Mr. Dalgleish: Were you an original shareholder? Yes.
413. Was the Council originally founded upon the understanding that Dr. Lang's arrangements with regard to the Scotch mechanics should be carried out by him? I do not think we went into the question of the Scotch mechanics, but we assisted Dr. Lang in the object he had in view, by raising money and seeing it applied to the building these houses. We did go on with them to a certain extent.
414. Was not the bringing out of these mechanics and other persons in the "Stirling Castle" a substantial part of the arrangement with Lord Goderich? I think Dr. Lang got permission from Lord Goderich to apply £1,500 to that purpose.
415. That was a substantial part of the arrangement between Dr. Lang and Lord Goderich? Yes.
416. When the Council was formed, did the members agree to continue to hold Dr. Lang responsible to Lord Goderich? No, they left Dr. Lang to fight it out as he could; he said he had arranged in this way—that the men should work out their passages.
417. You left him with the entire responsibility? Yes.
418. Who was Treasurer for the Council? Mr. Wallace.
419. Had Mr. Wallace the entire control of the moneys collected? Yes, after the Committee ceased to act.
420. And disbursed? I think he must have had instructions to pay money at different times.
421. From the Council? Yes.
422. Were Mr. Wallace's accounts periodically laid before the Council? No.
423. Was that Dr. Lang's fault? I do not think the Council sat long enough for the accounts to be brought forward.
424. Had Dr. Lang anything to do with the neglect of duty on the part of the treasurer? I do not know that he did neglect his duty.
425. Does any detailed account appear of the amounts paid by the treasurer? I think after his death, Dr. Wallace, his brother, produced his account.
426. Is that account placed before this Committee? It has been placed before the Committee which sat on the Exchange of Land.
427. The whole amount, I believe, shewn by that paper of Mr. Wallace's, up to June, 1836, did not exceed £1,300? Received from the subscribers—I cannot say; Dr. Lang has said that two or three times; I cannot say if that is the fact.
428. The paper will shew that, if it can be produced? There it is (referring to the paper handed in to the Committee on the Exchange of Land).
429. That is not Mr. Wallace's writing? That was, I think, in Mr. Wallace's handwriting. That was in my possession many years, and I am pretty sure it was in Mr. Wallace's handwriting.
430. Up to the period of 1836—for I presume that is the time spoken of—was not the whole amount of money expended, so expended with the express sanction of the Council of the institution, in salaries, passage money, house-rent of the different professors who were brought out, and apparatus for the institution? I could not say. With regard to the apparatus, I always understood from Dr. Lang that Dr. Ure made him a present of it. I know he spoke of having had some from Dr. Ure, and I always understood him to say it was a present from him to the College, but when I was here the other day, he said no, he had to pay for them afterwards. You must also bear in mind that while the masters were receiving salaries, the scholars were paying fees, and if you turn to Mr. Wallace's account you will find that they were something considerable.
431. Were not these fees from the scholars paid to the masters? Some proportion of them, no doubt a certain capitation fee was paid to them.

T. Barker,
Esq.

28 Jan., 1864.

<sup>1</sup> INSERTED (on revision):—acknowledges he had received this further sum of £200.

- T. Barker, Esq.
28 Jan., 1864.
432. Has there been a debtor and creditor account of the institution kept? Dr. Lang never gave us an account at all of any sort whatever; it was one of his faults, that he never would render an account.
433. I understood you to say that Mr. Wallace was treasurer, and that all the moneys passed through his hands? Quite so.
434. Would it not be the treasurer's duty to render an account? Dr. Lang should have given an account of the moneys expended, particularly the £1,500 received from the Government.
435. Do you know that it was in Dr. Lang's power to do so—that Mr. Wallace gave him the materials to enable him to do so? We know that Mr. Wallace gave him £1,500 to pay the charges of the ship, and we never had any account of the charges of the ship.
436. I ask if the treasurer kept and laid before the Council a debtor and creditor account of the funds he received and disbursed? I do not know that he did so.
437. You do not remember seeing them? No.
438. Do you believe that the treasurer did not keep any accounts? He did keep accounts, no doubt.
439. If these accounts were not furnished by Mr. Wallace, how could Dr. Lang render an account? He could have learned in a moment by an application to the treasurer.
440. Could not any member of the Council have got them more readily than himself? No.
441. Was it not more the business of the Council than of Dr. Lang? No.
442. In what position did Dr. Lang stand with regard to the Council? He was the head of everything; he would not submit to the control of the Council, and they left him in disgust.
443. At what time did they leave him in disgust? I cannot tell the date; they went on as long as they could, and when they found he was determined to involve them in debt they left.
444. Did the whole of the Council leave? Yes.
445. Without any statement of account being submitted to them? Yes, my impression is I never saw any statement of account.
446. By Mr. Macpherson: Was not that one of the grounds of their leaving—that they could not get any account? No, I think not; we found we could not control the expenditure—that Dr. Lang was determined to get into debt—and we left.
447. By Mr. Dalgleish: Was not the whole control of the expenditure of this money virtually in the hands of the treasurer, as advised by the Council? He received the money and paid it according to orders.
448. Was not the whole government of the College vested in a Council of thirteen? So far vested in them by Dr. Lang.
449. I read now from a document which appears as a Separate Appendix to the Exchange of Land Committee:—"Sydney, 23rd December, 1831. A meeting of the shareholders of this institution, and of other friends of education in Sydney and its vicinity, having been held this day in Mr. Underwood's buildings, Church Hill, pursuant to advertisement (Campbell Drummond Riddell, Esq., Colonial Treasurer, in the Chair), the following resolutions were unanimously adopted as the basis of the future constitution:—"That an academical institution be formed in Sydney, for the education of youth in the higher as well as the elementary branches of useful knowledge. That the said institution be designated "The Australian College," and be available for pupils or students of all religious denominations, on the most moderate terms. That a capital of at least £3,500 be raised, in shares of £25 each, payable by instalments, for the establishment of the said College, and that as the Right Honorable Lord Viscount Goderich, His Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies, has been graciously pleased to grant a loan of £3,500 from the Colonial Treasury, to assist in accomplishing so desirable an object, on condition that a similar amount shall previously be expended on the part of the public, the sum of £3,500 shall accordingly be raised, and applied in erecting the requisite buildings and in meeting the other expenditure already incurred, provided such expenditure shall be found conducive to the general object of the institution. That the government of the College shall be vested in a Council of thirteen, twelve of whom to be annually chosen by the whole body of proprietors, and the thirteenth to be a member of such Council, in right of office, as hereinafter to be stated; any proprietor to be eligible as a member of Council, and four members to constitute a quorum." In what way, then, could Dr. Lang have the control or management of this institution in his own hands, when we find it specially vested in a Council of thirteen? He was Principal and Secretary, and had already involved himself so much in the affairs of the institution, by becoming liable for such amounts, and had the right to draw this money (£1,500), that we found we were quite unable to do anything with it.
450. We find "That the Rev. John Dunmore Lang, D.D., be the Principal of the said College, but without emolument, and without any active share in the business of education, until the completion of the arrangements into which he has entered with His Majesty's Government, for the establishment of the said College; as also with certain Scotch mechanics, for the erection of the requisite buildings, and with certain parties in England, for the payment of books, apparatus, &c.; on the completion of which arrangements he shall surrender the said office into the hands of the Council." He himself was held responsible personally, for the debts he incurred, and the money he received from the treasurer.
451. That was what I asked you previously—if he was not entirely responsible for the whole of the money expended on this building till the whole matter was completely arranged—if that were the case, in what way is Dr. Lang now liable, seeing the Council have never carried out their part of the agreement—that they have never contributed or obtained subscriptions to the amount of £3,000? We never undertook to collect £3,500, or any sum.
452. By Mr. Piddington: Did Dr. Lang assume the entire control of the undertaking? Yes, from the beginning.

453. Did Dr. Lang carry out the wishes of the Council? No.
454. By Mr. Dalgleish: Was Dr. Lang in a position to over-ride the Council? Yes.
455. Are we to understand that thirteen men were so weak-minded—so void of principle—as to allow one man to run them into debt? He had already run himself into debt, and other liabilities, that the Committee could not interfere.
456. Was not that an additional reason why these men, thus placed over the institution to manage its affairs, should restrain him? We could only restrain him by paying the debts, and becoming responsible, and looking to the receipts for the repayment.
457. In what way is that shewn when you appointed a treasurer who received and disbursed the moneys? Because Dr. Lang, before he came out, became so involved with the "Stirling Castle" that he was obliged to get this money to defray the cost of bringing out immigrants; he had also agreed to find these men work, in order to enable him to repay the money.
458. Did you throw up your part of the agreement before these accounts could be rendered to you? Yes, before Dr. Lang could have got this money from these people; for at this time the buildings were not very far advanced, seeing that they were going on with the whole four.
459. In what way can you blame Dr. Lang for not giving an account to a body which was dissolved before he could do so? He would do as he pleased, as I have before shewn.
460. I am at a loss to understand how thirteen persons, who were appointed sole directors of this institution, could allow one man to control them as he liked. As a matter of fact, if the public have been robbed, who were the most culpable, those gentlemen who stated that Dr. Lang has robbed the public, or those who allowed the public to be robbed? That is not a question for me to answer.
461. Was Mr. Wallace Treasurer to the Council, or to Dr. Lang as an individual? He was Treasurer to the College.
462. That is to say, to the Committee or Council of the College? He was called Treasurer for the College.
463. By the Chairman: Is there any particular date you could fix, when all the Council renounced the control of the institution, on the ground of any distinct mismanagement, from which time Mr. Wallace acted? He must have acted afterwards, because he paid many sums.
464. You could fix no date when you abdicated your functions? No.
465. By Mr. Dalgleish: Will you say whether Mr. Wallace was chosen by the public as treasurer, or by the twelve or thirteen gentlemen who were chosen to be the Council? I think he was appointed at the meeting, when we were all elected.
466. Then, it appears that Mr. Wallace was in reality the Treasurer for the Council? You will have it so; I do not say so.
467. Can you charge your memory so as to speak of your own knowledge, whether Mr. Wallace acted as Treasurer for the Council? I cannot.
468. By the Chairman: Are you prepared now to take any interest in the College? No, I am living in the country.
469. Do you know any of the original shareholders who are? There are Messrs. William and George Bowman—Mr. George Bowman is very infirm; Mr. Brodie is a carpenter somewhere about in Sydney; Mr. R. Campbell, tertius, is at home; Mr. James Chisholm is alive, living at Goulburn; Mr. Gilchrist is at home; Mr. Robert How and Mr. Manning are also at home; Mr. Thomas Walker is in Melbourne.
470. By Mr. Dalgleish: Did the Council take the exclusive management and disposal of the funds of the College—the entire control of all matters relative to the erection of buildings, the appointment of masters, the amount of salaries, the regulation of fees, and the purchase of property, books, or apparatus, for the College? These ought to have been under the control of the Council or Committee; but Dr. Lang, by arrangement with Home Secretary for the Colonies, got £1,500 for which no account was given—he had previously to calling the public meeting, bought books and apparatus, and made arrangements with the masters. I do not think Dr. Lang paid anything except the salaries of the masters.
471. By the Chairman: Do you know where Mr. Wallace's accounts are—have you seen any of them? I do not think so, except those published in this paper. (The Separate Appendix.)
472. By Mr. Stewart: Dr. Lang put one matter as a set-off in his claim, that the immigrants originally introduced were at a loss to himself of £2,000—are you aware whether at that period immigration commenced at the public expense? No, I cannot say.
473. That is one ground that the Doctor urged—that he had lost £2,000 of the advance, as a sufficient reason for the favourable consideration of this matter? He always told us that he had arranged with the men that they should repay the amount of their passage money out of the wages receivable from their work.
474. He has stated that out of the £2,500 paid for the men so introduced, he has not received back more than £500—that when the change in the mode of carrying on immigration came into operation, the men discontinued paying up the amounts? I never saw the accounts.
475. By Mr. Piddington: Are you aware that Dr. Lang, in his "History of New South Wales," vol. 2, p. 235, states:—"In six or eight months thereafter" (that is after their arrival), "all the unmarried men had paid the whole of their passage money by weekly instalments from their wages; and when the buildings were at length necessarily discontinued for a time, the greater number of the married mechanics had paid about two-thirds of theirs. In short, the experiment proved completely successful"—Are you aware that Dr. Lang has made that statement in reference to the immigrants by the "Stirling Castle," in his own work? No.

<sup>1</sup> NOTE (on revision):—This is an error; I do not see the question to which it is a reply; it should be struck out, as an error of mine; it is not correct.—T.B.

- T. Barker, Esq.
28 Jan., 1864.
476. Will you look at that (handing Dr. Lang's "History of New South Wales" to the witness)? Yes, I observe it is so.
477. Dr. Lang states in his own work, that all the unmarried men and two-thirds of the married men paid all the money advanced on account of their passage money, in six or eight months? Yes; he speaks of the high moral character of the men he brought out, and therefore it is to be inferred that they kept their engagements.
478. Did not Lord Goderich expressly limit the advance of money out of the £3,500, on account of the passage of the Scotch immigrants, to £1,500? Yes.
479. Are you aware that, in the years 1835-6 and 7, the sums received from the fees of scholars, by Wyld and Mackenzie, left a surplus of £240? No.
480. Are you aware that that sum of £240 was applied to the repair of the College Buildings? No.
481. By Mr. Sutherland: Were you more than one year in office? I cannot fix the time at all; I have no documents by me that would enable me to bring the matter to my memory; but being a friend of Dr. Lang, I continued longer than most, and did all I could to bring them (the Committee) together, but they got disgusted and would not meet him.
482. By the Chairman: You know nothing of his having sacrificed his own property, and invested the amount derived from it in these buildings? No.

CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

George Bowman, Esq., called in and examined:—

- G. Bowman, Esq.
4 Feb., 1864.
483. By the Chairman: You were one of the original shareholders of the Australian or Scotch College? I was.
484. How many shares did you take? Sixteen, at £25 each.
485. Did you take any particular interest in the affairs of the College for any time? I was always anxious to see it progress, and I sent four or five of my sons to it.
486. Did you attend any of the meetings in connection with it? Yes, when I became a Trustee of the Church I used to attend the meetings (these meetings were very seldom) of the shareholders of the College, but I was not one of the Council; I was elected a Trustee of the Church property some years ago. The College is built upon the Church property, part of it,<sup>1</sup> and part of it was a grant to the Church.
487. Do you consider all the land on Church Hill to belong to the Church, or have you any idea that any portion of it belongs to the College as distinct from the Church? There was a piece bought from Sir John Jamison—that is distinctly the property of the College. There was not room enough on the Scots Church property to build a College and dwellings for the professors, and Dr. Lang agreed with Sir John Jamison for a slip on which two or three of the College Buildings have been erected.
488. Is any portion of the College Building on the property of the Scots Church? Yes, portions of two of the houses, and the greater portion of the other two are on a piece bought from Sir John Jamison by Dr. Lang.
489. You understood that he bought that portion on which the two lower houses are erected, for a College? Yes, I have it from his own mouth. The buildings were up, and he had not paid for the land, and he told me himself that Sir John Jamison had applied for the money, and had said, "If you do not pay me for that land, I have two sons-in-law, and I shall give each one of the houses." Dr. Lang told me that he had consulted with his friends, and they advised him to have a conveyance made to him for uses, and to mortgage the houses; that he had done so, and raised the money from the Trust or Loan Company.
490. Could you give the Committee any information generally upon this matter, more particularly with reference to the position of yourself and brother shareholders, as to their interest in this trust? What I have now told you about the land coming from Sir John Jamison, I got from Dr. Lang himself. Knowing that he had mortgaged it, I said, "How came you to mortgage the College property?" He told me he could not get the money to pay for the land, and therefore he was advised to mortgage it, and got £1,500 upon a mortgage.
491. What is the position of the shareholders at the present moment, with reference to that property? They have an interest in that property, as far as their shares go. Dr. Lang paid the largest amount towards it; I subscribed and paid £400, at different times.
492. Can you give the Committee any information with reference to the sums alleged to have been advanced, from time to time, by Dr. Lang, to complete the buildings and carry on the College? Not at this moment. If I had had time to look at some documents I have in my possession, I could have told, to a pound, the valuation of these premises, as they were valued and reported to the Committee.

<sup>1</sup> NOTE (on revision):—This was land purchased by Dr. Lang from Sir John Jamison, to extend the College property, the Church land not being sufficient.

493. You are aware that Dr. Lang has made an application to the Government to release the mortgage? Yes, that will be for the general benefit of the proprietary. G. Bowman,
Esq.
494. You think it ought to be? It ought to be, I think. 4 Feb., 1864.
495. Do you think the shareholders would carry on the institution as originally designed, and renew their interest in it? I do not think there are shareholders enough. Dr. Lang is the largest shareholder. I think there was only about £1,600 subscribed; I know I gave £400, and I believe my brother gave £200.
496. By Mr. Macpherson: I think that is a list of shareholders—perhaps that will assist your memory (handing witness the list appended to Mr. Barker's evidence before the Committee on the Exchange of Land, Scots Church)? This does not shew the whole amount of shares. I had sixteen shares, for which I paid and for which I hold receipts.
497. It is clear then that the list is not correct? Yes; I paid £400 for which I hold receipts.
498. You observe that it is stated there that certain amounts subscribed were not paid? Every farthing of mine is paid.
499. It is stated here that £250 was subscribed by you, and only £50 paid? I hold receipts for the whole; some from the treasurer, Mr. Wallace, and some from Dr. Lang himself.
500. Then it is a false return, so far as your subscription is concerned? It is not correct as far as I am concerned.
501. By Mr. Piddington: Have you any documents that you think would be serviceable to the Committee—would you wish to have your examination postponed in order that you may produce them? I have no objection to look up what documents I have and furnish them to the Committee. I can bring my receipts for the payment of this money.
502. By the Chairman: The purpose for which I particularly wished you to attend the Committee was, that you—having, as one of the shareholders, communicated with me—might have an opportunity of stating to the Committee the present position of yourself and brother shareholders with reference to this trust property? I consider that we have an interest in that property, not according to what we have subscribed, but according to what we have actually paid, for it appears that there have been more subscriptions than payments made.
503. Do you wish to state anything to the Committee with reference to this application of Dr. Lang to have this mortgage released? I think it ought to be released for the benefit of all the shareholders, Dr. Lang included.
504. By Mr. Faucett: For the benefit of Dr. Lang personally? He can have no further interest than any other shareholder beyond the extent of his subscription.
505. Would it be just to the shareholders to release that mortgage for the individual benefit of Dr. Lang? No.
506. Dr. Lang tells us that he is the sole trustee of the College Buildings at present, and he himself, as I understand, claims a personal interest independently of his trusteeship? He has a large interest for money advanced.
507. What I want to have your opinion upon is this: His having any right to call upon the Government to release the mortgage upon these buildings, so that the benefit should apply to him alone personally? No, he has not; we should all have the benefit from it so far as our payments went.
508. Suppose the Government should release the mortgage, would there be any possibility of carrying out the original trusts for which these buildings appear to have been erected? These buildings were formerly intended to be for the residences of the professors, where they might take boarders. The College was to be built upon that piece of land at the top of the hill, opposite the church door, where there has been considerable excavation made for the foundation of the College or class-room, but not laid.
509. In other words, these buildings were intended as a part of the College or educational programme, if I may call it so? Yes, as residences for the professors.
510. If the Government released the mortgage upon these buildings, would it be possible for the shareholders to carry out the original intention for which, in fact, that money was advanced—that is, for the purposes of education? I am afraid they would not be able to raise funds to do it. Building is much more expensive than it was at the time these houses were erected.
511. By Mr. Macpherson: Does the foundation of the College still remain, or has the ground been built upon? I have not been there for a long time, but I believe the ground is still vacant.
512. By Mr. Piddington: Are you desirous that all the four houses known as the College Buildings should be transferred from the objects for which they were built, and the proceeds applied by Dr. Lang for his own exclusive benefit? No, I am against that.<sup>1</sup>
513. When Dr. Lang stated to you that his friends advised him to mortgage the two lower houses, did he state that he intended to have a conveyance made to him in trust? Yes, "for uses," and thereby enable him to borrow money on them.
514. Did he convey to you the idea that the conveyance was to be to him as trustee, for the purposes of the College? Yes, "for uses." He said he had taken the advice of friends, and they advised him to take a conveyance in trust.
515. For the purposes of the College? He did not say for what purposes.
516. After obtaining a conveyance from Sir John Jamison of the land upon which the two lower houses have been built, had Dr. Lang himself, in your opinion, any right to make use of that property, and apply the proceeds as he pleased, as an individual? No, it was the property of the company of shareholders.

517.

<sup>1</sup> Revised:—If the buildings are sold or diverted from their original intention, each shareholder should have his money returned, with interest, and Dr. Lang paid in the same way for all advances made by him, deducting what he may have received in rents; &c.

G. Bowman,
Esq.

4 Feb., 1864.

517. By Mr. Faucett: Following up that question—Are you aware that Dr. Lang has been for several years in the receipt of any profits that have been derived from those buildings? I believe he has received the whole of the profits; he let them, and received the rents.

518. Was that done by consent of the shareholders? Not by my consent, nor was there a meeting of shareholders called respecting it.

519. Do I understand that Dr. Lang has taken upon himself, without the consent of the shareholders, to manage these buildings, and to derive whatever income he could from them? Yes, to pay himself. The buildings were in his debt; he sold an immense quantity of property, at a very low price, to carry on these buildings. That property would not be four times the value it realized.

520. Does it not appear that he managed these four houses, and applied the proceeds to his own benefit, for the purpose of reimbursing himself for these advances? That was my impression.

521. Was that done, or not done, with the consent of the shareholders? I do not think they were ever asked, or that any meeting of shareholders was called.

522. Did the shareholders ever object? I do not know who they were, except my brother, and one or two others. Although I am so intimate with Mr. Barker, I never had any conversation with him about it.

523. It is not an unlikely thing that, when Dr. Lang had the houses in his hands, and when they were not used for the original purpose for which they were intended, that the shareholders would consent to his managing the property in the best way he could, and applying the proceeds in reimbursing himself for his advances? I think that only just, but if there were any surplus it ought to have been devoted to the carrying on of the College.

524. Have you had any account from Dr. Lang? Yes, we had some years ago; it was a printed account; the building was valued, but there has been no other account. I have asked the Doctor to render an account, and he has said he would.

525. Has he done so? Never to me.

526. Has he to any other shareholder? Not that I am aware.

527. Have you and the other shareholders given up this business as hopeless? I have not.

528. Do you expect at any time to convert these buildings to the purpose for which they were intended? I am afraid not these individual buildings; but they may be sold, and the proceeds be applied to the erection of another building elsewhere.

529. That is, if Dr. Lang's hold upon these ever ceases? Yes, and the way to bring that about is to pay him off.

530. Who is to do that? By the sale of the buildings.

531. Not the Government? I think the shareholders should be consulted.

532. You think the shareholders should pay him off? Yes.

533. Do you think really that the shareholders will ever pay Dr. Lang the money he has advanced upon this building, for the purpose of getting them into their own hands? Not until the buildings are sold.

534. Do you think they will ever try to sell the buildings? I do not see how they can,<sup>1</sup>

535. By Mr. Piddington: Are you aware that, besides the contributions from shareholders, Government advanced £3,500, in order to assist in the building of this College? I have always heard so.

536. Are you aware that the Government of New South Wales obtained from the trustees of the Scots Church a mortgage, in order to secure to the Government the repayment of that money? There was an Act passed to enable the trustees to mortgage that property.

537. Are you aware of any other security, direct or indirect, that the Government or the shareholders possess, that might be used to enforce the application of these buildings to the purposes of a College, besides the mortgage? Only the agreement between the shareholders; they subscribed and took as many shares as their means allowed. I took two shares at first, and as my means increased, I took more.

538. You consider that you have an equitable claim upon the buildings, to the extent of the amount subscribed for the purposes of a College? Yes.

539. You are unwilling that your interest should be transferred to the pockets of Dr. Lang for his benefit? If there is anything due to him on account of the buildings, let them be sold, and let him be paid.

540. Are you aware that he seeks that the whole of these buildings, not now mortgaged by him, should be in effect so dealt with as that he should have the sole and exclusive benefit? No, I do not think it is just that he should.

541. Are you aware that that is his avowed object? No, I am not.

542. By Mr. Stewart: Do you know how long it is since the shareholders gave up taking any part in the management? No, I am not—I am not aware that the shareholders had done so; there was a committee appointed, and trustees were also appointed.

543. By Mr. Dalgleish: When you allude to shareholders, I presume you refer to the gentlemen put down in this list as subscribers to the Australian College? Yes, we considered them as shareholders.

544. Were you present at a meeting of shareholders held in Underwood's Buildings, Church Hill? I do not think I was.

545. By the Chairman: Do you remember whether you were present at the original meeting? Yes.

546. By Mr. Dalgleish: Did you ever have a copy of the rules that were adopted at that meeting, 23 December, 1831? I do not think I ever had.

547.

<sup>1</sup> ADDED (on revision):—as they are built partly on the Church property, and partly on land bought from Sir John Jamison, for uses—meaning, I presume, the College.

547. Are you aware that certain rules for the regulation and management of the business of the College were adopted by the shareholders? I do not remember; I do not think I was there; it is a good many years ago. G. Bowman,
Esq.
548. Will you turn to page 33 of the Report of the Select Committee on the "Exchange of Land, Scots Church, Jamison-street, Legalizing Bill"? (The witness referred to the same). 4 Feb., 1864.
I was not at that meeting—that was held before shares were open to the public.
549. Allow me to point out the fifth and sixth resolutions (reading the same)—are you aware whether this law was ever carried into effect? I never heard of it to my recollection before. I have heard some portion; for instance, Dr. Lang was the Principal of the College, and the professors that were with him were to act whenever anything was to be done, but I do not think they ever acted or did anything officially.
550. Will you look at the fourteenth resolution (reading the same)—was that law ever carried out? I think that must have been before I joined—I do not recollect anything of that.
551. You will observe that these are the rules for the regulation of the College, which were agreed to before the formation of the company? I do not think I ever saw or heard them read before—I think all these laws were made before I became a subscriber.
552. By the Chairman: It is very possible a copy may have been given to you, as a subscriber? I have no recollection of it.
553. Perhaps you may have a copy among your papers? I may.
554. When you come again you may refresh your memory? Yes.

The Honorable John Hubert Plunkett, Esq., Q.C., M.L.C., examined:—

555. By Mr. Piddington: You, for many years, held the office of Attorney General for New South Wales? Yes. The Hon.
J.H. Plunkett,
Esq., Q.C.,
M.L.C.
556. Do you recollect proceedings being taken in the Supreme Court of the Colony, with a view to recover the sum of £3,500 secured to the Government by mortgage upon the buildings and land of the Scots Church in Jamison-street? Yes, I have a recollection of the suit that was instituted. 4 Feb., 1864.
557. Will you oblige the Committee, by stating, as far as you can, the leading object and points of the application to the Supreme Court? According to the best of my recollection, the suit was instituted when I was on leave of absence in England. In the year 1842 a bill in Equity was filed to foreclose a mortgage. The bill was filed in the name of the acting Attorney General of the day, afterwards Mr. Justice Therry; Mr. a'Beckett was the Solicitor General at that time. It was after I returned from England that the case came to a hearing, and therefore I had nothing to do with the initiation of the suit. I understood it was at the instance of the Home Government that proceedings were taken. There was a cross bill filed by some of the persons interested in the Scots Church, against the Attorney General and Mr. Macpherson, in whose name the original mortgage deed was given, on behalf of the Crown, and the two suits came on to be heard together, the cause and the cross cause, and I find the judgments in each reported here (referring to a book). "Reserved and Equity Judgments of the Supreme Court of New South Wales, delivered during the year 1845." This book was published in 1846, and printed by Messrs. Kemp and Fairfax. I understand that these judgments were collected from the reported judgments that appeared at different times in the Sydney Morning Herald, and were revised by the Judges themselves. Indeed, I have reason to know that these judgments were revised by Mr. a'Beckett, who was acting as Primary Judge in Equity at the time these suits came to hearing. The judgment of the Court will be found in this book—"Tuesday, 18th February, 1845. The Attorney General and another v. Campbell and others." The cross cause was, "Campbell and another v. the Attorney General and others." They were heard on different days, but the Judge delivered these judgments, according to my recollection, on the same day; one in connection with the other. I place these before the Committee. (The witness handed in copies of the judgments referred to. Vide Appendix.)
558. By Mr. Piddington: Do you recollect the grounds assigned by the Judge for his opinion that the case on the part of the Crown was without foundation? As will appear on looking at that judgment, the decision in the foreclosure suit was in favour of the Crown, so far as the foreclosure; but there was no decision given on one part of the prayer, which was to this effect, that in case the deed was not valid in law, the trustees should be compelled to give a fresh deed. I think that was the second part of the prayer. The defence set up was this: that the mortgage deed appeared to be signed in February, 1833, and that the Act of Council to authorize the trustees to mortgage the church property, though it received the Royal assent before, was not published in the Government Gazette until July, 1834. There seemed to be extraordinary delay in it. I have some recollection of the circumstances attending the handing over of the money. I recollect my predecessor, Mr. Kinchela, telling me that when Dr. Lang was in England, his mother, a very intelligent, fine, intellectual old lady, and very persevering, came to his office so repeatedly to get his authority for the payment of the money, that he at last yielded; and it is evident that he relied more upon the honour of the trustees in the matter than upon the law of the case, for it was very clear that the Government ought not to have given the money until the Act was proclaimed in the Government Gazette.
559. Until the Act came into force? Yes; the Act appears to have passed the Legislature here on the 13th October, 1832. The last clause is to this effect:—"That this ordinance shall not commence or take effect until the same shall have received the Royal approbation and the notification of such approbation shall have been made by His Excellency the Governor in the New South Wales Government Gazette."

The Hon.
J.H. Plunkett,
Esq., Q.C.,
M.L.C.

4 Feb., 1864.

560. Then the suit failed on a technical ground connected with the proclamation of the Act of Council? The suit failed. In the cross cause the Judge decided that in his opinion the deed was invalid in law and in fact; and I think there can be very little doubt about it that the deed has no validity.

561. By Mr. Faucett: No step I suppose was taken after that to compel the trustees to execute a mortgage? The Judge declined to decree it, and from his judgment in the other case he took all ground from under the Crown to go further in the matter.

562. By Mr. Piddington: Do you not think the Government could make the existing so-called mortgage a ground for a suit in equity, in order to compel Dr. Lang to make a valid mortgage? That was the object of the suit. I will state from this what the prayer of the petition was. The Judge says,—“This is a foreclosure suit, to which a defence has been made on two grounds—first, that the mortgagee has no legal title; and secondly, that if he has, the conveyance by which he has acquired it amounts to a breach of trust. The prayer of the bill, in anticipation of such a defence, asks not only for a decree of foreclosure, but that if it should appear to the Court that the mortgagee’s title is incomplete; that the mortgage security may be decreed to constitute a valid equitable lien upon the lands mentioned therein, and that the proper parties might execute to the mortgagee a valid conveyance, and do all things necessary to place him in the same position he would have stood in as if the mortgage in question had been valid at the time of its execution.”

563. By Mr. Faucett: What is the reason given by the Judge for refusing the latter part? As I am with the plaintiffs on this portion of the relief asked, I abstain from pronouncing any opinion as to the other, though I confess I should feel great difficulty in affording it him on the ground of equitable lien, on a bill framed and in a suit conducted like the present. Before I could do so I should have to determine the question of breach of trust, for which purpose I should wish to see the body interested in that question (the members of the Scots Church) more substantially represented than they seem to be by the two defendants, Smith and Campbell, who, though sued as elders, did not even appear at the hearing, but left the point to be raised by the principal author of the alleged breach of trust, a party, of all others, that a Court of Equity would desire to see silent on the subject.”

564. That part of the prayer, that the parties might be ordered to execute a regular mortgage, is refused merely on technical grounds? It is refused in that way; but as the judgments were delivered one in connection with the other, I think the reason given in the other suit is the explanation.

565. Will you be kind enough to refer to the reasons given on that point in the other suit? In the cross suit the Judge says, “This is a suit instituted for the purpose of counteracting the effect of a bill filed by two of the present defendants against the other defendants, and the present plaintiffs, of which, in the judgment just pronounced, I have already stated the objects. The case, however, must be dealt with according to its own merits, without reference to the suit to which I have alluded. The prayer asks that certain indentures of mortgage may be delivered up to be cancelled, for a re-conveyance of the property therein mentioned, and that in the mean time the mortgagee (the defendant Macpherson) may be declared a trustee thereof for the plaintiffs, freed and discharged from the mortgage debt of £3,520 secured thereby.” Then he goes on to state what was the evidence, and so forth. After citing a great many cases of trustees exceeding their powers, he goes on, “This is the footing upon which long leases of charity estates are set aside in Courts of Equity, but here, I doubt not whether the trustees have abused their power, but whether they have any power to convey at all. Were it not for the recital in their own deed, I should have had some difficulty in determining that they had not conveyed the legal estate, however improperly the power might have been exercised; but in the face of that recital, and the Act to which it refers, I see no way, I confess, of arriving at any other conclusion. They assume to do, in 1833, what, upon their own shewing, they were only empowered to do by an ordinance which had no force until 1834. They as much exceed their powers as the trustees did in the case cited of Fairtitle v. Gilbert, 2 T. R., 169, in which case, the parties claiming under a mortgage deed from trustees, were non-suited, on objections very similar to those made to the present deed. Though I may reluctantly decide so, therefore, I am of opinion that the present deed is invalid at law, and that being so, I have no jurisdiction to enter into the question of breach of trust. It is from no desire to evade that question that I do not decide it; and if it were now necessary to pronounce an opinion upon it, I should be quite prepared to do so. In guarding myself, however, from saying anything that will not leave that question entirely open to the parties, should it come again before me, I cannot refrain from expressing a hope that it will be raised in a more bonâ fide shape than—I cannot help observing—it has assumed in the hands of the present plaintiffs.”

566. So, in fact, the question never was decided? —

567. By the Chairman: You thought it was, impliedly? I was always under the opinion, after the best consultation I could have, that the Government was powerless, from the oversight which was committed in taking the deed, which the trustees had no power to give until they were authorized by this Act; and although it was an extraordinary defence for any of the trustees to set up, yet, being raised before the Court, I do not think the Court could decide in any other way. Indeed I have been long of opinion that it would be more graceful in the Government to make a virtue of necessity, and give up the deed to the parties it was originally intended to benefit.

568. By Mr. Stewart: It was your impression at the time, from the decision, that there would be a difficulty in Government enforcing the mortgage? I do not see how the Government can ever enforce it by law.

569. By Mr. Faucett: You come to this, that money has been advanced upon security which turns out to be valueless, and that the persons who received the money are inaccessible to law, I suppose from lapse of time; that what was supposed to be a mortgage to the Government turns out to be nothing more than the personal security of the recipients of the money? In the first instance, my predecessor, by an oversight, having a great wish, no doubt, to oblige the parties who were pressing for the money, did that which the law did not authorize, and gave an opinion that the money might be paid when the mortgage deed was executed. That was in February, 1833; and strange enough, the Act which authorized the giving the mortgage was not proclaimed until July, 1834.

The Hon.
J. H. Plunkett,
Esq., Q. C.,
M. L. C.

4 Feb., 1864.

570. Still the fact remains, that certain persons, who call themselves trustees, received this money for a particular purpose, and gave what was supposed, at the time, to be a valid security, and that security turns out to be valueless; and then the fact remains, that these persons become personally liable for the money they had received—the security became a nonentity? The mortgage deed was valueless.

571. Then the security turned out to be no security, and consequently the remaining fact is, that those who received the money were still personally liable to the Government for the money they had received? I do not know who received the money.

572. But some persons received the money, there is no doubt of that? The money was given over to persons, I suppose, considered to be properly authorized by the trustees, or to the trustees themselves. That is all recited in the deed, and Mr. Macpherson, who looked after the Government business, I have no doubt, very sharply, so far as he was concerned, acted strictly in accordance with the opinion of the law officers of the day, and considered that he was paying the money to the proper persons. I recollect that these buildings, which were considered to be the finest that had been erected in Sydney up to that time, were going on with great vigour, and it was evident that the money was required to carry them on—that they could not be built without the money. Besides, it was deemed desirable that this academical institution should be brought into operation as soon as possible. It was not then known, and I do not think any inquiry was made at all, whether these buildings were erected upon land that was mortgaged to Government or not. It was afterwards that I heard there was a mistake, and that the buildings had not been erected upon that land.

573. Still, returning to the same point, setting aside the mortgage deed as a mortgage, certain persons who executed that mortgage deed admit that they received a certain sum from the Crown, or from Mr. Macpherson, representing the Crown; surely those persons are responsible to the Crown—is not that the case? That is a matter of law I will not decide. The money was given for certain public purposes, not for the individual benefit of the trustees; and the Government certainly ought to have looked better after the matter, to see that those public purposes were carried out; in fact, the academical institution was in operation several years, and appeared to be very flourishing. It was for some years considered the best school in the Colony. How it afterwards changed, I do not know.

574. By Mr. Macpherson: I think the sum of all the information you have given is this, that the security over the land is waste paper, and that there is no means of compelling any person to give a good security? That is my opinion.

575. By the Chairman: And you never have thought the Government would be wise to take any steps at Common Law or Equity, even if they had the power to enforce the agreement, or supposed agreement? I have not thought so. I may mention this fact connected with the proceedings:—The suit, as I before stated, was instituted when I was in England, Mr. Therry and Mr. a'Beckett being Attorney and Solicitor Generals. I understood that the bill was drawn by the Solicitor General, Mr. a'Beckett, who was the Judge who afterwards sat upon and decided the case. I had no discretion in the matter but to argue the case; but if afterwards I had seen any way, by law or equity, of enforcing the claim, it would have been my duty to do so. I consulted with the Solicitor General—I forget whether it was Mr. Forster or Sir William Manning—and on one or two occasions we had the advantage of a consultation with Mr. Broadhurst, and it was the ultimate opinion of the three, that no proceedings we could then institute would be likely to succeed.

576. By Mr. Faucett: Were the persons who received the money at that time liable—when the Statute of Limitations could not operate—was that mode of trying the question considered, do you recollect? I am sure it was considered in every shape in which it could be; it was turned inside out. I recollect that at first it was thought we might proceed by way of experiment, but afterwards, on further consultation, we considered it would be useless. In those days the local Government had little discretion in the matter; they were under the direction of the Imperial Government.

MR. PIDDINGTON, | MR. STEWART,
MR. MACPHERSON.

CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

George Bowman, Esq., called in and further examined:—

- G. Bowman, Esq.
25 Feb., 1864.
577. By the Chairman: Have you refreshed your memory since you were last examined by the Committee, by reference to the documents which you then informed the Committee were in your possession—if so, will you have the kindness to state to the Committee what information you may now have to give, in reference to the subject matter of their inquiry? I do not know whether there was any dispute as to my proprietorship of the College to any amount, but I have brought the documents to prove that I paid £400. (Produced.) There are all the documents there except one for £10, I think, the first instalment.
578. By Mr. Stewart: Are those the receipts? Yes.
579. By the Chairman: Were these payments on your own account, or on account of yourself and friends? On my own account only; I had sixteen shares of £25 each.
580. By Mr. Piddington: Do you state that you paid Dr. Lang the sum of £400 as your liability upon sixteen shares in the Australian College? Not to Dr. Lang only, but to the treasurer and Dr. Lang. Dr. Lang was the Principal of the College, and after the treasurer died I paid to Dr. Lang.
581. There appear here to be two receipts for £100 each, signed by Dr. Lang? Yes.
582. These two receipts are for a portion of the total sum of £400? Yes.
583. Were you informed by Dr. Lang, that the £400 you paid were to be employed in building the Australian College? Yes, for the institution of the Australian College.
584. Do you consider that you possess an equitable interest in the College Buildings, to the extent of £400? I certainly do.
585. Do you object to give up your interest in favour of Dr. Lang? I do object.
586. Are you of opinion that your subscription of £400 ought to be invested in the College Buildings, so far as it went? Yes, in the building of the institution, and for carrying it on; but at one period it paid itself—there was a surplus.
587. When you paid this £400, was it with a view of erecting the buildings or paying the expenses of the masters? Erecting the buildings. These were shares taken by me to carry on the buildings and the institution generally.
588. I presume the various sums contributed by the shareholders generally were contributed for the purpose of erecting the College Buildings? I presume so. I cannot tell what the money was applied to, but that was the intention—to raise an institution for the education of youth in the Colony.
589. By Mr. Stewart: I think you said it was to carry on the general objects of the institution? Yes; the buildings were going on at the time.
590. Have you any recollection of a settlement made in 1841, in which it was recommended that Dr. Lang should have two of the buildings in satisfaction of his claims? Yes, there was some arrangement of that kind, but I do not think it was agreed to give him the buildings, but only that he should have the benefit of the buildings.
591. In the event of two of the buildings being given up to Dr. Lang in that way, you feel that you would have your claim upon the other buildings? Yes.
592. By the Chairman: Have you, since you were last examined, referred to the Appendix furnished by Dr. Lang to his evidence before the Committee on the “Exchange of Land, Scots Church, Jamison-street,” in which he quotes from a document stated to be a report signed by yourself and other gentlemen, agreeing to hand over to him two of the buildings, in satisfaction of his claims against the funds of the institution? Yes, I was a party to that arrangement.
593. And Dr. Lang has since shewn you the original report? Yes; I had not it in my hand, but he shewed it to me, and I saw my name to it—my signature.
594. Can you remember sufficient of the transaction to say whether you considered that a settlement with Dr. Lang? Yes, I did, as far as regards myself; I thought it was equivalent to Dr. Lang's claim upon the College Buildings.
595. Have you any further statement you wish to make to this Committee, with reference to your claims, or the position in which you consider yourself to stand as a shareholder in the Australian College? No, I have only to state that I consider myself to be a proprietor in that institution to the extent of £400; and if these buildings are appropriated to any other purpose than that of education for the benefit of the public, I have a right to my £400 back; but if it is still continued as an educational institution, according to the original intention, I do not require my money back, but would give £500 more to carry out the object of the Australian College, as originally intended. I object to the property being conveyed to Dr. Lang for what he has laid out upon it, but I would agree that Dr. Lang should be paid every farthing he has laid out, and interest. I have here the first and second Reports of the Council of the Australian College, made in 1832 and 1836, which may be useful to the Committee. (Copies handed in. Vide Appendix.) From the Report of 1836 I find that the expenditure on the buildings up to that time was £5,136 9s. 7½d.; on the excavation of the foundation for the main building, £115 2s. 0½d.; making the total expenditure for buildings £5,251 11s. 7¾d.; on furniture, books, and some other matters, £836 11s. 4d.; making altogether £6,088 2s. 11¾d. The Report also states that we were then in debt to Dr. Lang £1,657 7s. 7¾d. This is the account made out by Dr. Lang himself, in the Report dated June 29, 1836.

CHARLES COWPER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

The Reverend John Dunmore Lang, D.D., M.L.A., called in and further examined:—

596. By the Chairman: I believe you have been favoured, by the Clerk of the House, with a printed copy of the evidence taken before this Committee? I have.

597. As you have had an opportunity of carefully considering the evidence, the Committee will now be glad to hear anything you may have to say in further explanation of your view of the case? It must be evident to the Committee that, at an early period in the history of the institution, with which I was connected from the arrival of the Scotch mechanics in the Colony, in 1831, differences arose between the gentlemen connected with the management of the College and myself. The origin of those difficulties was, perhaps, owing to the constitution of that body. By one of its fundamental rules, the committee were empowered to take cognizance of the general management of the institution and the appropriation of its funds; but by another, I was constituted the Principal of the College, and the committee were virtually pledged to carry out the arrangements I had made with Lord Goderich, with the Scotch mechanics, and with certain parties in England for the purchase of apparatus for the establishment of the institution. At the first meeting held after the formation of the College, on the 27th December, 1831, the Committee of Management, or Council as it was called, agreed to receive for the different departments of education, the gentlemen I had brought out from Home. I may read a copy of the minute of that meeting:—

The Rev. J. D. Lang, D.D., M.L.A.

13 April, 1864.

*Australian College,
" 27th December, 1831.*

" A meeting of the Council of the Australian College having this day been held, " pursued a notice to that effect; present:—C. D. Riddell, Esq., A. Berry, Esq., T. " Walker, Esq., R. Jones, Esq., J. Chisholm, Esq., Captain Perry, and Dr. Lang.— " It was proposed by Richard Jones, Esq., and resolved unanimously, that C. D. Riddell, " Esq., be the Chairman of the Council * * * * * The Rev. " Dr. Lang having then proposed that the Rev. H. Carmichael, A.M., in whose favour he had " received the highest testimonials in the Mother Country, be appointed Professor of the " Latin and Greek languages in the Australian College; and the Council having accordingly " proceeded to examine the said testimonials, and been fully satisfied of his competency for " that office, it was resolved unanimously, that the said Rev. H. Carmichael, A.M., " be the Professor of the Greek and Latin languages, on the conditions specified " in the eighth and ninth resolutions of the general meeting of the 23rd December, 1831.— " The Revd. Dr. Lang having also proposed that the Revd. John Anderson, in whose favour he " had also received very high testimonials in the Mother Country, be appointed Professor of " Mercantile Education, and the Council having ascertained, after a careful perusal of the " said testimonials, his entire competency for the proper discharge of the duties of that " department, it was resolved unanimously that the said Revd. J. Anderson be the Professor " of Mercantile Education, on the conditions above mentioned. The Revd. Dr. Lang having " also moved that the Revd. William Pinkerton, in whose favour he had also received equally " high testimonials in the Mother Country, be the Professor of English and English Litera- " ture, and the Council having duly examined and expressed their entire satisfaction with " the said testimonials, it was resolved accordingly, that the Revd. W. Pinkerton be the " Professor of English and English Literature, on the conditions above referred to.— " * * * * * On the motion of the Revd. Dr. Lang, it was also " agreed that the Mathematical and Physical department be instituted forthwith, and be " entrusted, for the period of one year from the 1st of January, 1832, to the Revd. J. M'Garvie, " M.A., during which period Mr. M'Garvie will receive the salary agreed on at the general " meeting, viz.,—£100 per annum." This shews that the Council of the institution " undertook the maintenance of its educational machinery from the very first. In consequence " of the apparent incompatibility between the resolution placing the management in the hands " of the Council, and that constituting myself the Principal of the College, on the under- " standing that the arrangements I had made should be carried out, there arose differences " between us; for when the shareholders found that sufficient funds were not forthcoming to " carry out the objects of the institution, both architectural and educational, they resolved " that the buildings should be discontinued, that the mechanics should be dismissed, and that " virtually the whole undertaking should be declared a failure. That was the result of the " resolutions, as far as I was concerned, in my belief and conviction. To this I could not " consent. It was stipulated on the part of Lord Goderich, in the original engagement, that " £1,500 of the advance which he had authorized should be paid to me on my arrival in the " Colony with the Scotch mechanics I had agreed to carry out, but that no further amount " should be contributed on the part of the Government, until an expenditure in the erection " of buildings at least equal to that amount should be made on the part of the promoters of " the undertaking. Now, until the period when the buildings were discontinued and the " mechanics dismissed, about the end of 1832, or the early part of 1833, the whole amount " raised by the shareholders did not exceed £1,300; and they had therefore never qualified " themselves to fulfil the condition that Lord Goderich had stipulated, which was to shew " an expenditure of £1,500 on the buildings. In consequence of a stipulation that the trustees " of-

of the Scots Church had made at the commencement of the institution, to surrender to the trustees of the institution the whole of the ground belonging to them between Jamison-street and Church Hill, and also the portion acquired from Sir John Jamison for carrying out the street through their respective properties, a further difficulty had arisen. The trustees of the Scots Church had stipulated with the gentlemen connected with the management of the College, that they would make over to them, under an Act of Council to be obtained for the purpose, the whole of that ground—not only the triangular allotment between Jamison-street and Church Hill, but the whole of the ground on which the four buildings in Jamison-street stand. This was for the purpose of carrying out the objects of the College as an academical institution, the four buildings in Jamison-street being originally intended for the residences of the four masters which the institution was to comprise, and not to cost more than £3,000 altogether; and it was the blunder of the architect, in greatly exceeding that amount, that led us into difficulties from the first. For the first three or four months, it was not supposed that the expenditure would exceed the estimate; but when it was found that it would, and when I declined authorizing the dismissal of the mechanics and the discontinuance of the buildings, which was urged by the Council, they passed a resolution at a subsequent meeting, on the 2nd March, 1832, to the following effect:—"Resolved, that no payment can be made on account of such buildings, until the property in the ground has become legally vested in the Australian College." The gentlemen present when that motion was agreed to were the late Mr. Burdekin, Mr. Thomas Walker, Mr. R. Campbell, and Mr. Thomas Barker. Now the Committee will recollect that, in accordance with this resolution, passed in 1832, Mr. Riddell, in a letter to one of the masters of the institution in 1834, which is before the Committee in evidence, states that the gentleman to whom he was writing was aware that the buildings did not belong to the shareholders; the Committee will therefore see in what sense this was stated, or what was meant by Mr. Riddell. The fact was, the whole of the money contributed by the shareholders, viz., £1,300, was expended, up to the year 1836, in supporting the educational machinery of the institution, and not one farthing of that amount was expended on the buildings. The expenditure for that purpose was met principally from my private funds. Being obliged to sell my own private property to carry on the arrangements I had made with the mechanics, and to see that the institution did not prove a failure, I did so accordingly, at great personal loss. When the gentlemen connected with the institution applied to Sir Richard Bourke for an Act of Council to transfer the ground, he objected to giving such an Act, because the buildings were then notoriously erected from the sacrifice of my property, and not from the funds of the shareholders at all. The difficulties of my position were increased in the mean time, from the resolution of the Government not to advance any further portion of the sum guaranteed to be advanced by Lord Goderich, until an Act of Council was passed for the purpose. There is a letter to that effect from Mr. Macleay, then Colonial Secretary, in 1832, which I would beg to read —

598. May I ask if the opinion of Sir Richard Bourke, which you intimated just now as the ground of his objection to an Act being passed,—because you had advanced the money for the buildings,—is on record anywhere? I do not know that it is. There was a deputation of gentlemen connected with the institution, with Mr. Riddell at their head, who waited upon him.

599. Is there any record of the proceedings? I fear there is not.

600. Do you know who the members of that deputation were? I do not recollect. I was not one of them myself. The trustees of the church were quite willing to have made over the whole of their ground—both their original allotment between the two streets, and the ground acquired from Sir John Jamison—provided the institution had been carried on vigorously; but it was not, and the transference was never effected.

601. You were about to read a letter? Yes, it is as follows:—

Colonial Secretary's Office,
7 September, 1832.

" Sir,

" With reference to your letter of the 29th instant, proposing personal security for the advances made by the Government to the Australian College, until the trustees of the Scots Church shall, by an Act of Council, be enabled to give a mortgage on their property in Sydney,—I am directed by His Excellency the Governor to inform you, that, according to the instructions of the Secretary of State on this subject, no money can be advanced on personal security; but His Excellency recommends your placing the draft of the Bill intended to be laid before the Legislative Council, into the hands of the Attorney General, for approval, and to cause it to be published in the churches of St. James and St. Philip, on the three next Sundays, so that it may be brought before the Council at the next sitting. If it should be passed, the Governor considers that there will be no difficulty in immediately afterwards making such an arrangement as may enable the trustees of the College to give the requisite security.

" I have, &c.,

" ALEXR. MACLEAY."

" To the Rev. Dr. Lang,
" Sydney."

There was therefore no portion of the advance beyond the first £1,500 received from the Government until the Bill was passed—at least, that is my impression. There are several questions and answers in the evidence given before the Committee to which I would beg to call attention. In the evidence of Mr. Thos. Barker, question 432 is as follows:—"Has there been a debtor and creditor account of the institution kept?"—and Mr. Barker's answer is, "Dr. Lang never gave us an account at all of any sort whatever; it was one of his faults that he never would render an account." He is asked again, "I understood you to say that Mr. Wallace was treasurer, and that all moneys passed through his hands?" and he answers, "Quite so." Now, it was absurd of Mr. Barker to allege that I gave no account, because the whole of the money raised was placed in Mr. Wallace's hands, and paid by him; and Mr. Wallace's own account, in the year 1836, corroborates that statement. Besides, in the report that is printed in the appendix to the evidence, of which I have a separate copy, published in the year 1836, it is stated that "at the general meeting of the shareholders held in the College Buildings, on the 11th March last, a committee of the College Council, consisting of the following members, viz.:—Thomas Barker, Esq., Thomas Walker, Esq., and John Wallace, Esq., were appointed to procure an estimate of the actual value of the College Buildings, and to ascertain the amount of whatever other expenditure had been incurred for the establishment of the institution." Mr. Barker's evidence is therefore contrary to the recorded statement in the report of the institution for 1836, he himself having been one of a sub-committee appointed for the express purpose of ascertaining the expenditure, both educational and architectural, till that period. Questions 442, 443, 444, 445, and 446, in the same evidence, are as follows:—"442. In what position did Dr. Lang stand with regard to the Council? He was the head of everything; he would not submit to the control of the Council, and they left him in disgust. 443. At what time did they leave him in disgust? I cannot tell the date; they went on as long as they could, and when they found he was determined to involve them in debt they left. 444. Did the whole Council leave? Yes. 445. Without any statement of account being submitted to them? Yes; my impression is, I never saw any statement of account. 446. By Mr. Macpherson: Was not that one of the grounds of their leaving—that they could not get any account? No, I think not; we found we could not control the expenditure—that Dr. Lang was determined to get into debt—and we left." Now, this is directly contrary to what has been produced in evidence before the Committee. Mr. Barker himself was one of a Committee to ascertain the expenditure, both educational and architectural, up to the month of June, 1836, which he did accordingly; and it was found, as Mr. Wallace's paper shews, that up to that period only £1,300 had been contributed by the shareholders, the whole of which had been expended in maintaining the educational machinery of the institution, in the payment of salaries, of passage out, of apparatus, of house rent till the buildings were habitable; and all the rest of the expenditure (in addition to the advances made by the Government after the buildings had been discontinued) till the mechanics had been disbanded—all that expenditure was furnished from my own private funds. Mr. Barker is quite in error in stating that "they left in disgust," because they could get no account. They did not leave eventually until the Government prosecution commenced in 1841, and then they all took flight. As soon as it was known that a Government prosecution was entered against myself, as representing the institution, all the other gentlemen connected with it took flight.

" the

The Rev.
J. D. Lang,
D.D., M.L.A.
13 April, 1864.

602. You have passed over question 355, about which you have given me a note that you wish to make some observations? It is in the evidence of Mr. Berry:—"What steps do you think ought to be pursued in order that an equitable arrangement should be come to? My opinion is, that an accountant ought, in the first instance, to be employed, so as to audit and verify all the accounts; and if it cannot then be settled in any other way, it ought to be brought before the Supreme Court, in the form of a friendly suit, so as to avoid expenses of any future litigation or anything in that way. The fact is, that the whole conduct of Dr. Lang has been thoroughly illegal from the beginning. His arrangement with the Home Government was, that they were to lend him £3,500, but that it was to be employed in building a College upon the allotment of the Scots Church. Instead of that, there has been comparatively little employed upon that allotment; it has all been chiefly employed upon other land." This is mere declamation, for there was an account with which all parties were satisfied, delivered after an examination by Mr. Barker, Mr. Wallace, and Mr. Walker, in the year 1836; and there was another examination in 1841, by a competent body. Then at questions 398 and 399, Mr. Barker is asked by Mr. Dalgleish:—"You say the masters were almost starved by Dr. Lang? Yes, they were miserably paid. 399. They received only £100 a year? Yes, and a capitation fee—I do not remember how much that was—they were, however, miserably paid." Now this is grossly contrary to the fact. The first year of their settlement in the Colony they had double salary, or what was equivalent to that; their salary was counted from the commencement of the year in which they arrived—from the 1st January, 1831—or double salary for 1832; and they had besides a capitation fee, as Mr. Barker calls it, proportioned to the success of the institution and the payments by the pupils. What that amounted to I cannot tell, but Mr. Wallace gives a particular account of the whole expenditure in the educational department from the first. And to say that the men were starved is monstrous. They had the first year double salary (and beef and bread were then selling, as all old colonists know, at a penny a pound each); and they had free quarters, and the capitation fee—a proportion of the fees paid by the pupils. Surely they could not be left to starve in such circumstances as these. And this is so directly contrary to the evidence that the Committee have accused me—at least by one of their Members it is alleged—that there should have been a large surplus. Mr. Barker states that in some part of his own evidence. How a surplus from the fees could be consistent with the starvation of the masters I cannot conceive. Question 442, I have already adverted to. The next is, "470. By Mr. Dalgleish: Did the Council take the exclusive management and disposal of the funds of the College—the entire control of all matters relative to the erection of buildings, the appointment of masters, the amount of salaries, the regulation of fees, and the purchase of property, books, or apparatus, for the College? These ought to have been under the control of the Council or Committee; but Dr. Lang, by arrangement with the Home Secretary for the Colonies, got £1,500 for which no account was given; he had, previously to calling the public meeting, bought books and apparatus, and made arrangements with the masters. I do not think Dr. Lang paid anything except the salaries of the masters." Now, I never paid the salaries of the

The Rev. masters at all—they were paid by Mr. Wallace; and this sum of £1,500 which I got and J. D. Lang, gave no account of, was given by a vote of the Legislative Council, in November, 1831, on D.D., M.L.A. the order of Lord Goderich. In reference to the sums contributed by the shareholders, from the year 1836 to the time when they all left, according to Mr. Barker's statement of that amount (nearly £2,000 altogether, including the £1,300), there was £180 paid for the passage money of the second three masters; there was £240 paid for repairs to the College rooms and places of residence during the ten years, and there was paid by myself, as the head of the institution, to the Reverend Mr. Aitken, on his leaving, in claim for arrears, £200, and to Messrs. Wyld and Mackenzie £100 each, making £820 altogether; and that, added to the £1,300 expended on the part of the shareholders, in maintaining the educational machinery of the institution, accounts for the whole of the funds which had been contributed by the shareholders up to the time when the Committee of Management or Council left. There was a report made on the affairs of the institution in 1841, in consequence of the prosecution then threatened but not commenced by the Government; and as that investigation has been challenged as having been made by parties too favourable to myself, I beg to put in the original minute of a meeting of the committee of the shareholders—one of the last that was held. This minute is as follows:—

13 April, 1864.

“ Sydney, 20 October, 1841.

“ A meeting of the committee of the shareholders of the Australian College, having been this day held in the College Buildings; present:—Patrick Hill, Esquire, T. Cadell, Esquire, Geo. Bowman, Esquire, Mr. H. Brodie, Mr. A. Craig—Mr. Hill being called to the chair, and the report of the trustees of the Scots Church having been read and considered, it was resolved, that the said report, as exhibiting a statement of the origin, and of the facts connected with the establishment of the institution, is a fair report; and that, from the personal statement of Messrs. Craig and Brodie, it appears that the four buildings erected for the Australian College, must, from the rate of wages, and the general cost of building at the period of their erection, have cost at least £8,000, and would cost considerably more now.

“ PATRICK HILL,
“ Chairman.”

In consequence of the alarm that arose from the Government prosecution with which we were threatened in 1841, after a Select Committee of the Council of that period had been held, there is another original minute that I would put in:—

“ Australian College Buildings,
“ 4 November, 1841.

“ A general meeting of the shareholders of the Australian College having been this day held, pursuant to advertisement, and Thomas Cadell, Esq., having been called to the chair, it was moved, seconded, and resolved unanimously, That the Honorable C. D. Riddell, Esq., Thomas Barker, Esq., Dr. Wallace, and Dr. Hill, of Parramatta, be appointed, on the part of the shareholders, to co-operate with the Trustees of the Scots Church, as a Board of Trustees for the future management of the affairs of the Australian College.

“ THOS. CADELL,
“ Chairman.”

That was the last meeting of the parties connected with the institution that I have any memorandum of.

603. Supposing this Committee were to recommend, or Parliament were to sanction, the cancelling of this mortgage, as against the trustees of the Australian College, how would that be any relief or benefit to you personally? The Government prosecution, and the mortgage on which it was based, have been an incubus upon myself and upon the institution ever since that prosecution was instituted. When the two lower buildings were declared by the report of the trustees of the Scots Church to be my property, from the large expenditure I had made upon the buildings generally, I mortgaged them, as has been stated to the Committee, first for a smaller sum and then for a larger, to complete the whole four buildings, and to erect the hall or lecture-room opposite; and when the larger amount was to be obtained, in 1854, to complete the buildings, the circumstance of a Government prosecution having been instituted on account of the mortgage, obliged me to pay £150 a year interest, from that time to the present day, more than I could have got the money for from the Savings Bank, at the time when the loan was effected. I could have got the £4,500, for which the buildings are mortgaged, from the Savings Bank, at five per cent., in 1854, but I had to pay eight per cent., which makes a difference of £150, these ten years past, in consequence of the doubt that was thus thrown upon the validity of the security in the estimation of the trustees of the Savings Bank.

604. Has the rent from these houses paid the interest? Yes.

605. By Mr. Piddington: Has it not left a balance? It has.

606. And have you not received that balance? I have—a balance from the rental of property erected from the expenditure of my own funds.

607. By the Chairman: What views do you entertain with reference to the defunct institution—in the event of the mortgage being cancelled, how would the shareholders of the institution stand affected? I conceive the present is a very favourable time for the revival of the institution, and I am also of opinion that its revival could be effected with comparative facility, as a nursery for the future Presbyterian College. That institution will be of very little use to the Presbyterian portion of the public unless there is a preparatory academy to prepare young men for the College; for Dr. Woolley stated, in his evidence before the Presbyterian College Committee of 1862, that it could not be allowed by the Act for the Affiliated Colleges, under the University Act, to have these Colleges transformed into mere schools—they must bear a higher character from the first. Now we have no means—I speak of the Presbyterian Communion generally—we have no means of preparing youth for a College even though we had it to-morrow; and I am strongly of opinion, and have been so for years past—since the Affiliated Colleges Act was passed—that if the difficulties of our position, with the mortgage, and the incubus it has proved for so long a period, were removed, the institution could be revived and placed in a more favourable position than ever. The present shareholders would also have the interest that their shares would entitle them to in the revived institution; for the requisite additional funds would be contributed, I have no doubt whatever, by the public generally, for the re-establishment of an institution that would thus prove a general benefit to the Presbyterian community,

be

The Rev.
J. D. Lang.
D.D., M.L.A.

13 April, 1864.

608. The mortgage has been declared invalid by the Supreme Court, has it not? It has.
609. In what way then is it an incubus, if it is invalid? Because the public are possessed of the idea that the property is still subject to the claim on the part of the Government.

610. By Mr. Piddington: How will the revival of the new College be facilitated by depriving the existing College of a public endowment of £5,000? It never had such an endowment. What your phrase "existing College," implies is, that the shareholders have an interest in the present buildings to the amount of their shares, which I absolutely deny. The whole of the money contributed by the shareholders has been expended from the first in maintaining the educational machinery of the institution.

611. Do you know of the second Report of the Council of the Australian College, dated June 29, 1836? Yes.

612. Were you in the Colony when this second Report of the Australian College was presented to the shareholders and the public? I was.

613. Is the reprint of the College Report, in the Appendix to the Evidence before this Committee, a correct reprint, as far as you know? Yes.

614. Is there not a statement of accounts of receipts and expenditure appended to that report? There is.

615. Is there a statement of expenditure and advances appended to that report, in the following form:—

" EXPENDITURE.

|   | £      | s. | d. |
|---|--------|----|----|
| " On buildings ... ..   | 5,251  | 11 | 7½ |
| " In salaries (for the year 1832) ... ..                              | 369    | 4  | 8  |
| " For passage money, apparatus, &c., exclusive" of library ... .. | 836    | 11 | 4  |
|   | £6,457 | 7  | 7½ |

" ADVANCES.

|   |        |   |    |
|---|--------|---|----|
| " By Government ... ..                    | 3,500  | 0 | 0  |
| " By 37 shares of £25 each, paid up... .. | 925    | 0 | 0  |
| " By 3 ditto, £20 paid ... ..             | 60     | 0 | 0  |
| " By 28 ditto, £10 paid ... ..            | 280    | 0 | 0  |
| " By 7 ditto, £5 paid... ..               | 35     | 0 | 0  |
|   | £4,800 | 0 | 0" |

and does not that report further declare that the "balance due to Dr. Lang, exclusive of library," was 1,657 7s. 7½d. at the date of that second report? There is no doubt that is correct; but it gives the Government credit for an expenditure of £3,500 upon these buildings, which is totally inconsistent with the fact.

616. Then you now assert that that report of this very body, which was probably drawn up under your knowledge, was incorrect? No, it was not incorrect; but we were obliged to consider the whole amount of the £3,500 that the buildings were mortgaged to the Government for, as having been expended on the buildings; and I deny that it was so expended.

617. You now deny the correctness of this account? No, I do not deny the correctness of the account.

618. Is that account correct, or is it not? It is correct as far as it goes, but incorrect in imputing to me the receipt of £3,500 from the Government, which was expended on these buildings; that is not the fact.

619. Then you say the account is not correct now? I do not say so; I have explained my answer.

620. This account states that the Government advanced to the College £3,500—I ask whether you now state that that account is correct or incorrect? The account is correct so far as it admits the receipt of £3,500 from the Government, but that money was not expended on the buildings.

621. By Mr. Caldwell: Perhaps you will state how it was spent? It never was received for that purpose.

622. By Mr. Piddington: Does not that report shew that you only claimed £1,657 7s. 7½d. at the date of the second Report of the College Council? I do not think it implies that.

623. Does it, or does it not—does not the account rendered with this second Report of the College Council, on 29th June, 1836, shew as "balance due to Dr. Lang, exclusive of library,

The Rev.
J. D. Lang,
D.D., M.L.A.
13 April, 1864.

library, £1,657 7s. 7½d."? There is no doubt that that account was made up on the understanding that the whole of the Government advance of £3,500 had been expended on the buildings.

624. Well, I again ask you—if you do not wish to answer, of course I cannot oblige you—does not this account, furnished by the College Council, shew that a balance was due to you at that time of £1,657 7s. 7½d.? It does; but it implies that this balance was considered due to me on the understanding that the £3,500, advanced by the Government, had been expended on the buildings, which was not the fact.

625. I am only speaking of the account, not of your understanding; and I ask again—does the account put forward by the College Council, in their report of the 29th June, 1836, shew that a balance was then due Dr. Lang of £1,657 7s. 7½d.? There is no doubt it was correct.

626. According to that statement of account, did you claim a balance of £1,657 7s. 7½d. upon the total expenditure of £6,457 7s. 7½d.? I was obliged, from the property being mortgaged to the Government for £3,500, to regard that as a portion of the expenditure from another source, while it was almost entirely from my own funds; for the report of 1841 gives a correct statement.

627. I am not talking of the report of 1841. Is not the sum of £1,657 7s. 7½d. about a fourth part of the total sum expended on the College Buildings in June, 1836? Yes, about a fourth—considerably more than a fourth.

628. Then according to this account of expenditure and receipts, dated in June, 1836, you only then professed to have paid one-fourth of the total sum expended on the College Buildings—is it not so? Exclusive of the sum advanced by the Government, which was not received by myself, or applied to that purpose.

629. I am speaking of this account—I say, is not the sum of £1,657 7s. 7½d. about a fourth part of the total sum expended on the College Buildings in June, 1836, according to this account? No doubt it is.

630. Did you mortgage the College Buildings on the 19th of June, 1841, to the Loan Company, for £1,500, at an interest of 15 per cent., reducible to 11 per cent. per annum? I do not recollect what the amount of interest was; I do not think it was ever such an amount as 15 per cent.

631. Perhaps on looking to the evidence of Mr. John Edye Manning, before the Committee of the Council, in 1841, question 6, you will find what will refresh your memory? I suppose it must be in accordance with the facts. I have no recollection of having paid such interest.

632. But you did mortgage the College Buildings, on the 19th June, 1841, to the Loan Company, for £1,500? I did.

633. Did you not pay to Sir John Jamison, in June, 1841, the sum of £447, out of the £1,500 you raised by mortgaging the College Buildings? I did.

634. If you paid Sir John Jamison by a mortgage of the College Buildings, how can you assert that you paid Sir John Jamison out of your private funds? Because the loan from the Company was obtained on account of expenditure which I had made from my own funds.

635. How do you prove that? It is quite evident from the evidence—it is quite evident from the account of Mr. Wallace, in 1836, that only £1,300 had been advanced for the institution generally, by the shareholders, and that the whole of that had been expended on the educational machinery, leaving not one sixpence for the buildings, which were erected from the expenditure of my own funds, to my great loss.

636. That reply you give now is in direct contradiction to the deliberate report of the Council, dated June 29, 1836? I do not think so, because the Council takes it for granted that the whole of the Government money, £3,500, was expended on these buildings, whereas a very small portion only was so expended.

637. That is your present statement? That has been my statement all along.

638. Were you not connected with the drawing up of this report of the College Council? I suppose I must have been.

639. And you acknowledge now that you drew up a report that was utterly incorrect? No.

640. How can your present statement, which contradicts the statements appended to the report of the College Council in 1836, be correct, if that account is correct? Because that account takes it for granted I had received from the Government and expended on the buildings, £3,500, which was not the case.

641. Was there any object, when this report was before the College Council, similar to the object you now have in view, of obtaining possession of the whole four College Buildings? No, certainly not, because they were mere skeletons then, and the money I have borrowed on the two lower buildings, £4,500, was expended in great measure in bringing the whole four into their present condition; they were of no use otherwise.

642. How would the interests of the shareholders—such as Mr. George Bowman, who has testified before this Committee that he has paid £400 to a College—how would the interests of the shareholders be affected if you obtained the whole of the College Buildings to which they have subscribed their money? It is quite evident, from the evidence before the Committee, that the whole of the money subscribed by the shareholders has been expended from first to last in the support of the educational machinery of the institution.

643. Are you not aware that statement is contradicted by the evidence of one of the original shareholders, Mr. Barker, and also by the evidence of another, Mr. Bowman? No, I do not think it can be contradicted, because it is the fact.

644. You are not aware it is contradicted? Mr. Barker has contradicted himself in various things, which I have shewn to be totally different from the statements he has put forth.

645. Do you deny that Mr. George Bowman contributed £400 himself to the funds of this proposed College? No, certainly not.

646. Have you not yourself signed a receipt in your own handwriting for £200 of that money? It is very possible I may.

647. How would his interest be affected if you seized upon the whole of these four houses, and applied them to your own private objects? These houses were never erected, not one stone of them, with Mr. Bowman's money. I have shewn again and again that the whole of the money contributed by the shareholders up to 1836, was expended in the support of the educational machinery of the institution; and the whole amount, up to the decline and fall of the institution in 1841, had been expended in salaries, in passage money, and in repairs—every sixpence of it; there was not one farthing of it available for the buildings, that I have shewn to-day from the resolution of the Committee of 1832, which was to the effect that that Committee refused to make any advance for the buildings, until the ground should be made over to them, which it never has been.

648. Is this reply of Mr. George Bowman to question 516 a correct and truthful reply. The question is—"After obtaining a conveyance from Sir John Jamison of the land upon which the two lower houses have been built, had Dr. Lang himself, in your opinion, any right to make use of that property, and apply the proceeds as he pleased as an individual?" Mr. Bowman's reply is—"No, it was the property of the company of shareholders."? I do not think it was; that is Mr. Bowman's opinion.

649. The other is yours—you are an interested party? So is he.

650. Only in a public sense. He will give £400 to the College, but he will not give it to you? Every farthing that was received from Mr. Bowman, and every other shareholder, was expended in the support of the institution.

651. By Mr. Caldwell: How much of the £3,500 was expended on the buildings? Only about £1,000; the rest was from my own funds, derived from the sale of my own property.

652. And the £1,300 raised by the shareholders was expended in salaries to the masters? Yes, and in passage money, house rent, and apparatus. I may be permitted to state, that Mr. Barker says the apparatus was a gift from the celebrated Dr. Ure, whose philosophical apparatus in Glasgow I purchased from him at a very low rate, after he had left that city for London. Mr. Barker alleges I had told him it was a present from Dr. Ure; I never did so. Dr. Ure was not the man to make such a present—he was considered a very greedy man—and this (producing a paper) is the original of an account that I submitted to the College Council on the 24th March, 1832, in which there is an item for "philosophical apparatus purchased from Dr. Ure, exclusive of the expense of packages and freight, £139 3s." It shews how inaccurate Mr. Barker's statements are.

653. Have you any objection to put that paper in? No. (Handed in. Vide Appendix.)

654. By Mr. Piddington: From whom did you receive the £300 mentioned in this account? It must have been from Mr. Wallace.

655. By the Chairman: Have you anything further to say? Besides the claim for the cancelling of the mortgage, on the ground that a large portion of the money advanced by the Government was in reality expended for the immigration of the Scotch mechanics, pursuant to a second arrangement made by Lord Goderich—in addition to that ground of claim, I would submit that the services rendered to education generally, from the existence of such an institution as the Australian College for a long period, in the worst times of the Colony in regard to education, constitute a strong additional claim upon the Government for the cancelling of the mortgage; for Sir William Burton's report in regard to the state of the institution in 1838 and 1839, when he visited it on two different occasions, and made a lengthened report on it which is published in his book on the Colony, states that at that time it had 116 pupils, of whom about forty were boarders, while a considerable number (about thirty) were studying the classics, and all of them English, geography, mathematics, and natural philosophy; Sir William speaks in the highest terms of the institution and its state at that period. Now I have stated that the amount of the salary of each of the masters of the institution was nominally £100 a year, but with additions from the fees received from the pupils and the allowance of double salary the first year. This machinery, in addition to absorbing the whole amount contributed by the shareholders, was kept up principally from both masters and pupils having free quarters, both for their schools and for their lodging, in buildings of which the greater portion had been erected by myself, from my own private resources. The fees at that time for pupils attending the institution, under three University-bred men, conducting the different departments of education, were only £12 a year for each pupil; the sum charged for those boarded in the houses of the masters was limited to £25; and this great boon to education was given through the masters having free quarters in buildings that had been almost exclusively erected by the expenditure of my own private funds. I submit that the service thus rendered to education at that important period was very great indeed. The Government of the day, both in 1835 and in 1841, refused to give salaries of even £100 a year to the masters. If they had done so the institution would in all probability have been kept alive and in prosperity; but as they did not, the gentlemen conducting the classes were tempted to engage in other speculations, and the institution consequently declined and fell. But there were other institutions of a comparatively high character that declined and fell also much about the same period. The Sydney College, a later erection than our institution, and having much larger funds, declined and fell about the same time; and the King's School at Parramatta had its period of declension too, although it has been revived since, as I trust ours may be. Now, I think the services rendered to education, in the establishment and existence of the institution at present in temporary abeyance, for so long a period, and in so favourable a state as Judge Burton's report represents it, ought to be taken into consideration by the Legislature, in respect to the claim for cancelling this mortgage. But there is another claim, Mr. Chairman, which I would beg to urge. The Sydney College, to which I have just referred, although it was of earlier origin, was of later existence as an educational institution, than the Australian College. It had a grant of two acres of ground from Sir Thomas Brisbane, for educational purposes exclusively; and the University has been authorized by an Act of the Legislature, to purchase the right and title of the shareholders of that institution, every one of them, for the purpose of converting the institution into a public Grammar School. Now, the shareholders of the Sydney College represented a property of about £7,000, and not less than £5,850 has been paid to those shareholders up to the present time. They had no right to the ground; it was dedicated for educational purposes; they had only a tumble-down building to transfer to the University—it was in a dilapidated and ruinous state; but the shareholders had expended, nearly £7,000, for keeping up the educational machinery of the institution while it existed, and this has been repaid by the Government to the extent of £5,850; and Dr. Woolley told me, the other day, they were responsible for the difference up to £7,000. Now, I submit it to the common sense of the Committee, whether such treatment of an institution that rendered far less service, I maintain, to the public than ours, can justify the treatment that has been recommended for our institution, to enforce the Government claim for £3,500, that is, only one-half the sum to which the public have through the Legislature rendered themselves amenable for the ruinous concern of the Sydney College—for it was in that state when it was purchased. Every sixpence that the shareholders have contributed from the first has been repaid—at least, to all that chose to demand it, up to £5,850.

656. By Mr. Piddington: Is there any parallel between the repayment of £5,850 to the shareholders generally of the Sydney College, and the proposed transfer to one shareholder or one proprietor of the Australian College, of the whole of the interests of the other proprietors? That is not a fair mode of putting the question; that is a most unfair mode of putting the question; because it has been shewn to this Committee again and again, that these buildings have been erected from my proper funds.

657. By Mr. Caldwell: On what terms would you be prepared to hand over the buildings to the shareholders, supposing the mortgage cancelled—Supposing the mortgage cancelled, they would have some interest, surely, in the building—On what conditions would you be prepared to hand over the buildings? On the condition of my being paid all my advances for the four buildings. But when the Government repay the shareholders of a defunct institution that has rendered far less service to the public than ours—when the Government repay the whole of the sums advanced by the different shareholders in that institution—I think it is a very hard measure indeed, to be dealt out to us, after all the services that have been rendered to the public, to enforce the payment of this mortgage.

658. By Mr. Piddington: Did the Government ever advance to the Sydney College, any sum of money by way of mortgage, for the purpose of creating that College? The Government advanced to them what was far better, for they gave them two acres of land worth far more than £3,500.

659. Did any one shareholder of the Sydney College propose to the Government to pay him, to the exclusion of the other shareholders? There was no shareholder in the same position as I was; there was none who could say "that building was erected by my funds."

660. By Mr. Stewart: Did the Australian College afford a course of education at a more economical rate than the Sydney College, of a superior or equal character? The Sydney College had only one master, and never sent home for one —

661. The fact is, the Australian College did afford a superior class of education? Unquestionably it did. £12 a year was the highest sum paid by the pupils who were receiving education in English and in mercantile accounts, in mathematics and natural philosophy, and in the classics, from three different University-bred men.

662. That would not have been possible without the assistance of funds in the way the subscribers afforded funds—it would not have been possible out of the fees themselves? It would not have been possible out of the funds advanced by the shareholders, unless both masters and pupils had had free quarters in the buildings erected at my expense.

MORTGAGE FEE of the Trust Property for securing to His Majesty's Government the repayment of Monies advanced.

THIS INDENTURE made the eighteenth day of February in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-three between the Rev. John Dunmore Lang of Sydney in the Colony of New South Wales Doctor in Divinity John Piper of Bathurst in the said Colony Esquire Thomas Macvitie of Sydney aforesaid Esquire and David Ramsay of Dobroyd near Sydney aforesaid Esquire of the one part and William Macpherson Esquire Collector of the Internal Revenue of the said Colony of the other part Whereas by a certain Grant bearing date on or about the tenth day of November in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six issued under the hand of His Excellency Lieutenant General Ralph Darling Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the said Colony and under the seal of the said Colony the said Governor under and by virtue and in pursuance of the power and authority therein mentioned to be vested in him did give and grant unto the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay trustees for the Congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney and to their successors in office To have and to hold for ever the piece or parcel of land herein-after described and granted and released or otherwise assured or intended so to be but which said land was thereby mentioned to be granted for the purpose of erecting a Scots Church in which the ordinances of religion should be dispensed by a regularly ordained Minister of the Church of Scotland and such other buildings therewith connected as the trustees might think fit to erect And whereas by an Act of His Excellency Major General Richard Bourke Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the Territory of New South Wales aforesaid and its Dependencies made and passed by and with the advice of the Legislative Council the thirteenth day of October now last past entitled "An Act to enable the Trustees of the Scots Church in Sydney in the Colony of New South Wales to grant a Mortgage to Government on the buildings now erecting on their allotment for the amount of a loan advanced by Government to enable the said Trustees to erect the said Church and also for the amount of a further loan advanced by Government in aid of the establishment of the Australian College." After reciting the hereinbefore in part recited Grant And that the Treasurer of the said Colony by an order or warrant of His Excellency Sir Thomas Brisbane then Governor of the said Colony in the year one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five on the part of the Government of the said Colony lent and advanced to the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay as trustees as aforesaid the sum of two thousand four hundred dollars for the purpose of enabling the said trustees to erect a Church upon the said parcel of land upon condition of the repayment thereof by the said trustees to the Government And further reciting that an Academical Institution or College had lately been established for the education of youth And that the said trustees had agreed and consented that the necessary buildings for the purpose of carrying on the said institution should be erected upon part of the said parcel of land And further reciting that upon an application being made to him for that purpose the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies had been pleased to authorize the Governor of the said Colony of New South Wales to advance a loan of three thousand five hundred pounds to the promoters of the above undertaking from the Colonial Treasury towards enabling them to complete the same upon condition that the said institution or college together with all the buildings thereunto belonging or appertaining should be erected or built upon the ground belonging to the said Scots Church and that the promoters of the undertaking should previously expend a similar amount in the erection of the above buildings and that the said buildings when erected should stand as a security to the Government of the said Colony for the repayment of the sums advanced by the said Government for the purpose aforesaid And further reciting that the Treasurer of the said Colony by the order or warrant of His Excellency Colonel Patrick Lindesay then acting Governor of the said Colony in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one paid to the said trustees in pursuance of the said arrangement entered into with the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies as aforesaid the sum of one thousand five hundred pounds And further reciting that a sum exceeding the said sum of one thousand five hundred pounds had already been expended in erecting the buildings for the said Institution or College on the said parcel of land hereinbefore mentioned And further reciting that it would be beneficial to the public and to the advancement and promotion of knowledge within the said Colony if the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay and the other promoters of the said Institution were enabled to carry the agreement hereinbefore mentioned into effect and for that purpose that the said trustees should be empowered to grant a mortgage of the said land and premises to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the said Colony for the time being for and on behalf of the Government of the said Colony but that the same could not be effected without the aid and authority of an Act or Ordinance of His Excellency the Governor with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council It was by the now reciting Act enacted by His Excellency the Governor of New South Wales by and with the advice of the Legislative Council that from and after the passing of the said Act it should and might be lawful for the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay trustees as aforesaid of the said congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney and their successors to transfer or mortgage the said parcel of land therein and hereinbefore mentioned together with the buildings then erected or thereafter to be erected thereon to the Collector of the Internal Revenue of the said Colony and to his successors in office for the time being for and on behalf of the Government thereof for securing the repayment of the said sums of two thousand four hundred dollars and one thousand five hundred pounds so advanced to the said trustees as aforesaid and of the further sum of two thousand pounds when advanced to the said trustees or their successors under the agreement as aforesaid and by writing under the hands and seals of any three or more of the said trustees or their successors to assign the said parcel of land together with the buildings then erected or thereafter to be erected thereon to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the said Colony or to his successor or successors in his said office for the time being for and on behalf of the Government of the said Colony as a security for the repayment of the said principal sums of money so advanced to the said trustees as aforesaid and for any such further sum or sums of money as should be advanced to the said trustees trustees by the said Government of the said Colony as aforesaid. And whereas the said sum of two thousand four hundred dollars advanced by the Government to the said trustees as hereinbefore is mentioned is of the value of five hundred and twenty pounds of sterling money of Great Britain. And whereas an order or warrant hath been made out and signed by His Excellency the Governor of the said Colony to Campbell Drummond Riddell Esquire the public Treasurer of the said Colony to advance and pay to the said trustees the further sum of one thousand five hundred pounds in pursuance of the authority of the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies hereinbefore mentioned. And whereas the said several sums of five hundred and twenty pounds and one thousand five hundred pounds together with the sum of one thousand five hundred pounds hereinbefore mentioned to have been advanced to the said trustees amount in the whole to the sum of three thousand five hundred and twenty pounds. Now this Indenture witnesseth that for and in consideration of the premises and of the said sum of three thousand five hundred and twenty pounds so advanced by the Government of the said Colony to the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay as such trustees as aforesaid and also in consideration of ten shillings of lawful money of Great Britain to them the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay in hand paid by the said William Macpherson at or before the sealing and delivery of these presents the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged. (Amended Information and Bill 18th November 1843.)

STATES:—

That on or about the 10th November 1826 His Excellency Lieutenant General Sir Ralph Darling then being Governor of the Colony of New South Wales did in pursuance of the power and authority vested in him as such Governor give and grant unto the Revd. John Dunmore Lang of Sydney in the said Colony Doctor of Divinity (one of the defendants) John Piper Thomas M'Vitie of Sydney aforesaid Esquires and David Ramsay of Dobroyd near Sydney Esquire (another of the defendants) as trustees for the congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney and to their successors in office to have and to hold for ever the piece or parcel of land hereinafter partly described as in and by the said grant will more fully and at large appear.

That by an Act of His Excellency Major-General Sir Richard Bourke then Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief of the Colony of New South Wales aforesaid and its dependencies made and passed by and with the advice of the Legislative Council the 13th October 1832 entitled "An Act to enable the trustees of the Scots Church in Sydney in the Colony of New South Wales to grant a mortgage to Government on the buildings now erecting on their allotment for the amount of a loan advanced by Government to enable the said trustees to erect the said Church and also for the amount of a further loan advanced by Government in aid of the establishment of the Australian College" After reciting the hereinbefore recited grant and that the Treasurer of the said Colony by an order or warrant of His Excellency Sir Thomas Brisbane then Governor of the said Colony in the year 1825 on the part of the Government of the said Colony lent and advanced to the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay as trustees as aforesaid the sum of 2,400 dollars for the purpose of enabling the said trustees to erect a Church upon the said parcel of land upon condition of the repayment thereof by the said trustees to the Government And further reciting that an Academical Institution or College had been established for the education of youth and that the said trustees had agreed and consented that the necessary buildings for the purpose of carrying on the said institution should be erected in part of the said parcel of land And further reciting that upon an application being made to him for that purpose the Right Honorable the then Secretary of State for the Colonies had been pleased to authorize the Governor of the said Colony of New South Wales to advance a loan of £3,500 to the promoters of the above undertaking from the Colonial Treasury towards enabling them to complete the same upon condition that the said institution or college together with all the buildings thereunto belonging or appertaining should be erected or built upon the ground belonging to the said Scots Church and that the promoters of the undertaking should previously expend a similar amount in the erection of the above buildings and that the said buildings when erected should stand as a security to the Government of the said Colony for the repayment of the sums advanced by the said Government for the purpose aforesaid and further reciting that the Treasurer of the said Colony by the order or warrant of His Excellency Colonel Patrick Lindsay then acting Governor of the said Colony in the year 1831 paid to the said trustees in pursuance of the said arrangement entered into with the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies as aforesaid the sum of £1,500 and further reciting that a sum exceeding the said sum of £1,500 had already been expended in erecting the buildings for the said institution or college on the said parcel of land hereinbefore mentioned and further reciting that it would be beneficial to the public and to the advancement and promotion of knowledge within the said Colony if the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay and the other promoters of the said institution were enabled to carry the agreement hereinbefore mentioned into effect and for that purpose if the said trustees should be empowered to grant a mortgage of the said land and premises to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the said Colony for the time being for and on behalf of the Government of the said Colony but that the same could not be effected without the aid or authority of an Act or ordinance of His Excellency the Governor with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council it was by the now reciting Act enacted by His Excellency the Governor of New South Wales by and with the advice of the Legislative Council that from and after the passing of the said Act it should and might be lawful for the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay trustees as aforesaid of the said congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney and their successors to transfer and mortgage the said parcel of land therein and hereinbefore mentioned together with the buildings then erected or thereafter to be erected thereon to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the said Colony and to his successors in office for the time being for and on behalf of the Government thereof for securing the repayment of the said sums of 2,400 dollars and £1,500 so advanced to the said trustees as aforesaid and of the further sum of £2,000 when advanced to the said trustees or their successors under the agreement as aforesaid and by writing under the hands and seals of any three or more of the said trustees or their successors to assign the said parcel of land together with the buildings then erected or thereafter to be erected thereon to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the said Colony or to his successor or successors in his said office for the time being for and on behalf of the Government of the said Colony as a security for the repayment of the said principal sums of money so advanced to the said trustees as aforesaid and for any such further sum or sums of money as should be advanced to the said trustees by the said Government of the said Colony as aforesaid.

That the said sum of 2,400 dollars so advanced as aforesaid is of the value of £520 of sterling money of Great Britain.

That shortly after the passing of the said Act an order or warrant was made out and signed by His Excellency the Governor of the said Colony to C. D. Riddell Esq. the Treasurer of the said Colony to advance and pay to the said trustees the further sum of £1,500 making altogether the sum of £3,520 advanced by the Government to the said trustees.

That for the purpose of securing the repayment thereof the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay did by indentures of release bearing date the 18th day of February 1833 for and in consideration of the sum of £3,520 so advanced as aforesaid grant bargain sell alien release and confirm unto the said William Macpherson then being the Collector of Internal Revenue of the said Colony and to his heirs and assigns all that piece or parcel of land containing 5 roods and 39 perches being and situate in the parish of St. Philip in the county of Cumberland in the Colony aforesaid bounded on the north-east by Underwood's allotment bearing east  $36\frac{1}{2}$  degrees south 1 chain and 80 links on the south-east by a line bearing south  $33\frac{1}{2}$  degrees west 3 chains and 57 links to the barrack-wall by that wall to the street 1 chain on the south-west by the street bearing north 31 degrees and 30 minutes west 1 chain and 43 links and on the north-west by Charlotte-place bearing north  $36\frac{1}{2}$  degrees east 3 chains and 64 links and also all that chapel church or place of worship and all those several messuages or tenements and other buildings erected and built and now standing or lying on the said piece or parcel of land and all other buildings-ways paths passages waters watercourses lights easements profits privileges emoluments advantages rights members and appurtenances whatsoever to the said piece or parcel of land buildings messuages or tenements and hereditaments or any of them or any part thereof belonging or in anywise appertaining or reputed or deemed so to be or with the same or any part thereof now usually usually or heretofore holden used occupied or enjoyed all which said lands tenements and hereditaments are now in the actual possession of or legally vested in the said William Macpherson by virtue of the bargain and sale to him thereof made by the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay in consideration of five shillings by an indenture bearing date the day next before the day of the date of those presents for the term of one year commencing from the day next before the day of the date of the same indenture of bargain and sale and by force of the statute made for transferring uses into possession and the reversion and reversions remainder and remainders rents issues and profits thereof and all the estate right title interest use trust property term and terms of years possession claim and demand whatsoever both at law and in equity of them the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Macvitie and David Ramsay into upon out of or concerning same premises to have and to hold the said piece or parcel of land church messuages or tenements buildings hereditaments and all and singular other the premises hereinbefore described and granted and released or otherwise assured or intended so to be with their and every of their rights members and appurtenances unto the said William Macpherson and his heirs to the use of the said William Macpherson his heirs and assigns forever but nevertheless in trust for the Government of the said Colony for securing to the said Government the repayment of the several principal sums of £520 £1,500 and £1,500 and for any further sum or sums of money not exceeding the sum of £500 which should be advanced to the said trustees or their successors in office by the Government of the said Colony in the manner hereinbefore mentioned but subject to a proviso for redemption upon payment by the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay or the survivors or survivor of them their or his heirs executors or administrators or the trustees or trustee for the congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney for the time being the full and just sum of £3,520 on or before the 1st February 1838 as in and by the said indenture of mortgage when produced will more fully and at large appear.

That the said Thomas M'Vitie departed this life on or about the 3rd day of February 1832 and that under and by virtue of a certain Act of Council passed in the 7th year of the reign of His late Majesty King William the 4th the said David Ramsay the said John Dunmore Lang and Thomas Brown of Sydney wine merchant Thomas Cadell of Sydney brewer and George Bowman of Richmond in the said Colony Esquire three other of the defendants hereto were duly appointed trustees of the congregation of the said Presbyterian Church.

That the said sum of £3,520 is now due to the Government on the security of the said premises and that the Government hath applied to the said trustees to pay the same or release their equity of redemption of and in the said mortgaged premises But &c. the said trustees combining &c. refuse to pay the said sum or any part thereof or to release their said equity of redemption and in justification of such refusal the defendants at times pretend that the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay at the time of the execution of the said mortgage security had no power to mortgage the said hereditaments and that the said Act of Council had not then commenced or taken effect Whereas the Attorney General charges the contrary and that although the said Act of Council had not then received the Royal approbation and the notification of such approbation had not then been published in the "New South Wales Government Gazette" Yet that the said Act did afterwards receive the Royal approbation and that the notification of such approbation was made in the "New South Wales Government Gazette" on the 2nd day of July 1834.

Charges that even if the said mortgage security was void or incomplete in its inception the contrary whereof however the said Attorney General charges Yet that the effect of such subsequent approbation and notification was to render the said mortgage security valid and operative by relation and even if otherwise Yet the said Attorney General charges that the said mortgage security created a valid equitable lien upon the said hereditaments and that he and the plaintiff Wm. Macpherson on behalf of Her Majesty's Government are entitled now to stand and be considered in the same plight and condition as if the said mortgage had been complete for all purposes at the time of its execution and that the defendants ought to be decreed to execute all such deeds and to perform all such acts as may be necessary to make such intended security valid and complete for the purposes for which it was intended.

Charges that the said congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney are a numerous fluctuating disunited and uncertain body and that it would be not only highly inconvenient but impossible to ascertain all the members thereof and to bring them before the Court as defendants to this information and bill.

Charges that according to the constitution and uniform practice of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland a congregation however numerous is regarded and represented for all such purposes as those of the present suit in the persons of their elders.

Charges that Duncan Campbell and James Smith (the other defendants hereto) some time in the year 1832 and before the date of the said mortgage were regularly chosen by the said congregation to fill the said office of elders and have ever since uniformly acted and are now acting in that capacity as the representatives of the said congregation.

Charges that the said defendants now have or lately had in their possession custody and power divers grants deeds accounts books of account memoranda letters receipts vouchers papers and writings relating to the said mortgaged premises and to the matters aforesaid whereby if the same were produced the truth of the several matters aforesaid would appear but they have refused to produce the same But now so it is &c. May it please &c. To the end &c.

Whether on or about the time hereinbefore mentioned a grant was not made to the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay of the premises hereinbefore mentioned to be held by them in manner and upon the trusts hereinbefore mentioned or how otherwise?

And whether the Act of Council hereinbefore mentioned was not passed at the time and containing the recitals and to the purport and effect hereinbefore mentioned or how otherwise?

And whether such advances as are in the said Act mentioned to have been made to the said trustees were not in fact made and advanced to them as such trustees?

And whether the said sum of 2,400 dollars is not of the value of £520 sterling or of what other value?

And whether shortly after the passing of the said Act a warrant or order was not made out empowering the Treasurer of the Colony to advance to the said trustees the further sum of £1,500 and whether such advance did not make the total sum advanced to the said trustees to amount to the sum of £3,520 or what other sum? And

And whether for the purpose of securing the said sum and all other advances that might be made the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay did not execute the indenture of release hereinbefore mentioned?

And whether the said indenture is not of the date and to the purport and effect hereinbefore mentioned or how otherwise?

And whether the said Thomas M'Vitie did not depart this life on or about the time hereinbefore mentioned or at what other time?

And whether under or by virtue of the Act of Council hereinbefore mentioned or by some and what other Act the said David Ramsay John Dunmore Lang Thomas Brown Thomas Cadell and George Bowman were not duly appointed trustees of the said Church hereinbefore mentioned?

And whether the said sum of £3,520 is not now due to the said Government on the security of the said premises?

And whether such applications as are hereinbefore mentioned have not been made to the said trustees and whether they do not refuse to comply therewith?

And whether the congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney are not a numerous fluctuating disunited and uncertain body and of how many persons the same consists and whether it would not be not only inconvenient but impossible to ascertain all the members thereof and to bring them before the Court as defendants to this suit and if not then that the defendants may discover and set forth the Christian names and surnames of all the members comprising the said congregation and their several and respective places of residence?

And whether according to the constitution and uniform practice of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland a congregation however numerous is not regarded and represented for all such purposes as those of the present suit in the persons of their elders?

And whether the said defendants Duncan Campbell and James Smith were not some time and when in the year 1832 and whether or not before the date of the said mortgage regularly chosen by the said congregation to fill the said office of elders and whether they have not ever since uniformly acted and whether they are not now acting in that capacity as the representatives of the said congregation?

And whether the defendants or some &c. have or has not &c. in their or his possession &c. divers &c. grants deeds accounts books of account memoranda letters receipts vouchers papers and writings or grant &c. relating to the said mortgaged premises or to some and what part or parts thereof and to the matters aforesaid or some &c. and whether they &c. the truth of the matters &c. would not appear &c. and that the said defendants may set forth a full true and perfect list or schedule &c. and may produce and leave such of them &c. in the hands of the Master of this Honorable Court for the usual purposes and may set forth what has become of such of them as are not now &c.?

PRAYER:—

That it may be referred to the Master of this Honorable Court to take an account of what is due and owing from the said defendants for and on account of the said sum of £3,520 together with interest thereon at a rate to be fixed by this Honorable Court to be computed from the time when the said sum became payable and that the said defendants may be decreed to pay unto the said William Macpherson on behalf of the Government what shall appear to be due on such account by a short day to be appointed by this Honorable Court in that behalf and also that the said defendants may be decreed to pay the costs of this suit and in default thereof that the said defendants and all persons claiming under them may be for ever barred and foreclosed of and from all right and equity of redemption of in and to the said premises or any part thereof and may deliver up to Government all deeds papers and writings in their custody or power relating to or concerning the said mortgaged premises or if it shall appear to this Honorable Court that the said mortgage security was under the circumstances insufficient to pass the legal estate of and in the said lands and hereditaments or to satisfy the purposes for which the same was intended then that the same may be decreed to constitute a valid equitable lien and security upon the said lands and hereditaments and that the said defendants or those of them whose concurrence is necessary may be decreed to execute to plaintiff William Macpherson or to the now Collector of the Internal Revenue of this Colony a valid legal security upon the said lands and hereditaments in lieu of the said mortgage security and that they may be decreed to execute all such deeds and to perform all such acts as may be necessary for such purpose and that everything may be decreed to be done which may be necessary to place the Government of the said Colony in the same plight and condition with regard to the premises as if the said mortgage security had been valid and complete for all purposes at the time of its execution.

And for further relief.

Answer of defendants Lang and Ramsay to original information and bill filed 9 November 1842:—

Defendants admit it to be true that on or about the time in said information and bill mentioned a grant was made to these defendants and to John Piper and Thomas M'Vitie of the premises in said information and bill mentioned to be held by them in manner and upon the trusts in said information and bill mentioned And that the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned was passed at the time and containing the recitals and to the purport and effect in the said information and bill mentioned And that such advances as in the said Act mentioned to have been made to the said trustees were in fact made and advanced to them as such trustees and that the said sum of 2,400 dollars is of the value of £520 sterling And that shortly after the passing of the said Act a warrant or order was made out empowering the Treasurer of the Colony to advance to the said trustees the further sum of £1,500 and that such advance did make the total sum advanced to the trustees to amount to the sum of £3,520 sterling and that for the purpose of securing the said sum and all other advances that might be made these defendants and said John Piper did execute the indenture of release in said information and bill mentioned and that said indenture is of the date and to the purport and effect in said information and bill mentioned so far as the same is therein set forth but defendants say that said indenture contains an express stipulation that such mortgage was so made and in such manner nevertheless that these defendants and said Thomas M'Vitie and John Piper or any or either of them should not be construed in any wise to create or enter into any covenant or warranty of title of said hereditaments but to convey the same so far and in such manner as they lawfully could or ought as trustees as aforesaid.

Say that said Act although it had passed the Legislative Council at the date of said mortgage contained a clause that the same should not commence or take effect until the same should have received the Royal approbation and the notification of such approbation should have been made by His Excellency the Governor in the New South Wales Government Gazette and defendants say they have since been advised and believe it to be true that said Act was not in force nor had the same commenced or taken effect at the time said mortgage was made or executed and delivered and that in consequence thereof these defendants and their said co-trustees had no power to mortgage said hereditaments and that the objects for which the mortgage was made were contrary to the trusts upon which said lands were held and for purposes foreign to the objects of such trusts but defendants submit to the judgment of this Honorable Court whether upon the proofs which said Attorney General and complainant can produce the said Act was in force or took effect at the date and examination of said indenture of mortgage and whether defendants and their said co-trustees had power to mortgage said hereditaments for the purposes and objects for which they were mortgaged?

Admit that said Thomas M'Vitie did depart this life on or about the time in the said Bill mentioned.

Say they cannot set forth as to their belief or otherwise except as hereinafter mentioned whether under and by virtue of the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned or by some or what other Act these defendants and said John Piper and Thomas Brown Thomas Cadell and George Bowman in said bill and information mentioned were duly or how appointed trustees of the said church in the said information and bill mentioned but defendants say they have been informed and believe that these defendants and said Thomas Brown Thomas Cadell George Bowman and John Piper were nominated trustees of the said church and hereditaments but were not duly appointed by said Act of Council no conveyance having been made to them in pursuance thereof.

Say that said church and hereditaments are still vested in these defendants and John Piper upon the trusts of said grant except so far as the same may be affected by said mortgage.

Say (that subject as hereinafter mentioned) they believe it to be true that the said sum of £3,520 is now due to said Government but defendants for the reasons aforesaid deny that the same is secured on said premises or that the same is due by these defendants.

Admit that such applications as in the said information and bill mentioned have been made to these defendants and that for the reasons hereinbefore mentioned they do refuse to comply therewith but defendants cannot set forth as to their belief or otherwise whether any or what applications have been made to the said other defendants or any or which of them nor whether they refuse or why to comply therewith.

Defendant Lang saith and defendant Ramsay believes it to be true that when the negotiation for said loan was in progress in the Colonial Office in Downing-street Westminster and when reference was made by Lord Howick the Under-Secretary of State in this defendant Lang's presence to the proposed security and the probability of repayment the Right Honorable Lord Goderich the Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies observed that he never heard of Government loans for such purposes being repaid and that in the year 1837 Sir George Grey the Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies told the said defendant Lang in the Colonial Office in Downing-street aforesaid that the Right Honorable the Secretary of State had then authorized or would authorize the Colonial Government to remit either the whole of the loan for the erection of the Australian College buildings or certain portions of it from time to time thereby leading the defendant Lang into the understanding and belief and being in fact an implied pledge on the part of Government that the said loan (the purposes being the forming of a college for the education of youth) should never be demanded by the Government.

Defendant Lang saith that the proceedings of said plaintiffs are contrary to equity and good faith and the said implied pledge made to this defendant Lang when said loan was made.

Defendant Lang saith that said Attorney General and plaintiff having full knowledge so far as appeared by said grant and mortgage that these defendants committed a breach of trust (although these defendants were not aware of the fact at the time they executed said mortgage so far as they were able as trustees and did so with a laudable intention and upon the faith of the implied pledge with the said Lord Goderich) the said Attorney General and plaintiff are not in a position to proceed in a Court of Equity or compel these defendants to proceed further in said breach of trust nor has a Court of Equity as defendants humbly submit any jurisdiction to compel defendants to proceed further in the said breach of trust.

Say that the celled trust for whom defendants are trustees of said hereditaments are necessary parties to this suit and they claim the same benefit &c.

Deny combination &c.

Answer of defendant Piper to original information and bill filed 5 December 1842.

Defendant admits it to be true that on or about the time in said information and bill in that behalf mentioned a grant was made to defendant and David Ramsay John Dunmore Lang and Thomas M'Vitie of the premises in said information and bill mentioned to be held by them in manner and upon the trusts in said information and bill mentioned and that the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned was passed at the time and containing the recitals and to the purport and effect in said information and bill mentioned and that such advances as in said Act mentioned to have been made to said trustees were in fact made and advanced to them as such trustees and that said sum of 2,400 dollars is of the value of £520 sterling and that shortly after the passing of the said Act a warrant or order was made out empowering the Treasurer of the Colony to advance to the said trustees the further sum of £1,500 and that such advance did make the total sum advanced to the said trustees to amount to the sum of £3,520 and that for the purpose of securing the said sum and all other advances that might be made this defendant and the said David Ramsay and John Dunmore Lang did execute the indenture of release in said information and bill mentioned and that said indenture is of the date and to the purport and effect in said information and bill mentioned so far as the same is therein set forth but defendant saith that said indenture contained an express stipulation that such mortgage was made so and in such manner nevertheless that this defendant and said Thomas M'Vitie David Ramsay and John Dunmore Lang or any or either of them should not be construed in any wise to create or enter into any covenant or warranty of the title of said hereditaments but to convey the same so far and in such manner only as they lawfully could or ought as trustees aforesaid.

Saith that said Act although it had passed the Legislative Council at the date of said mortgage contained a clause that the same should not commence or take effect until the same should have received the Royal approbation and the notification of such approbation should have been made by His Excellency the Governor in the New South Wales Government Gazette and defendant saith he has been since advised and believes it to be true that the said Act was not in force nor had the same commenced or taken effect at the time the said mortgage was made or executed and delivered and that in consequence thereof defendant and his said co-trustees had no power to mortgage said hereditaments and that the objects for which said mortgage was made were contrary to the trusts upon which said lands were held and for purposes foreign to the objects of such trusts but defendant humbly submits to the judgment of this honorable Court whether upon the proofs which said Attorney General and plaintiff can produce the said Act was in force or took effect at the date and examination of said indenture of mortgage? And whether defendant and his said co-trustees had power to mortgage said hereditaments for the purpose and objects for which they were mortgaged?

Admits it to be true that said Thomas Macvitie did depart this life on or about the time in said bill mentioned.

Saith he cannot set forth as to his belief or otherwise (except as hereinafter mentioned) whether under and by virtue of the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned or by some or what other Act this defendant and said David Ramsay John Dunmore Lang and Thomas Brown Thomas Cadell and George Bowman in said bill and information mentioned were duly or how appointed trustees of of said church in said bill and information mentioned but defendant saith he has been informed and believes that defendant and said Thomas Brown Thomas Cadell George Bowman David Ramsay and John Dunmore Lang were nominated trustees of said church and hereditaments but were not duly appointed by the said Act of Council no conveyance having been made to them in pursuance thereof.

Saith that said church and hereditaments are still vested in this defendant and David Ramsay and John Dunmore Lang upon the trusts of said grant except so far as the same may be affected by said mortgage.

Saith that subject as hereinafter mentioned he believes it to be true that said sum of £3,520 is now due to said Government but defendant for the reasons aforesaid denies that the same is secured in said premises or that the same is due by this defendant.

Admits it to be true that such applications as in said information and bill mentioned have been made to defendant and that for the reasons hereinbefore mentioned he doth refuse to comply therewith but defendant cannot set forth as to his belief or otherwise whether any or what applications have been made to said other defendants or any or which of them nor whether they refuse or why to comply therewith.

Believes it to be true that when the negotiation for said loan was in progress in the Colonial office in Downing-street Westminster and when reference was made by Lord Howick the Under Secretary of State in John Dunmore Lang's presence to the proposed security and the probability of repayment the Right Honorable Lord Goderich the Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies observed that he never heard of Government loans for such purposes being repaid and that in the year 1837 Sir George Grey then Under Secretary of State for the Colonies told said John Dunmore Lang in the Colonial office in Downing-street aforesaid that the Right Honorable the Secretary of State had then authorized or would authorize the Colonial Government to remit either the whole of the loan for the erection of the Australian College Buildings or certain portions of it from time to time being in fact an implied pledge on the part of Government that the loan (the purposes being the founding of a college for the education of youth) should never be demanded by the Government.

Answer of defendants Cadell and Brown to original information and bill filed 8 November 1842.

Defendants say they have been informed and believe it to be true that on or about the time in said information and Bill in that behalf mentioned a grant was made to the several persons of the premises in said information and bill mentioned to be held by them in manner and upon the trusts in said information and bill mentioned and that the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned was passed at the time and containing the recitals and to the purport and effect in said information and bill mentioned and that such advances as in the said Act mentioned to have been made to the said trustees were in fact made to them as such trustees and that the said sum of 2,400 dollars is of the value of £520 sterling and that shortly after the passing of said Act a warrant or order was made out empowering the Treasurer of the Colony to advance to the said trustees the further sum of £1,500 and that such advance did make the total sum advanced to the said trustees to amount to the sum of £3,520 and that for the purpose of securing the said sum and all other advances that might be made the several persons in said information and bill mentioned did execute the indenture of release in said information and bill mentioned and that said indenture is of the date and to the purport and effect in said information and bill mentioned so far as the same is therein set forth.

Admit it to be true that said Thomas Macvitie did depart this life on or about the time in said bill mentioned.

Say they cannot set forth as to their knowledge or remembrance whether under or by virtue of the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned or by some or what other Act these defendants and David Ramsay John Dunmore Lang and George Bowman in said bill and information mentioned were duly or how appointed trustees of said church in said bill and information mentioned but defendants say they have been informed and believe that these defendants and said David Ramsay John Dunmore Lang and George Bowman were during the year 1841 nominated trustees of the Scots Church in Sydney but were not duly appointed by said Act of Council the said church and hereditaments not having been conveyed as required by said Act nor were the same ever conveyed to or become vested in these defendants and defendants have been informed and believe that said hereditaments are still vested in said John Dunmore Lang David Ramsay and John Piper upon the trusts mentioned in said grant except so far as their estate might be affected by said mortgage.

Say they have been informed and believe it to be true that said sum of £3,520 is now due to said Government but defendants cannot set forth as to their belief or otherwise whether the same is secured on said premises or from whom the same is due these defendants not being able to say as to their belief or otherwise how far the said trustees had power to mortgage the same.

Deny that such applications as in said information and bill mentioned have been made to these defendants and defendants cannot set forth as to their belief or otherwise whether any or what applications have been made to said other defendants or any or which of them nor whether they refuse or why to comply therewith.

Say that the said sum of £3,520 or any part thereof was never received by these defendants or either of them nor did these defendants or either of them execute the said mortgage nor were they parties to the same or in any manner concerned in the transaction in said bill mentioned.

Deny combination &c.

Answer of defendant Bowman to original information and bill filed 22 November 1842.

Defendant saith he has been informed and believes it to be true that on or about the time in said information and bill in that behalf mentioned a grant was made to the several persons of the premises in the said information and bill mentioned to be held by them in manner and upon the trusts in said information and bill mentioned and that the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned was passed at the time and containing the recitals and to the purport and effect in said information and bill mentioned and that such advances as in said Act mentioned to have been made to said trustees were in fact made and advanced to them as such trustees and that said sum of 2,400 dollars is of the value of £520 sterling and that shortly after the passing of said Act a warrant or order was made out empowering the Treasurer of the said Colony to advance to said trustees the further sum of £1,500 and that such advances did make the total sum advanced to such trustees to amount to the sum of £4,020 of which £520 was advanced for the erection of the Scots' Church (a debt which has since been cancelled by the Government) and the remainder for that of the Australian College so that the said sum of £4,020 is reduced to the sum of £3,500 and that for the purpose of securing said sum and all other advances that might be made the several persons in said information and bill mentioned did execute the indenture of release in said information and bill mentioned and that said indenture is of the date and to the purport and effect in said information and bill mentioned so far as the same is therein set forth.

Admits it to be true that said Thomas Macvitie did depart this life on or about the time in said bill mentioned.

Saith he cannot set forth as to his knowledge or remembrance whether under and by virtue of the Act of Council in said information and bill mentioned or by some or what other Act this defendant and David Ramsay John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Brown and Thomas Cadell in said information information and bill mentioned were duly or how appointed trustees of said church in said bill and information mentioned but defendant saith he has been informed and believes that this defendant and said David Ramsay John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas Brown and Thomas Cadell were in the year 1841 nominated trustees of the Scots' Church in Sydney but were not duly appointed by said Act of Council the said church and hereditaments not having been conveyed as required by the said Act nor were the same ever conveyed to or become vested in this defendant and the said Thomas Brown and Thomas Cadell and defendant has been informed and believes that said church and hereditaments are still vested in said John Dunmore Lang David Ramsay and John Piper upon the trusts mentioned in said grant except so far as their estate might be affected by said mortgage.

Saith he hath been informed and believes it to be true that the said sum of £4,020 reduced as aforesaid is now due to said Government but defendant cannot set forth as to his belief or otherwise whether the same is secured in said premises or from whom the same is due.

Saith he cannot set forth as to his belief or otherwise how far the said trustees have power to mortgage the same.

Denies it to be true that such applications as in said information and bill mentioned or any other applications have been made to defendant and defendant cannot set forth as to his belief or otherwise whether any or what applications have been made to said other defendants or any or which of them nor whether they refuse or why to comply therewith.

Saith that said sum of £4,020 or any part thereof was never paid to or received by this defendant nor did defendant execute said mortgage nor was he a party to the same or in any manner concerned in the transaction in said bill mentioned.

Denies combination.

Answer of defendants Lang Ramsay Brown Cadell and Bowman to information and bill as first amended filed 19 July 1843.

Defendants admit that said William Macpherson in said amended information and bill mentioned was at the time therein mentioned the Collector of the Internal Revenue of the Colony aforesaid.

Admit that the trustees in said amended information and bill mentioned refuse to sell their equity of redemption in said premises in said amended information and bill mentioned and that in justification of such refusal these defendants deny that they pretend but they admit that they assert that defendants John Dunmore Lang and David Ramsay and said John Piper in said bill named at the time of the execution of the mortgage security in said amended information and bill mentioned had no power to mortgage said hereditaments and that the Act of Council referred to in their said former answer had not then commenced or taken effect.

Admit that the congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney are a numerous fluctuating dis-united and uncertain body and say they do not know and cannot set forth as to their belief or otherwise of how many persons the same consists and defendants believe it would be inconvenient and impossible to ascertain all the members thereof and to bring them before the Court as defendants to this suit but defendants say that nevertheless a considerable portion of said congregation have been permanently attached to said church since the erection of the same in A.D. 1826 and defendants say that according to the constitution and uniform practice of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland—a congregation however numerous is regarded as represented for all such purposes as those of the present suit in the persons of their elders and defendants further say that Duncan Campbell of Market-lane Sydney in the Colony of New South Wales and James Smith of Lower George-street Sydney aforesaid in the year 1832 before the date of said mortgage were regularly chosen by said congregation to fill said office of elders and have uniformly acted in that capacity as the representatives of the congregation ever since and are now acting as such And defendants submit to the judgment of this Honorable Court whether the whole of the said congregation do not appear in the persons of said Duncan Campbell and James Smith their properly appointed representatives.

Deny that except as hereinafter mentioned defendants or any one of them have or has now or had lately in their or his possession custody or power divers or any grants deeds accounts books of account memoranda letters receipts vouchers papers or writings or grant deed account book of account memorandum letter receipt voucher paper or writing copies or copy of extracts or extract from letters or a letter or other writing relating to said mortgaged premises or to any part or parts thereof or to the matters in the said amended information and bill mentioned or any of them And defendants say that the only deeds or papers at any time in their possession were the deed of grant from the Crown of said mortgaged premises and a deed of mortgage of the property of the church aforesaid to James Birnie of O'Connell-street Sydney in the Colony aforesaid both of which deeds were handed over by them to Mr. C. D. Riddell at that time Colonial Treasurer at the time when the mortgage in said bill of complaint referred to was executed and as defendants believe are still in his possession and they submit to the judgment of this Honorable Court whether thereby when the same shall be produced the truth of the matters aforesaid or some or one and which of them would appear.

Deny combination &c.

Answer of defendants Lang Ramsay Brown Cadell Bowman and Campbell (one of the elders) to the second amendment filed 6 July 1844.

Defendants admit that said William Macpherson was at the time in said amended information and bill mentioned Collector of the Internal Revenue of said Colony And that the congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney are a numerous fluctuating dis-united and uncertain body but defendants are unable to set forth as to their belief or otherwise of how many persons the same consists nor whether it would be impossible to ascertain all the members thereof and to bring them before this Court as defendants to this suit but defendants say they believe it would be inconvenient so to do.

Admit it to be true that the defendants Duncan Campbell and James Smith in said amended information and bill mentioned were on or about the month of May 1832 and before the date of said mortgage regularly chosen by said congregation to fill said office of elders and that they have ever since uniformly acted and are now acting in that capacity as the representatives of said congregation.

Deny that they or any or one of them have or has now or had lately save as hereinafter mentioned in their or his possession custody or power divers or any grants deeds accounts books of account memoranda letters receipts vouchers papers and writings grant deed account book of account memorandum receipt letter voucher paper or writing copies or copy of extract from letters or a letter or other writing relating to said mortgaged premises or to any part or parts thereof or to the matters aforesaid or any or one of them whereby or by any or one of which if the same were produced or otherwise the truth of the matters aforesaid or any or one of them would appear but defendants say that the only deeds or papers at any time in their or either of their possession custody or power were the deed of grant from the Crown of said mortgaged premises and a deed of mortgage of the property of the church aforesaid to James Birnie of O'Connell-street Sydney aforesaid both of which deeds were handed over by these defendants or some or one of them to C. D. Answer of defendants Piper and Smith (one of the elders) to second amendment filed 29 July 1844.

Defendants admit that said William Macpherson was at the time in said amended information and bill mentioned Collector of the Internal Revenue of said Colony and that the congregation of Scots Presbyterians of Sydney are a numerous fluctuating disunited and uncertain body but defendants are unable to set forth as to their belief or otherwise of how many persons the same consists nor whether it would be impossible to ascertain all the members thereof and to bring them before the Court as defendants to this suit but defendants say they believe it would be inconvenient so to do.

Admit it to be true that according to the constitution and uniform practice of the Presbyterian Church of Scotland a congregation however numerous is regarded and represented for all such purposes as those of the present suit in the persons of their elders.

Admit it to be true that the defendants Duncan Campbell and James Smith were in or about the month of 1832 and before the date of the said mortgage regularly chosen by the said congregation to fill the said office of elders and that they have ever since uniformly acted and are now acting in that capacity as the representatives of the said congregation.

Deny it to be true that they or any or one of them have or has now or had lately save as herein-after mentioned in their or his possession custody or power divers or any grants deeds accounts books of account memoranda letters receipts vouchers papers and writings copies or copy of extracts or extracts from letters or a letter or other writing relating to the said mortgaged premises or to any part or parts thereof or to the matters aforesaid or any or one of them whereby or by any or one of which if produced or otherwise the truth of the matters aforesaid or any or one of them would appear but defendants say that the only deeds or papers at any time in their or either of their possession custody or power were the deed of grant from the Crown of the said mortgaged premises and a deed of mortgage of the property of the church aforesaid to one James Birnie of O'Connell-street Sydney aforesaid both of which deeds were handed over by the defendants to the said amended information and bill of complaint or one of them to C. D. Riddell Esquire at that time Colonial Treasurer and defendants believe that the same are still in his possession And defendants claim to have such and the same benefit of the defences contained in their former answer as if the same were again repealed herein.

OBSERVATIONS.

THIS is a suit by Her Majesty's Attorney General and Mr. Macpherson, to foreclose a mortgage made to the latter (as Collector of Internal Revenue of this Colony) on 18th February, 1833, to secure to Her Majesty's Government £3,520 advanced for the purpose of building the Australian College. The defendants are Messrs. Lang, Piper, and Ramsay, the parties to whom (together with Thomas M'Vitie, deceased), the property now sought to be foreclosed was granted by deed of grant dated 10 November, 1826—Messrs. Brown, Cadell, and Bowman, who (together with the defendants Lang and Ramsay) were under an Act of Council, 7 William 4, appointed trustees of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, in Sydney, but to whom no conveyance of the church property has ever been made—and Messrs. Campbell and Smith, the elders of the said Scots Church, and representatives of the congregation.

The mortgage was executed in pursuance or supposed pursuance of an Act of Council passed in 1832, to enable the trustees to mortgage the property to Government, but which Act contained a clause that the Act should not take effect until it had received the Royal approbation, and such approbation had been notified in the New South Wales Government Gazette. The mortgage was made before this notification appeared, and this is one of the grounds of defence made by the defendants.

The defendant Lang attempts to shew that the Home Government never intended that this loan should be repaid, but from the following copy of a letter, from the Secretary to the Commissioners for Auditing the Public Accounts to the Auditor General here, it is clear that the claim was never considered as given up:—

" Audit Office,
" 5 December, 1842.

" Sir,

" I am directed by the Commissioners for Auditing the Public Accounts again to call your attention to the following imprests, made by the Colonial Treasurer, Mr. Riddell, to the Rev. John Dunmore Lang, minister of the Scotch Church, Sydney, under the authority of the Secretary of State, for the purpose of establishing an academical institution there, viz. :—

|                        |    |    |    |    |    |        |
|------------------------|----|----|----|----|----|--------|
| " On 11 November, 1831 | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | £1,500 |
| 23 February, 1833      | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 1,500  |
| 23 October, 1833       | .. | .. | .. | .. | .. | 500    |
|                        |    |    |    |    |    | £3,500 |

" and with reference to a letter from the Colonial Secretary, Mr. E. Deas Thomson, to me, dated 16 October, 1841. I have to request that you will state whether any and what steps may have been since taken to obtain the repayment of these advances, and what course the Colonial Government may now intend to pursue in regard to them?

" I am, &c.,
" JOHN LEWIS MALLET."

A mortgage to James Birnie, dated prior to the deed, in which we proceed from the trustees under the grant, is mentioned in Dr. Lang's answer. This deed (copy of which is left herewith) is executed by Messrs. Lang, Piper, and M'Vitie, but not attested, nor is the receipt for the consideration money witnessed. Mr. Ramsay has not executed it and it is not registered. The deed itself is in the hands of Mr. Owen, solicitor for Mr. Barker, who acts as trustee for Mrs. Birnie, widow of the mortgagee.

The defendants Campbell and Smith, the elders of the church, have filed a bill against the plaintiffs in this cause, and against the other defendants to this suit, to have the mortgage to Mr. Macpherson set aside on the ground that it was executed without authority, and in violation of their trusts. This suit will come on for hearing at the same time as the present one.

The defendants' solicitors have given an undertaking to admit the mortgage deed in evidence without proof of the execution, in order to save the expense of bringing a witness from beyond Bathurst.

The following is a copy of Counsel's opinion on the answers, and on evidence:—

I have perused the two answers to the information, as further amended, and am of opinion that they are sufficient. I have also considered the question upon which I felt and expressed some doubt whether the change of Attorney General, which has happened since the commencement of this suit, required to be noticed in any manner, and I am of opinion that it does not. The Attorney General has no interest personally in the suit, but acts merely officially (Lord Redesdale's Treatise, p. 22), and the proceedings upon an information can abate only by the death or determination of interest by the defendant (ibid p. 100). It follows, I apprehend, that the change of that officer, during a suit, would require, at the most, only a suggestion to the Court. But the Court will take notice of such changes without any suggestion. (Rex v. Wilkes, 4 Barr. 2555).

As the answers admit all the material facts in the information and bill, which indeed rest almost entirely on documents and Acts of Council either requiring no proof at all, or being readily capable of proof, it appears to me that the Crown need not do more than produce the grant and mortgage deed. The attesting witness to the latter deed should be in attendance.

It will be seen that the only documents admitted ever to have been in the possession of any of the defendants are the grant and a deed of mortgage to James Birnie, both of which are stated to have been given up to the Colonial Treasurer, and to be now in his possession.

It will be proper, I think, to inquire into the circumstances of this incumbrance with a view to ascertain whether the defendants can raise any objection at the hearing, on the ground of Birnie's not being made a party?

Unless this should be the case, which, however, I do not consider probable, the Crown is now in a situation I conceive to reply and set the cause down for hearing.

Campbell and others members of the congregation of the Scotch Presbyterians v. the Attorney General and others—

STATES,—

That by a certain deed of grant duly executed and bearing date the 10th day of November 1826 His Excellency Lieutenant General Ralph Darling then Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the said Colony did under and by virtue and in pursuance of the power and authority in him vested give and grant unto ye Rev. John D. Lang D.D. John Piper Thomas M'Vitie since deceased and David Ramsay trustees for the Scotch Presbyterians in Sydney and to their successors in office for ever a certain piece or parcel of land containing 2 roods and 39 perches lying and situate in the parish of St. Phillip in ye county of Cumberland bounded on the north-east by Underwoods allotment bearing east 36½ degrees south 1 chain and 80 links but declaring that the ground thereby conveyed was granted for the purpose of erecting a Scotch Church in which the ordinances of religion should be dispensed by a regularly ordained Minister of the Church of Scotland and such other buildings therewith connected as the trustees might think fit to erect.

That a Scotch Church in which the ordinances of religion hath been dispensed by a regularly ordained Minister of the Church of Scotland hath been duly erected on the said hereditaments and premises.

That the money necessary for the purpose of erecting ye said Church was except so far respects an advance made by Government to the amount of 2,400 dollars advanced and paid by plaintiffs and the said other members of the said congregation of Scotch Presbyterians in Sydney.

That the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay in violation of the trusts reposed in them in and by the said deed poll or grant and without any authority for the same did by indentures of lease and release bearing date respectively on or about ye 13th day of February 1833 in consideration of the sum of £3,520 thereon expressed to have been advanced by Campbell Drummond Riddell the Treasurer of the said Colony by the order of the then Governor of the said Colony to the said

Bill filed 6
October, 1842.

said trustees John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay did convey unto William Macpherson another defendant hereinafter named and to his heirs and assigns the lands and hereditaments comprised in the said hereinbefore stated deed poll or grant in trust for the Government of the said Colony for securing to the said Government the repayment of the said principal sum and in the now stating indenture is contained a proviso for redemption of the said hereditaments upon payment by the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay or the survivors or survivor of them their or his heirs executors or administrators or the trustees or trustee for the congregation of the Scots Presbyterians in Sydney for the time being of the sum of £3,520 on the day and time therein particularly mentioned as in and by ye said indentures now in the possession of the said defendants or one of them will more fully and at large appear.

That the said Thomas M'Vitie departed this life on or about ye 3rd day of February 1832.

That Her Majesty's Attorney General for the said Colony also a defendant hereinafter named on behalf of Her said Majesty and the said defendant William Macpherson filed their information and bill of complaint against ye said defendants John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay and against Thomas Brown Thomas Cadell and George Bowman thereby praying amongst other things that an account might be taken of what was due from the said defendants to the said bill for and on account of the said sum of £3,520 together with interest thereon at a rate to be fixed by said Honorable Court to be computed from the time the said sum became payable and that the said defendants might be decreed to pay unto ye said William Macpherson on behalf of the Government what should appear to be due on such account by a short day to be appointed by said Honorable Court in that behalf and the costs of the said suit and in default thereof that the said defendants and all persons claiming under them might for ever be barred and foreclosed of and from all right and equity of redemption of in and to the said premises.

That plaintiffs have frequently and in a friendly manner applied to and requested the said defendants to cancel ye said indentures of mortgage the same being made by the said trustees without authority and the said other defendants having at the time of the said mortgage notice of the said trusts.

That plaintiffs have also applied to ye said defendant William Macpherson to reconvey the said hereditaments and premises to ye said other defendants the trustees freed and discharged from the said indentures of mortgage and to deliver over the title deeds relating to the said hereditaments unto ye said defendants the trustees upon trust for plaintiffs and said congregation.

But now so it is &c.

That the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper David Ramsay William Macpherson contriving and confederating &c. they ye said J. D. Lang John Piper D. Ramsay and William Macpherson absolutely refuse to comply with such requests and he at times pretends that the said defendants the trustees were duly authorized by an Act of the Governor and Legislative Council of the Colony aforesaid passed in the third year of the reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth intituled "An Act to enable the Trustees of the Scots Church in Sydney in the Colony of New South Wales to grant a mortgage to Government on the buildings now erecting on their allotments for the amount of a loan advanced by Government to enable the Trustees to erect the said Church and also for the amount of a further loan advanced by Government in aid of the establishment of the Australian College" to mortgage the said hereditaments in manner aforesaid whereas plaintiffs charge that if any such Act was passed at the date and execution of ye said indentures of mortgage the same had not then commenced or taken effect.

Charge that the said advances (if made) were for the purpose of building an Academical Institution or College on the said hereditaments and premises whereas plaintiffs charge that ye said hereditaments and premises were not granted for such or the like purposes but merely for the purpose of erecting a Scots Church and such other buildings therewith connected.

All which actings &c.

To the end therefore &c.

That said defendants may answer and set forth whether the grant of the 16th November 1836 was not duly made and executed and to the purport and effect hereinbefore set forth or any other deed of grant of any other date or to any other or the like purport or effect was not made and executed the said defendants the trustees upon trust for the Scots Presbyterians of Sydney or how otherwise?

Whether such Scots Church as hereinbefore mentioned hath not been erected on the said hereditaments and premises?

Whether the money necessary for erecting the said Church hath not (except as aforesaid) been advanced and paid by plaintiffs and the said other members of the congregation of Scots Presbyterians of Sydney or how otherwise?

Whether the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay in violation of the trusts reposed in them and without any authority did not by indentures of lease and release of the date and to ye purport and effect hereinbefore mentioned or of what other date purport or effect mortgage the said hereditaments and premises unto ye said defendant William Macpherson in manner aforesaid?

Whether the said Thomas M'Vitie did not depart this life on or about the time hereinbefore in that behalf mentioned or how otherwise?

Whether the said information and bill hereinbefore mentioned were not duly filed in said Honorable Court or any other information or bill to the like purport or effect or how otherwise?

Whether plaintiffs have not made such applications and requests as hereinbefore mentioned or any other and what applications of or to the like purport and effect or how otherwise?

Whether the Act of Council hereinbefore mentioned commenced or took effect at the date and execution of the said indentures of mortgage or how otherwise?

Whether the said advances made by Government were not for the purpose of building an Academical Institution or College on the said hereditaments and premises or how otherwise?

Whether the said hereditaments and premises were not granted for other and what purposes and that said defendants may answer the premises and that the said indentures of mortgage made by said defendants the trustees to ye said William Macpherson may be cancelled and that the said William Macpherson may be ordered by and under the decree and direction of said Honorable Court to reconvey the said hereditaments and premises unto said defendants ye said John Dunmore Lang John Piper and D. Ramsay as such trustees as aforesaid upon the trust for plaintiff and all other ye members of the congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney freed and discharged from the said mortgage debt of £3,520 and that ye said William Macpherson or the defendants or one of them in whose custody or power the title deeds of the said hereditaments have been deposited may be ordered to deliver up the same to ye said defendants the trustees for and on behalf of plaintiffs and ye said members of Scots Presbyterians of Sydney aforesaid that the said William Macpherson may in the meantime be declared to be a trustee of the said hereditaments and premises for plaintiffs and ye said congregation aforesaid freed and discharged from ye said mortgage debt or sum of £3,520 so secured to the Government as aforesaid And that all proceedings may be stayed.

Subpena against said John Dunmore Lang John Piper D. Ramsay and W. Macpherson thereby commanding them at a certain day &c. And that said Majesty's Attorney General may appear and put in his answer.

ROSS DONNELLY.

Answer of John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay.—(Filed.)

STATES:—

They admit that the grant of land of the 10th day of November 1836 in the said bill mentioned was duly made and executed and is to the purport and effect in the said bill in that behalf set forth and that the said grant was upon trust for the Scotch Presbyterians of Sydney.

Admits

Admits that such Scots Church as in the said bill mentioned hath been erected on the said hereditaments and premises and that the money necessary for erecting the said church hath (except as in the said bill is excepted) been advanced and paid by ye said plaintiffs and the other members of ye congregation of Scotch Presbyterians of Sydney as in said bill is mentioned.

Admit that they together with ye said other parties in this behalf in the said bill of complaint mentioned did by indentures of lease and release of ye date and to ye purport and effect in the said bill in that behalf mentioned mortgage ye said hereditaments and premises unto said William Macpherson in manner in the said bill set forth.

They have since been advised and believe it to be true that such lease and release and mortgage were in violation of the trusts reposed in ye said defendants And that the same were made without any authority in them for such purpose but defendants submit the matters aforesaid to the judgment of this Honorable Court upon such proof as the said plaintiffs can produce.

That at the time of such mortgage and lease and release being made as in the said bill mentioned the said defendants believed they were not so acting without authority nor in violation of the trusts reposed in them as in the said bill set forth.

They admit that the said Thomas M'Vitie departed this life at or about the time in the said bill of complaint in that behalf mentioned And also that the said information and bill in the said bill of complaint mentioned were duly filed in the said Honorable Court as in ye said bill of complaint set forth And that the plaintiffs have made such applications and requests as in the said bill of complaint in that behalf mentioned.

They have been informed and believe it true that the Act of Council in the said bill of complaint mentioned did not commence or take effect at the date and execution of the said indentures of mortgage.

Admit that the said advances made by Government were for the purpose of building an Academical Institution or College on ye said hereditaments and premises.

Admit that the said hereditaments and premises were granted for other purposes viz. for the purpose of building thereon a Scotch Church as hereinbefore and in the said bill particularly mentioned. Deny combination.

Answer of William Macpherson filed 15th December 1842.

STATES:—

That the grant of the 10th day of November 1826 was duly made and executed and to the purport and effect as in the said bill of complaint mentioned to ye said defendants the trustees upon trust for the Scotch Presbyterians of Sydney but for his greater certainty therein this defendant craves leave to refer thereto when the same shall be produced to said Honorable Court.

That such Scotch Church as in the said bill of complaint mentioned has been erected on the said hereditaments and premises in the said bill of complaint mentioned and set forth.

That the money necessary for the erection of ye said church has (except as in the said bill of complaint is excepted) been advanced and paid by the plaintiffs and ye said other members of the congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney.

That ye said John Dunmore Lang John Piper and David Ramsay did by indentures of lease and release of the date and to the purport and effect in the said bill of complaint mentioned mortgage the said hereditaments and premises to this defendant.

That the said indentures of lease and release were not made and executed by them in violation of the trusts reposed in them or without authority.

That the said Thomas M'Vitie departed this life at or about the time in the said bill of complaint in that behalf mentioned.

Admit that the information and bill to the purport or effect in the said bill of complaint mentioned were filed in this Honorable Court.

Admits that the said plaintiffs have through their solicitors Messrs. Stenhouse and Hardy by a certain letter bearing date the 28th day of September 1842 addressed by said Stenhouse and Hardy the solicitors of the plaintiffs to this defendant called upon this defendant to reconvey ye said land to the trustees of the said church.

That save as hereinafter appears he cannot set forth as to his belief or otherwise whether the Act of Council in the said bill of complaint mentioned commenced or took effect at the date and execution of ye said indentures of mortgage—but this defendant says that by the 3rd section of the said Act it is enacted "That ye said ordinance shall not commence or take effect until the same shall have received the Royal approbation shall have been made by His Excellency the Governor in ye New South Wales Government Gazette" and that such notification was not made until the 2nd day of July 1834 And this defendant submits to ye judgment of this Honorable Court whether the said Act had any and what operation previously to the last mentioned date or if not and supposing the only authority to the trustees to execute the said mortgage security to be derived from the said authority whether the said security even if invalid in its inception might not be made valid by subsequent notification of ye said Act?—that under all the circumstances of the case the prayer of the said bill is contrary to equity and good conscience—and that the complainants cannot have any portion of relief prayed without first satisfying and discharging the said mortgage debt.

That the advances made by the Government were for the purpose mentioned in the said bill and that ye said hereditaments and premises were granted for the purposes mentioned in the said grant.

Denies combination.

Answer of Her Majesty's Attorney General filed 15th December 1842.

STATES:—

That he is a stranger to all and singular the matters and things in the said complainants said bill of complaint and therefore leaves the said complainants to make such proof thereof as they shall be able.

That he insists on behalf of Her Majesty on all such right title and interest in the premises in the said bill of complaint mentioned as Her said Majesty shall appear to have therein and this defendant submits the same to ye judgment order and direction of this Honorable Court and also prays that this Honorable Court will take care of Her Majesty's rights and interests in the premises.

Denies all combination.

OBSERVATIONS.

THIS suit is instituted by the elders of the Scots Church as representatives of the congregation to set aside the mortgage of the church premises made by the grantees to the defendant M'Pherson on behalf of the Government to secure the advances made for the purpose of building the Australian College and to foreclose which mortgage a suit has been instituted by Her Majesty's Attorney General and Mr. M'Pherson the present plaintiffs and the defendants Brown Cadell and Bowman are parties defendants to that suit and the matters set up in this suit as the grounds upon which the mortgage should be set aside are alleged as matters of defence in the foreclosure suit.

The candid manner in which the trustees admit that they mortgaged the property in violation of their trusts and the amicable way in which it is attempted to deprive the Government of a security for £3,520 will no doubt meet with due attention from Counsel and the Court.

(Memorandum.)

Downing-street,

13 January, 1831.

LORD Goderich consents to the advance from the Colonial Treasury, in aid of the projected academical institution in Sydney, of a sum not exceeding £3,500, in different payments, in the course of the eighteen months next after Dr. Lang's landing in New South Wales, on condition that, previous to each advance, the Governor shall be satisfied that an equal sum has been actually expended from the private contributions of the promoters of the undertaking.

It is to be understood that, for the sum of £7,000 thus provided, namely, one half by subscription and the other by the Government, all the buildings necessary for the opening of the institution, on a reduced scale, are to be completed, care being taken that they are so arranged that it may be possible either to increase the establishment to the extent originally proposed, or to confine it to what shall have been done in the first instance.

The proposed buildings to be erected on the ground belonging to the Scotch Church, and security to be given on them for the repayment, in five years, of the money advanced from the Colonial Treasury—the five years to be calculated on each instalment from the date of its being advanced to the trustees.

Lord Howick presents his compliments to Dr. Lang, and encloses, for his information, a memorandum of the terms on which the Secretary of State consents to afford assistance from the Colonial Treasury, towards carrying into effect the plan proposed in Dr. Lang's letter of the 28th ultimo, for establishing an academical institution at Sydney, New South Wales.

B. No. 2.

Downing-street,

28 March, 1831.

Sir,

I am directed by Viscount Goderich to acquaint you that he consents to the proposition contained in your letter of the 15th instant, and has accordingly instructed the Governor of New South Wales as follows, viz. :—

To pay to you the sum of £1,500 on your arrival in the Colony with the number of emigrants whom you undertake to land there; this sum to be considered a part of the £3,500 which Lord Goderich agreed to advance from the Colonial Treasury for the purpose of establishing a College, as stated in the memorandum which accompanied my note to you of the 13th January last; and it being further understood that no additional advance will be made until the Colonial Government shall be satisfied that at least £1,500 shall have been actually expended upon the proposed building.

When this shall have been made to appear, the remaining £2,000 to be advanced at intervals, as originally agreed upon,—you being held personally responsible for the due execution of this arrangement.

With respect to the wish expressed in your letter of the 25th instant, for the extension of your leave of absence from the Colony for three months beyond the period granted by General Darling, I am happy to inform you that the Secretary of State has been pleased to accede to your request, and a communication will be made to the Government to that effect.

I am, &c.,

HOWICK.

Downing-street,

9 February, 1837.

Sir,

I have the honor to transmit to you, for your information and guidance, copies of a correspondence which has taken place between my Under Secretary and the Rev. Dr. Lang, one of the Ministers of the Presbyterian Church at Sydney.

It is unnecessary for me to convey to you any detailed instructions on the various subjects to which that correspondence refers, as my opinions with respect to them are fully expressed in the letters letters addressed, by my directions, to Dr. Lang; and I am well aware of your desire to diffuse, as widely as possible, through the Colony over which you preside, the blessings of religious instruction and useful education. I will therefore only recommend the consideration of the topics adverted to in this correspondence, to your early attention.

I must, however, take this opportunity of adverting to a fact, which, though not brought under my notice by Dr. Lang, is stated in your despatch, No. 76, of the 30th of September, 1836,—that the sum of £520 had been advanced as a loan towards the erection of the Scotch Church at Sydney, no grant appearing ever to have been made in aid of the voluntary subscriptions from members of that Church towards this object. I do not find that any part of that sum has ever been repaid to the Government; and, in the spirit of the ecclesiastical arrangements recently sanctioned for New South Wales, I would suggest to you the propriety of your proposing to the Legislative Council to remit that debt, and to discharge the Church from the claim to which it is at present subject, on the part of the Colonial Treasury.

[Enclosed in Lord Glenelg's Despatch, No. 259, 1837.]

Edinburgh,
10 January, 1837.

Sir,

I have the honor to inform you that, during the last few weeks, I have visited a considerable number of the principal cities and towns of Scotland, and the North of Ireland, in pursuance of the main object of my visit to England, with the view of diffusing information, through the medium of the Scotch and Irish Presbyterian Clergy, respecting the new ecclesiastical arrangements which His Majesty's liberal and enlightened Government have recently authorized in the Australian Colonies; in the hope of inducing licentiates of the Presbyterian Church and instructors of youth of the requisite standing and qualifications to emigrate to these Colonies, under the direction of the General Assembly's Committee, to occupy those fields of useful and honorable employment which the Australian Colonies now present to young men of apostolic zeal and Christian enterprise. Whether a sufficient number of ministers of religion and instructors of youth, to meet the existing demands of the Presbyterian population of the Australian Colonies can be procured at present from the Church of Scotland and the Synod of Ulster, I have not yet definitely ascertained; but from the unprecedented and increasing demand at present for ministers of the Presbyterian Church, both in Scotland and in the North of Ireland, as well as in the other Colonies of the Empire, I have ascertained that there is no likelihood whatever of obtaining a future and yearly supply of such ministers from the Mother Country, at all adequate to meet the probable demand of the rapidly increasing Presbyterian population of the Australian Colonies.

With such a prospect for the future, in reference to the Colonial Presbyterian Church, several professors of theology and other eminent ministers of religion, both of the Church of Scotland and of the Synod of Ulster, have strongly urged the extreme importance and the absolute necessity of immediately establishing some system of education for training up promising natives of the Colonies of New South Wales, and Van Diemen's Land, for the future service of the colonial churches; and in reference to this recommendation, I am enabled to state, from my own extensive acquaintance with the circumstances and views of the reputable portion of the inhabitants of these Colonies, that there is at this moment a very considerable number of highly promising young men—the sons of respectable free emigrant settlers in both Colonies, who would gladly offer themselves to be educated for the Christian ministry, provided such an education could be obtained in either Colony, and without subjecting themselves to the hardship, the enormous cost, and the risk, both to their health and their morals, implied in a long sea voyage and a protracted residence among entire strangers in a distant country.

At the same time, I am happy to state that the Australian College, an academical institution for the education of youth in general literature, philosophy, and science, established under the sanction, and with the assistance of His Majesty's Government, in the year 1831, is now in a sufficient state of advancement to afford a curriculum of education similar to the undergraduate course of the Scotch and Irish academical institutions, and comprising a four years' course of academical education in the following departments of literature, philosophy, and science, under the following professors, viz.:

- First year.—Latin and Greek. Rev. Thomas Aitken, A.M., of the University of Glasgow.
- Second year.—Logic, Belles Lettres and Natural History. Rev. William Hamilton, of the Royal Academical Institution, Belfast.
- Third year.—Mathematics and Natural Philosophy. Rev. David Mackenzie, A.M., of the University of Edinburgh.
- Fourth year.—Metaphysics and Moral Philosophy. Rev. Robert Wylde, A.M., of the University of Glasgow.

Of these professors, the last two have been employed in the institution for several years past, the first embarked for New South Wales upwards of four months ago, and the second is to accompany the writer of this letter on his return to the Colony.

To elevate the Australian College from the condition of a high school, which it has hitherto held, to that of a College properly so called, which it is now prepared to assume, I beg most respectfully to state that, in the opinion of all parties concerned, an endowment from the Colonial Treasury, to the extent of £100 sterling per annum for each of the four professorships above specified, would be indispensably necessary on the one hand, while in addition to the other emoluments which the institution can now hold forth, it would be sufficient on the other. And as His Majesty's Government have already sanctioned a grant of £200 per annum from the Colonial Revenue, for the establishment of a Mechanics' Institution or School of Arts in the town of Sydney, I trust the Right Honorable the Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies will not be unwilling to grant assistance in a similar way, for an object of such transcendent importance as that of training up native ministers of religion and instructors of youth for a whole series of important and flourishing Colonies. For I am sufficiently acquainted with the feelings and views of the colonial population, both in New South Wales and in Van Diemen's Land, to be able to state that, independently of the direct benefits that would in all likelihood result from the establishment of a system of education for training up native youth for the Christian ministry in either of these Colonies, nothing would tend more powerfully to attach the reputable colonists of all classes to His Majesty's person, and to confirm and perpetuate their sense of obligation to His Majesty's paternal Government, than the opening up of a prospect of employment within their native territories, in an honorable and influential profession to the colonial youth.

I beg at the same time distinctly to state, that the education which it is proposed to afford in the Australian College is a general education in literature, philosophy, and science, unconnected with the peculiarities of any religious communion, and consequently alike available, if not for Roman Catholics, at least for Episcopalians, Presbyterians, and English Dissenters; an education, moreover, which will not only prepare promising young men of all classes for the general business of life, or for the special business of tuition, but enable such natives of the Colony as may be intended for the Christian ministry, whether in New South Wales or Van Diemen's Land, to enter on a theological or strictly professional course of education, with credit to themselves, and with the prospect of much benefit to the colonial public. For there is reason to believe that, before the first class of colonial students shall have completed pleted the curriculum of general and preparatory education which the Australian College is intended to afford to students of all communions without distinction, each of the leading communions of the Colony will be in a condition to organize and establish a course of theological education for its own students in a separate seminary.

I beg leave, in conclusion, to solicit your favourable attention to a circumstance connected with the original establishment of the Australian College, and of no small importance to the congregation of the Scots Church in the town of Sydney. At a time when the establishment of an academical institution in that colonial capital was altogether problematical, in consequence of the repeated failure of previous attempts of a similar kind, the trustees of the Scotch Church, desirous of ensuring the accomplishment of so important an object, by affording an eligible site for the erection of the College buildings, and also by retaining possession of the ground till these buildings should be erected, surrendered for this purpose a small but valuable allotment of ground, belonging to the congregation of the Scotch Church, in the hope that, in the event of the successful establishment of the institution, His Majesty's Government would not be unwilling to grant them an allotment of equal extent and value in some other part of the town or neighbourhood. I beg, therefore, most respectfully to request, on behalf of the trustees of the Scots Church, that as the Australian College is now fully established—buildings having been erected for the accommodation of the professors and their respective classes to an extent implying a cost of not less than £7,000 (seven thousand pounds), and an extensive library and philosophical apparatus procured—with the prospect of imparting benefits of incalculable value to young men of all religious communions, the Right Honorable His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies will be graciously pleased to direct that, in the event of the trustees of the Scots Church, Sydney, purchasing, on behalf of the congregation of that church, one or more allotments of Crown land in the neighbourhood of the town of Sydney, or within the town itself, they shall be allowed an abatement of the purchase money equal to the estimated value of the allotment surrendered to the Australian College. That institution, I beg leave to add, has never received any allotment of ground from the Government, while valuable allotments have been granted to other educational institutions in New South Wales, of a much more limited object, in regard to the course of education they are intended to afford.

I have, &c.,

JOHN LANG,
Principal of the Aust. Coll.

Sir George Grey, M.P.,
&c., &c., &c.

Downing-street,
30 January, 1837.

Sir,

I am directed by Lord Glenelg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 10th inst., soliciting the sanction of H. M. Government to an endowment from the Treasury of New South Wales, to the extent of £400 a year, for professorships in the Australian College in that Colony, and also requesting that, in the event of the trustees of the Scotch Church at Sydney purchasing, on behalf of the congregation of that church, one or more allotments of Crown land in the town of Sydney or its neighbourhood, they should be allowed an abatement of the purchase money equal to the estimated value of the allotment surrendered in 1831 to the Australian College. With respect to the first point, I am to inform you, that Lord Glenelg fully appreciates the importance of the objects which you contemplate as capable of being effected by the College; and that, in order to give such assistance as is in the power of H. M. Government to the attainment of these objects, His Lordship will refer your application to the Governor of New South Wales, with a recommendation that, if there should appear to him reasonable grounds for anticipating that the Australian College will prove an effective instrument for diffusing among the colonists a liberal education in the various branches of useful knowledge, in addition to the facility which it will afford for the supply of an adequate number of ministers for the Scotch Church within the Colony, your proposition shall be submitted for the favourable consideration of the Council. The amount, however, of the proposed endowment, if any should eventually be made, must of course depend on the judgment to be formed by the Governor and Council of the claim of the College on the Colonial Treasury, as compared with that of other institutions of a similar character in the Colony.

With respect to your second request, I am to acquaint you that, shortly before your arrival in this Country, Lord Glenelg received, through Sir R. Bourke, an application from you to the same effect, although the grounds on which it rests were not then fully apprehended by His Lordship. To that application Lord Glenelg returned an answer, a copy of which I am directed to enclose to you. His Lordship now understands you to solicit a grant of land, or a remission of price in the purchase of land, for the benefit not of the Australian College, but of the Scotch Church at Sydney. It does not, however, appear that the grant which you thus solicit is intended as the site of a future church; but Lord Glenelg infers that it would be held by the trustees of the Scotch Church as property. I am to add, that, on referring to the correspondence which took place in 1831, with reference to the loan from the Colonial Treasury, sanctioned by Lord Ripon, for the erection of the College, it appears to have been stipulated that the College should be built on the ground ceded for that purpose by the trustees of the Scotch Church, without any expectation having been expressed on the part of the trustees, or held out by H. M. Government, that in any event an allotment of land of equal value should be granted to the Scotch Church. His Lordship, therefore, can recognize no obligation, either express or implied, on the part of H. M. Government, to comply with the request which you have preferred; and, under the circumstances of the case, he feels that a compliance with it is impracticable, as involving a departure from the spirit of the regulations as to the disposal of Crown lands in the Colony, to which H. M. Government have repeatedly expressed their determination rigidly to adhere.

Lord Glenelg is, however, most anxious to extend, as far as possible, the means of useful instruction and education in the Colony, and for this purpose to give every proper encouragement to the efforts of private individuals to advance this important object. His Lordship will, therefore, be prepared to recommend to the Council of New South Wales, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of the Treasury, to sanction the remission of a portion of the loan advanced from the Colonial Treasury, 1831, for the Australian College, if, on reference to the Governor of New South Wales, it should appear that the College is calculated to be of extensive public benefit to the Colony, and if no valid objection should be found to exist to such an indulgence. The amount to be so remitted must also depend on the result of the reference to the Governor.

I am, &c.,

GEO. GREY.

Rev. Dr. Lang.

16, West-square,
23 January, 1837.

Sir,

As the Special Committees that have recently been appointed in Scotland, at my particular suggestion and request, under the authority of the General Assembly of the Scottish National Church, as well as the Committee that is shortly to be appointed in Belfast under the authority of the Synod of Ulster, will necessarily confine themselves to the special object of selecting and recommending to the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, suitable persons as candidates for the ministry in the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land, I beg leave most respectfully to solicit your attention to the following particulars, on which, although relating to the actual state and the future efficiency of that Church, the members of these Committees cannot be supposed qualified to offer an opinion.

In regard therefore, to the estimate I have been led to form of the spiritual destitution of the Presbyterian population of the Australian Colonies, I do myself the honor to transmit herewith, an enumeration and description of localities in New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land, in most of which Presbyterian ministers are at present earnestly desired, and in all of which such ministers may be settled forthwith under the new ecclesiastical arrangements. That enumeration I beg to state, as far as relates to New South Wales, was made partly on my own personal knowledge and partly on that of certain Presbyterian laymen, extensively and minutely acquainted with the wants and resources of the Colony on the one hand, and with the dispositions of its Presbyterian population on the other. And in reference to Van Diemen's Land, I beg to add, that I crossed that island twice during the last fifteen months, in company with one of the resident Presbyterian ministers, and visited most of the settlements enumerated in the document referred to, for the very purpose of ascertaining the extent of the spiritual destitution of the Presbyterian colonists.

As the of the localities specified in the document in question, contemplates the appointment of a second minister for the church in which I officiate, I beg to state, that I have been empowered by my congregation to procure a second minister for that church, on the following grounds. The circumstance of being the senior minister of the Presbyterian Church, in the Australian Colonies, has hitherto entailed upon me a great variety of extra official duties, connected with the settlement of ministers and the planting of churches and schools in new stations, which will necessarily be greatly increased under the new ecclesiastical arrangement. As a specimen of the duties that are thus devolved upon me, I beg to state that, in order to quiet the doubts and apprehensions of a young man of very superior character, who has been strongly recommended to the General Assembly's Committee in Edinburgh, I felt obliged to give him a personal guarantee in writing, that, in the event of his going to New South Wales as a Presbyterian minister, his salary from the Government under the new system would not fall below £150 per annum. That guarantee I knew I could give with perfect safety, from my acquaintance with the Colony; but in order to fulfil it I must accompany that young man to his locality in the interior, although it should be 200 miles from Sydney, and by my personal influence and exertions among the Presbyterian people, endeavour to stir them up to a due sense of their own spiritual interests, by giving an immediate, a cordial and a Christian reception to their future pastor. But all this, however indispensably necessary it may be in the case of every minister who arrives in either Colony for the first time, cannot possibly be accomplished by the minister on whom the duty devolves, without sacrificing the interests of his own congregation. In the Episcopal and Romish communions, these extra duties are uniformly discharged by bishops or other dignitaries who have no parochial cures of their own; but as the Presbyterian Church recognizes no superior order of clergy, the only expedient for securing the efficient discharge of such duties in that communion, and especially in territories so extensive as the pastoral Colonies of New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land, without sacrificing the interests of any particular congregation, is to provide the minister on whom they naturally devolve with a colleague. I beg therefore, on behalf of my congregation—the largest of the Presbyterian communion in either Colony—most respectfully to solicit that my Lord Glenelg will be graciously pleased to sanction the appointment of a second minister for the Scots Church, Sydney, and to allow that minister to be placed under the new arrangement as if there were no senior minister.

I beg also to state that, as the Colonial Legislature of New South Wales have recently made a grant of public money for the education of the youth of the Presbyterian communion, agreeably to their own customs and institutions, I propose to carry out about twelve schoolmasters of superior ability and experience, with a view to their being located in the more important stations in both Colonies. I have therefore the honor to solicit that an allowance of passage money, of from £60 to £80 in each case, may be granted from the colonial funds for the number of schoolmasters I have specified; the said schoolmasters to be recommended to my Lord Glenelg by gentlemen connected with the business of public education in Scotland, and specially approved of beforehand by His Lordship. Whether the colonial Presbyterians shall continue to avail themselves of a separate grant for education, or accept the still greater indulgences proffered them under the Irish National System, I have no authority to state; but in order to satisfy myself individually, as to the character and working and general results of that system, which I found it difficult if not impracticable to do in Scotland, I went to Dublin last week, for the express purpose of obtaining the requisite information from the Revd. J. Carlile, one of the Board of Commissioners in that city, and I am happy to add I was not disappointed.

During my stay in Ireland, in the course of both of the visits I have made to that Country since my return to England, I was given to understand by the Presbyterian clergy, that the Synod of Ulster were proposing immediately to establish a mission to the heathen in one or other of the transmarine dependencies of the Empire, and were actually looking out for a suitable locality. In such circumstances, I conceived it a duty I owed to the Country to which Divine Providence had sent me to labour in the Christian ministry, to recommend to the ministers more immediately concerned in that object, that the Synod should direct their efforts towards the Christianization of the wretched aborigines of New Holland, and should form their missionary settlement at Moreton Bay on the east coast, in latitude  $27\frac{1}{2}$  south, where the black natives are more numerous and probably in a more favourable state for being subjected to missionary enterprise than in most other parts of the Australian continent. The idea, I am happy to state, was very favourably entertained; and I was requested to ascertain, if possible, for the information of the Synod's Committee, at their next meeting in Belfast (to be held on the first Thursday of February), whether, in the event of the Synod's establishing a mission to the aborigines of New South Wales, at the settlement of Moreton Bay, and sending out one or probably two missionaries for the purpose, His Majesty's Government would allow these missionaries passage money and a moderate salary from the colonial funds. The salaries at present allowed for a similar purpose in the Colony are £500 per annum (or £250 per annum each) for two missionaries, under the Episcopal Church, at Wellington Valley, and £150 per annum for a third missionary, also under the Bishop of New South Wales, at Lake Macquarie. While I beg, therefore, most respectfully to solicit information on the points I have submitted, I beg to suggest that the smallest of these amounts, or a salary of £150 per annum, for each of two Presbyterian missionaries to the aborigines, would be sufficient for the maintenance of a mission at Moreton Bay, and that the missionaries could, in addition to their labours among the natives, dispense the ordinances of religion to the white population, whether the settlement should be continued as a penal establishment or be thrown open to free emigration.

I beg leave to state, in conclusion, that, since the commencement of the year 1831, various sums of money have at different periods been advanced by public bodies and private individuals, on my personal responsibility, to assist in defraying the expense incurred in providing a passage out to the Australian Colonies for certain Presbyterian ministers and instructors of youth, who were, almost in every instance, emigrating to occupy situations of which His Majesty's Government had previously sanctioned the establishment in the said Colonies. In the year 1835 I stated the circumstance to the Colonial Government, requesting that the sums so advanced should be repaid from the Colonial Land Revenue; but received for answer that, as no express stipulation had been made, on the part of the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, when the said expenses were incurred, they could not be defrayed by the Colonial Executive without authority from Home. I beg to state, however, that when a part of the said expenses was about to be incurred in the year 1834, I solicited an allowance of passage

passage money from the Right Honorable Lord Stanley, who was then Secretary of State for the Colonies, on behalf of four Presbyterian ministers and licentiates, who were about to emigrate to New South Wales, but could only obtain the sum of £20 for each—the allowance which was then made for a common mechanic or farm labourer—as a loan to be repaid. I beg, therefore, most respectfully to request that my Lord Glenelg will be graciously pleased to order the sums referred to, amounting in all to £700, to be paid by the Colonial Agent and charged on the Colonial Land Revenues; which, as they were originally appropriated for the encouragement and promotion of emigration, before any part of that expenditure was incurred, I am confident His Lordship will allow cannot possibly be appropriated in a more legitimate or useful way, than in encouraging and promoting the emigration of ministers of religion and instructors of youth. His Lordship will thus relieve me from a weight of pecuniary obligation which I confess I can ill discharge; especially after having been obliged to circumnavigate the globe four times at my own charges, and to sacrifice personal property in New South Wales to the amount of upwards of £6,000, for the establishment of the Presbyterian Church and the Australian College, in consequence of the peculiarly difficult and trying circumstances in which both of these institutions were long placed, through the prevalence of that system of colonial administration which has at length been so happily superseded by His Majesty's liberal and enlightened Government.

I have, &c.,

JOHN LANG.

Enumeration and description of localities in New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land, in which Presbyterian ministers are earnestly desired by the resident Presbyterian population, and in which the settlement of such ministers can be effected forthwith under the new ecclesiastical arrangements.

SYNOD OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

I.—PRESBYTERY OF SYDNEY.

1. An additional Presbyterian church for the town of Sydney, to be served by a minister of the Synod of Ulster, with a special view to the spiritual welfare of that portion of the Presbyterian population of the colonial capital which has been originally derived from the North of Ireland. Present population of Sydney, from 18,000 to 20,000 souls.

2. Town and district of Parramatta, containing a population of from 5,000 to 6,000. A salary was voted for a minister of the Church of Scotland, by the Legislative Council of New South Wales, in the year 1835, and an allotment granted by the Governor for the erection of a Scots Church, under the old arrangement. Parramatta is fourteen miles from Sydney, and the head quarters of the 4th Regiment.

3. Town and district of Windsor, including Richmond and Kurryjong on the Hawkesbury River, about forty miles from Sydney. The population of this district is probably as numerous as that of Parramatta. Windsor is the head quarters of the 50th Regiment; and an allotment for a Scots Church has already been granted by Sir Richard Bourke, the Governor of the Colony, in the town. The Presbyterian population is considerable, sufficient to entitle a minister to the second rate of salary from Government; and a subscription has been commenced for the erection of a church.

4. Town and district of Liverpool, twenty miles from Sydney, in a south-westerly direction.

5. Town and district of Campbelltown, thirty-three miles from Sydney, in the same direction.

6. Village and district of Penrith, including Mulgoa and Emu Plains, on the Nepean River, thirty-four miles due west of Sydney.

In all these three districts there is a very considerable Presbyterian population, dispersed over an extensive country, but, at the same time, both able and willing to make the requisite efforts to secure the co-operation of His Majesty's Government in obtaining the regular dispensation of the ordinances of religion, agreeably to the customs of the Presbyterian Church.

7. Scots Church, Sydney—second charge:—The Rev. Dr. Lang, the present minister of that church, being the senior minister of the Church of Scotland in the Australian Colonies, and being consequently called on to transact much of the ecclesiastical business connected with the planting of churches and the establishment of schools in connection with the Presbyterian Church, both in New South Wales and in Van Diemen's Land—a state of things which will necessarily continue during the incumbency of that minister, but which operates very injuriously in regard to the spiritual welfare of the congregation of the Scots Church, the largest of the Presbyterian communion in either Colony.

The present ministers of the Church of Scotland, within the bounds of the Presbytery of Sydney, are the Rev. Dr. Lang, the Rev. John M'Garvie, A.M., and the Rev. John Cleland, A.M.

II.—PRESBYTERY OF HUNTER'S RIVER.

8. Newcastle—The seat of the coal trade of the Colony, and the shipping port for the extensive agricultural and pastoral country watered by the River Hunter and its tributary streams. The population is rapidly increasing, and already includes a considerable proportion of Presbyterians, chiefly of the industrious classes of society.

9. William's River—A tributary to the Hunter, navigable for upwards of twenty miles from its junction with that river, and settled on either bank with an agricultural and pastoral population, of the class of free settlers, of whom nearly one half are Presbyterians.

10. Patterson's River—Another tributary of the Hunter, also navigable for twenty miles from the point of its junction with the principal stream, and still more densely peopled than William's River; one half of the settlers being Presbyterians.

11. Patrick's Plains—A thickly peopled agricultural and pastoral settlement, thirty miles from the town of Maitland, where the Hunter ceases to be navigable. The Legislative Council of New South Wales voted a salary for a minister of the Church of Scotland for this locality, in the year 1835.

12. Jerry's Plains, Kingdom Ponds, and Muswellbrook—An extensive pastoral country, commencing about twenty-five miles higher up the river than Patrick's Plains, and comprising a comparatively large and rapidly increasing population, of which a still larger proportion belongs to the Presbyterian communion than towards the mouth of the river.

13. Invermein and Merton—Comprising the extensive pastoral country towards the sources of the Hunter. The Presbyterian settlers of this vicinity had already made some effort to procure a minister of that communion to dispense the ordinances of religion among them, previous to the announcement of the new ecclesiastical arrangement, in the month of July last. The only Presbyterian minister at present settled in the extensive district of Hunter's River is the Rev. John Garven, A.M., of Maitland.

III.—PRESBYTERY OF ARGYLE.

14. Berrima and Bong Bong—An extensive agricultural and pastoral district, with a comparatively dense population, of which a considerable and increasing proportion is of the Presbyterian communion. Berrima is about eighty miles south-west of Sydney.

15. Goulburn Plains—The principal and central locality in the south-western interior, situated one hundred and twenty miles from Sydney. A salary was voted for a minister in 1835.

16. Strathallan and Inverary—Distant from 140 to 160 miles from Sydney.

17. Limestone Plains—200 miles from Sydney.

In all these three districts Scotsmen and Presbyterians constitute at least one half of the free emigrant population; and they have already made repeated, but hitherto unsuccessful efforts, especially at Goulburn and Strathallan, to obtain ministers of their own communion.

District of Bathurst.

18. A second Presbyterian Church for this District—The Rev. K. D. Smythe, A.M., the present minister of the Scots Church, Bathurst, being unable to administer the ordinances of religion to more than one half of the Presbyterian population of the district, which is scattered over an extensive pastoral country of, at least, from 500 to 600 square miles in extent.

District of Illawarra.

19. Wollongong, the seaport and chief settlement of the district, which extends about sixty miles along the coast to the southward of Sydney, and comprises a population of from 5,000 to 6,000 souls, of whom a considerable and increasing proportion are Presbyterians.

District of Port Macquarie.

20. A rising and flourishing settlement to the northward of Sydney, in which a very considerable number of respectable free emigrants of the Presbyterian communion have recently located themselves on lands purchased from the Crown.

SYNOD OF VAN DIEMEN'S LAND.

I.—PRESBYTERY OF HOBART TOWN.

1. A second Scots church in Hobart Town—the Presbyterian population of the colonial capital being at least five times greater than its amount in the year 1823, when the present church was founded. There are two Episcopal churches in Hobart Town, and one in the suburbs; a fourth was talked of in 1835.

2. New Norfolk and the Valley of the Derwent, twenty-four miles from Hobart Town.—The Presbyterian population of this vicinity is very numerous—sufficient, indeed, to occupy two ministers.

3. Hamilton.—The Presbyterian free settlers of this locality constitute one half of the whole number; they built a church, in common with the Episcopalians, to serve for both communions for a time, in the year 1835.

4. Pitt Water and Oyster Bay.—Comprising several populous and long settled localities in the eastern section of the island. The Presbyterians in this part of the island are widely scattered.

The only Presbyterian church in this part of the territory at present is the one at Hobart Town.

II.—PRESBYTERY OF LAUNCESTON.

5. Perth.—Comprising an extensive tract of agricultural and pastoral country on the banks of the South Esk River; the Presbyterian population of this vicinity being numerous and respectable.

6. George Town.—A rapidly advancing seaport at the mouth of the River Tamar.

There are at present two ministers of the Church of Scotland within the bounds of this presbytery, viz., the Revd. John Anderson, of Launceston, and the Revd. John Mackersg, of Macquarie River; a salary for a third, for the town and district of Launceston, had been granted by His Majesty's Government, under the old arrangement.

III.—PRESBYTERY OF OATLANDS.

7. Town and district of Campbelltown, including Elizabeth River.

8. Ross Bridge.

9. Oatlands.

10. Richmond.

All these townships, which are situated in the central parts of the island, are each the centre of an extensive and comparatively populous district, inhabited chiefly by an agricultural and pastoral population, of which a large proportion are Presbyterians; the number of Presbyterians in Van Diemen's Land being considerably greater than in New South Wales, as compared with the general population. The only Presbyterian minister in this part of the island at present is the Revd. James Garrett, A.M., of Bothwith.

We take the liberty of submitting, for the consideration of His Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonial Department, that we have enjoyed an opportunity of conversing with Dr. Lang on the present circumstances of the Presbyterian population in the Australian Colonies. From this conversation, and other sources of information, we are possessed with a deep sense of the importance of the measures that have been for some time pursued by Dr. Lang in that quarter of the world. We are particularly gratified to learn that an important literary and theological seminary has been established at Sydney, for the education of candidates for the ministry; and our interest in the Colony is increased by the probability that several of our ministers and students may accompany Dr. Lang there, as well as that the Synod of Ulster may make a selection of that Country for a missionary station. We regret that Dr. Lang's time does not permit him to wait for a call of the Synod's Committee to consider and recommend his present application to the Government; and we embrace this means as the only one in our power at present, to solicit the favourable attention of His Majesty's Secretary for the Colonial Department to the important representations which will be submitted to him by Dr. Lang.

JOHN DUNMORE LANG,
Minister.

London, 23 January, 1837.

Downing-street,
30 January, 1837.

Sir,

I am directed by Lord Glenelg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 23rd instant, transmitting an enumeration and description of localities in New South Wales and Van Diemen's Land, in most of which you represent Presbyterian ministers to be at present earnestly desired, and in all of which you conceive such ministers might be settled forthwith, under the new ecclesiastical arrangements. I am to inform you, in reply, that it affords Lord Glenelg much satisfaction to be assured that the arrangements to which you refer are so well calculated to meet the important object which His Majesty's Government had in view in sanctioning them, and that so considerable an increase in the number of ministers of religion in the Colony may be expected to result from the introduction of the new system. It is however a necessary consequence of these arrangements, that the appointment of clergymen should depend on the performance of the conditions required on the part of the members of one or other of the churches embraced in the plan; and His Majesty's Government cannot take upon themselves, by any direct interference, to anticipate the demand which may be expected to be made, on the part of various congregations of Christians in the Colony, for a participation in the advantages proposed for their acceptance. Lord Glenelg will be perfectly ready to receive the recommendation of the Committee of General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, with whom His Majesty's Government has for some time past been in communication, on behalf of any clergymen of that Church who may be willing to proceed to New South Wales, and His Lordship will, on the production of satisfactory testimonials, readily sanction the appointment of such clergyman to any charge in the Colony to which he may be eligible, in accordance with the provisions of the Colonial Act, which Lord Glenelg presumes has been passed on this subject, although no copy of it has yet reached this department. The same rule will be applied to Van Diemen's Land, so soon as His Lordship shall have been informed of the adoption in that Colony, of the arrangements made in pursuance of the communication on this subject addressed by Lord Glenelg to the Lieutenant Governor of Van Diemen's Land, at the same time with that which was addressed to Sir R. Bourke.

His Lordship sees no reason to doubt the advantage which would result from the services of a Minister of the Church of Scotland being chiefly devoted to the general objects, an attention to which you represent to have hitherto devolved on yourself, nor has he any reason to believe that those services could be more efficiently rendered by any other clergyman than yourself. In a question of this kind, however, Lord Glenelg does not feel himself at liberty to interfere, as it appears to His Lordship to be one peculiarly within the province of the Presbytery in the Colony. For this reason he must abstain from expressing any opinion as to your suggestion that a second minister should be appointed to the church in which you now officiate. Any application of this nature must be preferred in the first instance to the Governor, who would have the opportunity of conferring with the Presbytery on the subject.

With respect to your request that an allowance of passage money of from £60 to £80 in each case may be granted from the colonial funds for about twelve schoolmasters, whom you propose to carry out with you to New South Wales, for the education of the youth of the Presbyterian communion, Lord Glenelg regrets that he does not feel himself at liberty to sanction the proposed expenditure without a reference to Sir R. Bourke, the Governor. And the Council of New South Wales appear so justly to appreciate the value of promoting education in the Colony, that Lord Glenelg feels that he may confidently rely on their adoption of all proper measures to facilitate the introduction of qualified schoolmasters for the school receiving support from the Colonial Treasury; and His Majesty's Government would be prepared to sanction any reasonable expenditure on this account which the Governor and Council might consider it expedient to provide for. In the event, however, of any specific application of this nature being made to Lord Glenelg before any communication is received from Sir R. Bourke on this subject, His Lordship will not object to allow a passage in the emigrant ships to New South Wales, to a limited number of Presbyterian schoolmasters, on their producing satisfactory testimonials of their character and qualifications, and upon some security being given for the repayment of the value of the passage, in the event of their not being appointed, within a limited time from their arrival in the Colony, to the superintendence of a school in connexion with the Scots Church. It must, however, be understood that any extra expense which may be incurred by such persons, in addition to the ordinary rate of expenditure on account of emigrants receiving a free passage in the ships to which I have adverted, must be provided for and defrayed by themselves.

Lord

Lord Glenelg does not feel himself at liberty to authorize the repayment, out of the Colonial Land Revenue, of the sums which appear to have been incurred to the amount of £700 in former years, since 1831, in defraying the expenses of passage to the Australian Colonies for Presbyterian ministers and instructors of youth; as at the time when such expenses were incurred it does not appear that it was the intention of His Majesty's Government, or the expectation of the parties, that the amount should be charged on the Colonial Treasury, and a retrospective charge of this nature would lead to great confusion and inconvenience. While, therefore, Lord Glenelg regrets that you should personally be subjected to any pecuniary obligation on this account, he does not think he would be warranted in doing more than to sanction such allowances in cases of this nature, for the future, as shall appear fair and equitable.

With reference to the inquiry which you make, whether, in the event of the Synod of Ulster undertaking a mission to the aborigines of New South Wales, H. M. Government would allow two missionaries passage money or moderate salary from the colonial funds, I am to inform you that Lord Glenelg would not feel himself justified in entering into any prospective engagement for specific support to such a mission; but, on the same principle as that on which the payment of an annual sum of £500 to the Church Missionary Society, not merely for the salaries of two missionaries employed by that Society, but in aid of the general expense of their mission to the aborigines, has been sanctioned, and an augmentation of it recently recommended, Lord Glenelg would authorize the Governor to propose to the Legislative Council to vote a moderate sum in aid of the expense of a mission of the same description established by the Church of Scotland, if it appeared that the mode of proceeding was such as to lead to the expectation of a beneficial result to the aborigines from the labours of the missionaries. An undertaking of this nature, properly conducted, would deserve every encouragement; but before any aid could be afforded to it from the public Treasury, some proof must be furnished of the adaptation of the means intended to be employed to the end contemplated, and some security given for the permanent character of the mission to be undertaken. Lord Glenelg would also probably think it right to communicate on the subject with the Committee of the General Assembly in Scotland.

The Rev. Dr. Lang.

GEO. GREY.

B. No. 4.

Sydney, 18 October, 1862.

Sir,

I have the honor to submit for your consideration the following particulars:—

In the month of November, 1859, I addressed to the Honorable the Colonial Secretary—then William Forster, Esq., M.P.—a letter setting forth that, in pursuance of an Act of the Legislative Council of 1832, a mortgage had been granted to the Government by the Trustees of the Scots Church, in the year 1833, to secure the repayment of the sum of £3,500, to be advanced in accordance with an order of the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies, in aid of the establishment of an academical institution in this city, and soliciting, for the reasons therein stated at length, that the said mortgage should be forthwith cancelled.

My letter was referred at the time to the Law Officers of the Crown, to ascertain whether compliance with this request on the part of the Government would in any way affect the interests of the parties with whom I was then in litigation respecting the property of the Scots Church, and in whose favour a decision had shortly before been given by the Primary Judge; and the Law Officers desired in reply, previous to their giving an opinion on the subject, that I should submit to them, through my solicitor, the deed which it was desired the Government should issue for the cancelling of the mortgage.

In these circumstances I deemed it expedient and necessary to allow the matter to remain in abeyance till the case then at issue on an appeal first to the full Court, and afterwards to the Privy Council, should be finally decided; and as that case was so decided by the Privy Council in February last, entirely in my favour, it was my intention to have brought the subject again under the consideration of the Government at the close of the present Session of Parliament. It has become necessary, however, in consequence of certain proceedings in a Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly, which I cannot help regarding as equally ungracious and uncalled for, but to which I deem it unnecessary to refer more particularly, that this matter, which I conceive belongs exclusively to the Executive as a matter for inquiry, should be settled forthwith.

To enable the Executive to decide upon the subject, I have drawn up the accompanying statement,* which I beg to submit for your consideration. The mortgage, I may add, was declared by Sir William A'Beckett in 1845 to be invalid in law; but I attach no importance to that decision, as it does not affect the question of moral obligation in the case, which must be dealt with on other grounds. The circumstance, however, of the mortgage being still in existence, has cost me not less than £135 a year these eight years past; for whereas I could otherwise have borrowed from the Savings Bank the sum of £4,500 which I had to raise on the security of the property to finish the four buildings in Jamison-street in the year 1854, at 5 per cent. interest, I had to pay 8 per cent. to a private individual, in consequence of the uncertainty as to the title which the existence of the mortgage was supposed to imply.

The Colonial Secretary,

The Government and the Australian College Loan.

THE position of the Government with reference to the sum of £3,500, which, in 1831, was advanced to assist in erecting the Australian College buildings, appears to be as follows:—

In 1831, £3,500 was advanced from the Colonial Treasury, on condition that a like sum should be raised by private contributions, and upon the understanding that the £7,000 so provided, would be sufficient to defray the costs of the College buildings to be erected upon the ground belonging to the Scots Church, and which were to be a security for such loan.

About this time, Jamison-street was proposed to be formed; and as it was found that it would pass through the church grant, Sir John Jamison agreed to give, as compensation to the Trustees, a triangular portion of his grant which adjoined the church land, and would, upon the opening of the street, be situated between that land and the street.

The Trustees also purchased from Sir John Jamison two of the lots of the subdivision of his land—one on the north, and one on the south side of the street; but although the contract for this purchase was made between the Trustees (that is to say, Dr. Lang, Captain Piper, Mr. D. Ramsay, and Mr. Thomas M'Vitie), the conveyance was made to Dr. Lang alone.

The

* For accompanying statement referred to, vide Appendix to Report of Select Committee of the Legislative Assembly on "Exchange of Land, Scots Church, Jamison-street, legalizing Bill," of 1862. Votes and Proceedings, 1862, vol. 4, p. 767.

The Attorney General of that day, in a letter to the Colonial Secretary, states that Dr. Lang had informed him that he had purchased two allotments from Sir John Jamison, immediately adjoining the Scots Church, which were to be included in the mortgage; and Mr. Deputy Surveyor General Perry also reported that Dr. Lang had furnished him with particulars respecting the extent of land proposed to remain for the Scots Church, and the additional ground to be added to the mortgage in lieu.

The £3,500 advanced by Government was paid to the Trustees of the Scots Church, and in October, 1832, an Act of Council was passed to enable them to execute a mortgage to secure its repayment.

In February, 1833, the Trustees accordingly executed a mortgage to the Collector of Internal Revenue. (In this deed, however, the land granted for the Scots Church only was included.) The description in the mortgage deed is identical with the description in the church grant, and does not include either the land agreed to be given to the Trustees as compensation, or the allotments purchased.

The money advanced by Government is said to have been expended in erecting the four houses in Jamison-street, intended to be used as a portion of the Australian College; of these the whole of the two houses nearest George-street, two-thirds of the third house, and about one-third of the fourth house, have been erected upon the land obtained from Sir John Jamison, and the remainder of the buildings upon the land granted to the Trustees of the Scots Church.

It would seem that the land agreed to be given to the Trustees as compensation has been included in the conveyance to Dr. Lang of the two allotments purchased from Sir John Jamison, and it may be necessary to make enquiry upon this head if the Government shall determine not to relinquish its claim.

Default having been made in payment of the amount intended to be secured by the mortgage—proceedings were taken in equity, and a decree of foreclosure obtained; but whilst this suit was pending, a suit was instituted by the Elders of the Scots Church, praying that the mortgage should be cancelled, as having been executed by the Trustees in breach of the trusts under which they held the land; and in this suit it was decided that the mortgage deed was null and void, as it was executed by the Trustees before the Act of Council which gave them power to mortgage had come into operation.

As this decision declares that the land granted to the Trustees of the Scots Church is not subject to the intended mortgage, and as the land obtained from Sir John Jamison was not included in such mortgage, the Government have no security for the sum advanced.

The Government, it is true, has obtained a decree of foreclosure of their mortgage, but as the effect of such decree is not to give the mortgagee any new estate in the land, but to render whatever estate may have been conveyed to him by the mortgage irredeemable by the mortgagor; and as the decree in the case of McKenzie v. The Attorney General and others declared the mortgage deed to be void, and that it conveyed no estate; there was nothing for the decree of foreclosure to operate upon.

The question of whether the Government can enforce the execution of a valid mortgage by the Trustees of the Scots Church, has been advised upon by Mr. Attorney General Plunkett, Mr. Solicitor General Manning, and Mr. Broadhurst; Mr. Plunkett and Mr. Broadhurst being of opinion that the Trustees can be compelled to give such security; Mr. Manning, however, advised that a Court of Equity would not (for reasons which he gives at length) decree a mortgage over the church buildings, and that the utmost that could be obtained would be security over that portion of the church land upon which the two-thirds of the one house and one-third of the other have been erected, with perhaps the vacant land adjoining.

In October, 1841, Messrs. Ramsay, Bowman, Cadell, and Brown (when or in what way Messrs. Bowman, Cadell, and Brown were appointed Trustees does not appear), as the Trustees of the Scots Church, in whom the property at the Australian College was vested, published a report, in which they recommended "That, as the Trustees of the Scots Church never paid for the two additional allotments " of ground purchased on their behalf in the year 1830, of which the one consists partly of a portion " of the original grant to the Scots Church, which Dr. Lang bought back from Sir John Jamison, it " will be equitable and right for the said Trustees to renounce all claim to the ground occupied by the " two lower buildings, on Dr. Lang conveying to them all the other ground exchanged and purchased " from Sir John Jamison, the whole of the ground having been conveyed pro tempore to Dr. Lang until " the final settlement of the question of property."

Dr. Lang, however, prior to this, apparently dealt with the land as his private property, having by deed of date 20th June, 1841, mortgaged it to Messrs. Knight and Turner for £1,500, and on 3rd September, 1841, it was mortgaged to S. A. Bryant for £800 and interest, which mortgage was by indenture of date 1st February, transferred to Mr. Wallis. On 24th June, 1853, Dr. Lang executed a mortgage to Messrs. H. Powell and Son, to secure £2,300, which appears to have been released by Wallis on 21st July, 1855, the land having in the mean time apparently been sold under the power of sale in the mortgage to Knight and Turner, and conveyed by Messrs. Blossome and Icton (the transferees of this mortgage), and Dr. Lang, by deed of date 1st February, 1855, to Mr. Wallis.

Although apparently Mr. Wallis thus became the absolute owner of the land, I think it was so conveyed to him for conveyancing reasons, and that it was only intended that he should be mortgagee; as I find that by indenture of date 2nd February, 1855, Wallis conveyed the land to Dr. Lang in consideration of £4,500, the payment of which sum and interest thereon by Dr. Lang to Wallis is secured by the same deed.

The land is, therefore, now vested in Dr. Lang, subject to a mortgage to Mr. Wallis for £4,500 and interest.

If the Government comply with the request contained in Dr. Lang's letter of 17th November, 1859, the land granted to the Trustees of the Scots Church will be freed from all claim, and the land obtained from Sir John Jamison will remain vested in Dr. Lang, subject to the mortgage to Mr. Wallis, and to any claim the subscribers to the fund for erecting the Australian College may have that the buildings shall be devoted to the purposes for which they were originally intended, but it will not necessarily result in the re-establishment of the Australian College.

It seems from the foregoing that the present position of the Government may be shortly stated as follows:—

The £3,500 advanced is still unpaid.

The mortgage by the Trustees of the Scots Church land, which was intended to secure the repayment of that sum, has been declared to be invalid.

With respect to the right of the Government to claim to have a mortgage security executed by the Trustees of the Scots Church, Mr. Plunkett and Mr. Broadhurst have advised that Government may claim that such mortgage shall be of the whole of the allotment granted, including the church; but Sir William Manning, however, has advised that the utmost that could be obtained would be a mortgage of the vacant land adjacent to the church, and of the land obtained from Sir John Jamison, or of the equity of redemption in such land.

Of the four houses in Jamison-street intended to form part of the Australian College buildings, two have been wholly erected upon the land obtained from Sir John Jamison, and two in part upon that land and in part upon the Scots Church grant.

The whole of the land obtained from Sir John Jamison appears to be included in the mortgage to Mr. Wallis, and to be subject to his mortgage for £4,500 and interest.

If Mr. Wallis had not notice of the Government claim—and I do not see how such notice can be proved—the claim of the Government to a mortgage of this land will be subject to Wallis' mortgage.

Since Mr. Billyard's report of date 15 April, 1850, no steps have been taken on behalf of Government to enforce payment, or the execution of a mortgage by the Trustees of the Scots Church.

Dr.

Dr. Lang now requests the Government to relinquish all claim to be repaid the sum advanced by them, leaving, I suppose, all parties interested, or who may claim to be interested, in the church lands, in the lands obtained from Sir John Jamison, or in the formation of the Australian College, to arrange amongst themselves as to their respective rights or interests, without interference on the part of Government.

I have not referred in any way to the sum of £520 advanced by Government to the Trustees, to assist in building the Scots Church, as although included in the mortgage of 1833, its repayment appears to have been remitted some years since.

B. No. 6.

Sydney, 23 February, 1863.

Sir,

As certain evil-disposed persons, both in Parliament and in connection with the daily Press, have recently been endeavouring, partly for their own political and selfish ends, and partly for the gratification of their malignant feelings towards myself as a supporter of the present Ministry, to hold me up to public reprobation, as a notorious defaulter to the Government and the public, in connection with a certain mortgage which was granted by the Trustees of the Scots Church to the Colonial Treasurer in the year 1833, I beg to state to you the very peculiar circumstances in which the said mortgage was originally granted, and to submit to the Honorable the Executive Government whether, in such circumstances, that mortgage should not forthwith be cancelled, and these impertinencies put an end to for the future.

In the year 1830, when the cause of education was in a state of great backwardness in this Colony, I made a voyage to England for its advancement, and obtained from the Right Honorable Lord Viscount Goderich, who was then Secretary of State for the Colonies, a grant of £3,500, on certain specified conditions, from the Treasury of New South Wales, for the establishment of an academical institution in this city. As there was great distress however in England at the time, and as it was deemed of much importance that some effort should be made, by way of experiment, for the emigration of reputable mechanics, with their wives and children, to this Colony, it was subsequently ordered by Lord Goderich that £1,500 of this educational grant should be paid, on my arrival in the Colony, towards the cost of the passage out of a large body of Scotch mechanics, numbering one hundred and forty persons in all, whom I proposed to carry out with me to erect the requisite buildings for the proposed institution. I arrived in the Colony accordingly with the Scotch mechanics on the 13th October, 1831, and on the 8th of November following the payment of the £1,500 was authorized by the Legislative Council. But the cost of the passage out of these mechanics, as appears from the published account of the undertaking at the time, amounted altogether to £3,000—the sum of £1,500 merely covering the hire of the ship, without provisions or any other requisites for the expedition. It was doubtless anticipated, both by Lord Goderich and myself, that the mechanics would gradually repay the cost of their passage out by weekly instalments from their wages, as some of them actually did, and as most of them would probably have done in more favourable circumstances than those we experienced on our arrival in the Colony. But as the very utmost that can possibly be allowed for such repayment did not exceed £500, it follows that £2,500, or five-sevenths of the whole amount of the educational grant, was absorbed in the payment of the passage of the Scotch mechanics, and never went to the erection of the educational buildings.

Stimulated by the successful example that was thus afforded of the importation of a large body of reputable families and individuals from the Mother Country, the local Government, with the sanction and approval of the Imperial Government, appropriated for ten years thereafter almost the whole of the rapidly increasing revenue then arising from the sale of the Waste Lands of the Crown, towards the importation of such families and individuals at the public expense, commencing with unmarried females, and afterwards extending the bonus to mechanics of various handicrafts, and subsequently to labourers and shepherds generally; the immigration of all these descriptions being at length so extensive as to include not fewer than 25,000 statute adult immigrants in eighteen months. Now, as all these immigrants were imported entirely at the public expense, I submit with confidence to the Executive, whether the cost of the first cargo of immigrants—the most important to the Colony of them all—should not be deducted from the amount originally intended to be advanced for an educational institution, but subsequently devoted in great measure, with the sanction and approval of Lord Goderich, for this express purpose.

There was thus only £1,000 of the Government advance of £3,500 expended in the erection of the proposed educational buildings. But as it was found, in the year 1841, when a minute investigation was made into the whole affair from its commencement by four highly competent persons, that, through the recklessness and folly of the Scotch architect whom I had brought out with the mechanics to superintend the erection of the requisite buildings, these buildings, of which the cost had originally been expressly limited to £3,000, had actually cost £12,000, and were altogether unsuited for the purpose for which they were intended, it was deemed indispensably necessary to make an entirely different disposition of the property which had thus been created, in great measure as it was then ascertained, at my personal expense.

The gentlemen who thus investigated the affairs of the academical institution, for which these buildings were erected in the year 1841, were Thomas Brown, Esq., of George-street, Sydney (now in England), the late David Ramsay, Esq., M.D., of Dobroyd, the late Thomas Cadell, Esq., of Windsor, and George Bowman, Esq., of Richmond. These gentlemen were then all reputed Trustees of the Scots Church, and three of them were also shareholders in the academical institution; two of them at the time having their sons attending its classes. There could be therefore no question as to their right to make such an investigation, and no doubt as to their integrity in conducting it. The conclusion at which they arrived in the report signed by them, and published at the time was "that it is equitable and just that as two of the four buildings have been erected entirely by Dr. Lang, Dr. L. should be confirmed in the possession of the two lower buildings, in satisfaction of his claims."

The two upper buildings of the range on which the thousand pounds derived from the Government advance had been expended, were then mere skeletons. To complete the whole four, and to erect a more suitable building for the classes of the institution, I mortgaged the two that had become my undoubted personal property, first for a moderate and afterwards for a much larger amount; expending the thousand pounds of that advance in the erection of a commodious hall or lecture room on the ground belonging to the Scots Church, in which the classes of the institution were thenceforth conducted on a reduced scale, till the passing of the Affiliated Colleges Act of 1854, when the institution was finally broken up; in the prospect, however, of its being eventually re-opened as a training school or nursery for the future Presbyterian College. And this prospect, I am happy to state, there is now every reason to hope will shortly be realized.

As to the amounts subscribed by the public for the establishment of the institution, it was shewn in the year 1836, after an inquiry conducted by Messrs. Thomas Barker, Thomas Walker, and the late Mr. John Wallace, that the whole amount subscribed by the public, up to that time, had been expended in the establishment and maintenance of the institution; no part of it having gone to the erection erection of the buildings previously in progress. And the additional subscriptions of a later period were all expended in the same way. For as the institution, when examined by Sir William Burton in 1838 and 1839, had not fewer than 116 pupils in a highly satisfactory condition generally, under three different college-bred men as masters, there was a large expenditure to be met independently of the buildings altogether.

In these circumstances, as five-sevenths of the Government advance (or £2,500 altogether) were expended exclusively for the introduction of the Scotch mechanics of 1831, and as the remaining £1,000 of that advance was expended in the erection of an educational building, which can immediately be turned to valuable account, as soon as a Presbyterian College is established, I trust the Executive will recognize the justice and propriety of forthwith cancelling the mortgage for £3,500 on the property of the Scots Church, on the understanding and acknowledgment that the Government have received a full and sufficient equivalent for that advance.

I have, &c.,

JOHN DUNMORE LANG.

Reverend Sir,

In acknowledging the receipt of your letter of the 23rd February last, submitting the circumstances which you consider to afford grounds for the cancellation of the mortgage on the property of the Scots Church, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to inform you, that the Government has no power to comply with your request, unless Parliament should vote the amount for which the security was given.

ROBT. WYLDE.

(To Evidence given by Honorable J. H. Plunkett, Esq., Q.C., M.L.C., 4th February, 1864.)

D. No. 1.

Tuesday, 18 February, 1845.

The Attorney General and another v. Campbell and others.

His Honor delivered judgment in this case as follows:—

This is a foreclosure suit, to which a defence has been made upon two grounds—first, that the mortgagee has no legal title; and secondly, that if he has, the conveyance by which he has acquired it amounts to a breach of trust. The prayer of the bill, in anticipation of such a defence, asks not only for a decree of foreclosure, but that if it should appear to the Court that the mortgagee's title is incomplete, that the mortgage security may be decreed to constitute a valid equitable lien upon the lands mentioned therein, and that the proper parties might execute to the mortgagee a valid conveyance, and do all things necessary to place him in the same position he would have stood in, as if the mortgage in question had been valid at the time of its execution.

As to the first point, viz., the title of the mortgagee, it is in this suit unnecessary to discuss it; for it is a rule, to which I am aware of no exception, that the mortgagee's title cannot be investigated under a bill for foreclosure. All that the Court can do is to bar the equity of redemption, leaving the mortgagee to pursue his legal means to establish it.

In the present case there is no dispute as to the execution of the mortgage deed by the parties sued as mortgagors; but if they have conveyed nothing which is available to the mortgagees at law, that can neither be determined nor adjusted now. As between them, the object of this suit is to foreclose the equitable rights of the former—not to establish the legal rights of the latter. The Court, therefore, in such cases, decrees foreclosure without regard to the validity of the mortgage deed, and, at all events, will not listen to its impeachment at the instance of the party by whom it was made.

But it is said—and this brings me to the second objection—that the Court will not lend itself to the commission of a breach of trust. That doctrine will not be disputed, but it does not admit of application in the present suit. It is chiefly applicable in suits for specific performance, where the very act which the Court is asked to enforce would constitute the breach of trust, as in the cases cited of Ord v. Noel, 5 Mad., 438, and Wood v. Richardson, 4 Beav., 174. What the Court is asked to do in the present suit, leaves the question of breach of trust still open, for whether the giving of the mortgage be so or not, the mortgagee as against the mortgagor has a right to his foreclosure.

In this view of the case, it is unnecessary to determine either of the objections which have been raised to the prayer of this decree, so far as relates to the foreclosure; and I have no hesitation, therefore, in pronouncing for the plaintiffs on this part of the bill. As I am with the plaintiffs on this portion of the relief asked, I abstain from pronouncing any opinion as to the other, though I confess I should feel great difficulty in affording it him, on the ground of equitable lien, on a bill framed and in a suit conducted like the present. Before I could do so, I should have to determine the question of breach of trust, for which purpose I should wish to see the body interested in that question (the members of the Scots Church) more substantially represented than they seem to be by the two defendants, Smith and Campbell, who, though sued as elders, did not even appear at the hearing, but left the point to be raised by the principal author of the alleged breach of trust—a party of all others that a Court of Equity would desire to see silent on the subject.

D. No. 2.

Campbell and another v. the Attorney General and others.

His Honor delivered judgment in the above case as follows:—

This is a suit instituted for the purpose of counteracting the effect of a bill filed by two of the present defendants against the other defendants and the present plaintiffs, of which, in the judgment just pronounced, I have already stated the objects. The case, however, must be dealt with according to its own merits, without reference to the suit to which I have alluded. The prayer asks that certain indentures of mortgage may be delivered up to be cancelled; for a reconveyance of the property therein mentioned, and that in the mean time the mortgagee (the defendant Macpherson) may be declared a trustee thereof for the plaintiffs, freed and discharged from the mortgage debt of £3,520, secured thereby.

The case made by the bill was, that by grant from the Crown dated 10th November, 1826, certain land in Sydney was granted to the defendants, John Dunmore Lang, John Piper, David Ramsay, and Thomas M'Vitie (since deceased), trustees for the congregation of Scots Presbyterians and their successors in office, "for the purpose of erecting a Scots Church, in which the ordinances of religion should be dispensed by a regularly ordained minister of the Church of Scotland, and such other buildings therewith connected as the trustees might think fit to erect." A mortgage deed was then set out, bearing date the 18th February, 1833, made between the defendants, Lang, Piper, and Ramsay, of the one part, and the defendant, William Macpherson, of the other part, by which the land mentioned in the grant was conveyed to Macpherson and his heirs, in trust for the Government of this Colony, as security for the sum of £3,520 advanced by them to the trustees. It then states that the mortgage was made in violation of the trust contained in the grant—the filing of a bill by the mortgagee to obtain a foreclosure; and after charging that the advances secured by the mortgage were for no purposes connected with the purposes of the grant, prays for the relief already mentioned.

The bill is filed by the plaintiffs, as elders of, and for and on behalf of the members of the Scots Church. The defendants, Lang, Piper, and Ramsay, admitted by their answers the facts stated in the bill, asserting, however, that they were not aware of having violated their trust at the time of executing the mortgage. The only opposition, indeed, offered to the bill, was by the defendant Macpherson, on behalf of the Crown; the defendants Ramsay and Piper not appearing at all, and the defendant Lang, who appeared in person, being avowedly favourable to the prayer of the plaintiffs. The defendant Macpherson also admits the facts stated in the bill, but denies that the mortgage amounted to a breach of trust, and submits that the prayer of the bill is contrary to equity and good conscience.

From the evidence of the plaintiffs and admissions read from the answers, it appeared that a Scots Church had been erected on the land mentioned in the grant, at the expense of the plaintiffs, and other members of the Scots congregation, with the exception of £520, which had been advanced by Government. This advance is recited in the mortgage deed, which appears to have been given to secure not only that sum, but a subsequent advance of £3,000. The mortgage deed recites the grant and its objects; and purports to be made by the trustees, in pursuance of, and under the authority of, an Act intituled, "An Act to enable the Trustees of the Scots Church in Sydney in the Colony of New South Wales to grant a Mortgage to Government on the building now erecting on the allotment for the amount of a Loan advanced by Government to enable the said Trustees to erect the said Church and also for the amount of a further Loan advanced by Government in aid of the establishment of the Australian College." The deed then recites the Act, which, after setting out that an academical college had lately been established for the education of youth, and that the trustees of the church had agreed that the necessary buildings for the purpose should be erected upon part of the land in the said grant, and that the Government of the Colony had been authorized to advance a loan of £3,500 to the promoters of the undertaking, on condition of a mortgage of the land and buildings, confers a power on the trustees to mortgage mortgage the said land and buildings for the sum of £1,500 then due, and of such further advance as should not exceed £2,000. The deed then recites further advances, making altogether the sum of £3,520; as security for which, the land, together with the church and buildings upon it, are conveyed to Macpherson and his heirs, in trust for the Government. There is no covenant for title, and the trustees convey the premises "so far and in such manner only as they lawfully can or might as trustees as aforesaid."

The plaintiffs, after giving in evidence the grant and mortgage deed, read a passage from the answer of the defendant Macpherson, admitting that the Act recited in the mortgage contained a section providing that, "the said ordinance should not take effect until the same should have received the Royal approbation, and the notification of such approbation should have been made by His Excellency the Governor in the New South Wales Government Gazette;" and that such notification was not made until the 2nd day of July, 1834.

The viva voce evidence of the plaintiffs went to shew, that about six years ago a school had been erected on the land in question, and children of all denominations had been instructed therein, but not in connection with the Church of Scotland. It appeared that the institution had been formed at the instance chiefly of the defendant Dr. Lang, that he was himself Principal of the College, and that the head masters were ordained ministers of the Scots Church. There was, however, no evidence of any direct connection between the school and the church, and some of the managers of the former had nothing to do with and were not members of the latter.

The defendant Macpherson attempted to shew in cross-examination, and also by direct evidence, that the building of the school was in point of fact sanctioned by, and well known to, the members of the Scots Church; and in proof of this, gave in evidence a petition to the Government, dated May, 1833, signed by several of the members of the Scots Church, and among others, by the two elders, the present plaintiffs, praying for a further advance in aid of the Scots Church, in terms which it was contended implied an acquiescence in the purposes for which the land had been mortgaged in 1832. Evidence was also given of the passing of the Act of Council recited in the deed, on the 13th October, 1832, and the Gazette was produced, notifying the Royal approbation thereof, of the 2nd July, 1834. The Colonial Secretary proved his own signature, and that of Sir Richard Bourke, to the original Act, and the day of its passing; and said he had no doubt that the forms usually gone through, as preliminary to the passing of private Bills, had been gone through in this instance, or it would not have been passed.

The course pursued by the plaintiffs at the hearing appears to me to partake somewhat of contrariety. The evidence adduced by them, and the arguments adduced by their counsel, tended to shew not only that the deed sought to be impeached was a breach of trust, but also that it was invalid in point of law. Now, if that be so, there is an end to the plaintiffs' claim to relief founded upon a breach of trust; for if the instrument by which the land has been effected be inoperative, there is nothing from which they have to be relieved. Whether or not the plaintiff's counsel intended that the deed should be impeached to this extent may be doubtful; but if not, I am at a loss to understand the object of the very cogent objections which were offered by Mr. Windeyer to the reception of the evidence tendered to establish the validity of the deed, through the instrumentality of the Act of Council. It appears to me that the question of breach of trust will depend rather upon the validity than the invalidity of the mortgage deed; and that for the plaintiffs to make out that no legal estate was conveyed to the mortgagee, is to make out that they have no right to come to this Court. I must at once therefore determine this part of the case, before I attempt to interfere with the other.

The evidence of the Colonial Secretary was, I think, sufficient to prove the passing of the Act of Council. The forms which he spoke of, as being actually gone through, previously to passing private Bills, do not appear to me to be necessary to be proved. It is not to be presumed that the Act would have been passed without them, though the Act having in fact been passed, I am not sure that any presumption need be called in aid one way or the other. As to the notification in the Gazette I have some doubt; I think upon that head there was great force in Mr. Windeyer's objections—but in the way in which I shall look at the evidence, it will be unnecessary to decide whether they are tenable or not. I may observe, however, that if I were disposed to look at the notification in the Gazette, I should find myself not a little embarrassed by the wording of the title given to the Act: for the Act which is there approved of, is not an Act entitling the trustees of the Scots Church to grant a mortgage for the amount of a loan advanced by Government in aid of the establishment of the Australian College, but "in aid of the establishment of the Australian Company."

That the notification, however, whether evidence in itself or not, did not take place until July, 1834, is admitted by the defendant Macpherson, in one of the passages which has been read from his answer. Then, upon looking to the Act, we find that it was passed in October, 1832, and that it contains the section also read from the answer, restricting the commencement of its operation until notification of the Royal approval in the New South Wales Gazette. That notification does not take place until July, 1834; whereas the deed, which purports to be in pursuance of it, is dated 18th February, 1833. Can such a deed be valid in law, or is it only an abuse of a power by persons clothed with the legal estate, but exercising it in such a manner as to amount to a breach of trust?

This distinction is well established; it is adverted to in the Attorney General v. Moses and others, 2 Mad., 307-9, but more particularly in Bowes v. E. L. Water Works, 3 Mad., 383, where the Vice-Chancellor says, "At law, where the person who has the limited power has also the whole legal interest, a lease not according to the power will be supported by the estate of the lessor. But if the absolute legal interest be on a trust for the benefit of another, and a limited power of leasing be given to the trustee, then a deed according to the power, though good at law, in respect of the legal estate of the trustee, will be bad in equity, as a breach of trust."

This is the footing upon which long leases of charity estates are set aside in Courts of Equity; but here, I doubt—not whether the trustees have abused their power, but whether they have any power to convey at all. Were it not for the recital in their own deed, I should have had some difficulty in determining that they had not conveyed the legal estate, however improperly the power might have been exercised; but in the face of that recital, and the Act to which it refers, I see no way, I confess, of arriving at any other conclusion. They assume to do in 1833, what, upon their own shewing, they were only empowered to do by an ordinance which had no force until 1834. They as much exceed their power as the trustees did in the case cited of Fairtitle v. Gilbert, 2 T. R., 169, in which case the parties claiming under a mortgage deed from trustees were nonsuited, on objections very similar to those made to the present deed. Though I may reluctantly decide so, therefore, I am of opinion that the present deed is invalid at law, and that, being so, I have no jurisdiction to enter into the question of breach of trust. It is from no desire to evade that question that I do not decide it; and if it were now necessary to pronounce an opinion upon it, I should be quite prepared to do so. In guarding myself, however, from saying anything that will not leave that question entirely open to the parties, should it come again before me, I cannot refrain from expressing a hope that it will be raised in a more bonâ fide shape, than, I cannot help observing, it has assumed in the hands of the present plaintiffs. It is a question of no slight importance to a large and respectable body, and will call for the exercise of a much more satisfactory duty in determining it, when the Court has to deal with complainants, who, it can feel quite sure, are not in collusion with the trustee defendants. For the reasons I have given, the bill must be dismissed, but, with reference to the parties, without costs.

REPORT.

THE Council of the Australian College have to inform the shareholders that, in pursuance of the resolutions passed at the general meeting of the 23rd December last, they proceeded, immediately after their appointment, to organize the system of education which it was proposed to pursue; and accordingly appointed the following masters or professors to superintend the departments undermentioned, viz. :—

|                                       |                          |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| English Department . . . . .          | Rev. W. Pinkerton.       |
| Mercantile do. . . . .                | Rev. J. Anderson.        |
| Classical do. . . . .                 | Rev. H. Carmichael, A.M. |
| Mathematical and Physical do. . . . . | Rev. J. M'Garvie, A.M.   |

Of the literary and other qualifications of these gentlemen the Council had received the highest testimonials from the Universities of Edinburgh, Glasgow, and St. Andrew's, as well as from many respectable clergymen and private gentlemen in Scotland. Conceiving, however, that in the infancy of the institution the English and mercantile departments could be superintended by one master or professor, it was agreed that the Rev. Mr. Pinkerton, with whose entire concurrence the arrangement was effected, should retire from the institution for at least twelve months, during which period it was stipulated that he should not receive any salary or emolument from its funds.

The Council also agreed to pay whatever sums had been expended in providing a passage to the Colony for the Rev. Messrs. Pinkerton, Anderson, and Carmichael; and in consideration of the expense of outfit, the outlay to be incurred in furnishing houses for the reception of boarders, and the comparatively small revenue to be expected from pupils during the first year, they further agreed that their fixed salaries of £100 per annum should commence from the 1st of January, 1831, or rather that they should receive double salary for the first year.

The arrangement with the Rev. Mr. M'Garvie was, that he should also receive a fixed salary of £100 per annum, together with the fees derivable from his public lectures, for the period of one year from the 1st of November, 1831, Mr. M'G. having obtained leave of absence for that period from Portland Head.

As it was necessary, also, to provide temporary accommodation for carrying on the business of the institution till the erection of the College Buildings, a house conveniently situated on Church Hill, and affording besides a residence for the families of the Rev. Messrs. Carmichael and Anderson, was rented for that purpose, at the rate of £6 per month.

The number of pupils in the elementary classes of the institution has, for some time past, been about fifty, of whom about twenty attend the Latin and Greek, in addition to the English, writing, and arithmetic classes, which are attended by all the rest. The shareholders are also aware that a course of lectures on natural philosophy and chemistry, extending to a period of five months, has been delivered in the institution by the Rev. Mr. M'Garvie during the present year, and has not only been numerously and respectably attended, but has excited a taste for scientific pursuits on the part of several of the interesting youth of the Colony, which it is highly gratifying to contemplate.

The Council have also to inform the shareholders that the Rev. Mr. Anderson, having lately received an invitation to undertake the pastoral charge of a congregation of Scots Presbyterians at Launceston, Van Diemen's Land, and having notified his desire to accept the said invitation, and, of consequence, to resign his appointment in the institution, the Council instituted an inquiry as to whether arrangements could be made, in the event of Mr. A.'s retirement, for carrying on the business of education in the different departments of the institution with undiminished efficiency; and having ascertained to their satisfaction that such arrangements could be made, they agreed to accept Mr. Anderson's resignation, on condition that the Presbyterians of Launceston should relieve the institution of the amount due for his passage to the Colony.

The arrangement which the Council have effected for carrying on the business of the institution in the mean time is, that the Rev. Mr. Carmichael, of whose talents and competency the Council entertain the highest opinion, shall, after the 1st of January next, superintend both the classical and mathematical departments, and have an assistant or under master, to teach writing, arithmetic, book-keeping, geography, and drawing. The Rev. Mr. M'Garvie having also intimated that, in consequence of other engagements, he could not continue his connection with the institution so as to resume his lectures during the ensuing year, and the Rev. Mr. Carmichael having, in consequence, offered to deliver two courses of lectures in the proper season, viz., one on natural philosophy and another on political economy, the Council very cordially acquiesced in that arrangement. In regard to the English department, which had been originally allotted to Mr. Pinkerton, the Council conceived that, in consequence of the number and expected increase of pupils in that department, it would be expedient to separate it entirely from the other classes with which it has hitherto been combined under the superintendence of Mr. Anderson, after the 1st of January next; but finding it impracticable, at the present moment, to recall Mr. Pinkerton, and Dr. Lang having offered to superintend the English department, with an assistant for the junior classes, till Mr. P.'s return, or till it should otherwise be permanently and efficiently supplied, the Council assented to that arrangement, which will accordingly take effect from the 1st of January next. There will thus be two superior masters or professors, assisted by two under-masters, to conduct the business of the institution during the year 1833.

The Council have also to inform the shareholders that, shortly after the establishment of the institution, the Rev. Dr. Lang offered, on the part of the Trustees of the Scots Church, to surrender to the College Council so much of the valuable allotment of ground belonging to the Scots Church as would be required for the erection of the College Buildings. Certain differences of opinion, however, having subsequently arisen between the College Council and Dr. Lang, in regard to the extent of the buildings required for the institution, and the nature of the engagement made with His Majesty's Government on its behalf, the completion of that arrangement was for some time prevented on the one hand, and the issue of funds for carrying on the buildings discontinued on the other. The Council are happy to state, however, that these differences have been amicably adjusted, and that the institution is now steadily and progressively advancing. From the peculiar tenure of the ground to be alienated to the institution, it was found necessary in the late Session of the Legislative Council, to pass a Bill authorizing the Trustees of the Scots Church to grant a mortgage to Government on the buildings now erecting for the College, in order to procure the proportion of the loan of £3,500 now due to the institution on the part of Government. This Act, however, is intended to be only of temporary operation, a pledge having in the mean time been lodged with His Excellency the Governor, on the part of the Trustees of the Scots Church, that as soon as it shall be practicable they will apply for an Act authorizing authorizing them to transfer the ground in question, subject to the said mortgage, to the College Council. The Council are most happy, at the same time, to acknowledge the condescending kindness which His Excellency has uniformly evinced towards the undertaking, and the interest he has lately taken in promoting the speedy establishment and the future prosperity of the institution; for by waiving a point of law which might otherwise have been insisted on, in perfect conformity to existing regulations, he has most considerably enabled the Council to make arrangements for obtaining the proportion of the loan now due to the institution, twelve months sooner than it could otherwise have been.

The buildings now erecting for the College are intended to afford a residence for each of the four superior masters or professors, of whom, agreeably to the resolutions of the 23rd December last, the full establishment of the institution is to consist. But as one great benefit to be derived from the institution is the facility it will afford for the education of youth from a distance, these buildings have been so planned as to afford suitable accommodation for as large a number of boarders as possible. By this arrangement the benefits of the institution will be more widely extended, and its revenue proportionably increased, while the cost of education will be diminished to the parent residing at a distance, and a vigilant superintendence of the morals of the pupils who may be sent as boarders to the different professors, secured. And as the Right Honorable Lord Viscount Goderich had, in granting a loan of £3,500 from the Colonial Treasury for the establishment of the institution, stipulated that the buildings "should be so arranged that it might be possible either to increase the establishment to the extent originally proposed, or to confine it to what should have been done in the first instance," the buildings in question have been so constructed as to afford, in addition to the objects above mentioned, a large, commodious class-room for each of the four departments of the institution, till the number of the pupils shall be sufficient to require, and the funds sufficient to justify, the erection of a separate building for that and other purposes. The Council feel persuaded that the shareholders and the public at large will acknowledge the propriety of the principles on which they have thus acted in regard to the College Buildings now in progress, and as these buildings will, in part, be occupied by the 1st of January next, they are confident that the public will in due time thereafter avail themselves of the liberal, efficient, and economical system of education which the institution is intended to afford, as well for day pupils as for boarders from the interior, or from beyond seas.

The Council are unable as yet to inform the shareholders what may have been the exact cost of the buildings now erecting for the Australian College, and they will scarcely be able to ascertain this point till their completion and valuation. In addition to that amount, however, there were various other items of expenditure to be incurred at the outset, and to be charged against the capital of the institution, in order to bring its machinery into actual operation—such as passage money, salaries, house-rent. Besides, to place the institution on a footing of respectability and efficiency, books for the formation of a library, and philosophical apparatus, were highly desirable, though not perhaps of indispensable necessity. A large and valuable collection of books, in literature, philosophy, and science, was accordingly purchased for the institution, in London, on the most favourable terms, and the valuable philosophical and chemical apparatus which had belonged to the celebrated Dr. Ure, of the Andersonian University of Glasgow, was also procured, at a very cheap rate, and brought out to the Colony.

The shareholders will doubtless acknowledge that a very considerable expenditure was absolutely necessary at the outset for the various objects above mentioned; and they are also aware that, in consequence of the long unsettled state of the institution, a large proportion of the capital actually subscribed has not yet been realized. In these circumstances, the Council would earnestly recommend to the shareholders to pay up the remaining instalments of their respective shares as speedily as possible, that an institution of such undeniable importance to the Colony, and of such fair promise, may not be suffered to languish from the want of funds. As there is also a considerable number of shares of £25 each still open for additional subscribers, to make up the amount of capital originally proposed, viz., £7,000 (including £3,500 to be advanced by Government), the Council would, at the same time, earnestly recommend the institution to the patronage and support of the public at large. And they are enabled to do so with the greater confidence, from their having it in their power to inform the public that they have every reason to believe that, from and after the 1st of January, 1833, the institution will not only defray the whole of its own current expenses from the funds arising out of the fees for education, but afford a gradually increasing surplus revenue, to be disposed of as the shareholders shall think proper. This is a state of things to which very few academical institutions, either at home or abroad, attain at so early a stage of their progress, and the Council conceive that it cannot fail to inspire both the shareholders and the public at large with entire confidence in the future prosperity and complete success of the Australian College.

REPORT.

THE Council of the Australian College beg to submit to the shareholders and the public generally, the following account of the present circumstances and prospects of the institution.

At the general meeting of the shareholders, held in the College Buildings, on the 11th of March last, a Committee of the College Council, consisting of the following Members, viz., Thomas Barker, Esq., Thomas Walker, Esq., and John Wallace, Esq., were appointed to procure an estimate of the actual value of the College Buildings, and to ascertain the amount of whatever other expenditure had been incurred for the establishment of the institution. Two experienced architects were accordingly appointed to value the buildings, of whose valuations the following abstract is the result:—

|  |        |    |    |
|--|--------|----|----|
| Estimate of the expenditure incurred in the erection of the Australian College Buildings in their present state of advancement . . . . .   | £5,136 | 9  | 7½ |
| Estimate of the cost of the excavation of the foundation of the main building, of fencing, of certain minor erections on the premises, &c. | 115    | 2  | 0¼ |
| Total expenditure for the buildings . . . . .  | £5,251 | 11 | 7¾ |

In addition to this expenditure for the erection of the College Buildings, a considerable additional expenditure had been incurred for the establishment of the institution, in the shape of passage money, house-rent, philosophical and chemical apparatus, furniture for class-rooms, &c., amounting altogether to £836 11s. 4d., exclusive of a large collection of valuable books, purchased for the formation of a College Library, the value and transference of which will form the subject of ulterior arrangement. With this exception, the total expenditure hitherto incurred for the purposes above specified is £6,088 2s. 11½d.

To meet the expenditure thus incurred for the establishment of the Australian College, there has been advanced by the Government, pursuant to the agreement guaranteed by Lord Viscount Goderich, in the year 1831, the sum of £3,500, and by the shareholders £930 15s. 4d.;* leaving a balance of £1,657 7s. 7½d., advanced pro tempore by the Rev. Dr. Lang.

It is unnecessary for the College Council to advert to the circumstances and events that led to a state of things so little anticipated at the commencement of the institution; especially as the colonial public are sufficiently aware of them already. Much less is it either their object or intention to attach blame to any party. All that it is necessary to state in the matter is, that the colonial public were induced, for a considerable period, and from a variety of causes, to despair of the success of the institution, and to withdraw their support from it, if not altogether, at least in a very great degree; and that in these circumstances Dr. Lang was induced, from an earnest desire that the establishment of the institution might be effected, to supply a considerable portion of the funds required for that purpose, from his own private resources, and at great personal inconvenience. The College Council, however, entertain the hope that, as the unfavourable anticipations of no inconsiderable portion of the colonial public have at length been shewn to have been unfounded, the friends of education throughout the Colony will now come forward to relieve the institution of the debt incurred in this manner, and to place it in such a state of increased efficiency for the future as will render the large expenditure already incurred for its establishment, available for the speedy attainment of the important ends originally proposed by its founders.

The present buildings will accommodate, when completed, and when a portion of each house is no longer appropriated as a class-room (as is necessarily the case at present), 100 boarders. The number of pupils or students at present in the institution is sixty-two, of whom eighteen are boarders. This is as large a number of boarders as the building hitherto occupied by the Rev. Messrs. Wyld and Mackenzie can conveniently accommodate, besides affording a large class-room, with accommodation for themselves, their assistant, and servants; but as the second of the College Buildings, which for some time past has been occupied temporarily by Dr. Lang, will henceforth be occupied by Messrs. Wyld and Mackenzie, in addition to their present residence, they will be enabled to accommodate a considerable number of additional boarders.

It is doubtless to be regretted, that in consequence of the want of proper schools for elementary instruction, as well as of properly qualified private tutors throughout the Colony, the majority of the pupils or students in the Australian College, and especially of those from the interior, are not sufficiently advanced in their education, on entering the classes, to reap the full benefit of an institution intended principally for the higher branches of general education; and that the time and attention of the head masters or professors are consequently devoted, to a much greater extent than is desirable, to the business of elementary tuition. While, however, there is even at present a fair and increasing proportion of the pupils or students in the institution receiving a classical and mathematical education, and a still larger number instructed in English composition, natural philosophy, geography, general history, and chronology, the College Council look forward with much interest to the establishment of schools of a superior character, for the supply of elementary instruction, all over the territory; as these schools will doubtless serve as a nursery for High Schools and Colleges properly so called, in supplying pupils duly prepared for entering on that course of education in the higher branches of useful knowledge which the Australian College is more particularly designed to afford. For, as the Australian College is neither a theological institution, nor confined in its advantages to any particular religious denomination, it must be evident to the friends of education generally, that when its plan is completed, and the four professorships, which it will eventually comprise, simultaneously held by men of ability and zeal in their respective departments, it will afford the means of supplying to those of our colonial youth who shall have previously received a good common English education in the elementary schools of their respective districts, such a course of higher education as will either enable them to discharge the duties of any non-professional situation in the Colony with credit to themselves and with benefit to the public, or fit them for entering with peculiar advantage on a course of education for one or other of the learned professions.

It is therefore of importance to the community at large, that the plan of the institution, in regard to the contemplated extent of its educational establishment, should be completed as speedily as possible; and the College Council are happy to inform the shareholders and the public generally, that as they expect a third head master or professor from Europe, about the close of the present year—the Rev. Thomas Aitken, A.M., who for several years conducted an academy in connection with the Dalhousie College, in Nova Scotia—another important advance towards that consummation will be made very shortly. In the prospect of Mr. Aitken's speedy arrival, as well as to afford additional accommodation for boarders, it will be necessary to proceed immediately with the completion of the third of the College Buildings, which, the shareholders and the public are aware, has remained for the last three years in an unfinished state.

With regard to the present state of the institution in respect of funds, and the means of meeting its current expenses, the College Council are happy to inform the shareholders, that exclusive of the private emoluments of the professors derived from boarders, the revenue arising from class fees for the half-year ending the 30th June, 1836, is just about double the amount from the same source for the year ending the 30th June, 1835, while the number of boarders has been tripled during the interval—a state of things which sufficiently evinces the increasing confidence of the public in the general efficiency of the institution. With entire confidence, therefore, in the success of the institution, and with a fair prospect of its steady and rapid advancement, the Council of the Australian College would now take the liberty to appeal, on its behalf, to those of the shareholders who have not yet paid up their shares, and to the friends of education generally throughout the Colony; hoping and trusting that, as the practicability of its successful establishment has now been fully demonstrated, and a most valuable property created for the proprietors, the friends of education, including the shareholders still in arrears, will come forward to supply the requisite funds for the completion of the buildings, and for paying off the debt of the institution.

As an inducement to take shares in the Australian College, as well as to raise the character of the institution, by holding out encouragement to the parents or guardians of pupils to avail themselves of all the advantages which the institution affords, the College Council are happy to inform the public that they have been enabled, at the suggestion of several of the shareholders, to offer a bonus to the shareholders, in the shape of a reduced rate of education, in conformity to the following resolution passed at their last meeting, on the 20th current:—

Resolved,—That to shareholders having an interest of £50 in the institution, who have paid up their shares, the highest rate of education shall in future be £8 per annum, instead of £12 as formerly; each shareholder having a right to present one pupil to be educated at this reduced rate for every two shares of £25 each he may hold in the institution.

The

* This advance by the shareholders on account of the College Buildings is exclusive of £369 4s. 8d. borrowed from the original capital of the institution, towards the payment of salaries for the year 1832.—See abstract at the end of the Report.

The public are aware that the valuable allotment of ground on which the Australian College Buildings have been erected, together with the vacant triangular allotment in front of them, was originally the property of the Scots Church; but that a written guarantee was given by the Trustees of that Church, binding and obliging themselves to execute a transference of it to the Council of the Australian College on behalf of the shareholders, as soon as an Act of Council should be obtained to enable them to do so. Such an Act should also include a Charter of Incorporation for the institution, such as is granted to the Colonial Banks and other Companies of a similar kind; and it is proposed that the requisite arrangements for obtaining such an Act shall be made as speedily as possible.

(Paper ordered by the Committee to be appended, 26 May, 1865.)

AN Act to enable the Trustees of the Scots Church in Sydney in the Colony of New South Wales to grant a mortgage to Government on the buildings now erecting on their allotment for the amount of a loan advanced by Government to enable the said Trustees to erect the said Church and also for the amount of a further loan advanced by Government in aid of the establishment of the Australian College. [13th October, 1832.]

Preamble. WHEREAS by a certain deed of grant duly executed and bearing date the tenth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six His Excellency Lieutenant General Ralph Darling then Captain General and Governor-in-Chief of the said Colony did under and by virtue and in pursuance of the power and authority in him vested give and grant unto the Reverend John Dunmore Lang Doctor in Divinity John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay Esquires Trustees for the Congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney and to their successors in office for ever a certain piece or parcel of land containing two roods and thirty-nine perches lying and situate in the parish of Saint Philip in the county of Cumberland bounded on the north-east by Underwood's allotment bearing east thirty-six degrees and a half south one chain and eighty links on the south-east by a line bearing south thirty-three degrees and a half west three chains and fifty-seven links to the barrack wall by that wall to the street one chain on the south-west by the street bearing north-west by Charlotte-place bearing bearing north thirty-one degrees and thirty minutes west one chain and forty-three links and on the north-west by Charlotte-place bearing north thirty-six degrees and a half east three chains and sixty-four links but declaring that the ground thereby conveyed was granted for the purpose of erecting a Scots Church in which the ordinances of religion should be dispensed by a regularly ordained minister of the Church of Scotland and such other buildings therewith connected as the Trustees might think fit to erect And whereas the Colonial Treasurer of the said Colony by an order or warrant of His Excellency Sir Thomas Brisbane then Governor of the said Colony in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and twenty-five on the part of the Government of the said Colony lent and advanced to the said John Dunmore Lang Doctor in Divinity John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay as Trustees as aforesaid the sum of two thousand four hundred dollars for the purpose of enabling the said Trustees to erect a Church upon the said parcel of land above mentioned upon condition of the repayment thereof by the said Trustees to the Government And whereas an Academical Institution or College has lately been established for the education of youth and the said Trustees of the Scots Church have agreed and consented that the necessary buildings for the purpose of carrying on the said institution should be erected upon a part of the said parcel of land hereinbefore mentioned And whereas upon application being made to him for that purpose the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies has been pleased to authorize the Governor of the said Colony of New South Wales to advance a loan of three thousand five hundred pounds to the promoters of the above undertaking from the Colonial Treasury towards enabling them to complete the same upon condition that the said Institution or College together with all the buildings thereunto belonging or appertaining should be erected or built upon the ground belonging to the said Scots Church and that the promoters of the undertaking should previously expend a similar amount in the erection of the above buildings and that the above buildings when erected should stand as a security to the Government of the said Colony for the repayment of the sums advanced by the said Government for the purpose aforesaid And whereas the Colonial Treasurer of the said Colony by the order or warrant of His Excellency Colonel Patrick Lindesay then acting Governor of the said Colony in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and thirty-one paid to the said Trustees in pursuance of the said arrangement entered into with the Right Honorable the Secretary of State for the Colonies as aforesaid the sum of one thousand five hundred pounds And whereas a sum of money exceeding the said sum of one thousand five hundred pounds has already been expended in erecting the buildings for the said Institution or College on the said parcel of land hereinbefore mentioned And whereas it would be beneficial to the public and to the advancement and promotion of knowledge within the said Colony if the said John Dunmore Lang Doctor in Divinity John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay and the other promoters of the said Institution were enabled to carry the agreement hereinbefore mentioned into effect and for that purpose that the said Trustees of the Scots Church should be empowered to grant a mortgage of the said land and premises aforesaid to the Collector of Internal Revenue of the said Colony for the time being for and on behalf of the Government of the said Colony but the same cannot be effected without the aid and authority of an Act or Ordinance of His Excellency the Governor with the advice and consent of the Legislative Council Be it therefore enacted by His Excellency the Governor of New South Wales by and with the advice of the Legislative Council That from and after the passing of this Act it shall and may be lawful for the said John Dunmore Lang John Piper Thomas M'Vitie and David Ramsay Trustees as aforesaid of the said congregation of Scots Presbyterians in Sydney and their successors to transfer or mortgage the said parcel of land hereinbefore mentioned together with the buildings now erected or hereafter to be erected thereon to the Collector of the Internal Revenue of the said Colony and to his successors in office for the time being for and on behalf of the Government thereof for securing the repayment of the said sums of two thousand four hundred dollars and one thousand five hundred pounds so advanced to the said Trustees as aforesaid and of the further sum of two thousand pounds when advanced to the said Trustees or their successors under the agreement as aforesaid and by writing under the hands and seals of any three or more of the said Trustees or their successors to assign the said parcel of land aforesaid together with the buildings now erected or hereafter to be erected thereon to the Collector of the Internal Revenue of the said Colony or to his successor or successors in his said office for the time being for and on behalf of the Government of the said Colony as a security for the repayment of the said principal sums of money so advanced to the said Trustees as aforesaid and for any such further sum or sums of money as shall be advanced to the said Trustees by the said Government of the said Colony as aforesaid.

2. Provided always and be it further enacted That nothing in this Ordinance contained shall be deemed to affect or apply to any right title or interest of His Majesty his Heirs or Successors or of any body corporate or politic or of any other person or persons excepting such as are mentioned herein or of those claiming by or under him or them.

3. And be it further enacted That this Ordinance shall not commence or take effect until the same shall have received the Royal approbation and the notification of such approbation shall have been made by His Excellency the Governor in the New South Wales Government Gazette.

Authorizing the Trustees of the Scots Church Estate to mortgage the same to Government.

Act not to affect the rights of His Majesty or of others not mentioned herein. Commencement of Act.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

LIVERPOOL AND LONDON AND GLOBE
INSURANCE COMPANY'S BILL.

THURSDAY, 16 MARCH, 1865.

Present:—

MR. BURDEKIN, | MR. COWPER,
MR. CUNNEEN.

THE HONORABLE CHARLES COWPER, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

William Barker, Esq., appeared as Solicitor on behalf of the promoters of the Bill.

William Barker, Esq., examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You appear as Solicitor for the Bill? I do.
2. The first allegation in the preamble is—"Whereas in the year one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six a Company or Association was established in England by the name of 'The Liverpool Fire and Life Insurance Company,' for the purposes of making and effecting insurances on houses warehouses and buildings shipping in port goods wares merchandise farming stock utensils and property of all descriptions against loss or damage by fire insurances on lives and survivorships the sale and purchase of annuities reversions and contingent interests and the endowment of children and generally to carry on the business usually called or known as fire and life insurance and all matters connected therewith"—is that the fact? It is the fact. I produce a copy of the deed of settlement of the Company, which shews that it was established in 1836, as mentioned in the preamble, and that upon its establishment the deed of settlement was made, dated 21st May, 1836.
3. "And whereas upon the establishment of the said Company or Association a deed of settlement was made dated the twenty-first day of May one thousand eight hundred and thirty-six"? I produce that. (The witness produced the same.)
4. "And whereas by an Act of the Imperial Parliament passed in the eleventh year of the reign of her present Majesty intituled 'An Act to change the name of the Liverpool Fire and Life Insurance Company and for other purposes relating thereto' the name of the said Company was changed to 'The Liverpool and London Fire and Life Insurance Company'?" I produce a copy of the Imperial Act referred to in the preamble. (The witness produced the same.)
5. "And whereas a supplemental deed of settlement was made by the said Company dated the twenty-eighth day of February one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one"? I also produce that. (The witness produced the same.)

W. Barker,
Esq.

16 Mar., 1865.

- W. Barker, Esq.
16 Mar., 1865.
6. "And whereas by virtue of the powers in that behalf given by the said supplementary deed of settlement to the Board of Directors for the time being of the said Company a Local Board of Directors of the said Company was in the year one thousand eight hundred and fifty-three duly appointed in the city of Sydney in this Colony for carrying on and managing in this Colony the business of the said Company and all matters connected therewith and for other purposes in connection with the affairs of the said Company"—that is true? That is the fact. The Company was established as mentioned in the preamble, and from that time to the present, the business of the Company has been carried on here by a Local Board of Directors.
7. "And whereas by virtue of powers duly delegated to them for that purpose by the Board of Directors of the said Company the said Local Board of Directors has from time to time appointed Trustees for the Company in this Colony duly qualified in accordance with the said deeds of settlement and all lands tenements and hereditaments situate in this Colony belonging to the said Company as absolute owners or as mortgagees or otherwise and all moneys belonging to and invested for the said Company in this Colony and all securities for or relating thereto have from time to time been duly vested in such Trustees for the time being"? That is the fact.
8. "And whereas in order to prevent the complication and expense occasioned to the Company by the necessity of from time to time on the occasion of appointing new Trustees for the Company of transferring the trust moneys securities and property of the Company to such new Trustees an Act of Council was passed in the twentieth year of the reign of Her present Majesty intituled 'An Act to vest the trust moneys securities and property of the Liverpool and London Fire and Life Insurance Company in this Colony in the Local Trustees of the said Company for the time being'"? I produce a copy of that Act. (The witness produced the same.)
9. "And whereas an Act of Council was passed in the twenty-sixth year of the reign of Her present Majesty intituled, 'An Act to enable the Liverpool and London Fire and Life Insurance Company to sue and be sued in the name of such Company'"? I produce a copy of the Act. (The witness produced the same.)
10. "And whereas by an Act of the Imperial Parliament passed in the twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth years of the reign of Her present Majesty intituled 'An Act to confirm an agreement for the amalgamation of the Globe Insurance Company with the Liverpool and London Fire and Life Insurance Company and to alter the name of the last-mentioned Company and for other purposes' the name and style of the said Company was changed into and became 'The Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company'"? That is the fact. I produce a copy of the Imperial Act for the purpose of confirming the agreement as mentioned in the preamble. (The witness produced the same.)
11. As I understand the position of the Company, it is this—that they come to ask for two things, first to change the name of the Company —? No, pardon me, the name has been changed by the Imperial Act; it is to give effect to that alteration in this country.
12. To give effect in this country to the alteration of name, and then to repeal the existing laws and embody them in one Act? Yes, for the sake of convenience.
13. There is nothing new in this Bill—nothing but what is contained in preceding Acts? Nothing but verbal alterations; substantially this Bill contains nothing but what is contained in the 20th Victoria, passed 23rd February, 1857, and the 26th Victoria, passed 22nd August, 1862.

(PETITION RELATIVE TO.)

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Sawyers, Splitters, Quarrymen, &c., of Muswellbrook,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH:—

That we labour under an injustice in being compelled to take Licenses for the twelve months, whereas we may only require them for one, two, or three months respectively.

We humbly submit to your Honorable House, that the law may be amended to enable us to take out Licenses for one, two, or three months, as we may require.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MANNING RIVER DISTRICT.

(PETITION FROM, PRAYING TO BE CONSTITUTED A SEPARATE ELECTORAL DISTRICT.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 5 April, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Landowners, Leaseholders, and Residents of the Manning River District, most respectfully

SHEWETH :—

The desirability of this District being constituted an Electorate, separate from the Hastings and Macleay Districts, whose interests are not in any way identified with ours, but on the contrary, are directly opposed, especially in matters connected with improvement and expenditure of money for our benefit.

That the "Electoral Roll" for the Hastings shews the following numbers, viz. :—Manning River, 895; Macleay, 592; Port Macquarie, 330. These numbers prove that the electors in the Macleay and Port Macquarie divisions of the Hastings Electorate exceed those of the Manning River by twenty-seven only; thus giving an undue power and interest to the Port Macquarie and Macleay electors, to our prejudice. That the population (nearly 4,000 souls), the property, the increasing trade, and the fact of its being one of the largest agricultural districts in the Colony,—having four townships, namely, Wingham, Tinonee, Tarree, and Cundle,—are sufficient, we humbly submit, to justify your Honorable House in supporting the privilege we now solicit of being enabled to send a Representative to the Legislative Assembly for this District.

Your Petitioners beg further to call the attention of your Honorable House to the fact that the "Hastings Electorate" is of unusual extent according to the size of other Electorates in this Colony, having a sea-board of nearly 200 miles, viz.—from Cape Hawk on the south to the Solitary Islands on the north, and embracing three Police Districts, viz.—Manning River, Port Macquarie, and Macleay.

Your Petitioners, therefore, respectfully beg that a Bill may be introduced during the present sitting of Parliament, to carry the project into effect; and your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

To the Honorable the Members of the Legislative Assembly, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Boatmen in the employ of the Government,—

SHEWETH :—

That many of your Petitioners have been in the employ of the Government for many years, with the lowest possible salary, and unable to provide for the future.

The Government of Victoria, by a Superannuation Act, have provided for all the Civil Servants without distinction. We trust your Honorable House will take our case into your serious consideration, and place your Petitioners on the Superannuation Act.

SUPERANNUATION ACT AMENDMENT BILL.

(PETITION—PERSONS EMPLOYED IN CIVIL SERVICE.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 19 April, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Persons employed in the Civil Service of the Colony,—

HUMBLY SHEWETH :—

And firstly, with respect to the "Superannuation Act of 1864":—

1. That after full inquiry, and such calculation as the nature of the case admits of, your Petitioners have reason to apprehend that the "Superannuation Fund" created by that Act may prove inadequate to provide the retiring and other allowances promised by it.
2. That this suggested inadequacy of the fund arises (or will arise) from the extent of the immediate and proximate claims to superannuation of old Officers of the Government, which claims had accrued at the time of the passing of the Act.
3. That, according to the regulations of the Government in force prior to the passing of the Act, all such claims would have been satisfied out of the public funds, without any deduction whatever from salaries.
4. That it is not equitable that a Superannuation Fund, to be sustained by deductions from salaries, should be burdened with claims or portions of claims which accrued before the passing of the Act, under a wholly different system.
5. That according to calculations made by competent actuaries, the £10,000 granted in aid of the Superannuation Fund, and which sum it is believed was intended to cover the claims to superannuation accruing before the passing of the Act, falls short of the present value of those claims.
6. That there should be any question as to the adequacy of a fund to which Civil Officers now contribute so largely, and from which they trust to derive support in old age, is in every way to be deprecated.
7. That, having regard to the essential relief which the Public Finances (formerly wholly chargeable with superannuation allowances) now derive, and will continue to derive, from the very heavy deduction from salaries, it is only fair and reasonable that the deficiency, if there should hereafter be any deficiency in the Superannuation Fund, should be met out of Public Revenues.
8. That with this view, all sums accruing from deductions from salaries under the Act 27 Victoriae, No. 11, should be credited to the Consolidated Revenue, and all allowances promised by the Act should be chargeable on and payable from the Consolidated Revenue, without any limitation whatsoever.
9. That, on abolition of office, the holder ought to receive a like pension or retiring allowance as officers retiring on the grounds of infirmity of mind or body, irrespectively of any further compensation that may be recommended by the Governor, as by the Act provided.

And secondly, with regard to the Bill now before your Honorable House, proposed to be intituled the "Superannuation Act of 1865," your Petitioners further humbly represent that this measure is not acceptable to those Civil Servants whose interests are proposed to be affected by it, for the following reasons :—

1. Because it makes no provision for the widows and children of deceased officers (an advantage conferred by the existing law), and thus casts upon the country and Parliament, the necessity of dealing individually, and perhaps arbitrarily, with claims which cannot well be ignored.

2. Because the amount of superannuation allowance is calculated on the basis of the average salary of the recipient during the whole term of service, thus reproducing and fastening upon him all the disadvantages of want of opportunity, neglect, or it may be, injustice, incident to the earlier period of his career; whilst a sufficient guarantee against abuse in this regard would be afforded by adhering to the practice of the Imperial Government, which is to calculate superannuation allowances on the average salary received during the last three years of the officer's service.

3. Because the power proposed to be conferred on the Government, by the 8th clause, arbitrarily to increase or diminish allowances from the Superannuation Fund, would be in violation of the rights of all contributors to that fund.

4. Because this Bill, in common with the existing law, affords no guarantee that the several allowances promised by it will be paid in case of any failure of the Superannuation Fund.

Your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that, for the foregoing reasons, the Bill now before your Honorable House may not pass into law, but that the existing law may receive such other consideration in the premises as to your Honorable House may seem meet.

PUBLIC SERVICE SUPERANNUATION ACT.

(PETITION—MESSENGERS, CIVIL SERVICE.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 17 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned Messengers in the Civil Service of this Colony,—

SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners, through a defect in the Civil Service Superannuation Act of 1864, are not allowed to participate in the benefits of said Act.

That many of your Petitioners, being old servants under the Government of this Colony, would have been entitled to pensions under the Imperial Statute, but are now deprived of all compensation, so that they are actually in a worse position than they were previous to the passing of the said Act—a hardship which they feel assured the Legislature had no intention of inflicting on them.

That your Petitioners entered the Public Service under the belief that they would be pensioned in their old age, and have, therefore, trusted to this source as a provision for the future; and being for the most part heads of large families, unable from their small wages now to lay by a sufficiency for their declining years, will, when the time arrives at which they must retire from active life, be left wholly destitute, if they are not allowed to participate in the advantages of the said Superannuation Act.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that your Honorable House will take the foregoing premises into your consideration, and adopt such measures as may insure justice to your Petitioners.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

(PETITION—STAMPERS, &c., POST OFFICE.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 30 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Speaker and Members of the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the Stampers, Sorters, and Letter Carriers, employed at the General Post Office, Sydney,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioners' names were appended to the Petition presented to your Honorable House in the year one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, from the whole of the permanent members of the Civil Service, praying that provision should be made by Act of Parliament for superannuating its members.

That the result of that Petition was the "Civil Service Superannuation Act of 1864."

That your Petitioners fully expected to be brought under its operation, as they do not appear to belong to the class excluded by the Act—their appointments resting with the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer.

That your Petitioners have, in some instances, been many years in the service of the Government, and have always expected to be provided for in their old age by superannuation.

That your Petitioners now find themselves shut out from participating in the benefits of the said Act.

That your Petitioners would consider it a great boon to be brought under the operation of the said Act.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray, that your Honorable House, will take the matter of the above Petition into your serious consideration, and cause such steps to be taken, as to place your Petitioners under the operation of the said Superannuation Act of 1864.

And your Petitioners, will ever pray, &c., &c.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned, the President, Vice-President, Officers, and Committee of Management of the Singleton and Patrick's Plains Benevolent Society,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners perceive with considerable regret that, in a Bill now before your Honorable House, called the Impounding Act of 1865, no provision is made for the payment of the proceeds of unclaimed pound cattle to the Charitable Institutions of the Colony.

That your Petitioners would most respectfully represent to your Honorable House the incalculable injury that the withdrawal of this source of revenue would inflict on the beneficence of this Institution.

Your Petitioners, therefore, pray that your Honorable House will pass a clause, by which the proceeds arising from the sale of unclaimed pound cattle may still be guaranteed to the Charitable Institutions of the Colony.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

SHEWETH :—

That Petitioner has been informed, and believes, that a Bill is before your Honorable House, to abolish the Old Botany Randwick and Coogee Road Trust, and to transfer the powers and duties thereof to the Municipalities of Randwick and Waverley, which Bill Petitioner understands is to be read a second time on Friday next.

That Petitioner has security, by way of mortgage, from the Commissioners of the said Trust, to the extent of £2,000 upon the tolls to be collected by them on the roads under their charge, for the term authorized by the Act of Parliament in that behalf.

Petitioner, therefore, humbly prays that your Honorable House will not allow the said Bill to be read a second time, without provision be made therein for the payment of the said Mortgage, or that your Honorable House will grant Petitioner such relief in the premises as it shall deem advisable.

And Petitioner will ever pray.

Dated this 26th day of April, A. D. 1865.

1865.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.
NEW SOUTH WALES.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

FISHERIES BILL.

FRIDAY, 7 APRIL, 1865.

Present:—

MR. BUCHANAN, | MR. DRIVER,
MR. OATLEY.

RICHARD DRIVER, JUN., ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

Mr. Peter Richardson called in and examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You have been engaged for many years as a fisherman in this harbour? Yes, for the last eight and twenty years. Mr. Peter Richardson.
2. In net fishing? Yes, working with a line and net. 7 April, 1865.
3. You have devoted your attention principally to net fishing, have you not? Yes.
4. Has your attention been directed to the Bill now referred to this Select Committee? Yes.
5. In your opinion, is such a Bill necessary for the protection of the fishery here? I think it is.
6. Does your knowledge of the harbour and of fishing-places near the harbour, enable you to state whether fish have decreased within the last few years or not? Yes, they have.
7. Very considerably? Yes.
8. To what do you attribute that decrease? The small mesh that has been worked.
9. What do you consider a small mesh? They have been in the habit of working a three-quarter-inch mesh up the Lane Cove and Parramatta River.
10. Do I understand you that many persons have been employed in using this small mesh? Yes, I can count twelve or fourteen who have been using it winter and summer—from sixty to seventy fathoms of three-quarter mesh.
11. What effect has the use of this small mesh upon the small fish? Why, I myself, when I used it, have caught ten or twelve bushels of small guard fish, mullet, or bream, that were not saleable, and that I have left dead on the beach; in fact, the heat of the water would kill them when we got them into the shoal, and it was no use chucking them in.
12. If a larger mesh were used would these fish escape? Yes, certainly they would.
13. And afterwards become valuable fish for the market? Yes, next winter they would be a saleable fish.
14. Have you seen any quantity of fish destroyed in the way you have mentioned? Yes, I have—a large quantity; and I have destroyed a deal myself when I have been prawning up the river.
15. You have read the first paragraph of the Bill, dividing the year into summer and winter months? Yes.
16. Do you consider that a fair proposal for the fishermen themselves? Yes, I think so.
17. That is, that the winter months should comprise the period from the 1st May to the 30th September—would you desire any alteration in that? Yes, I think four months would be long enough for the small mesh.
18. From the 1st May to the 31st August? Yes, from the 1st May to the 31st August the sea guard fish come in to spawn.

- Mr. Peter Richardson.
7 April, 1865.
19. What, in your opinion, would be a fair length for a hauling net? We never worked more than ninety fathoms.
20. Would not that be a fair length—that is, thirty in the bunt, and thirty on each wing? Yes.
21. By Mr. Oatley: What difference would it make whether you had ninety or a hundred fathoms; that is, supposing you had thirty fathoms in the bunt, of what importance would it be whether the wings were thirty or fifty fathoms each? None at all, but ninety fathoms is long enough for a man to work.
22. It is the bunt that is the chief thing? Yes.
23. By the Chairman: What would be a fair sized mesh for the bunt in the winter months? An inch and a quarter mesh, not to be less than one inch when wet. Here (producing a portion of net) is the inch and quarter when dry, and this will take a full grown guard fish. Here (producing a smaller specimen) is what the upper river fishermen use.
24. You think it should be an inch and a quarter when dry? Yes, because we buy our twine at different shops, and some fills up more than other, so that there might be two or three fathoms of the net smaller than the rest.
25. Would an inch and a quarter be large enough for any purpose in the winter months? Yes, but it takes up a deal when it gets wet.
26. For the wings, when wet, what would you say—in the winter months? Two inches.
27. In the summer months what would be a fair sized mesh for the bunt? Two inches when wet.
28. For the wings? Two and a half.
29. Can you give the Committee any information with respect to stalling? Yes, I can—that ought to be done away with above all things.
30. Why? It has destroyed a great many fish. I have myself killed a hundred and fifty or two hundred bushels, and have taken away only six or seven and twenty, and have left the rest on the flat.
31. Does it not frequently happen, in cases of stalling, that a larger quantity of fish is destroyed than is actually brought to market? Yes; I have been out to Botany myself several times, and have seen such a thing as a hundred bushels left dead—small black fish, bream, and tarwhine.
32. You think the practice of stalling tends in a great measure to the destruction of fish? It certainly does.
33. Have you, in the course of your experience, visited Lake Macquarie? No, I never was there; Chamberlain has been there.
34. Broken Bay? Yes, I have been there repeatedly.
35. Have you seen the parties of fishermen at Broken Bay? There are only the Sydney fishermen.
36. Are there no Chinamen? They have no boats or nets—they buy their fish from the Sydney fishermen.
37. The fish in Broken Bay and in this harbour have greatly diminished? Yes.
38. And you attribute that principally to the use of the small mesh? Yes.
39. Do you desire to make any further statement with respect to this Bill? No.

---

Mr. Major Lee called in and examined:—

- Mr. Major Lee.
7 April, 1865.
40. By the Chairman: You are a fisherman? Yes.
41. How long have you been engaged in fishing? About five and thirty years.
42. In this harbour? About thirty years in this harbour, or better.
43. Has your attention been directed to the Bill now before Parliament, with reference to the protection of our fisheries? Yes.
44. Has the supply of fish fallen off within the last few years? It has a deal—a deal through that net you have got in your hand (referring to the small mesh handed in by Mr. Richardson).
45. Do you think the small mesh used by fishermen has anything to do with it? It has up the river.
46. What do you think would be a fair sized mesh for use in the winter months? About an inch and a quarter, or an inch when wet.
47. An inch and a quarter would be quite sufficient for all purposes? For all purposes; my mesh is almost two inches.
48. Would an inch and a quarter mesh be sufficient for all purposes of fishing in the winter months? In the winter months, for guard fish.
49. If sufficient for guard fish, would it not catch anything else? Yes, it would big fish. What fish we catch in the harbour with the small mesh is of no use; we only catch hardy-heads, and such like. A good deal are destroyed by stalling—by running the nets across the heads of bays; I have destroyed a great quantity through that myself—I will speak the truth.
50. Fish that would otherwise become marketable fish? Yes; young bream, black-fish, whiting, and all sorts that would become good fish. You leave the net, it goes dry, and then all these fish die.
51. What is the size of that mesh when wet (referring to the specimen produced by Mr. Richardson)? You could not shove a tobacco pipe through it.
52. It is the use of such a net as this that destroys the fish? Yes, it would kill everything—all the small fish that is not fit for use.

53. What would be a fair sized mesh in the summer months? Two and three inch mesh for any sort.
54. Two inches in the bunt when wet? Yes.
55. Would that be sufficient for all purposes? Yes, for all purposes.
56. Do you think the fishermen themselves would object to the size you have named? No, they could not.
57. Either for the winter or for the summer months? They could not, unless they spoke against their consciences. That net is fit only to catch little bits of things.
58. By Mr. Oatley: For catching guard-fish, what length in the bunt do you think the net ought to be in the winter months? Twenty-five or thirty fathoms; but I have caught as many guard fish as I ever did in my life with a bunt of four or five fathoms—that was with guard fish stuff.
59. I am speaking about the bunt where the mesh is inch and a quarter, and you say you think twenty-five fathoms is sufficient? Yes, because that serves to catch big fish as well.
60. It makes no difference what length the wings are? No, it does not—the longer the better.
61. By the Chairman: Would ninety fathoms be a fair length? Yes; our net is about a hundred fathoms.
62. By Mr. Oatley: The bunt is the chief thing—if the bunt be confined to twenty-five fathoms, it will be a matter of indifference whether the wings are thirty or fifty fathoms? No, the bunt is the matter.
63. By the Chairman: Have you any suggestions to offer to the Committee about stalling—you say it is very injurious? Yes, it is; it kills all sorts of fish—they are destroyed in heaps and heaps.
64. By Mr. Oatley: Your opinion is that it ought not to be allowed? It did not ought to. I wish you would put a license on the fishermen; it would be £300 a year to the Government. There is a lot that fish who, if they cannot fish, frighten them away.
65. You think every person who works a net ought to be compelled to take out a license? Yes.

Mr. Major
Lee.

7 April, 1865

Mr. Michael Solomon called in and examined:—

66. By the Chairman: You are a fisherman? Yes.
67. How long have you been engaged in fishing? About twenty years.
68. Both netting and line? Yes—principally netting.
69. We have been told that the fish have fallen off in quantity within the last few years? Yes, that is quite true; it is in regard of the small mesh that has been worked for catching them.
70. In that way you account for the falling off? Yes.
71. Do you require a smaller mesh in winter than in summer? Yes.
72. That is for the purpose of enabling you to catch guard fish? Yes.
73. You depend principally upon guard fish for your supply in the winter months? Yes.
74. And for that reason you think the mesh should be somewhat smaller in winter than in summer? Yes.
75. During what months? May, June, July, and August, are the months when they are generally in.
76. Four months of the year? Yes; there are a great many about this month, but they are very small.
77. By Mr. Oatley: You would have the season commence the 1st of May, and end the 31st August? Yes.
78. By the Chairman: What would be a fair sized mesh for the winter months? About an inch mesh.
79. Do you mean an inch when dry? No, an inch when wet.
80. Would not an inch and a quarter when wet be a fair size? Yes,* for the sea guard fish, but it would let a good many of the river guard fish go by.
81. Would not the use of an inch mesh destroy a large quantity of fish? Not so many as that (referring to the specimen produced by Mr. Richardson).
82. By Mr. Oatley: Do you not think it would be fair to have a mesh of an inch and a quarter when wet? Yes, but it would let go a good saleable fish.
83. By the Chairman: What would be a fair length for the bunt—how many fathoms? Thirty fathoms, that would be quite plenty of an inch and a quarter mesh.
84. During the summer months what would be a fair sized mesh for the bunt when wet? Two inches.
85. By Mr. Oatley: What size for the wings in the winter months? About two inches.
86. And in the summer months? From two to two and a half inches.
87. By the Chairman: Have you seen stalling carried on to any extent? Yes, I have.
88. Has that the effect of destroying the fish? Yes, nearly as much as the small meshes.
89. Have you not occasionally seen large quantities of valuable fish destroyed by stalling? Yes, and I have helped to do it myself.
90. You think it ought never to be allowed? I think it ought not.
91. Will you state, as shortly as you can, how stalling has been carried on? I have seen them shoot from 250 to 300 fathoms of net across the head of a bay about half a mile wide

Mr. Michael Solomon.

7 April, 1865.

* Revised:—Inch mesh for sea guard fish, and inch and quarter for river guard fish.

- Mr. Michael Solomon.
7 April, 1865.
- wide and a mile in length, and then draw it up to the flats with twenty or thirty bushels of fish; they have then picked out three or four bushels of the best fish, such as bream and whiting, and left the rest to die.
92. Have you not seen fish taken in this manner kept confined by the net for two or three days, and taken out and brought to market as required? Yes, I have known them to be kept for a week.
93. Would those fish be as good as if they were just caught? No, they would be soft and flabby as if they had been parboiled. I have had my net across Little Sugar Loaf in Middle Harbour for five days.
94. Have you seen fish in any quantity brought for sale in a state not fit for food? Yes, in winter time, bad fish from Broken Bay, caught early in the morning or too late for the dealers, taken back and brought the next day.
95. Those fish have afterwards been sold, and consumed by the inhabitants of Sydney? Yes. Sometimes twenty or thirty bushels have been brought up from Wollongong, which have been caught the previous night; these have been brought in by the steamer, and have not been fit for food.
96. Do you not think some provision should be made to stop the sale of such fish? Yes, there ought to be.
97. Do you think the establishment of a fish market would prevent it? I think it would be a very good thing—it would be the means of the inhabitants of Sydney getting fresh fish.
98. With reference to the small mesh, have you seen a net of this description used (referring to the specimen produced by Mr. Richardson)? Yes, and worked it myself all the winter.
99. Do you not think it very improper? Yes, it kills a great quantity of little whiting, bream, tarwhine, and so on, not fit for market. Other fishermen are doing it the year right through.

Mr. William Chamberlain called in and examined:—

- Mr. William Chamberlain.
7 April, 1865.
100. By the Chairman: You are a fisherman? Yes.
101. And have been so some years? Yes, the last eighteen years.
102. Working principally with a net? Yes.
103. Have you observed any decrease in the supply of fish the last few years? Yes, a great decrease.
104. To what do you attribute that decrease? To stalling, and the small mesh.
105. Do you think any difference should be made in the size of the mesh used in winter and in summer months? Yes.
106. You require a smaller mesh during the winter months? Yes, for guard fish.
107. You depend during the winter months principally upon guard fish for your supply? Yes.
108. What would be a fair sized mesh for the bunt of a net in the winter months? Not less than one inch.
109. When wet? Yes.
110. By Mr. Oatley: Do you not think an inch and a quarter quite small enough? Some twine takes up more than other.
111. If you had inch mesh it would kill very small fish? Inch and a quarter kills only fair sized guard fish; only some twine takes up more of the mesh than other, and it would not be fair to condemn a man for a fathom of net.
112. By the Chairman: What length of bunt would you require? About thirty fathoms.
113. Would a two inch mesh be a fair size for the wings in the winter? Yes.
114. Two inch mesh in the bunt when wet, and two and a half or three inches in the wings? Yes.
115. Have you seen large quantities of fish destroyed by stalling? Yes, and I have helped to do it myself.
116. You think that should be put a stop to? Yes, because we are obliged to kill all that are caught; those that are not taken to market are left till the tide leaves them, and they die on the flats.
117. Fish that have been stalled are kept sometimes two days before they are brought into market? Yes, in the winter time.
118. The net is shot round them? Yes, in certain places where the tide does not leave them altogether.
119. They are brought into market? Yes.
120. Have you seen fish taken in this way brought into market in a condition unfit for food? Yes, frequently.
121. And by stalling you think larger quantities of fish are destroyed than are actually brought into market for sale? Yes.
122. In the majority of cases? In the majority of cases.
123. Do you think the establishment of a fish market necessary? Yes, I think it would be of great service—it is what is required very much.
124. Do you think the supply would be more regular if a fish market were established? Yes; for many who go into the different bays and fish, now sell their fish in the neighbourhood of those bays, but if there were a market they would bring them to town.
125. The fishermen who catch the fish are compelled to depend upon the dealers and hawkers to purchase them? Yes.
126. By Mr. Oatley: Were you fishing during the time the Fishing Company had a market here? Yes.

127. That failed, did it not? Yes.
128. To what do you attribute that? To their outlay—the wages they were paying. course they got people that were not qualified for fishing—they were all strangers.
129. By the Chairman: You have fished at Lake Macquarie and Broken Bay? Yes.
130. With a net in both places? Yes.
131. Are many parties fishing in Lake Macquarie now? Four or five parties of Chinamen.
132. Are they in the habit of using this small net? Yes.
133. They do a great deal of stalling? No; they work 300 or 400 fathoms of net, and they kill a great quantity of fish of which they make no use, for they do not use small fish.
134. They carry on stalling to a large extent? I have seen no stalling there, but only hauling with large nets and small meshes.
135. Do they not generally put three or four nets together? Each party has three or four boats, and they join together and work a very large sized net.
136. They destroy large quantities of fish? Yes.
137. Fish that are not brought to market, but left to die and rot upon the beach? Yes.

Of Chamberlain.

STAMP DUTIES.

(PETITION—MAITLAND BUILDING AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY.)

---

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 4 May, 1865.

---

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The Petition of the undersigned Members of the Maitland Building and Investment Society,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

That your Petitioners have observed with regret that, in the measure for imposing Stamp Duties now under the consideration of your Honorable House, provision has not been made to exempt therefrom conveyances and mortgages of Building Societies.

That while your Petitioners recognize the wisdom of the Government, in proposing to resort to direct in preference to indirect taxation, to obtain additional revenue, they would respectfully suggest that, as Building Societies foster habits of care and industry, and materially aid the formation of a numerous and thrifty class of freeholders, sound policy would dictate the expediency of exempting them from taxes which may tend to check their extension and usefulness.

That notwithstanding the much greater necessity for revenue which exists in Great Britain and Ireland, Building Societies are there freed from taxes of this character.

Your Petitioners, therefore, humbly pray that your Honorable House will take the premises into its favorable consideration, and grant such relief as may seem to it just and proper under the circumstances.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray.

STAMP DUTIES.
(PETITION—HUNTER BUILDING AND INVESTMENT SOCIETY.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 9 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned,—

SHREWETH:—

That your Petitioners are members of the "Hunter Building and Investment Society," held at Morpeth.

That this society was promoted for the purpose of enabling its members to purchase their dwellings by small monthly payments to the society.

That in each individual case, the borrower is compelled to have two conveyances at one and the same time, viz.—one from the seller, and the other (the mortgage) to the society.

That your Petitioners view with serious apprehension, the great increase of expenses which must take place if the proposed Stamp Duties come into operation, by imposing a double tax upon every purchase made by the borrowing members of this society.

That in the United Kingdom, the Legislature, having in view the great social advantages of such societies as the one in which your Petitioners are members, by teaching its members thrifty habits, and enabling each member to obtain his own freehold dwelling, have totally exempted every member of a Land and Building Society registered under the Friendly Societies' Act, from the payment of all Stamp Duties in the conveyance of property.

That your Petitioners are unlike the wealthy classes, who purchase property simply as an investment for their surplus funds.

That your Petitioners, therefore, hope your Honorable House will give the working classes, members of Building Societies, the same advantages which the members of kindred institutions in the United Kingdom enjoy, by introducing a clause exempting the members of such societies from the operation of the proposed Stamp Duties.

And your Petitioners, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c., &c., &c.

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 9 June, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.

The humble Petition of the undersigned,—

SHEWETH:—

That your Petitioners are members of the Newcastle Investment and Building Society, held at Newcastle.

That this Society was established for the purpose of enabling its members to purchase their dwellings by small monthly payments to the Society.

That your Petitioners view with serious apprehension the great increase of expenses which must ensue if the proposed Stamp Duties come into operation, by imposing an additional tax upon every purchase made by the borrowing members of this Society.

That in the United Kingdom, the Legislature, having in view the social advantages of such Societies, have totally exempted Building Societies, registered under the Friendly Societies Act, from the payment of all Stamp Duties in the conveyance of property.

That your Petitioners, therefore, hope your Honorable House will give the members of Building Societies in this Colony, similar advantages to those which have been granted to members of kindred institutions in the United Kingdom, by inserting a clause exempting the members of such Societies from the operation of the proposed Stamp Duties.

And your Petitioners, as in duty-bound, will ever pray, &amp;c., &amp;c., &amp;c.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

AUSTRALIAN PAPER COMPANY'S BILL.

THURSDAY, 20 APRIL, 1865.

Present:—

- Mr. CALDWELL, Mr. KEMP, Mr. COWPER, Mr. LUCAS, Mr. SUTHERLAND.

THE HON. CHARLES COWPER, Esq., IN THE CHAIR.

William Deane, Esq., appeared as Solicitor for the Promoters of the Bill.

Rowan Ronald, Esq., examined by Mr. Deane:—

- 1. Has a Joint Stock Company, called the Australian Paper Company, been lately established at Sydney, in the Colony of New South Wales? It has.
2. Are you the Secretary to that Company? I am.
3. Has it been established under and subject to the rules regulations and provisions contained in a certain indenture or deed of settlement bearing date the first day of July in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-four purporting to be a deed of settlement of the said Company? It has.
4. Do you produce that deed of settlement? I do. (The witness produced the same.)
5. And whereas by the said indenture or deed of settlement the several parties thereto have respectively and mutually covenanted and agreed to be and continue (until dissolved under the provisions in that behalf therein contained) as a Joint Stock Company or partnership under the name style and title of 'The Australian Paper Company' for the purpose of carrying on the business of making and manufacturing paper of every description or kind in the Australasian Colonies and also such other Colonies or countries as may be determined upon as in the said deed of settlement is provided and also of purchasing and importing the necessary materials for the making and manufacturing of the same and also of selling disposing of and exporting such paper when so made and manufactured and to hire build or purchase suitable premises and to erect the necessary machinery for the carrying on of all such operations and works and from time to time to hire and employ all necessary agents clerks officers workmen servants and apprentices—Is that the object of the Company? It is.
6. And whereas it was by the said indenture or deed of settlement further agreed that the capital of the Company should consist of twenty-five thousand pounds to be contributed in five thousand shares of five pounds each and of such further sum not exceeding the sum of twenty-five thousand pounds as a majority of the shareholders for the time being shall at a general meeting called for that purpose determine to be raised by the creation and allotment or sale of new shares of the like amount as therein provided—Is that another provision of the deed of settlement? It is.

R. Ronald, Esq.

30 April, 1865.

- R. Ronald, Esq.
30 April, 1865.
7. "And whereas by the said indenture or deed of settlement provision has been made for the payment of dividends and for the disposal and application of the profits and also for the due management of the affairs of the said Company"—Is that provided for? Yes.
  8. How much capital has been paid up? Five calls have been made of 5s. each; the money has been called for merely as required.
  9. How many shareholders are there? 135 shareholders, representing 3,200 shares. We have not sold any more shares, and do not wish, though the whole were applied for, and more.
  10. By Mr. Lucas: How much has been paid up? All that has been required. There have been five calls of 5s. each.
  11. 25 per cent. has been paid up on the capital subscribed? Yes.
  12. Do you find the calls pretty regularly paid? Yes.
  13. Have the Company taken any steps for carrying on the objects proposed? Yes; we have purchased premises at Collingwood, and have paid for them, and have sent to England for machinery, which we expect immediately.
  14. By Mr. Caldwell: £4,000 has been paid up? Yes.
  15. Why did you not sell the rest of the shares? We had no occasion for more.
  16. By Mr. Lucas: Would it not be better to sell the rest of the shares and to make fewer calls? No, we have no wish to do so.
  17. Have you any objection to tell your reason for not selling out? We anticipate that it will be more beneficial to the Company to sell the shares by-and-by.
  18. Did you not in your prospectus invite the public to apply for 5,000 shares? Yes, and we could not refuse any others who might like to apply.
  19. Did you not say that you had more applicants for shares than you had shares to dispose of? Yes.
  20. Why did you not sell? Because the Directors thought a number of the applicants were men who could not pay up.
  21. Did you allot shares to them, and require them to pay? Yes.
  22. To the amount of 1,800—did they refuse to comply? Yes, I dare say they did.
  23. Can you not speak positively? I cannot without reference.
  24. Why were not the other 1,800 shares taken up? Perhaps it was thought that the names of several of the applicants were not very advantageous names for our Company, and others did not pay the money.
  25. Who had the allotting of shares? A Committee, previously to the election of Directors.
  26. Who were the Committee? Mr. Burnell, Mr. Edward Hunt, Capt. Moodie, Mr. Spcer, and Mr. Rundle; I think these were present at the allotment of the shares.
  27. You mean to say that you did allot the 5,000? We allotted the 5,000.
  28. There were some names that were thought to be very objectionable? Yes.
  29. Nevertheless they were prepared to pay the calls? No; they were called upon by circular, and they neglected to pay, and we had no wish to go to them again, as we had sufficient funds for all purposes, and we intended to sell these shares by-and-by.
  30. To sell them at a premium? To sell them at a premium, for the benefit of the Company. We do not refuse applications—we submit them to the Directors.
  31. And perhaps the Directors make some excuse that the applicants are objectionable, or that the money may not be paid up? That has not taken place yet; we had applications only last month, and shares were allotted.
  32. By Mr. Kemp: Who are the Directors? Mr. Burnell, Mr. Church, Mr. Eldred, Mr. Edward Hunt, and Mr. R. Peel Raymond.
  33. What remuneration do they get? £250 a year.
  34. Among the lot? Yes.
  35. By Mr. Lucas: Is that in the deed of settlement? Yes, it is.
  36. Was this deed of settlement passed at a general meeting of the shareholders? Yes; published fourteen days in the papers.
  37. Have any of the original shareholders sold out? Not one.
  38. Have you any objection to have a clause inserted in the Act, to prevent the original shareholders selling out within a period of one or of two years? I should think no objection at all.
  39. Would there be any difficulty in allotting the remaining 1,800 shares? I do not think we could allot them at all at present.
  40. Nevertheless, you say you had applications for the whole? Yes, we had; but they did not pay up their deposit, and there was a limited time—they had only fourteen days to do it in.
  41. Do you not think it would be better to extend the term over fourteen days? I quite believe if any of the old applicants were to apply now, the Directors would allot them, but I think they would charge interest.
  42. By the Chairman: You have the power of dealing with them in any way—of allotting them and charging interest? Yes; and I think there is no objection to allot shares.
  43. By Mr. Lucas: You think the Company has no objection to insert a clause to prevent original shareholders selling their shares within twelve months or two years? There is a clause now that no one can sell shares without the approval of the Directors. I cannot speak of the mind of the Directors, but I do not think —
  44. You being the Secretary, can communicate with the Directors, and give us the information? Yes.
  45. By the Chairman: You said you had paid for the buildings? Yes, £2,350; that has been paid in cash.
  46. Those are the premises now occupied for the Company? Yes.
  47. And you have made arrangements for carrying on operations immediately the machinery arrives? Yes.

48. When do you expect it? Within three months. It has been ordered, and £8,000 has been remitted on the personal responsibility of the Directors. Until we got an Act we could not do otherwise, but when we get an Act we can act as a corporation. The purchase was made in the name of trustees. R. Ronald, Esq. 30 April, 1865.
49. By Mr. Kemp: You say several shares were allotted that were not taken up? Yes, a good many.
50. When you applied to those who had not paid up, did they assign any reason? Some said, "We will see how you get on, and if you get on, we will then take up the shares." Others gave no reason, but they did not pay.
51. By Mr. Lucas: The Directors are entitled to receive £250 a year? Yes, but there is an agreement or a minute that they shall take nothing the first year.
52. There is a minute to that effect? Yes, I believe there is; but at all events, there is a decided agreement.
53. By Mr. Kemp: But any new Directors might object to that? The present Directors are elected for twelve months.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE

TAKEN BEFORE

THE SELECT COMMITTEE

ON THE

PARRAMATTA MARKET BILL.

FRIDAY, 5 MAY, 1865.

Present:—

|              |  |                 |
|--------------|--|-----------------|
| MR. FARNELL, |  | MR. RODD,       |
| MR. NEALE,   |  | MR. PEMELL,     |
| MR. TIGHE,   |  | MR. SUTHERLAND. |

JAMES S. FARNELL, ESQ., IN THE CHAIR.

William Vallack, Esq., called in and examined:—

1. By the Chairman: You are acting as Principal Under Secretary to the Government?
Yes.
2. Do you produce any documents from the office of the Colonial Secretary, relating to the Parramatta Market? I have them here.
3. Will you be kind enough to explain the nature of those documents? The market was established by a notice dated 1st January, 1841, under the Act of Council 3rd Victoria, No. 19, and the number of Commissioners was fixed at five. Another notice, dated 25th January, 1841, fixed the 23rd February as the day for the election of Commissioners, and appointed Scrutineers. Commissioners were, I believe, duly elected, and the market was continued until 1862. At that time a report was received from the Secretary to the Commissioners, stating that, on the day of election, in 1862, no householders or occupiers had voted in accordance with the 10th section of the Act already alluded to, no notice having been posted, and in consequence no Commissioners were appointed; and inquiring what was to be done. The Attorney General of the time gave his opinion to this effect:—
“It seems to me that, under the circumstances herein stated, the powers of the Commissioners expired at the end of the three years from their election; and as no elections have taken place under the powers and within the period mentioned in the Act, the whole matter must lapse in law, there being no such lawful functionaries as ‘Commissioners pro. tem.’ as suggested.” It was suggested that the last Commissioners should continue in office, but the Attorney General advised, as above, that they could not do so; and from that time there have been no Commissioners. There is a further opinion of the Attorney General of the time, in which he says,—“I gather from all these papers that the Commissioners under 3rd Victoria, No. 19, are de facto and de jure defunct, and that no restoration of any such body can take place without the actual consent of the Governor and Executive Council, and under the proceedings mentioned in that Act.”
4. Has there been any application from the Mayor of Parramatta on the subject? No application from the Mayor of Parramatta; but in this letter of the Secretary to the Commissioners, it is stated that the Municipal Council of Parramatta had taken steps to have the market, if possible, placed under the management of the Corporation.
5. Has there been any application from the Chairman of the Municipality of Parramatta, asking the Government to bring in a Bill, or take steps to transfer the market to them?
No.

W. Vallack,
Esq.

5 May, 1865.

MINUTES OF EVIDENCE TAKEN BEFORE THE SELECT COMMITTEE

- W. Vallack, Esq.
5 May, 1865.
6. Are the Municipal Council of Parramatta in a position to collect any dues from the market at present? No.
7. Under the circumstances, do you consider it expedient to transfer the Parramatta Market to the Municipal Council? There is nothing in the papers to shew any objection to it. I do not know anything about it myself, except from the papers.
8. Are you aware whether there is any objection on the part of the Government to transfer the market? I should imagine not. It is a case something similar to that of the Bathurst Market, which was transferred by Act to the Corporation.

James Byrnes, Esq., M.P., examined:—

- J. Byrnes, Esq., M.P.
5 May, 1865.
9. By the Chairman: You are Mayor of the Municipal Council of Parramatta? I am.
10. You are, on behalf of the Council, the promoter of this Bill? I am.
11. Will you have the kindness to state to the Committee in what position the Parramatta Market now is? Perhaps I had better inform the Committee that, in the first instance, I was requested, by a resolution of the Parramatta Municipal Council, to take steps in order to have the market at Parramatta placed under their control, according to the intention of the 72nd clause of the Municipalities Act, which says that the Council of any Municipality may make by-laws for (amongst other things) "the regulation of markets, market dues, fairs, and sales."
12. Does that clause give the Council power to deal with the Parramatta Market in its present position? Not as it has stood heretofore. According to the Market Act, the market was placed under the control and management of trustees elected by certain householders in the town of Parramatta—
13. By Mr. Tighe: The general Market Act? The general Market Act—and it remained so for several years. I think in 1862, by some irregularity in reference to the elections, the whole affair lapsed. Prior to this, the market dues were let to a person named John Haslam, who continued to exact dues under the Market Act for some time after it had been discovered that there were no longer trustees to deal with the question; and although he discontinued taking dues, he has continued from that time to the present in possession of the market-place and buildings, and a large weighing machine. From the weighing machine he derives a revenue by weighing cart-loads or dray-loads of hay, straw, and other produce; and neither the Municipal Council of Parramatta, nor any other body corporate, nor any individual, has any power, under existing regulations, to call him to account.
14. By the Chairman: Then he pays no rent, although he holds possession of the property? He enjoys the residence, a large market-house, and the use of this weighing machine and the property generally, without paying rent or toll to any person; and he is at this time in possession of a balance of rent due to the old Commissioners, which there is no means of obtaining from him unless this Bill passes. As this property and revenue belong to the town, the Municipal Council consider it desirable that I should apply to Parliament for a Bill, which Bill is now before the Committee.
15. Do you know what amount of revenue would be likely to be derivable from the Parramatta Market? I do not.
16. Do you know what was the amount of rent agreed to be paid by this person that is in possession of the market? If my memory serves me, it was £100 a year.
17. Did I understand you to state the time he has had possession of this market? No, I do not know the time. The old Commissioners are scattered; one of them is in Maitland, and another dead, and one or two are in Parramatta, but I have not had any particular communication with them. They can take no steps in the matter, and the Municipal Council thought the shortest way to deal with the thing was, to apply to Parliament. The old state of things could only be revived by an appeal to Parliament; and as all these establishments are properly placed under the control of the municipal institutions under the present Municipalities Act, we thought it more desirable it should go into the proper channel than into other hands.
18. Do I understand you to say that, under the present Municipalities Act, the Municipal Council have no power to deal with this market? Certainly not, because the Market Act (under which this market was established) provides that it shall be managed by Commissioners, elected by the inhabitants of the town.
19. Are you aware that a Bill was introduced into Parliament by Mr. Cowper, for the purpose of amending the present Municipalities Act? Yes.
20. Was there not a provision in that Bill which would have secured to the Municipality what the Bill now before the Committee is intended to do? No, I am not aware of it. At all events, that Bill is not now before the House. I may point out to the Committee that, during last session, there was a similar Bill to this passed, for the specific purpose of placing the market of Bathurst in the hands of the Municipal Council there, the same sort of thing having occurred in that district as occurred in Parramatta.
21. Then you are not aware that, by the provisions of a Bill introduced by Mr. Cowper into the Assembly, it was intended to cure a defect in the present Municipalities, by empowering the Executive Council to authorize Municipal Councils to take upon themselves the charge of markets established in their respective districts? I am not aware that it would affect this case, inasmuch as this market was established by an Act of Parliament, and that Act would have to be repealed before the new Municipalities Act could take effect. At present, for all purposes connected with the establishment of markets in municipal towns, the present Act would answer all purposes required.

22. That is, if the Corporation itself established a market? Yes.
23. But where a market has been already established under another Act, the Municipalities have no power to deal with it? None whatever.
24. Do you believe it would be to the advantage of the inhabitants of the town of Parramatta to transfer this market to the Municipality? It would be an advantage to the whole district. Produce being brought into the town, persons would have some place where they would be protected by law, to take their produce to for sale. At present there is no place.
25. Then, if I rightly understand you, it is not only the loss of revenue which could be derived from this market, but also an inconvenience to the inhabitants both of the town and district of Parramatta? Precisely so. I would draw your attention to the 82nd clause of the Municipalities Act, which is as follows:—"Nothing herein shall authorize the interference by any Council with any public road railway bridge ferry cemetery market wharf aqueduct public place or building whatsoever not formed constructed or erected by such Council which may be excepted from the jurisdiction of such Council by any proclamation made or to be made by the Governor with the advice aforesaid or respecting which provision shall have been or shall be made by any Act of Council or of Parliament." So that the Municipal Council are precluded from dealing with this except under special legislation.
26. By Mr. Tighe: I suppose the Municipal Council of Parramatta seek for no other power or authority over this market than to use it as such? No, certainly not.
27. Has it occurred to you that this Bill proposes to make an absolute unconditional gift of it to the Council—not to be held in trust, as is usual in all similar cases, but simply to make an absolute gift of it? To the Council as a corporate body. It will be held in trust.
28. Do you think this Bill will provide sufficiently for that? It is the intention; they can only hold it as a body corporate.
29. It seems to me that, as this Bill is worded, it makes an absolute gift of it, whereby the Council could by their own resolution divert it to any purpose they pleased, or even sell it or mortgage it? They can mortgage any property placed in their hands for municipal purposes—the rates, or any property they have in their hands, whether it be market dues, or rates arising from assessment of the town, or water rates, or sewerage rates.
30. Can they mortgage the land? Not the freehold—it will be held in trust for the benefit of the town.
31. That is the intention? Yes. They can only deal with it under the Act of Parliament, and the mode is laid down by the Municipalities Act.
32. Have you read the Bathurst Market Bill? I think I have.
33. You do not seek or desire any power except what is given to the Bathurst Municipality? Nothing further, except the recovery of the dues that are held.
34. In that Act they merely transfer the property in trust to the Council, subject to the several purposes and provisions of the Municipalities Act of 1858? I am quite satisfied that that should be done in this case; the Corporation only desire to hold it as a body, and for corporate purposes.

EXCHANGE OF LAND, SCOTS CHURCH, LEGALIZING BILL.

(PETITION—DR. FULLERTON.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 25 May, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled.
The Petition of the undersigned,—

RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

1. That Petitioner has heard, that a Bill to legalize the exchange of a portion of the allotment of the Scots' Church, Sydney, has been introduced in your Honorable House, and the proposed exchange appears to Petitioner to be an unjust alienation of trust property.

2. The said allotment was granted for the use of the Presbyterians of Sydney, in all future time, and it is not competent for any of the present occupants to solicit the alienation of any portion of the said grant. It is not private, but trust property.

3. The said allotment is part of the trust property, which was, by a recent Act of the Colonial Parliament, invested in the proposed General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in New South Wales, and ought not at present to be interfered with.

4. The exchange proposed is impracticable. Dr. John Dunmore Lang is the sole surviving trustee of the allotment of the Scots' Church, and he is also proprietor of the land to be given in exchange for part of that allotment. The passing of the proposed Bill would enable him to appropriate the trust property; but it cannot give him power to convey land to himself.

5. On the portion of the Scots' Church allotment which it is proposed to alienate, there is the greater part of two valuable houses, built in part with the money of the shareholders of what was once called the Australian College; while the triangular bit of land, which it is said would be given in exchange, has no buildings on it, is opposite to a lane, and of very little value.

6. The passing of the proposed Bill will give a legal sanction to Dr. Lang's breach of trust, in alienating the Church Grant for the opening of Jamison-street, and will give great encouragement to other trustees to alienate, for their own benefit, the grants held in trust by them.

Your Petitioner prays that your Honorable House will be pleased to take the premises into your serious consideration, and withhold your sanction from the proposed Bill.

INDIGENOUS PRODUCTIONS.

(PETITION—E. W. RUDDER.)

Ordered by the Legislative Assembly to be Printed, 1 June, 1865.

To the Honorable the Legislative Assembly of New South Wales, in Parliament assembled,
MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONORABLE HOUSE:—

Whereas this Colony abounds in indigenous vegetable productions of great value, both as articles of export and for domestic consumption, as well as for providing new sources of industry—now so much required to increase its prosperity; and whereas these productions are now rapidly disappearing, and will soon be entirely lost to the public, unless immediate steps be taken to secure their preservation: your Petitioner prays your Honorable House, that blocks of land may be set apart throughout the Colony, and dedicated to the preservation of all kinds of indigenous production growing thereupon, till their properties have been investigated; and that such blocks of land may be in various parts of the districts in which they may be selected, so as to secure differences in the altitudes and quality of the soil of the country on which they may be situated, thereby securing the preservation of the greatest possible variety in the productions of the said districts.

Your Petitioner further prays that such blocks of land may be vested in trustees to be appointed in each district, who shall be charged with the preservation of such land and the productions growing thereupon, and cause paths and roads to be made throughout them for the convenience of the public, which shall have free access thereto at all reasonable hours during the day. The ignorance of the public in general as to the value of the productions herein alluded to, and the increase of free selection, and other purchases of land for the purposes of agriculture, involving, as it does, the rapid extermination of all indigenous productions growing upon the rich alluvial lands of the Colony, to make way for the plough.

Your Petitioner prays that no unavoidable delay may take place before the blocks of land alluded to are selected and surveyed. Whereas it is (as your Petitioner believes) highly desirable that the nature and value of such natural productions should be investigated without delay, and made known before greater extermination takes place.

Your Petitioner prays that he may receive the recommendation of your Honorable House to be appointed to conduct such investigation within the district of the Macleay River, (at the public cost) and that such investigations should not only include experimental inquiry into the properties of such as are supposed to be of value for domestic use, home manufacture, and foreign trade, but also as to their productiveness under cultivation.

Your Petitioner prays that such investigations may be made with the sanction of your Honorable House, and that their results may be made known from time to time for the benefit of the public, under the supervision of Her Majesty's Government.

Your Petitioner has forwarded to Sydney specimens of dyes and fibre procured by him from indigenous productions, growing on one small free selection on the Macleay River, (during a visit of ten days) which said specimens are now in the custody of the Honorable William Forster, Esquire, a member of your Honorable House.

Your Petitioner therefore prays that these suggestions, or such other of a like nature as your Honorable House, in its wisdom, may deem most desirable, may be speedily adopted, and such alterations made in the present Land Law as shall enable the Honorable the Minister for Lands to carry them into effect (should the present not be found adequate thereto,) ere greater destruction takes place of valuable productions, and their total loss to the Colony be effected.

And your Petitioner, as in duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

DR. LEICHHARDT.

No. 1.

DR. F. MUELLER to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

*Melbourne Botanic Garden,
22/5/65.*

SIR,

I am honored by the ladies of the Leichhardt's Search Committee with the request of transmitting to you the bye-following letter of their dignified president. I carry out this request with so much greater pleasure, as I have witnessed your generous disposition in rewarding the distinguished services of the venerable Rev. W. B. Clarke; and as I am convinced that it was through your feeling sympathy and powerful decision that the last search for poor Leichhardt, by A. C. Gregory, was instituted. This consciousness, however, should lead me, perhaps least of all, to implore your assistance on behalf of the noble ladies who mean to clear up Leichhardt's fate, and to step before you; for New South Wales has twice expended gubernatorial fund in prosecuting the search for the great scientific traveller; and your Government, moreover, has with magnanimity granted to the poor mother of the missing explorer, an annuity which placed her beyond bodily want in the evening of her age. Nevertheless, I venture to call, on behalf of my lost countryman and scientific colleague—on behalf of the man to whom I am united by the bond of Australian exploration, on you, as the head of the Government of the country from whence he set out, not to allow the toilsome efforts of the Melbourne ladies unaided. Their expedition is likely to reveal the fate of the party, since new traces are found of their movement. The command will be intrusted to a thoroughly safe and efficient man, who, moreover, will understand the high duties devolving on him, and will appreciate the certainty that the whole intellectual world will follow with deep interest his movements. But beyond the claims of humanity, I can advance for the ladies' enterprise that of great practical importance and utility. To a clear-seeing statesman like yourself, it will be but too apparent that, with exploration, settlement will be advanced, and with the spread of settled habitations, the commerce of centres of populations and metropolitan localities especially. The thousands which, in cold and starvation, were carried off during the last severe winter in your own native country, might all have lived had they been brought to our shores for employment in newly inhabited settlements. The party to be fitted out by the ladies will, moreover, traverse from the Darling northward, and thereby even throw additional light on the interior of the territory over which you and your Government rule. We all feel that Queensland—in which almost every mountain system and conflux of rivers speaks of Leichhardt—would bear the main share of the expenditure of this noble philanthropic work; and indeed, support of it has been offered to the ladies. But several thousand pounds will be needed to equip and maintain a party for two years; and as the calls on the revenue of that young Colony must be multifarious, the aid of the other Australian Governments is invoked by the fair apostles of Leichhardt's cause. South Australia, with its usual generosity, has pledged itself to the support of this expedition already. If you allow me to add to the advocacy of this appeal of the ladies, it would be—that whatever you and your honored colleagues may be pleased to do, may be done immediately, in order that the services of Mr. McIntyre, who is designated for the command of the Ladies' Expedition, may not be lost, nor the season most advantageous for bringing the dromedaries to the Leichhardt River. The expedition will be strictly one of search, and Mr. McIntyre has, even beyond his assurance, offered guarantees to that effect. The ladies are actively engaged in obtaining private contributions, and will continue to solicit for such as long as the enterprise lasts. They have laid their case before Her Majesty and several other crowned ladies of Europe, before many ladies of wealth and rank abroad, before many unions of science. But all the accumulating aid thus derived for such a cosmopolitan enterprise will never be superabundant; in the same degree as the means increase, the efficiency of the search must also be augmented; and it is quite possible that the search, should Leichhardt not have fallen near the Flinders River, will require to be extended over several years. If so, however, it will then carry out the great object for which poor Leichhardt risked, and probably lost his life—to map the main features of the great western portion of the interior of the continent—an object which stands yet undone as one of the highest problems of modern geography before us. If Britain sends out its navigators again to traverse the North Pole, assuredly Australia should be stimulated to have the geographical map of its great, rich, and hospitable territory completed; and it will reflect credit of the most luminous and lasting kind on all those who will engage in the accomplishment of this great object, so great, so good, so recommendable to our young nation.

Allow me, Honorable Sir, to remain, with the assurance of my profound veneration,—

Your
FRED. MUELLER.

LADIES' COMMITTEE to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

Melbourne, 8 March, 1865.

SIR,

The recent discovery by Mr. McIntyre of new and important traces of Leichhardt in Northern Australia, having revived public interest in his sad fate, his countryman, Dr. Mueller, was induced to deliver a lecture in this city, on the 9th ultimo, with the object of initiating measures for a renewed search for that distinguished and intrepid explorer.

It was resolved, at that meeting, to form a representative committee of sixteen ladies, two from each religious denomination, to undertake the task of collecting the necessary funds. To this call we have responded, and we earnestly beg that you will kindly aid us in our effort.

We particularly solicit your attention to the accompanying address by Dr. Mueller, in which he most feelingly and eloquently sets forth the importance of the object, and the probability of still finding further traces of Leichhardt. It is estimated that a sum of not less than £3,000 will be required, to fit out a suitable party and maintain it in the field for a period of two years. The proposed enterprise is one which we feel assured will engage the sympathy, not only of all the Australian Colonies, but of the whole civilized world; and it is not our intention to limit our efforts to Victoria alone—Queensland, we think, owes most to the lamented Leichhardt, and we confidently trust that she will shew her solicitude for Australia's honor, and redeem her debt to her great explorer, by contributing a large share of the amount required. It will be our endeavour to enlist the sympathy of the ladies of England, and to secure the co-operation of the leading scientific societies throughout the world.

Remembering the deep debt of gratitude we owe to this illustrious hero, we venture to make this appeal to you, feeling assured that you will not refuse us your kind and liberal aid.

We have the honor to be,

Yours faithfully,—

THE FATE OF DR. LEICHHARDT.

DR. MUELLER gave a lecture on Thursday, 9th instant, at St. George's Hall, to a very large and enthusiastic assembly, on Leichhardt's fate. Mr. Bonwick was invited to take the chair. On the platform, behind the lecturer, were arranged several large maps of Australia, indicating the route which Leichhardt took in his last journey, and the point where all traces of him have been lost. Over the central map was a portrait of the missing traveller. Surrounding the portrait and each of the maps were festoons of evergreens. The lecturer, who was received with applause, spoke as follows:—

By the return of an able explorer from the Gulf of Carpentaria, information has lately been obtained, replete with the profoundest interest, of Leichhardt's fate. Mr. McIntyre, to whom I here allude, has widely extended our knowledge of the movements of that long missing traveller, and has completely disproved the multifarious, and it was thought confirmative, statements of Leichhardt's fall under the hands of the savages near Cooper's Creek. Renewed hopes have thus arisen of our gaining final and conclusive evidence of the fate of the forlorn explorer, and perhaps we may even cherish the thought of being still able, to rescue some of the brave little band from a long and dreadful exile in a distant wilderness. Hence it needs no explanation why, even after the lapse of seventeen years since Leichhardt set out on his enterprise of courage and of peril, an appeal to the sympathy of Australia should be made on his behalf; but I feel it incumbent on me to vindicate the position I ventured to assume in stepping forward to plead Leichhardt's cause. Perhaps I have no other claims to undertake this task than being impelled by dictates of humanity common to us all, and much I could wish that the appeal to you had come from one whose weight of authority and whose eloquence would exercise an influence more powerful than my own. But some space of time has elapsed since Dr. Wilkie and myself drew public attention to the important bearings of Mr. McIntyre's researches on Leichhardt's fate, without any champion appearing for the lost explorers; and on consulting with my honorable friend, we felt that our call should not be suffered to die away, and resolved that it should be renewed in the present demonstration. By nationality, moreover, I am called upon to shew to Leichhardt pre-eminently my sympathy. By studies of the nature of Australia, and by travels through wide tracts of this continent, I followed a plan of life which, though not parallel to his own, has taught me to enter into the depth of his enthusiastic feelings for research, to appreciate the severity of his noble self-imposed labour, to admire the boldness and recognize the fiery impulse which prompted him to enter the field of geographic conquest, on which his expansive talent has been displayed with so much glory. Travels, moreover, through tropical Australia, have left impressed on my imagination pictures of those regions which Leichhardt intended to traverse; they have enabled me to conceive the chances chances of his successes, and to contemplate his probable adversities. And, further, my compassion for Leichhardt, publicly manifested, dates not from any recent day. As early as 1851 I urged, in journals of South Australia, a search for him from the Albert River southward, which, could it have been carried out over an extensive area, might—as now patent—long since have afforded us a clue to Leichhardt's destiny; nor have I ever since missed an opportunity of pressing on universal attention how, in honor, Australia is bound to unveil his fate. These, I feel it right to say, are the claims on which I rest for addressing this assembly. The object, then, for which I solicit your indulgence at this hour is twofold: to shew how far we are entitled still to nourish a hope, however faint, of Leichhardt or any of his followers numbering yet among the living; and secondly, to devise such means as may appear the most effectual for a renewed effort to bring release to him and his followers, or to obtain conclusive evidence of their death. Unquestionably you will ask why, when probably many years ago the poor explorers found a lonely grave in a distant solitude, your aid should now be invoked for their search; and why so long a period was allowed to pass away without expeditions on a comprehensive system being organized, to carry, if possible, relief to our desert wanderers, when clearly, with every passing year, their rescue would become more hopeless. I would reply that successive expeditions, from year to year, held out fair prospects of obtaining tidings of the lost party. Indeed, when, in 1854, the first vague rumour of the destruction of Leichhardt's expedition by savage hordes, near the Barcoo, reached the settlements, Mr. Gideon Lang, one of our fellow citizens, at once set out most gallantly to test the truth of that narrative. The Government of New South Wales soon afterwards, with creditable promptitude, also despatched a party under Mr. Hely's command, to the supposed place of the disaster; but, though the information gained by Mr. Gideon Lang and by Mr. Hovendon Hely was conflicting on many points, and afforded no direct testimony, it tended much to satisfy the colonists that Leichhardt's party must, during the early part of their journey, have fallen victims to the hostility of the natives. Again, in 1855 and 1856, the researches of an expedition despatched by the British Home Government, for geographical discoveries through North Australia—an enterprise in which I shared—held out some hope of securing further intelligence of Leichhardt's movements; and Gregory and his companions would have regarded it the most triumphant of all the achievements that could have crowned their exertions, had it fallen to their lot to shed full light on the causes of Leichhardt's prolonged disappearance. Vain hope; it was not realised! The early ecstasy of our gold epoch having passed away, the Government of New South Wales, not unmindful of the claims of its most undaunted explorer, called, in 1857, Augustus Gregory into the field, to trace anew Leichhardt's steps; but though that distinguished traveller solved during his mission again some problems of highest importance to geography, and traced the unhappy travellers to the Barcoo, he did not solve the mystery of Leichhardt's fate. Then followed the startling movements of that indomitable and persevering traveller, John Macdougall Stuart, intersecting all the latitudinal parallels of Australia, from shore to shore; and, almost simultaneously, that eventful and ever sadly memorable exploit of Burke and Wills, involving the heroic death of its leaders, and succeeded by a series of expeditions, which rendered the names of M'Kinlay, Landsborough, Walker, and Howitt, in Australian geography, illustrious. It is, however, not surprising that, in all these latter travels, the lines of Leichhardt's operations, if they really extended far westward, were not recognized, Walker observing alone a Leichhardtian camp near the junction of the Alice River and Barcoo, and gaining circumstantial, but, seemingly no positive, evidence of Leichhardt's course to the Patrick River, and perhaps further northerly. Unless, indeed, the southern explorer, in crossing Leichhardt's lines, struck accidentally one of his camp localities, they would unconsciously intersect his obliterated tracks, or pass within the shortest distances of his halting-places. How easily, without any direct guidance, the marks of travellers are missed, is singularly shewn in the circumstance of neither Gregory observing the lowest L mark of Leichhardt's on the Barcoo, subsequently noticed in Walker's expedition, nor Landsborough the marked trees lately proved by Mr. M'Intyre to be in existence on the Flinders River, opposite to a spot passed by Landsborough. The glorious years, however, during which, in rapid succession, one great geographic enterprise was followed in Australia by another, seem to have passed away. Private exertions, often limited in resources, and restricted to lines of action more commercial than scientific, have been of late the only exponents of that lofty spirit of inquiry which unveiled enough of the smiling features of Australia to let us long for beholding them in their whole grandeur and virgin beauty. Yet we have reason to be grateful for the vast amount of knowledge continually accumulating from squatting pioneers, which gradually, and surely too, will render known to us the unexplored tracts of the interior. Nevertheless, we cannot but be conscious that the stream of pastoral settlement is much more likely to extend through those regions of fertility in nearer proximity to the coast, whence commerce will be facilitated, than through that far inland country which, on his gradually southern path, Leichhardt intended to traverse. Indeed, many decades are likely to elapse before the lonely spot on which Leichhardt, in his intended far westerly advance, probably perished, will be within the reach of settled occupancy. And at the very moment when, by Mr. M'Intyre's striking discoveries our knowledge of Leichhardt's progress has passed into a new, and we may with safety affirm, more hopeful phase—when we leave his traces, in a fine grassy country, abounding in game—when the unreliability of the traditional accounts of the natives in reference to his fate, has been so plainly demonstrated—and when a feeling for what is right and good moves us onward to immediate measures on Leichhardt's behalf—at this moment we are glancing round in vain for any independent travelling party to follow up the vestiges of the once so justly exalted, and now so unjustly forgotten man. Allow me at this instant to revert to Mr. M'Intyre's records. That traveller, who at once, by his masterly advance into the far northern interior, has earned a lasting fame, felt surprise at seeing in 22° S. and about 1° westward of M'Kinlay's track, the faint traces of horses or cattle on a spot not known to have been traversed by any explorer. Pursuing his course along a new S.W. tributary of the Flinders River, Mr. M'Intyre was still more astonished on finding two horses, grown aged, in undisturbed liberty, while for hundreds of miles around none are known to have been abandoned by any returned traveller. Yet, to the mere fact of these two horses being found at this isolated spot, perhaps no great importance would be attached, had not subsequently the momentous discovery of two Leichhardtian trees, on the eastern main branch of the Flinders River, rendered it sufficiently evident that these animals must have belonged to Leichhardt's expedition. Under any circumstances, the fact of Leichhardt having reached a position on the waters of the Flinders River so far north as 20° S. has been distinctly proved; and thus we see his traces 350 miles from the supposed locality at which the death scene was said to have occurred. Reflection leads us here at once to a series of questions. Did the natives invent their story of the massacre, on which we placed so much reliance, merely to deter future travellers from penetrating into their territory? For what purpose was the singular account of a terrific hailstorm originated and diffused, or can really any credence be attached to the strange tale? Did possibly disasters befall Leichhardt's expedition at or beyond the waters of the Flinders River? And did the loss of the leader compel his associates to adopt the line of their advance as that of their retreat—whereas Leichhardt himself, more likely, in a case of extreme emergency, would have preferred to fall back on the waters of the Burdekin River, to any retrogressive movement—in order to connect the new with his former exploration. And under such anticipations, is it still imaginable that the extraordinary account of Leichhardt's destruction, widely circulated amongst the native tribes on the Barcoo and its affluents, is more than a mere fable? Did the two horses stray away and could not be recovered? Did they gradually wander back from a distant locality? Or are they some of the remnants of the troop dispersed after the travellers were slain in the vicinity? Let us take a more cheering view. From signs, still evident, of these two creatures having severely suffered in carrying their burdens, Mr. M'Intyre deems it not improbable that they were abandoned; although such a fact is not readily reconciled to Leichhardt's caution and prudence, especially when the whole number of horses horses in his possession did not exceed seven, though he had certainly, besides, twenty mules and half a hundred oxen available at the commencement of his journey. If anything was wanting to invalidate the account of the natives, it would be the recent incredible version of Leichhardt's annihilation at Bunderabulla: one so completely in discordance with the narrative on which, as carrying with it much corroboration, we hitherto too much depended. And further, it may, as proving how cautiously intelligence from the natives should be received, be well for us to recall to our mind the rumour of Leichhardt's destruction, set afloat by the natives before he suddenly and triumphantly re-appeared at Port Jackson, amidst the unbounded enthusiasm of the people, from his glorious journey to Port Essington. The question has frequently been asked—Can Leichhardt or any of his party be alive? Who will venture to answer it by conjecture alone? May not very many circumstances, as much beyond our imagination as beyond his control and foresight, have banished the hapless men into a remote isolation, out of which by extraneous aid alone they could be extricated? May not the loss of their animals of burden, be it through poisonous herbs, through want of water, or some other calamity, have prevented Leichhardt and his companions from either advancing or retreating from a secluded desert position?—the deadly gastrolobium, as we now know, existing along the line of his intended route. May not that simple-minded hospitality have been extended to them, to which the sole survivor of Burke's party owed his life? Would King have seen again friendly abodes of civilization, had he been left uncared for? And may not men inured to hardships and privations, such as the missing explorers had endured, have sustained their joyless life up to this day, hoping against hope; when near the very spot from which our proud metropolis has arisen, one of our race, for more than thirty years—for nearly twice the time of Leichhardt's absence—led a nomadic life with the sons of the wilderness? Has not a wrecked mariner but lately been rescued on the eastern coast from an exile of as long duration as Leichhardt's parting from the settlement? Further, you may inquire what were the chances of success for Leichhardt's gigantic enterprise—what was the plan of his movements, and what his measures to combat the overwhelming difficulties in his path? He contemplated nothing less than crossing the Australian continent in its widest extent from east to west, confiding either on the sources of the northern rivers, or trusting to the corresponding southern watercourses rising in the dividing ranges and table lands of the north, until some propitious, though perhaps widely separated waters, would lead him to the settlements of the south-western coasts. This grand scheme, not yet again conceived, could he have brought it to realization, would have elucidated the main features of the whole interior yet obscured. Furthermore, it would have carried into the wide darkness of the great western inland of Australia the torch of geographical inquiry, and would have solved one of the greatest problems for geographical science unanswered still up to this day. Port Essington, then the only stronghold of civilization in North Australia, was relinquished; and therewith, the only place of refuge on that enormous line of coast from Wide Bay to near Swan River. Sturt, whose name amongst us will be ever held in veneration, and subsequently the youthful, noble-minded, Kennedy, who lost his life a martyr to Australian exploration, had returned from positions near central Australia, forbidding—as it seemed—Leichhardt's march on a direct course from east to west. The rivers, which facilitate traversing the northern parts of West Australia, since traced by Francis Gregory, were undiscovered. Neither Stuart, nor Burke and Wills, nor any of the subsequent explorers, had unfolded the many lovely portions of central Australia which now welcome travellers. Wide tracts to the south and west were proved, from Eyre's, Gray's, Sturt's, and Gregory's researches, to be unconquerable, waterless, and dreary lands. Can you withhold your admiration from that intrepid courage, and that grand self-denial, which prompted Leichhardt to take the field under auspices so deterring? Not less does the sagacity with which he designed his plan of operation enlist our recognition. Careful not to plunge with his heavy slow-travelling party—peculiarly fitted as it was—into the dreaded arid wastes of the south, we find him bending his skilful course, through well-watered pasture country, to the Flinders River, cleverly taking advantage of Sir Thomas Mitchell's discoveries on the Barcoo. We see him, equally circumspect and fearless, advancing so far northerly as would render his passage westward one of apparent safety. And here we lose sight of him. Hence a broad but little interrupted belt of fertile country stretches, within some distance from the coast, towards the north-western regions of Australia, interspersed with splendid basaltic plains of absolute magnificence—the rich herbage almost identical with that of the Darling Downs. Through those lands of exquisite fertility Leichhardt would push forward with no more difficulty than the squatters who now eagerly occupy them. With a decreasing herd he would approach gradually the capricious and scanty waters of the interior of West Australia, more fortunate, perhaps, if leaning to the coast; unlucky, probably, if trusting to the treacherous inland country of mostly rainless tracts, devoid of mountains, and often barricaded by impervious and rigid scrubs; a country which we are warned to approach, whence not a single important river guides us to the ocean, in coast lines more extensive than those of any other streamless shore. Still, the evidently inhospitable nature of the far interior of S.W. Australia would, I think, not absolutely preclude Leichhardt's advance in that direction. Geological diversity changes the scenes of a country often as suddenly as unexpectedly. On this, the nature of a country—which never can be prejudged—almost entirely depends. And his experience, aided by the unerring judgment of his natives, may have enabled him to advance from one position to another, let the country have been ever so unfavourable. For, be it understood, an absolute desert, widely untraversable, exists nowhere in Australia. But to the luckless traveller in his first unguided pilgrimage, it is not always reserved to discover the hidden isolated waterpools on which his progress, and it may be, his life depends; and when an endless network of exploring lines once shall have interlacingly expanded over the entire continent—when water shall have been stored and rendered permanent, where it is lodged now in excremental cavities—and when uninterrupted paths will lead throughout the vast interior from place to place of homeliness and settlement—but little may be thought of those whose searching eyes first glanced in hope and fear across these solitudes of deathlike stillness—be thought of those who, in sublime devotion, sacrificed for the welfare of future generations, their talent, strength, and life, on the altar of philanthropy and science. How Providence led the trustful wanderers, a future, and if it is my hearers' earnest wish, perhaps an early day will disclose. Who will conjecture the obstacles which frustrated the accomplishment of Leichhardt's enterprise? Was he destined to sink already in the early part of his luminous career; and do the horses, which grew aged on the pastures of the Flinders River, indicate that Leichhardt's party fell by the hands of the savages in the vicinity? But, if so, will it be impossible even now to discover the spot of horror? Are the scattered remnants of half a hundred horned cattle, of many mules and horses, likely ever to remain unfound? Can the torrent of these periodical deluges, as sudden as terrific, of which we witness the vestiges in all interior depressions, have swept away all remains of the travellers and their animals, and buried them in the subsiding debris, there for ever to be concealed from human gaze? Will not even then a friendly native guide us to the last "L"—the grave mark of Leichhardt—the historic landmark which must for ever be sacred to Australia? Or did vicissitudes, to us unknown, sooner deprive the explorers of their noble animals, without which, proud and dominating man, left to himself, is helpless, aidless, as all those surely felt who braved the dangers of a distant wilderness; and did they then prefer to seek a gradual return to the eastern stations, or an advance towards the western Colony, rather than bear the monotony of sharing in the savage life—to them a living death; and did they thus succumb in the endeavour to regain settled homes? Or is it possible that all sunk by scorbutic disease, though that scourge never yet destroyed a whole party mainly relying on fresh animal food for sustenance? Or did they famish in despair, worn out by fatigue, unable to advance, cut off from all retreat? Or did the most terrible of all fates await them—did they, when buoyant, perhaps, with the hope of soon gaining the goal of their destination—did they then see their venturesome progress terminating by the most awful of all deaths—the death by thirst? All is surmise! When Leichhardt, undaunted undaunted by the calamities of a previous attempt to penetrate through the interior, re-organized his party, and, resisting the solicitous persuasions of many a friend, uttered the ever memorable words of the hero, "I do or die," well may he have felt some sad forebodings of seeing the cheerful abodes of settlements no more. But never could the thought have flashed across his mind, that the inhabitants of Australia would allow these seventeen long years to pass, leaving him in helplessness, or ignored in death. He did not demand aid in distress; but that it would be withheld, he ever would have deemed an impossibility. And exhilarating in his anxiety and trials, or consoling in his dying moments, must have been his consciousness that his contemporaries in this great land would never rest in strenuous efforts until his end was known. It was not insatiable craving for ambition which carried him forth on his self-imposed task—not the proud desire to crown his brow with the laurel wreath of immortality; it was the deep conviction of his superior mind that he would open the path for peaceful settlements of millions upon millions of his race—that he would unfold to an astonished world the unbounded treasures of a country almost as spacious as Europe, destined in future centuries to be in history as eventful as those in which human cultus so long flourished, the great southern empire stretching through a winterless, a happy, healthful zone—that mighty empire in which—sad as it is to contemplate—the nomadic hunters fade away, to leave it in the undisputed sole possession of the British nation—one of the most radiant jewels in the British diadem. Leichhardt, in his prophetic foresight, saw dawning the rosy morning of this youthful land. Foreseeing its great future, he felt incited to shed the light of science on its bright face. These were the visions which drew him forth again from friends, from home, and from well-earned glory and repose. To elevate his moral greatness, it was embellished by piety and a rare modesty. Some of the last lines which we have from his hands are written to his sister, and touchingly expressive of his noble sentiments. With emotion he acknowledges the tribute paid to his merits by the great unions fostering geographical research, which bestowed on him the highest of their awards; but, he adds, humbly, "if these tokens of kindness and of favour, which I shall ever prize, were to arouse in me a proud spirit, and to instil in me the vain desire of serving personal vanity and glory, and no longer science solely and my fellow men, I should forfeit that grace of Heaven in my coming mission which led me formerly through all my perils." So stands Leichhardt before us, great as a man. Uniting in himself the most varied acquirements, and a range of knowledge of unusual extent, he stands before us also pre-eminent as an explorer—will ever here be missed, can never be replaced. And now shall such a man be allowed to be buried in oblivion? It would be an eternal stigma in the history of Australia. A generous supporter of the original Victorian expedition, the Rev. Jos. Docker, of Wangaratta, gracefully suggests that, to the tender benevolence of the ladies of our adopted land, the calls for the work before us should be assigned. We all are conscious of the sterling worth, of the benignity, characteristic of the ladies of this country. We all have witnessed how, through their untiring exertions, our religious and charitable institutions have arisen, and, as a blessing to the community, have been sustained; and how, by innumerable acts of cheering benevolence towards those suffering in adversity, the ladies have here well maintained that grace and dignity which elevates mankind, and carries an ever fascinating charm into our sociality. Yet, while I feel convinced that the gentle and imploring persuasiveness of the fair among us would inspire throughout these lands a profound feeling of our duties towards those on whose behalf we are assembled, I cannot suppress reluctance in burdening the ladies with any task, even for a purpose so philanthropic, which, if devolving exclusively on a few, could not be otherwise than most onerous. On reflecting, it, however, occurred to me that what to a few would prove a duty of grave difficulty, might be accomplished yet, by united efforts. And thus I venture, for the consideration of this meeting, to sketch out a plan by which the co-operation of every kind-hearted lady of Australia may be secured. The Church, the all-embracing great fortress on which social harmony as well as benevolent organization mainly rests, would also, in this instance, most effectually concentrate the efforts which by humanity we are called to evoke and sustain. Might not the ladies of each of the religious sections of the community be summoned to send delegates to a central committee, on which the duty of collecting the needful funds for the intended enterprise would devolve? These, the worthiest representatives of the high-mindedness, the active benignity, the beaming intelligence, and the dignity which grace the ladies throughout this land, would exercise an influence infinitely more powerful and sublime than any other we can bring to bear; and the appeal, sent forth from those thus nobly associated, could not fail to command the profoundest respect, and to find an echo in every heart not closed to humanity. With that devotedness to those in distress which is one of the brightest symbols of religion, the leading divines of the various denominations hitherto asked have given the assurance of their cordial support to the ladies' pious work; and it is but a just homage to Her Majesty's representative amongst us, if I bear testimony to the vivid interest evinced also by the Governor in our movement, which will be fostered by his auspices. It remains for you, then, to stamp the measure here suggested, by public recognition, with authority, should it enjoy your approbation. Not merely would, by a well-organized union such as sketched out, a feeling of compassion for Leichhardt be diffused through every church community in this land, but also a spirit of emulation of the noblest kind, and well worthy of the cause, be inspired, and find, by imitation of the example set by the ladies of Victoria, its reflex in the sister Colonies. In South Australia I learnt to appreciate the generosity of its people, evinced above all so strongly in exploration enterprises. In New South Wales Leichhardt counts yet very many friends of great personal attachment, ever ready to uphold his cause. Tasmania, and also West Australia, as members of the great Australian community, will, we may rest assured, bear their quota. And (let me repeat some words which hitherto have sounded away without response) here we must contend that on the rising colonial community occupying the vast extent of magnificent land which poor Leichhardt, under so many privations, discovered, so lucidly described, and so faithfully mapped, and which yields now millions annually to a highly prosperous population—that more particularly on that Colony devolves the duty of initiating (or, we should now say, of sharing in) the final step for disclosing Leichhardt's fate. Moreover, the country to be traversed for instituting at least the earlier inquiries lying within the precincts of Queensland—a country no more deeply indebted to any man than to Ludwig Leichhardt—Queensland, which never yet redeemed its debt towards its greatest explorer, will be aroused to the stern responsibilities and immense obligations it owes to him, and will, I trust, never be forgetful that Leichhardt's vestiges are lost in its territory. Assuredly, if any one in these great Colonies who to Australia is indebted for a prosperous independence would bear the smallest mite, to shew his gratitude to this country, by aiding in our search for one of its worthiest adopted sons and one of its greatest benefactors, how soon would not the needful very few thousand pounds be gathered, and how soon might not the ladies then send forward to the champion of our progress the champion for his relief? The wish is far from me to impose on the ladies who may engage in this work of humanity a more arduous task than that of seizing any opportunity, in the circles of social enjoyments and in friendly intercourse, to plead Leichhardt's cause, or to incite those around them to an active willingness of aiding in our task. Can it be otherwise than that the touching appeals of our fair friends would tell more powerfully and more extensively on their sterner protectors than any other call? The gifts for Leichhardt's rescue should not accumulate from a stepping far around: they should be offered by spontaneous impulses, with graceful readiness, from a deep persuasion of our duty: they should be the free gifts for an object in which our national honor is concerned. That they should be accepted otherwise would be unworthy of Leichhardt's memory. And I hold an opinion of the great-mindedness of the Australian colonists far too high for an instant to give way to doubts that the ladies, in stirring the fire of energetic sympathy, would fail to succeed. And what a triumph and reward, if it be reserved to the "Ladies' Expedition for Leichhardt's search," to bring my poor countryman back into our midst—if his words of thanks towards them were once resounding in our halls! Perhaps I may be forgiven for offering my opinion how a search for Leichhardt should be instituted, and to point out how

how widely different will be its scope compared to that of ordinary geographical researches. The party should be strong enough to repel any attacks of united native tribes who may collect around it—a danger to which a searching caravan, often—in seeking opportunities for interrogation, compelled to desist from movements of celerity—will be so much more exposed than exploration travellers on their more rapid course. Indeed, it ought to have a sufficiency of members to enable it to divide in cases of urgency. It should comprise several aborigines not unaccustomed to the agility of hunting life, to whose keen eyes, generally, so much more will be apparent than to the physically much less trained people of our race. It should commence its searches from that point on the Flinders River where Leichhardt's marks were found—a point within two months' easy travelling distance from Mount Murchison, whence, by steam navigation extending across one-third of the continent, transits can be effected with facility. It should never cease its inquiries, never relinquish its search on any likely spot, until, beyond all doubt, the existence of any of Leichhardt's marks within the hunting territory of the occupying tribe, had been ascertained. It should, with patient perseverance, continue its systematic, well-ruled, well-meditated efforts in following the tracts of Leichhardt from L to L, from camp to camp, until his last position shall have been reached. The advantage, now well recognized, it should enjoy, of commanding the auxiliary use of dromedaries, in reconnoitring those tracts which, in ordinary seasons, are impassable for horses. It should be mindful to avoid the scrubby ridges overgrown with gastrolobium—a bane not known to Leichhardt, from which explorers now, by caution, may escape. It should not contain too large a train of beasts of burden, that it may move with swiftness across such regions where a very scanty supply of water will only suffice for a limited period. It should be led by a man who disdains material advantages, who is actuated by a deep appreciation of the duties devolving on him as a sacred trust, whose tried knowledge, zeal, sagacity, and foresight should be fairly blended. It should, during the next cool season, pass, if possible, to the tropics, to take advantage of the northern summer rains. Should prompt measures be adopted, the services of Mr. McIntyre might be secured. This traveller entertains a persuasion, in which I fully share, that Leichhardt's fate can be discovered, and is inspired with an enthusiasm for bearing the standard of geographic science still further through this continent. With calm judgment, he combines trained knowledge, travelling experience, an earnest will, and an unflinching perseverance; and, above all, he is willing to sacrifice private interest in the good cause. I am commissioned by Mr. McIntyre to state, that whosoever in Leichhardt's search will take the field, may unhesitatingly command from him every information calculated to secure success. But he it distinctly understood that, in their arrangements for advancing Leichhardt's cause, the ladies should be unfettered; that whenever the first object of their exertions—to collect the means for Leichhardt's search—shall have been accomplished, it shall devolve on the ladies solely to select the gentlemen who may then be entrusted with the duty of tendering advice, or relieving, perhaps, the ladies in their administrative functions to organize the search. Perhaps some may contend that a mission such as urged would either be unsuccessful or be doomed to the same destruction which befel those whom we wish to serve. If desponding views like these, unworthy of any great cause, had deterred the daring navigators from pursuing again, and intrepidly again, the north-west passage—if the British nation had not set us a grand example how to redeem our debt to our fellowmen—history would still be silent of Franklin's task, accomplished by his death, and the resting-places of the crews of the "Erebus" and "Terror" would not be hallowed spots to us. If the greatness of his soul, his moral power, and his genius, had not upheld Columbus in the hour of need—if high ideal had not carried him westward, ever west—if his iron will, his unbending spirit, had not vanquished the timidity of those around him, and raised their sunken hopes—when would the western Atlantic passage, which brought another world in close relation with us, and doubled the dominions of civilization—when would that glorious passage have been a historic fact? And shall the Australian western passage less magnanimously be carried out? Of this we may rest assured: that infinitely greater hopes may be upheld to bring our travellers back from their western course than ever could have incited those who set out searching for Franklin's tracks, who never shrunk from the danger of the Polar sea, though well aware that on its ever-frozen shores Franklin and his comrades could no longer live—that nothing would be found there but their icy death-beds. And in the same degree as Leichhardt's search involves far less dangers than those surrounding the lost explorer when he set out, so also increases commensurately our responsibility. What at the time of Leichhardt's start was impeded with difficulties well-nigh insurmountable—what to those who formerly have followed Leichhardt's track proved unattainable—has now become a task of much more ease, and comparatively one of safety. Why, far less dangerous? Since Leichhardt's loss, the distances from point to point of exploration have decreased vastly. The dromedaries, now rendered available, still wander over stretches of waterless and grassless country, which Leichhardt's animals, perhaps, could never cross; and the revolving rifle, as a defensive weapon, has established a still greater superiority of the white man over his savage antagonist. The settlements now stretching to the south-east shores of the Gulf of Carpentaria, and those isolated at the Glenelg River and at Nicol Bay, and even of Northern Arnheim's Land, are harbours of refuge to which no former traveller could direct his course. Discouragingly, we hear it constantly repeated, "Leichhardt must be dead." Why so? We have no right to leave, with easy minds, or in apathy, the perhaps living man to his misery, or trust to mere accident for solving the enigma of his fate. In absence of all tangible evidence of his fate, it is not less wrong to maintain that Leichhardt must be dead than to assert that he must be living. We have no right to shelve this unsolved question by mere assumption. We have no right thus to evade exertions which still may save him from destruction. And, even if all exertions should prove futile—even if we altogether failed to draw the veil from Leichhardt's fate—one noble object will be gained: we will have displayed that chivalrous spirit for all that is elevated, the worthy inheritance of remotest times—that (we may say) romantic spirit of the middle ages which at no period of the world's existence should be suffered to pass away—that spirit to which we owe so many a great and noble deed. The ancestral generation of Australia will prove itself to have comprehended the calls of its time, to have recognized its debts—will stand faultless towards the unfortunate explorers before other nations—stand blameless towards Leichhardt before a future age. And with that persuasion will be mingled the lofty feeling of having advanced simultaneously with our work of humanity, the revelation of the nature of this great continent—on that extensive island on which as many millions as thousands now are destined to dwell; in having borne our honest share in disclosing the wonders of our almost boundless territory, and having opened new fields for the free youthful vigour and genius of Australia. Let imagination carry us onward with our philanthropic emissaries. A friendly shower of rain has aided them across a country in which death reigns. No animal enlivens the sad region of desolation, no friendly brook meanders through the steppe, no refreshing verdure clothes the level plain on which the eye rests in cheerfulness. Still manfully on they struggle, hopeful to find water—that element of life; on they strive to a lonely group of trees for shade from the burning sunbeams, for shelter against the sirocco's scorching wind. And see! while the red glare of the sun imparts a fiery hue to the surrounding landscape, on their approach some strange objects attract their searching eye. An L is recognized! and hark! what more do they perceive? The bleaching bones of the lost explorers on the desert sand, the scattered relics of their faithful animals, nature's wild graveyard, that no eye unweeping can behold, here, where they sank, no parents, brothers, sisters, near them to cheer their dying hour. But Leichhardt's labours are not lost. An arrow mark, cut by the feeble hand of a dying man, points to the spot in which the records of their progress, their successes, their sufferings, trials, and agonies are buried—the last documents of bygone greatness. One grave is formed to unite all in death, who, in hope, in struggle, in despair, remained conjoined in life. And from the boulders of the desert a monumental tomb, rudely constructed, is raised, from which the ladies' banner waves to indicate the spot, which no wanderer can approach without awe and veneration—the spot concealing the remains of those who left their footprints on the sand of time. O! let us turn to a brighter picture.

Imagine

Imagine before you the bold traveller, bent on his noble mission of relief, advancing, alike undaunted by peril and privation, through arid wastes almost waterless, depending on his faithful camels from tribe to tribe to follow Leichhardt's vestiges. With sinking hope he views the failing strength of his devotedly attached companions. Mark, in mirage, from the desert sea an oasis surrounded by the waving sand emerges now, as if an island from the ocean. A line of trees in view revives the hope of water being found. Parched, they hurry to the promising spot. Hope, courage are restored. The sinking vigour of the camel is renewed. Instinctively the swiftness of the ship of the desert is accelerated; so they approach a spring from a rocky crag. But, lo! what is descried?—a rudely-constructed dwelling, surrounded by the free and playful children of the soil, laughing in merriment. But hark! who rushes forward now? With sunburnt, haggard, emaciated frames, those whom we long thought numbering with the dead. All are electrified! Leichhardt lives! Speechless, overpowered by emotion, the liberator and the liberated sink into each others' arms!

At the close of the lecture, several gentlemen addressed the meeting. A committee of management was appointed, consisting of Drs. Wilkie, Crooke, Eades, Embling, Bleasdale, Mueller, Messrs. Summers, Bonwick, and Kyte; and the proceedings of the evening were brought to a close by votes of thanks to the lecturer and chairman.

WHITE MEN'S GRAVES IN THE INTERIOR.

[Read before the Royal Society, 10th October, 1864.]

IN accordance with instructions received from the Exploration Committee, we have the honor to submit to the Royal Society the results of our inquiry into the evidence brought forward by Mr. W. G. Conn and Mr. W. Giles, at the meeting on 29th August last, in reference to the supposed graves of white men found in longitude (approx.) 142 deg. 35 min. E., latitude (approx.) 28 deg. 45 min. S.

From the tracing of Mr. Conn's route, hereto annexed, from the detailed account contained in the published letters of these gentlemen appended,* and from their explicit, verbal, and written statements, which the Committee received, it is perfectly clear that the graves can in no way whatever be identified with those of any traveller known to have perished in or near the locality indicated: the burial places of Dr. Becker and some of his unfortunate companions at Bulla (a locality, moreover, also visited by Messrs. Conn and Giles), being the nearest to the spot where the graves of the supposed white men have been found.

We, however, cannot withhold our impression that the evidence of these graves really containing the relics of white men is solely based on the assertions of natives, who did not even themselves witness either the death or the burial of the supposed travellers. The young natives who led Messrs. Conn and Giles to these burial places, may have received a misconstrued intelligence through the aborigines of other tribes on the subject, not having seen the parties of whites said to have succumbed in this locality under the hands of the savages; and notwithstanding the emphatic denial by the black boys, that these graves were those of aborigines, we are inclined to regard them as such, these graves corresponding sufficiently, except perhaps in size, to ordinary native tombs, recorded by Mr. Augustus Gregory as seen in his expedition along Cooper's Creek.† Moreover, no signs of the employment of an axe or other European implement on the wood covering the graves, nor any other vestige giving a clue of Europeans having visited the locality, were observed.

Did not Messrs. Conn and Giles describe these graves as several years old, at the time they passed the spot in 1861, we would have been induced to consider the place as possibly covering the remains of natives who were wounded when repelled by Mr. Wright, Dr. Beckler, and Mr. Hodgkinson, in their attack on the camp at the Bulla—an encounter which took place a few months before Messrs. Conn and Giles went to the Unutra Creek; and the account of this conflict might have been misconceived by the natives.

Nevertheless, we recommend not only a close investigation of the spot indicated by Messrs. Conn and Giles, and the disinterment of the bones for scientific inspection, but more particularly that this inquiry should be connected with an interrogation of the natives occupying the surrounding country, in order to secure the fullest possible information on the origin of these burials.

Reflecting on the possibility that the graves noticed by Messrs. Conn and Giles might prove the burial places of white men, we are at once led to contemplate from whence and under what circumstances could the supposed travellers have reached that lonely spot, since no party, as far as we are aware, is missing in that direction.

According to Messrs. Conn and Giles' surmise, which is shared by Mr. John Neilson, these graves might perhaps be the last resting places of some members of Dr. Leichhardt's exploring party; and hence we deemed it incumbent on us to weigh the whole evidence hitherto extant of the fate of that great explorer, in order to ascertain, in the first instance, how far it bears on the facts immediately before us.

In thus far extending our scope of action, we have, moreover, been impelled by a deeply-felt persuasion that it is a holy duty of all Australia to leave nothing undone which might shed light on the destiny of one who stands second to none, and above most of the explorers of this country—a man who unfolded first to the astonished world the treasures and resources of a vast extent of this great continent, the richest dependency of the British Crown.

The first tidings of the recorded awful termination of Dr. Leichhardt's enterprise were obtained in 1850, by Mr. W. Ogilby, P.M., at Surat, and Mr. Gideon Lang, now of this city, through a blackfellow at Surat.

This latter had met a wild native, according to whose account a party of white men and two aborigines, corresponding exactly to the number of Leichhardt's party, had been massacred by the wild blacks, beyond the Maranoa. To accomplish their design, they had watched the party from the very moment of their arrival in the country of these tribes, had sent messengers ahead to arouse the neighbouring hordes of natives, had gradually closed upon them without Leichhardt and his companions having been seemingly aware of the impending danger, had finally and unobservedly surrounded them in large numbers, and in the dawn of morning, when the travellers were asleep, crept stealthily on the camp in the bend of a creek, threw a volley of spears on the previously ascertained positions of the sleepers, and killed all except one, who, resting a slight distance apart, had sprung up, fired one shot, and killed a native, but was then immediately speared. The oxen, horses, and mules, it is said, were then killed, the latter not without a desperate struggle to break their hobbles; but the native related, that two of the bullocks succeeded in breaking their hobbles, and that these were the only animals which escaped the slaughter. The savages perpetrating this destruction were beyond the intercourse of white men, and when plundering the camp left the tobacco and flour, then unknown to them, scattered on the ground, but displayed a particular eagerness to possess themselves of the bright red blankets, known to have been provided by Leichhardt for his party.

After hearing of this catastrophe, Mr. Lang at once resolved to set out from Mount Abundance, in long. 148 deg. 40 min. E., and lat. 26 deg. 50 min. S., where Dr. Leichhardt finally quitted the settlements, in order to test the truth of these tidings.

Mr.

* Vide Mr. Conn's letter to the Argus of January 20th, 1862, and to Dr. Mueller on September 5th, 1864, and Mr. Giles, letter to the Argus, in August, 1864.

† Vide appended extract of A. Gregory's report, published in the papers of the Legislative Council of New South Wales 1858, p. 677.

Mr. Lang took with him the man Walker, who afterwards was engaged for Mr. Hovendon Hely's party, and was accompanied by two stock-keepers and two blackfellows, the stockmen availing themselves of this opportunity to search for cattle. Mr. Lang, unable to pick up Leichhardt's then obliterated track at Mount Abundance, struck across to Sir Thomas Mitchell's Dépôt Camp at the Maranoa, found on that river Mitchell's as well as Kennedy's tracks, but no traces of Leichhardt, and examined the Maranoa for seventy miles on both sides, without obtaining any further clue beyond some information from the natives, which corroborated circumstantially the first accounts received, and placed the death-scene further to the westward. The two stockmen then determined to return, and Mr. Lang was reluctantly obliged to relinquish his search, being, like Walker, greatly reduced in strength by extreme hardships undergone immediately before they set out on this journey, although they calculated to be able to reach the place of Leichhardt's supposed fall in ten days from the Maranoa.

Their provisions also at the time were exhausted. If the same high-minded energy evinced spontaneously on this occasion by Mr. Gideon Lang, had inspired others to imitate his example, the fate of one of the most glorious explorers of Australia would doubtless long since have been ascertained.

Mr. Lang, who verbally narrated these recorded facts to Dr. Mueller, felt at the time, and is still satisfied, that Leichhardt and his companions perished under the circumstances related by the natives. And when it is remembered that Leichhardt started with seven horses, twenty mules, and fifty oxen, as animals of burden, the travelling pace of which would necessitate his stages to be so short as to permit the swift natives to collect around him—that long subsequently, Mr. Walker found the natives on the Patrick River in possession of axes—that Mr. Isaacs, a former companion of Leichhardt, and many others, were informed of that unfortunate traveller's intention to bend his course to the Alice—and when, moreover, we consider the atrocious disposition of the natives of the whole district about Mount Abundance, and west of it, where many Europeans were killed by them, and even many stations were abandoned at the time as untenable—we must admit that Mr. Lang was fully justified in arriving at the conclusions he drew from the information originally and soon afterwards obtained by him from the natives.

The fact of the blacks pointing rather to the west than north-west as the locality in which the encounter took place, does not, in our opinion, much invalidate the evidence, because the hunting ground of their western neighbours would likely extend through several degrees of latitude, and they would only perhaps be generally aware of the travellers being destroyed in the territory of the western tribes.

The Government of New South Wales having obtained, through Mr. Lang and through other sources, this information of the probable fate of Dr. Leichhardt, promptly despatched a party, under the command of Mr. Hovendon Hely, to investigate more closely these sad circumstances. This inquiry was instituted by Mr. Hely undoubtedly with a deep appreciation of the duty devolving on him at the occasion; and although the results derived from his journey materially strengthened the evidence obtained through Mr. Lang, Mr. Hely failed to ascertain with absolute certainty the fate of the missing explorers; and it is only to be regretted that this gentleman's researches were not followed up immediately after his return, before the vestiges of the lost party faded away.

Mr. Hely reported, under date 22nd July, 1852, from Surat, the results of his mission.*

The evidence thus gained left, unfortunately, hardly any doubt that the poor explorers had all lost their lives by a brutal and treacherous attack of the natives; although a series of circumstances, which are best learnt from Mr. Hely's report, prevented that gentleman from reaching the locality where the death-scene took place, and although he found the accounts of the blacks as regards the precise spot of the catastrophe to be greatly at variance. It is easily understood why the natives, whilst without hesitation they generally admitted the destruction of the party, and brought to bear an undeniable amount of corroborative and circumstantial evidence on the facts, were naturally reluctant to lead the friends of the fallen men to a place where the contemplation of the spot of horror, and of the relics of the unfortunate victims, might so easily arouse in the white men feelings of the most intense indignation and of fervent vengeance. Hence Mr. Hely was readily enabled to find two of Dr. Leichhardt's camps at the sources of the Warrego and the Nive, bearing as marks XVA in the lower portion of a capital L, but was constantly deceived by the blacks in their statements about the spot of the massacre. Had the guides acted otherwise, they would indeed have exposed themselves, and this without protection, to the retaliation of those tribes whom they had, may it be with ever so much justice, accused; thus the natives, ever eager to gain rewards from the travelling party, conducted it to Sir Thomas Mitchell's dépôt, and other spots, and finally vanished secretly. The inscription on each of the two Leichhardtian camps found by Mr. Hely has never yet been satisfactorily deciphered; and although, by the subsequent discovery of two other trees during Gregory's and Walker's expedition, indicating camps of Leichhardt about 80 and 87 miles further to the north-west, the interpretation of these marks became of less importance; and although no interpretation is likely to shed any light on his fate, there is still attached a melancholy interest to these, as some of the very last signs we have of his movements. We wish, however, to observe, that the Rev. W. B. Clarke, the venerable and ever active geologist of New South Wales, has sought to elucidate these figures as indicative of Kennedy's camp, in a letter (published in the Sydney Morning Herald of August, 1853), in which he, with the warmth of personal friendship for Leichhardt, cherishes the hope that evidences so contradictory as those hitherto obtained, leave still ample room for the opinion of Leichhardt's not having ended his luminous career under the circumstances related by the natives.

We have appended to this report a valuable memorandum from Mr. Giles,† in which he demonstrates from experience, how part of the inscription of one of the trees might have become obliterated by the overgrowth of bark. Otherwise, it is difficult to understand why two camps of Leichhardt should bear precisely analogous distinctive marks, unless we suppose that the Roman letters were intended for the day of a month (April), and that evidently an error had been committed in fixing the date of one of the camps. Mr. Giles deserves much credit for the vivid interest he evinced throughout the inquiry, and we share the hopes of his experienced fellow-traveller, Mr. Conn, of seeing Mr. Giles' services secured for any future enterprise to be organized to find vestiges of Leichhardt, and simultaneously to examine the graves at Unutra.

Mr. Gideon Lang entertains the opinion that, whilst the numerals indicate the number of the camp, the A, as a convenient letter, was added to distinguish the place from others Leichhardt might be encamped at in any retrograde direction and possible return journey.

Most important seems to us the assertion of one of the fugitive guides to another of his race, that Mr. Hely had still to cross four creeks; next, a large plain of three days' travelling distance; and then again three creeks, before he would arrive at the spot where the disaster occurred.

The discovery of the extensive natural distribution of gold through South-east Australia at about this period absorbed universal attention, and diverted the thoughts of all colonists so much from other subjects as to render it not surprising when we find that for several years no further direct efforts were made to fully solve the mystery which involved Leichhardt's fate; the more so, since in 1855 and 1856 the expedition sent for geographical discoveries by the Home Government through tropical Australia was in the field; for it was thought that fortunate events might bring its movements in contact with the traces of the last explorers. No further tidings, however, having been obtained, the Government of New South Wales, in 1858, entrusted the command of a special search expedition to

Mr. A. C. Gregory, with a hope that the well-known skill and experience of that tried explorer would dispel the mystery. But although this expedition solved some most interesting problems in the geography of Australia, it left that of Leichhardt's fate unsolved; still, Mr. Gregory discovered, not distant from the junction of the Alice River with Cooper's Creek, a marked tree indicating a Leichhardtian camp, in lat.  $24^{\circ} 35' S.$ , and long.  $146^{\circ} 6' E.$ , the huge but simple L being evidently intended as a conspicuous lasting mark by the unfortunate traveller, to signify the spot where he intended to leave the line of Cooper's Creek, the letter measuring fully eighteen inches in length.\*

From the discovery of this L—the only one which at the time extended our knowledge of Leichhardt's movements—the inference has been drawn that the accounts given by the natives of the destruction of Leichhardt beyond the Maranoa were unreliable or truthless.

It would have been a source of deep gratification to the committee, if, in endeavouring to penetrate this chaos of conflicting evidence, they could give their concurrence to this inference.

But on reflecting how vague all information in this sad event of Leichhardt's death has proved throughout, as far as the indication of the spot is concerned, we think that the discrepancies of some of the statements may be reconciled by the vagueness characteristic of the ideas of the savages on distances, numbers, and time; hence we had arrived at the conclusion, that the various accounts given to Mr. Hely by the natives, as far as they admitted generally the annihilation of Leichhardt's party, were thereby not invalidated; and we even conceived that the locality referred to by those natives on whose statement Mr. Hely could place most dependence, is still quite within the reach of the spot where Mr. Gregory discovered the huge L. In this conclusion the committee has subsequently been strengthened by the testimony kindly proffered by Mr. Gideon Lang, who, after a lengthened conversation with several natives in 1851, calculated the distance of the spot where the tragical occurrence took place still to be ten of his days' journey from the head of the Maranoa.

We are not surprised at Mr. Gregory having found no further indications of Leichhardt's presence on the spot; that gentleman visited the locality ten years after the last explorers, and found the banks of Cooper's Creek for nearly a mile on either side bearing the vestiges of one of those tremendous inundations, the torrent of which would probably carry away any relics of a river-camp, or bury them in the subsiding débris.

No additional disclosures concerning Leichhardt were obtained until the year 1861, when the services of Mr. Frederick Walker were secured by the Exploration Committee of this Society, to conduct one of the expeditions in search of Mr. Burke and his companions.

On his way to the Gulf of Carpentaria, diverging to Cooper's Creek, he found, seven miles below the Leichhardtian camp discovered by Gregory, another tree bearing a smaller L, testifying Leichhardt's presence.†

We fully acquiesce in the sagacious explanation of Mr. Walker, who points to the probability of Leichhardt having been compelled to retrace his steps to the river and descend along it until he could skirt the scrubs, which, to a party so peculiarly fitted out as his in regard to animals of burden, would prove still more impervious than to any other expedition since in the field in that direction. If the vestiges of tracks noticed by Mr. Walker on the Patrick River, about sixty miles north of Leichhardt's last known positions, can in future be connected with any camps in the vicinity, we would have proof of considerable weight that the universal accounts given by the natives of the destruction of the party further south could not be true, unless we admit the great improbability of Leichhardt's having fallen back on Cooper's Creek for water, after an unsuccessful attempt to penetrate northward, or his having retraced his steps for any other reason unknown.

The supposed tracks of Leichhardt indicated still further north on Mr. Walker's chart, and recorded in his journal, lead seemingly to the tree marked L by Mr. Landsborough (in lat.  $22^{\circ} 45' S.$ , near the Thompson River),‡ a point reached by that traveller anterior to his most creditable Carpentaria expedition.

On the other hand, this would give no clue to the statement of a native woman, who was understood by Mr. Walker to have seen white men W.S.W. of the Barkly River, Burke and Wills' track being distant about two hundred and eighty miles in that direction.

This closes our inquiry into the more or less tangible evidence of Leichhardt's fate—an inquiry which necessarily was surrounded with difficulties, and which will continue unsatisfactory as long as it mainly rests on the fluctuating traditions of the natives and on positive testimony so faint.

In furnishing our report, we have not quoted verbally all the statements bearing on the subject, but appended quotations from various documents. We found it hopeless to bring to bear on Leichhardt's fate, the statements recorded by Mr. M'Kinlay during his skilful and daring expedition,§ which informs us of human remains interred at Lake Massacre, and not yet fully identified with those of Gray's of Burke's expedition. We are of course equally unable to bring within the reach of our investigation the record of the famous J. Macdougall Stuart, of having crossed what appeared horse tracks before he reached Tennant's Creek, near Macdougall Range, in latitude (approx.)  $19^{\circ} 30' S.$ , and long.  $134^{\circ} 25' E.$ , or the vague tradition of Western Australia natives, according to which, white travellers coming from the east had perished on a lake in the inland wastes of that Colony.

But as long as all such accounts re-awaken our thoughts of the missing travellers, we are earnestly and ever anew reminded that we have not fulfilled the dictates of humanity and of gratitude to one of the early pioneers of Australian discovery, whose name will ever be identified with the history of this country.

The spot where, in his philanthropic endeavour to expand our knowledge and to widen the area peacefully conquered for civilisation, Leichhardt is said to have sunk, is almost now within the reach of settlement; and what to those who formerly went on his path proved unattainable, is a task now portrayed readily to be accomplished. We would therefore recommend that the localities on Cooper's Creek which bear the last indisputable marks of Leichhardt's movements should again be examined, and that a party sufficiently strong to resist any attempted attacks should scrupulously, through reliable interpreters, interrogate the natives, to set the question finally at rest whether Leichhardt and his brave little band met their death on the spot originally recorded; and if this should be affirmed, to secure such relics of the perished travellers as will place the fact of their annihilation beyond doubt. The forbearing and judicious manner in which Mr. Hovendon Hely acted towards the natives must have inspired them with confidence that his followers will deal with them in the same clement spirit; and whilst now more than sixteen years have elapsed since the probable destruction of Leichhardt's party, it is likely that the perpetrators of the murderous deed will now display no greater reluctance to reveal the features of the sad tragedy than the natives of the Bogan, when questioned, to narrate the circumstances under which Richard Cunningham lost his life.

If this recommended inquiry verifies our just fears, one duty alone remains to be performed—to mark by a monument the spot which must be holy to all of us and all future generations, and which would ever remain a historic landmark. If, however, and let us cherish the hope, the destruction of the poor explorers on that spot can be disproved, we ought not to rest until, by successive and systematic inquiry amongst the native tribes, we learn what became of the lost men, should it involve a sacrifice ever so great; for whenever Leichhardt's fall beyond the Maranoa should be disproved, the assumption that he and his faithful followers number with the dead could likewise no longer be vindicated on any tangible ground, and we could no longer dispute the possibility of any of the unhappy men still having lingered lingered on from one tedious year to the other for relief, and to have lingered in vain. The improbability of such a fact is great indeed; but its absolute impossibility, from evidence hitherto extant, cannot be demonstrated, and future ages will then pass on Leichhardt's Australian contemporaries their judgment. Those on whom the burden of exploration has fallen heaviest amongst us have earned almost throughout but poor rewards for their self-sacrificing labours. But let it not be said of us, in addition, that we have been unconscious of our duties towards humanity.

And here we must contend, that on the rising colonial community occupying the vast extent of magnificent land which poor Leichhardt under so many privations discovered, so lucidly described, and so faithfully mapped, and which now yields millions annually, to a highly prosperous population), more particularly devolves the duty of initiating the final steps for disclosing Leichhardt's fate; moreover, the country to be traversed, for instituting at least the earlier of these inquiries, lies within the precincts of Queensland—a Colony deeply indebted to Dr. Leichhardt.

By patient perseverance the fate of Leichhardt can now be ascertained, if the inquiry is supported by the resources which this great country can well afford to devote for an object so noble.

Future generations ought to have no cause or opportunity to cast on the present citizens of Australia, the reproach of having been unconscious of the claims of Ludwig Leichhardt—a man who has never yet been replaced amongst us—a man of imperishable greatness.

EXTRACT FROM "THE BENDIGO EVENING NEWS."

WHATEVER faults the people of Victoria, or her Government and Legislature, may be guilty of, parsimoniousness is certainly not one that can be laid to their charge; they are, as a rule, rather disposed to be over-lavish than otherwise. How many thousands were expended upon our magnificent exploring expeditions we are afraid to say; but not satisfied with all this outlay, we have thought fit to bestow such expensive honors upon the remains and memory of the unfortunate Burke and Wills, as England only renders occasionally to her greatest warriors; nay more, to the devoted King, for being fortunate enough to survive his companions, we have granted such a handsome annuity as will enable him to live at ease for the remainder of his probably long life.

We have been led to make the above remarks in consequence of an appeal which has been lately made to the people of Australia, by Dr. Mueller, to come forward with the funds necessary for prosecuting a minute search for Leichhardt and his party, who have now been missing for about seventeen years, and some of whom, several think, it is very probable are still alive. We quite agree with Dr. Mueller as to the likelihood of some of the members of the expedition being yet rescued, if a thorough search is made; but even if we are only successful in finding their bones, there will be a melancholy satisfaction in that.

Two years ago, James Morrill, after being for seventeen years amongst the blacks, came among us again like one reclaimed from the dead, and who shall say that such a result may not be obtained with regard to Leichhardt's party by the proposed search. The same cause which detained Morrill on the tract of country north of the Burdekin, where he was found, would keep Leichhardt's party, if reduced in members and without ammunition, as they in all probability would be after being out two years. Morrill was, in 1846, wrecked in a vessel which had a few weeks before left Sydney, and he, of course, knew that if he could keep travelling southwards he must come upon settled country sooner or later; but he dared not cross the Burdekin, he was safe where he was, and amongst friends; the moment he crossed that river he would enter the territory of hostile tribes, where his friends could not accompany him, and where had he gone alone he would most likely have encountered enemies. So he lived on, suffering much from exposure and want of clothing, but always fed and kindly treated, till hope must almost have died out within him. But at length the country of his friendly blacks was invaded by the white man, and an old gin who had discovered the camp of a shepherd was his guide to the tent of his countryman. Who can say that a search for Leichhardt's party is hopeless, with this story of Morrill's deliverance so fresh in our memory? We will almost go so far as to say that if any of the party are alive, they must be confined as Morrill was; and if so, nothing but the encroachment of civilization upon the territory of the black, or a visit of a special expedition, can ever release them.

If what we have now laid before our readers is not sufficient to warm their hearts and open their purses to aid in this work of charity, we would recommend them to read the eloquent lecture delivered by Dr. Mueller on the subject, and we feel sure that there are none in this part of Victoria who will not be moved by it to contribute their mite to the fund being raised. The ladies have taken the matter in hand, and there is little doubt of its success, as a voluntary work performed by the men and women of Australia; but should these subscriptions fall short of the sum required (and we look upon the sum named by the Doctor as not nearly sufficient), we are certain that an appeal would not be made in vain to the Legislature of any one of these Colonies. £3,000 is the sum proposed, the residue of which, after equipping and provisioning a strong party for two or three years, would leave little for remuneration of such perilous work as this will be. The object is a noble one, and we commend it heartily to the public-spirited citizens of Sandhurst, trusting that the appeal made will not be without its beneficial results, when the Mayor, to whom subscriptions are to be sent, shall be making his returns to the Ladies' Leichhardt Search Committee in Melbourne.

IS IT PROBABLE THAT LEICHHARDT OR ANY OF HIS PARTY STILL SURVIVE?

St. Kilda, 20 April.

MY DEAR SIR,

As the Committee of Ladies have expressed a strong desire that I, as an old explorer and frontier squatter, with considerable experience of wild natives, should give my opinion as to the fate of Leichhardt, I feel it a duty to comply.

The account of the destruction of Leichhardt and his party, given in 1849 and 1850, by the wild blacks beyond the Maranoa, was so clear and circumstantial, that I was firmly convinced of its truth. So firm, indeed, was my conviction, that your very able lecture, even with the full knowledge I had of your experience as a traveller, produced very little effect; and I still regard your proposed expedition as a mere ebullition of benevolence, purely sentimental, and likely to lead to a waste of brave men's lives in a hopeless search after dead men's bones. Since, however, I have been induced carefully to reconsider the whole case, it has presented a very different view; and it now appears to me not only possible, but very probable, that Leichhardt, or some of his party, may still survive.

My reasons for coming to this conclusion I shall state, in detail, under three heads:—

Was Leichhardt and party cut off, as reported to and by the blacks on the Maranoa, in 1849 and 1850?

The blacks, in the minute account they gave of their following up of Leichhardt's party, the arrangements between the tribes on the route, the accumulation of their numbers, and their final attack and destruction of the whole expedition—man and beast—except two bullocks, at a waterhole between 200 and 300 miles north and west of the head of the Maranoa, was so exactly in accordance with the known facts, as well as the habits of Leichhardt, that it amounted to the strongest circumstantial evidence, and, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, was almost universally received as positive proof.

There was, however, another hypothesis advanced by Mr. Isaacs, of Gowrey, a squatter on the Darling Downs, a companion of Leichhardt in one of his expeditions, who, on my return, expressed to me his disbelief of the blacks' account. His view was this:—That the blacks are inveterate gossips and boasters, and talk over the most trifling details of their proceedings—even their day's hunting. That the attack had no doubt been intended, arrangements made among the tribes, the party watched as related, and every detail of the attack provided for; that it had been talked over incessantly, every man and tribe boasting what they would do, and as it passed from tribe to tribe, the intention would come to be stated as a fact; that quite as circumstantial accounts had come in of the destruction of a former expedition of Leichhardt's, as well as private squatters' expeditions, without any attack having been actually made, and that this last report was not proof; that out of such a number, some of the cattle must have escaped, and if so near, must have come in to the settlements. This I knew was quite in accordance with the habits of the blacks; but in face of actual evidence from various directions and tribes, as circumstantial as blacks could give, it was at that time a mere unsupported supposition; now, however, the lapse of fifteen years has placed Mr. Isaacs' hypothesis on a very different footing:—1st. It has been ascertained that the language of the tribes, far beyond the locality of the reported massacre, is almost identical with that of the Maranoa tribes; 2nd. That the squatters have for years had sheep stations far beyond the Maranoa, with the blacks, then wild, in their employ; 3rd. That frontier squatters in search of sheep runs, with blacks speaking this wide-spread dialect, have, according to their wont, explored for hundreds of miles around and beyond the locality of the alleged massacre; that when blacks have once been allowed to "come in" and live with the whites, all past offences are condoned, so that the very people who committed the murder would have told all about it; and lastly, that the locality of such a massacre, marked as it would be by the bones of seventy bullocks and horses, would be known to all the blacks for a great distance around. From this I argue, that if the Maranoa blacks were, in 1849 and 1850, in such direct communication with the tribes who committed the murder, as to give an account so circumstantial as they gave me, and afterwards Mr. Hely, the place and every circumstance must inevitably have been communicated to squatters years ago; and therefore, as no such information has ever been given, the only conclusion that can be drawn is that Leichhardt's party was not cut off, as reported by the blacks in 1849, nor anywhere within reach of the present white settlements.

Second—In what direction is he likely to have gone, and to be still, if alive?

He has been traced by marked trees along Cooper's Creek, to the junction of the Alice; from that he crossed over to the Flinders, and followed it down to the camp and marked tree found by M'Intyre, about 20° S. lat., 142° E. long. As there were no settlements on the north and west coasts where he could get assistance, there was no inducement to go round nearly 3,000 miles, when he could cross the continent in half the distance, and gain the object of his ambition—a solution of the question of our interior geography. It was his declared intention to go no further north than to find a practicable route round the north of Sturt's Desert. It is now known that a large tributary of the Flinders, the Cloncurry, flows from the west upon or very near this parallel; also we have good reason to believe, from the accounts of the different explorers since, that the country to the westward is practicable; and there is every probability that he carried out his intention, intention, made his westing in about the twentieth parallel, and then struck south-west for Swan River, probably when in about 30° E. longitude. In this case all the exploring parties must have crossed his track without observing any of his camps; but, as they did so at right angles, the chances were against their seeing any marked trees, and it forms no proof that he had not passed. It appears most probable that the party either perished or are in captivity in that great ocean of unexplored country between that point and Western Australia.

Third—What are the chances of any of the party still surviving?

We have all rested content under the conviction that, as none of them have ever appeared, the whole party must have perished together, by one of several ways:—1st—By thirst, as Captain Sturt's party so nearly did, through his only water-hole drying up, when hemmed in by everything drying up before and behind him. This is not at all likely with Leichhardt. There is a very simple method, which I have seen repeatedly, and Leichhardt must have known, whereby the blacks in that droughty country draw off into a tank the last water in a drying-up hole, leaving the sediment and scum. What would keep the seventy cattle a fortnight would sustain the human party a year, and we may be certain Leichhardt would save the water in the last extremity, even at the sacrifice of his cattle. 2nd—By thirst also, through not finding water where expected on their route; but this is simply impossible. Unless when following a watercourse, Leichhardt would, and in fact did ascertain that there was water ahead before moving such a party. If they did move, and were disappointed, they would at once fall back on the last water. 3rd—That they may all have died, like Burke and Wills, of sheer starvation; but that is not at all probable. Leichhardt, in one of his last letters, remarked that, whatever might befall him, he would never die of starvation in the bush; and with his experience of the means of subsistence and health in daily use by the natives, he was quite justified in saying so. Unless cut off by sudden attack, of which, since the report of the Maranoa blacks is disposed of, there is not even a rumour, the only danger was that pointed out by M'Kinlay, that he was caught in such a flood as that of the Darling last year, when the country was covered for thirty to forty miles on either side, without a sign of rain on the plains. The flood, however, must have been very sudden indeed, and in the night, if he could neither reach a sandhill, build a platform in a tree, as I have known done, or cut bark canoes. They may possibly have lost their cattle and outfit in this way, but very improbably their lives. The only title of grounds for the supposition of such a disaster is in the two graves upon Unutra Creek, in lat. 28° S. and 140° E. long., pointed out to Mr. Conn and his party in 1861, as those of two white men of a party coming from the north, killed by the blacks. I attach no weight to these graves, for this reason among others—that the natives there, are in immediate communication with the tribes of the Paroo and Warrego, and it would have been heard of long ago; but as the locality lies on the outward track of a searching party, it would be well to ascertain whether they are white men's graves, and whether they had any connection with Leichhardt. Taking every risk and contingency into account, it appears to me extremely improbable that the entire party should perish; and as they were all young men, it is not only possible, but probable, that some of the party still survive, and are living with some native tribe.

To this, several objections have been urged; the first being, that if alive they must have appeared somewhere; but to this I decidedly demur. First, Leichhardt may have died, leaving no survivor able to guide them back, or with influence to induce them to face the return journey; or Leichhardt may have been left with a very few men and without horses, which may have perished of thirst, as before described, or from starvation, as we know cattle, horses, and sheep to have done when hemmed in by floods upon small sandhills on the plains. With horses they might certainly return, as once in the saddle they are as in a castle, if they only keep a sharp look-out not to be cut off in scrubs or bends of rivers, and keep clear of black camps at night; but for a small party on foot, loaded with arms and ammunition, collecting their food from day to day, and liable to be run down and attacked by every tribe whose country they pass through, I think it almost impossible, and that they must have joined some tribe. Once adopted, their escape would be extremely difficult, but upon this point I cannot do better than quote Mr. Lockhart Morton:—

“If he or any of his party is alive, it is doubtless under the protection of some tribe of blacks. If, as a last resource, from loss or death of animals, the party joined a tribe of blacks, it would be almost impossible for any of them ever to escape. The tribe they had joined would not willingly let them go, and all attempts to pass through the territory of other tribes would be extremely hazardous. Anyone who knows the ferocious habits and customs of Australian savages must be aware of this. In the account given by Morrell of his escape from the tribe he had been with for seventeen years, near the mouths of the Burdekin, we have proof of the difficulty he experienced in getting away, even to communicate with white men located within a few miles of him.”

It will naturally be said, if the blacks are so ferocious they must all be murdered; but though all wild blacks will, if they can safely, kill all strangers, white or black, crossing their country, a man or a small party may, with ordinary prudence and tact, succeed in being adopted into a tribe, and be as safe as wild blacks ever are. They might join a tribe when too few to be formidable but too strong for an attack without preparation to be safe, stay, keeping a very sharp look-out until the natives got accustomed to them, giving them fishhooks, tomahawks, and all they could spare, providing their own food, and giving no trouble; or join, like Bourke's party, so weak as not to excite apprehension, and without blankets, tomahawks, &c., to excite cupidity. King was kindly treated; Morrell lived with natives seventeen years; Buckley, in Port Phillip, thirty years; years; a deserter in Moreton Bay, fourteen years; a runaway prisoner there, eleven years; Kangaroo Jack, on the Upper Murray, about the same; and there is no reason whatever why Leichhardt's party, or some of them, may not have done the same.

To conclude:—1st. The party was not cut off, as reported in 1849, but got safely about 1,000 miles upon their journey, and how much further we know not; 2nd. It is extremely improbable that the whole party perished; 3rd. That the party may have lost their horses, and been so reduced in numbers, strength, and outfit, that they could not return through strange, and therefore hostile, tribes; and adopted their only resource—joined a tribe of natives, from whom they could not escape. The probability therefore is, that some of them survive, who, after waiting year after year, with vain hope and sickening heart for the relief that never came, have sunk into despair, and drag on a wretched existence, without a hope of ever again seeing friends or home.

It is deeply to be regretted that the question was not raised years ago; but now, since you have brought it forward, and it has been so nobly taken up by the ladies of every denomination, I hope that all with a spark of generosity will contribute; and that all the Colonies will regard it as a duty to assist in releasing from an otherwise hopeless captivity, any who may still survive of Leichhardt's party.

Yours very sincerely,

GIDEON S. LANG.

No. 2.

PRESIDENT OF LADIES' COMMITTEE to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

Melbourne, May 22nd.

SIR,

I trust you will excuse me if I trespass upon your valuable time in behalf of an object which is now exciting great interest in this Colony, and for which we are anxious to secure the support both of the Governments and inhabitants of all the Colonies of this country. This object is an expedition we propose to send out in search of the long lost explorer, Dr. Leichhardt. You are doubtless aware that the recent discoveries of Mr. M'Intyre have proved the account of the massacre of the distinguished traveller and his companions to be altogether false; and a strong desire has been awakened to discover their fate, and to rescue them if possible from a fearful exile. In the effort we are making to procure the funds needed for the object in view, we have been warmly supported by the Press of this and the neighbouring Colonies; and a steadily increasing interest in the cause gives us a cheering assurance of ultimate success. Convinced as we are, that in this philanthropic enterprise Victoria should not stand alone, we look anxiously to the sister Colonies for sympathy and assistance; and as the demands upon private benevolence are numerous and urgent, we trust that the Governments of the different Colonies will aid us by a grant from the public funds.

It is needless for me to dwell upon the claims of Dr. Leichhardt upon our gratitude. In New South Wales he was well known; and the years that have elapsed since he bid farewell to his friends there, have not I trust obliterated his name from their memories. Let me entreat you, sir, in behalf of our Committee, to use the influence of your high position to obtain for our enterprise the assistance it needs; and may we not hope that you will, as opportunity may offer, be the advocate of our cause in public and in private.

I have, &c.,

ELIZA F. BROMBY.

PRESIDENT OF LADIES' COMMITTEE to COLONIAL SECRETARY, NEW SOUTH WALES.

Melbourne, May 31.

SIR,

In compliance with the request of the Ladies' Leichhardt Search Committee, the Honorable the Chief Secretary of Victoria has promised a grant in aid of the expedition they propose to send in search of Dr. Leichhardt, on condition that the Governments of the neighbouring Colonies will also contribute to the fund. It therefore becomes my duty to bring the subject once more before your notice, and to express a hope that our Committee may look for the co-operation of the Government of New South Wales in their philanthropic enterprise. We are most anxious to avail ourselves of the offer made by Mr. M'Intyre to conduct our expedition; that gentleman has already penetrated further into the country where Leichhardt disappeared than any other traveller, and it is admitted by competent judges that he possesses the qualifications that would justify our Committee in entrusting to him the conducting of the proposed expedition. Mr. M'Intyre's services will, however, be lost to us unless we can immediately avail ourselves of his offer.

The

The season for traversing the district through which the party must travel will also have passed if they do not set out in a few weeks from the settled part of the country. We trust, therefore, that your Government will not hesitate in coming forward to support an undertaking by which Australia will in some measure discharge the debt of gratitude she owes to her lamented and too long neglected explorer.

I have, &c.,

ELIZA F. BROMBY,

President of the Leichhardt
Search Committee.
